Be he single or married, be he native, naturalized or alien, be he lame, blind, halt, sick or well, still he must register.

The question of exemption is not up to the individual, but to the authorities.

Register June 5; and if you are to be away on that day, register with the local authorities before leaving

There is utterly no exemption from the obligation to register, and there is severe punishment for those who fail to register. —Duluth Herald.

It has been brought to our attention that there are some agitators who are advising people not to Register. It is the purpose of the government to excuse those who have families and those who are engaged in Agricultural pursuits. Take this for the right advice: Go and Register, and you are not likely to be called out. Neglect to Register on June 5th, and you are sure to be called out and sent to a prison training camp for one year, and then sent into the regular army. There is no exception made to this rule for married men, as they will be taken the same as single men, if they fail to Register.

Compulsory military service is something that the American people are not used too. But our naturalized citizens should consider that the United States only calls on them in time of war, while their Mother Country called on them to, train for soldiers in time of peace.

While seeding operations have been rather late in the season this year, the ground has been in fine condition for the past three weeks, and there is about as much grain sown in eastern Pennington County as there was last year. The flax crop acreage will be more than doubled this year, as flax is sure to bring a high price next fall.

Gen Pershing is to soon sail for France, with the 28,000, well sound American troops to take their place in the battle line, of the worlds war, to put down autocracy. The plan is now to have one million and seven hundred thousand troops in Europe before the end of the year, backed up by the American fleet on the water. President Wilson protested for nearly two years against the destruction of our ships and murdering of American citizens; all to no avail, but now protesting is over and business has commenced. When America goes to war they go for humanity and not for territory, and they are going to win. It may take a year, or perhaps two years, but the United States have got the money and the men to win that war and they are going to use them.

Probably.

"Pop, you know that famous barefoot winter at Valley Forge?"

"Yes, son. What of it?"

"Was that the time they said tried men's soles?"—Baltimore American.

THIS SAFELY REMOVES WORMS.

Worms are a common disease of children and every mother should know their symptoms. Sallow complexion with dark circles under eyes, irregular bowel movement with stomach hard or swollen, grinding teeth or itching may mean that Kickapoo Worm Killer is needed at once. It is a mildly laxative remedy in candy tablet form that children like. Kill and removes the worms and lets the child grow strong and healthy. At druggists. 25c.—Adv.

The Vigilantes

By Julian Street of the Vigilantes.

A GROUP of poets, writers and artists, many of them well known men, recently met in New York and formed a new society to work in the preparedness movement, this one to be called the Vigilantes. The object of the new organization is to go behind the movement for a large and fully manned and equipped navy, for adequate coast defenses, for universal military service and for equipment for an army of a million or more men to be raised under the universal service plan favored by General Leonard Wood and modeled somewhat on the Australian system—to go behind this movement and work for what may be termed "mental preparedness." The Vigilantes believe that universal service will be a great democratizer of American youth, that it will tend to level classes, raise American physical standards, give American boys the taste of discipline so sorely needed by many of them and achieve other very desirable results. But most of all it is believed by the men who formed this new society that universal service—service for every man—is the only really democratic system for national defense. Not until each citizen understands that he must "do his bit" along with the other fellow will he appreciate the fact, so often lost sight of, that with the privilege of citizenship there go dependent duties.

JULIAN STREET.

It is especially desirable that immigrants from abroad perceive this fact. Large numbers of them do not now perceive it. Large numbers of immigrants are becoming American voters. but what else are they doing? What good do they do the country merely by voting? None whatever, unless behind each ballot they cast there is a sense of the individual's absolute duty to the government. By native citizens and by those from other lands the ballot has come to be regarded too much as a right and not enough as a privilege.

It is the idea of the Vigilantes that even if we get our navy, our army, our equipment and our trained citizen soldiery we will not have obtained the most essential thing until we have quickened the senses of our people to the need of a more devout and more cohesive nationalism.

WHO HELP THEMSELVES.

By Joseph Altsheler of the Vigilantes.

I ARRIVED in Vienna one night late in July, 1914. The streets were filled with young men, singing, dancing, shouting and expressing joy in many ways. Why? Austria-Hungary had just declared war upon Servia, and they were going to a picnic. In a week they would wipe Servia off the map.

It all seemed very far away from my country. A war in southeastern Europe could not affect us, and Americans could go on in the ways of peace, ignoring cannon and rifles.

But Russia undertook to defend Servia. Germany, the ally of Austria-Hungary, promptly declared war upon Russia and also attacked and invaded France, the ally of Russia. But it still seemed very far from America, and we could go on with the ways of peace.

Belgium was devoted to peace, but it was overrun by the German army, its people were slaughtered and its cities burned. But that was still very far away from us, and we could go on in the ways of peace, ignoring the cannon and the rifles.

Great Britain was drawn in. The war came a little nearer and spread upon the sea. But it was yet far away and would never touch us. We could sleep in peace. These matters did not concern us.

But we awoke suddenly from our dream. The little fire that had been started in southeastern Europe had spread all over the world. Although we withdrew steadily from the flames they reached out for us as steadily. Now we cannot avoid them if we would, and we must fight fire with fire.

As the world comes more closely together what affects one is likely to affect all. Isolation is no security, and in reality there is no isolation. Doing everything [illegible] admits to avoid it, we are nevertheless drawn into war.

Shun "Tips" if You Play Stocks.

"Whatever you do, don't go it alone," is the advice that Harold Howland gives to women investors in the Woman's Home Companion. "Shun the financial gossip of the uninformed, the cocksure counsel of the irresponsible, the glittering generalities or the more insidious particularities of the conceited ignoramus. Beware of rumors, 'tips' and 'inside information.' Base your transactions upon the firm ground of accurate information, sound judgment and disinterested advice. Don't try to 'get rich quick.'"

SLOAN'S LINIMENT FOR RHEUMATISM.

The pain goes so quickly after you apply Sloan's Liniment for rheumatic pains, neuralgia, toothache, lumbago, sprains, and its so easy to use. It quickly penetrates and soothes without rubbing and is far cleaner and more effective than mussy plasters or ointments. Keep a bottle in the house and get promptly relief, not only from all nerve-pains but from bruises, strains sprains' over-exercise and all external aches. At your druggist, 25c. 50c. $1,00.—Adv.

NEVER NEGLECT A COLD.

A chill after bathing, cooling off suddenly after exercise and drafts, give the cold germs a foot-hold that may lead to something worse. Safety requires early treatment. Keep Dr. King's New Discovery on hand. This pleasant balsam remedy allys inflammation, soothes the cough and repairs the tissues. Better be safe than sorry. Break up the cold with Dr. King's New Discovery before it is too late. At your druggist, 50c. $1.00. —Advertisement.

THE EVILS OF CONSTIPATION.

Constipation is one of the main reasons why the average human life is below 40 years, leaving waste material in the body, poisons the system and blood and makes us liable to sick headaches, biliousness, nervousness and muddy skin. When you note these symptoms, try Dr. King,s New Life Pills. They give prompt relief, are mild, non-griping in action, add tone to your system and clear the complexion. THE LOCAL NEWS

The big horse flies made their first appearance yesterday.

Louis LaCounte has been assisting us this week, to enlarge our pasture.

We will complete seeding flax this week, and will have more time for office work next week.

There will be a big celebration given at the P. L. Wojnerowski place, in the town of Hickory on July 4th.

While we are in need of rain, the crops on level land are growing nicely nowadays. The ground was so thoroughly soaked that it can stand it a long spell of dry weather. Grass is growing fine on the meadow lands where there is still plenty of moisture.

W. G. Hunt was called to Thief River Falls last Monday to answer lawsuits brought by Singer Bros, for the next term of court. On account of the busy season of the year the case is likely to be put over until the winter term of court. This had ought to be satisfactory to Singers as flour will be cheaper at that time, so their export witnesses will not cost them so much. But some of their willing willies who are ready to give evidence, as per orders, would undoubtly like to have the case come up at the present term of court so they could get the sack of flour sooner.

Tore Lunde of Deer Park township died at Thief River Falls hospital last Friday. He has been in ill health for four years, with what was called as enlargement of the heart, and has been treated by numerous specialists who were unable to cure him. The remains were brought home from Thief River Falls on last Saturday and funeral services were held on Monday, which was largely attended by his Deer Park neighbors and friends. The surviving members have the sympathy of the community in their loss of a son and brother.

Died: Gustof Swanson, formerly of Deer Park, died at Duluth last week, from an acute attack of Pneumonia. Mr. Swanson was one of the Pioneer settlers on the Eleven Towns, but had sold his farm and was going to remove to Montana. He leaves a large circle of old friends and neighbors in Deer Park Township who will regret hearing the news of his death. Mr. Swanson was a man that had passed the Eighty year mark, but appeared to be much younger than that age. The remains were buried at Duluth on Monday.

Paper From Wood Pulp.

The idea of making paper from wood originated in Germany in the early forties with Gottfried Keller, tradition saying it that he in turn received his inspiration from a wasps' nest. Keller collaborated with a manufacturer of machinery, Heinrich Voelter, in whose name the patents were executed.

It was not until 1866 that the possibilities of this invention in this country were recognized, when Albrecht and Rudolf Pagenstecher induced their cousin, Alberto Pagenstecher, to build a mill in this country and financed the purchase of machinery and the building of a mill.

The choice of location fell to Curtisville, now Interlaken, Mass., where the outlet of Stockbridge bowl seemed to supply an adequate amount of power. The mill was built and on March 5, 1867, the first ground wood pulp was produced.—New York Globe.

The Real Thing.

Fred, aged three, had been a naughty boy, and his mother had punished him. He felt very much hurt and complained to his auntie about mamma's spanking him. Auntie said, "It is not you that mamma spanks, but a little devil inside of you who makes you do naughty things." After sitting very still for five minutes he said, "It beats all how it hurts me when that devil gets spanked."—Delineator.

Community Picnic

Three well known speakers have been secured for the community picnic to be held in the Ed. Aubol Grove two miles north of St. Hilaire on Flag Day, Thursday, June 14th. Judge Frank T. Wilson of Stillwater will discuss community problems in an entertaining manner. Prof. W. A. McKerrow of the Dairy Division of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture at the State University Farm and F. B. Hills of The American Guernsey Cattle Club will talk on dairying.

The Community Picnic is open to all and the public is generally invited to attend and bring their lunch with them. Refreshments will be served and a general good time is promised by the committee in charge representing the farmers clubs and the live stock organizations as well as the Commercial Clubs of Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire.

Value of Vacations.

Vacations, according to the New York Medical Journal, are nature's safety valves for the relief of the high pressure resulting from efficiency. Efficiency demands that throughout working hours all the faculties be taxed to the utmost without waste of material or of energy, but if properly directed it aims at making an efficient man before an efficient product. Therefore production may not exact that the man speed up beyond his endurance.

The recent application of efficiency methods makes the vacation more than ever necessary. "The vacation," says the Medical Journal, "should be the nearest approach to the simple life. It is for this reason that the country, with all its many inconveniences, is so often chosen for the place of vacation. The vacation period allows for the absorption and elimination of the fatigue products from the system accumulated in the previous period of the work. The longer the vacation, therefore, the better the subsequent work."

The Actor's Indifference.

It is probable that the height of indifference is reached in the veteran actor. I saw one at the Press club recently who confirms this suspicion thoroughly.

He is in a good show, but has a small part, appearing only in the first act.

"How is the show?" I asked him.

"Pretty fair, I'm told," he answered.

"What's it about?"

"Can't say."

"How does it end?"

"Don't know."

"For goodness' sake," I asked, "haven't you ever seen the play? You are in it yourself."

"No," he answered, with a look of being bored. "Several times I have thought of going around front to see what it was all about, but, my dear old chap, I have never seemed to get [illegible]

THE NAVY NEEDS MEN! IT NEEDS THEM NOW

The United States Navy has continued its appeal to the Northwest for men to man the fleet by addressing the following appeal to societies and individuals:

CONGRESS GIVES MONEY AND MATERIAL;

THE NORTHWEST MUST GIVE THE MEN!

The Nation has called for its sons. It is up to the Northwest to answer. Young men have been coming forward at a fair rate, but more must come. Part of the fleet is idle and will be until America wakes up. Another 40 men a day would put four more big guns in action.

Nation With No Language.

[illegible] alone, of all the peoples of the world, may in a sense be said to possess no language, a fact that is the more surprising when we consider that there is no people showing a more intense patriotism.

The official languages of the little republic are French and German. The public documents are published in these tongues, both of which are spoken by many Swiss. Roughly speaking, however, about 75 per cent of the population speak German, while the remainder divide their other languages among them, mainly French and Italian. These tongues vary, as a rule, according to the proximity of the people to the country whose language they speak. In the Swiss parliament members deliver their speeches either in French or German, for nearly all the members understand both tongues.

Dreams May Be Overtime Work.

Dreams are a good test of the need of sleep and many times answer the question of overwork or idleness, according to Dr. Percy G. Stiles, who lectured at the Harvard medical school on "Sleep."

"It is possible to judge by one's dreams whether one needs sleep," he said. "If the dreams are of a rambling variety, the kind that seem to pop from nowhere or anywhere, it is a pretty good sign that you are not overtired. On the other hand, if the dreams are a continuation of the day's worries the chances are that you are overtired. Dreams remote from the day's work are a vacation, but dreams connected with the day's work are overtime.

"To go to sleep get the body and mind comfortable. The body is easier to make comfortable than the mind. A rubdown, a bath and a little bit to eat help bring that about. To compose the mind read some familiar book or poetry. That soothes the mind, for no exertion is necessary to read it."—Boston Journal.

RUSSIA REACHED BY U. S. MISSSION HEADED BY ROOT

AMERICAN ENVOYS ARRIVE AT SLAV PORT AFTER FAST TRIP ACROSS PACIFIC ON NAVAL VESSEL.

UNSTINTED AID READY FOR NEEDY COUNTRY

Arrival at Petrograd Awaited Anxiously in Belief That Assurances It Carries Will Do Much to Strengthen Hand of Provisional Government.

Washington, June 5. — Secretary Daniels has announced the safe arrival at a Russian port of the Commission to Russia headed by Elihu Root.

The commission left Washington about May 15 charged with greetings to the new democratic government of Russia, and authorized to pledge unstinted aid from the United States, not only in the prosecution of the war but in the rehabilitation of the demoralized country. It was preceded by a special mission of railroad experts whose arrival already has been announced.

Sailed From Pacific Coast.

The commission boarded a fast naval vessel from the Pacific coast for the voyage to the Orient. Nearly all American newspapers refrained from publishing anything about their trip.

The arrival of the mission at Petrograd is awaited anxiously because it is confidently believed here that the assurances it brings from the American government and the counsel of its members will do much toward steadying and strengthening the hand of the provisional government.

Those Comprising Party.

With Mr. Root are John R. Mott, Cyrus H. McCormick, Samuel R. Berton, James Duncan and Charles Edward Russell, envoys extraordinary; Major General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the army, military representative of the president; Rear Admiral James H. Glennon, naval representatives of the president; Colonel B. E. L. Michie, aide to the chief of staff; Colonel William V. Judson, military attache to the diplomatic mission; Lieut. Colonel T. Bently Mott, military aide to the ambassador extraordinary; Surgeon Holton C. Curl, U. S. N.; Lieut. Alsa D. Barnhard, U. S. N., aide to Admiral Glennon; James McKenna, chief clerk and disbursing officer of the mission; Clyde S. Stillwell, James F. O'Rourke, Jay Keegan, Duane E. Washburn, Walter W. King and George D. Gregory, clerks; Sergeant Paul Z. Randolph, orderly and George E. Long, messenger

DENIAL IS MADE OF STORY OF GERMAN BASE

Venezuelan Minister Informs America That Talk of Kaiser's Influence Is All Nonsense.

Washington, June 5.—Published reports of German overtures for a submarine base on the island of Margareta, off the Venezuelan coast, drew a statement last night from Minister Dominici denouncing the story as false, characterizing talk of German political influence in Venezuela as nonsense and declaring no circumstances would arise to change the friendly attitude of his country toward the United States.

"Honor and dignity force on Venezuela an attitude of neutrality in the present war," he said, "but this neutrality is most friendly towards the United States. The Venezuelan government not for a minute would consider granting a submarine base to Germany. Any attempt to take the island would find the government and people of Venezuela ready to defend every foot of Venezuelan territory."

TWO TORPEDOES HIT SHIP

Attack by German U-Boat Proves Ineffective.

New York, June 4.—Two German submarines made a concerted torpedo attack on the American steamer Kroonland on her last outward voyage from this port, firing four torpedoes, two of which hit the liner glancing blows, but did not explode, according to a report brought here by an American recently in England who said he was told of the attack by an officer on the ship.

The naval gunners on the Kroonland opened fire at the unseen submersibles, but so far as known no hits were recorded.

Produce Dealers Facing Trial.

Chicago, June 4. — Indictments against big grain speculators on the Chicago Board of Trade will be asked of the new federal grand jury this week, it was reported, following the indictment of the butter and egg wholesale men. Edward Davis, president of the Chicago butter and egg board, and representatives of nine of the biggest butter and egg firms in the Middle West, face possible penitentiary terms as a result of indictments returned before Judge Landes in the United States court.

KRONSTAD MUST GIVE UP

PLACE TO BE HELD AN OUTLAW IF IT REMAINS DEFIANT.

Russian Government Not to Tolerate Independence in Separate Districts —Army Gaining in Strength.

Petrograd, June 5.—"Kronstadt will be declared morally boycotted, outlawed and cut off from the rest of the empire unless it immediately withdraws its defiance to the provisional government.

This statement was made by Minister of Justice Pereveizeff.

"Kronstadt's defiance was discussed by the Council of Ministers," he said. "All agree that the government must not tolerate declarations of independence by separate districts. In this we are absolutely supported by the Petrograd Council of Deputies.

Enemy to Freedom.

"The cabinet will probably, if in the meantime Kronstadt does not surrender, issue a declaration that the fortress town has turned traitor to the revolution and become an enemy of Russia's new freedom. We are convinced that the universal reprobation of Russia will bring the extremists to reason.

Revolt Not Taken Seriously.

"We do not take this revolt too seriously. Formerly when we had trouble in Kronstadt we temporized because we feared the result of stern measures if the German attacked. Lately we have taken measures which make a German attack absolutely impossible. Therefore, no harm can come to Russia from anything Kronstadt can do. Kronstadt's boast of independence is doomed to a speedy end.

Army Gaining Strength.

Kiev, Russia, June 4.—M. Kerensky, minister of war, told the military delegates that Russian troops had ceased fraternizing with Germans and that the Russian army was gaining in strength daily.

"After touring the whole of Russia and the entire battlefront," said M. Kerensky, "I can affirm that the power of the Russian army is increasing daily, based as it is on a new and intelligent discipline. I can affirm, once and for all that fraternization with the enemy has completely ceased."

FIVE GUARD DIVISIONS TO GO TO FRANCE SOON

About 125,000 to Be Overseas by Time Snow Flies, if General Staff Plans Are Adopted.

Washington, June 4.—Five divisions of national guardsmen, about 125,000 men, will be in Europe by the time snow flies if plans under consideration by the army general staff are adopted.

Action on these plans is expected at once, and the fact that they are now before the staff explains the reason behind abandonment of half of the proposed cantonments for the new army and national guard.

Nine Dead in Mine Explosion.

Cairo, Ill., June 4.—Nine bodies have been recovered from a mine at Herrin, Ill., where they were entombed by an explosion. Two injured miners were rescued and are in a critical condition. Reports that 16 men were entombed proved false, as five reported missing have been accounted for. Little damage was done to the mine.

Attempt to Ransom Son Fails.

Springfield, Mo., June 2.—J. Holland Keet has returned home after a night's drive in an automobile over the hills of Green county, presumably carrying ransom money said to have been demanded by the captors of his young son Lloyd. Despite Keet's request that no one follow him, more than a dozen automobiles are said to have trailed the Keet car. Their presence is thought to have prevented any negotiations between the kidnapers and the boy's father. The abductors, if caught may be lynched

PROGRAM PLANNED LONG AGO

BELGIAN DEPORTATIONS WERE DECIDED IN 1914.

Excuse of Justification Given by Teuton Diplomats Declared False Says Agent.

Washington, June 5.—In a memorandum presented by Minister De Cartier and made public by the State department, the Belgian government asserts that Germany's industrial strangulation of occupied Belgian, Polish and Lithuanian territory followed by slavery of the conquered people, has been carried on under a plan worked out in cold blood during August, 1914, by Dr. W. Rathenau of Berlin.

Answer to Teuton Claim.

This is in answer to Germany's claim that the deportations of Belgians for enforced labor was a military and economic necessity. Moreover, replying to the German statement that deportations have ceased, it is declared that they continue "without care for the seeds of hate that are sown in the hearts of the victims and those near and dear to them, and which threaten to render all social intercourse between two important portions of the peoples of Europe.

SERB WOMEN, CHILDREN, HANGED BY THOUSANDS

Austrians, Taken Prisoner, Say Bulgars, Because of Atrocities, Termed Barbaric By Own Allies.

Udine, Italy, June 4.—Fragmentary news received here through neutral countries of widespread insurrectionary movements in Serbia is supplemented by statements of Austrians captured in the recent Italian advance.

The insurgents were gradually surrounded by Austrian, German and Bulgarian regiments and all who fell into their hands, chiefly old men, women and children, are declared to have been massacred.

Fierce resistance was offered for three weeks and heavy losses inflicted on the invaders, especially the Bulgarians. The insurgents finally succumbed to superior numbers and were hanged by the thousands.

According to the prisoners the Bulgarians were guilty of such atrocities, especially against women and children, that even their Austro-German allies termed them barbaric.

NEGROES FLEE EAST ST. LOUIS

Third Night's Rioting Caused By Crimes of Imported Blacks.

East St. Louis, Ill., June 1.—The exodus of negroes continues, following the third night of rioting here. One negro was shot and two others beaten so severely that they were rushed to the hospitals and many others received minor injuries at the hands of several mobs which paraded the streets despite extra policemen and deputies and state guardsmen. The riots, it was said, were due to the holdups, robberies and other crimes committed by imported negroes.

French Diver Sinks U-Boat.

Rome, June 4.—The French submarine Circe has torpedoed and sunk a large enemy submarine as it was coming out from Cattaro, escorted by a torpedo boat. Although attacked by air planes the Circe returned undamaged to its base.

Holds Socialist Attitude Intolerable.

Chicago, June 2.—The Very Rev. Bernard Iddings Bell, dean of the Protestant Episcopal cathedral at Fond du Lac, Wis., has tendered his resignation from the Socialist party because he is dissatisfied with the party's policy. His statement appears in the Living Church. It says, in part: "In the midst of this war the Socialist party has made such utterances as are intolerable to me and to other Socialists. Socialism will come, but not through Hapsburg or Hohenzollern kultur."

ELEVEN PROVINCES OF CHINA REVOLT FROM PEKIN RULE

LI YUAN HUNG IS VIRTUALLY POWERLESS AS HEAD OF COUNTRY AND REVOLUTION IS THREATENED.

DEVELOPMENTS SHOW SITUATION IS SERIOUS

Demand Made That Military Governors Be Dismissed and Punished— Three Loyal Provinces of South China May Rise in Support of President.

Peking, June 5.—Eleven provinces of China, including the province Chi-Li in which Peking is situated, now no longer recognize the authority of the Peking government. The provinces of Kwang-Tung, Kwang-Si and Yun-Nan are supporting President Li Yuan Hung. The provisional assembly of Kwang-Tung, in assuring its loyal support to the president and parliament, demands that the military governors be dismissed and punished.

Dr. Sun Yat Sen, former Premier Tang Shao-Yi and other revolutionary leaders are hurring to Canton.

Expect an Uprising.

It seems probable that if the military governors persist in their revolutionary course the three loyal south China provinces named, Kwang-Tung, Kwang-Si, and Yun-Nan will rise in support of the president.

At present the situation is serious, and the president virtually powerless.

According to official information, President Li Yuan Hung intends to introduce a bill taking in a declaration of war against Germany if there is a quorum present in parliament.

Parliament convened recently, but there was no quorum owing to the fact that 250 members had left Peking. Eleven provinces have joined in a demand for the dissolution of parliament. Attempts are being made to influence President Li Yuan Hung to resign rather than to dissolve parliament, the object being to throw the blame for any disturbance upon the militarists.

NEW WAR BOND ISSUE OF ONE BILLION PLANNED

Senate Committee Crusaders Supplying Money Needed in Addition to Tax Levy.

Washington, June 4.—Authorization for a billion dollar bond issue probably will be written into the house war tax bill by the senate finance committee. It is authoritatively stated that this might be decided upon because the $1,500,000,000 which the bill as re-drafted is designed to bring in through taxation will fail by nearly a billion to provide the money needed in addition to bond issues already authorized to finance the first year of war.

The proposed bonds or a substantial portion of them, it is understood, the committee would make short term serials maturing during the next few years. This is in line with the policy of having half of the war's expense borne by the present generation.

ALLIED OFFENSIVE ON BELGIAN FRONT SEEN

Both Berlin and London Reports Indicate Probability of Move—Artillery Fire Intense.

Reports from both Berlin and London indicate the probability that an important military movement by the Allies is under way on the Belgian front, possibly an attempt in force to hit the German flank on the coast a crushing blow. A pitch of notable intensity, such as usually precedes an attack, has been reached by artillery fire near the coast and to the south in the Ypres district. The German war office announced this extremely heavy bombardment. Meanwhile British air raids on an extensive scale have been carried out on and near this coast.

EXPOSES BULGAR PROPOSAL

Gorky, Russian Author, Denounces Teuton Minister.

Petrograd, June 2.—Maxim Gorky, the noted Russian author, has published a sensational account of an attempt by D. Rizow, the Bulgarian minister at Berlin, to inveigle him into clandestine negotiations for a separate peace.

Although he himself is an almost fanatical advocate of peace, Gorky denounces Rizow.

Billy Sunday "Honored."

New York, June 2. — Billy Sunday awoke in his mansion on Riverside drive today hating the kaiser as much as ever even if Franz von Rintelen did refuse to shake hands with him in the Tombs. "No," said the alleged relative of Bill Hohenzollern. "I've heard of your attacks on the kaiser and Germany and I don't want to shake hands with you." "Huh!" said Billy, "if you think you can come here and bribe officials, you've got us wrong. I consider it an honor that you won't touch my hands."

FIRST DRAFT LIKELY SEPT. 5

ONLY U. S. INGENUITY MAKES IT POSSIBLE THAT EARLY.

Every Step Being Taken With Care to Reduce to Minimum Possibility of Mistakes.

Washington, June 4.—The first actual draft of America's citizen soldiery will probably be September 5.

According to present indications, it will take that long to prepare supplies, proper housing and other equipment for the first 500,000 men between the ages of 21 and 30 years who will be selected to serve their country.

There has been much complaint over so-called "delay" by the government in getting under headway in pressing its purpose in the great war. But one official declared today "It is only American ingenuity that enables us to be ready by September 5."

Every step is being taken with deliberation and care, in order to reduce to a minimum the possibility of mistakes. It is not the government's purpose to get thousands of young men into camp without every means at hand properly to care for them, equip them and prepare them for service.

By the very nature of the world situation, there is bound to be irritation of what appears at first to be clumsy and unwieldy handling of America's part in the great war, officials explain. But it is confidently stated that as soon as the ground work of the structure is laid, American speed and thoroughness will begin to show itself in the rapid consummation of the work it faces.

SENATE PASSES BILL FOR SURVEY OF FOOD

Measure Also Makes Felony of Hoarding Food Supplies—House Appropriation Is Cut.

Washington, June 4. — The first of the administration food bills, already passed by the House, passed the Senate late today without a record vote.

Numerous amendments were attached to the measure, which provides for a food survey and crop stimulation, and it was sent to conference where the differences will be threshed out while the two Houses are considering the second administration measure, providing for food control and price fixing.

The bill carries a total appropriation of approximately $11,000,000 compared with $14,770,000 as it passed the House.

Hoarding or storage of food, fuel or other necessaries of life to limit the supply or affect prices would be made a felony under the Senate hoarding amendment, but farmers who hold their own products are exempted.

POLES WANT UNDERSTANDING

Ask Freedom of Small States From Austria.

Amsterdam, June 4.—According to a Vienna dispatch the Polish club has decided to authorize Deputy Dabzinski, in agreement with other parties, to introduce an urgent motion in the lower house of the Austrian parliament declaring both the belligerent parties now recognize the right of nations to govern themselves as the foundation of a lasting peace.

The resolution, the dispatch adds, summons the government in the name of the house to do everything possible "with all states and peoples who desire peace on the basis of an understanding among nations to render such a peace possible in the immediate future."

Germany Would Salute Spanish Flag.

Paris, June 4.—Germany, in a note to Spain, will apologize for the attack by a German submarine on the Spanish steamer Patricio. The note declares the steamer was not torpedoed and the submarine had no intention of sinking her, but simply wanted to stop her. Germany expresses regret over the incident and offers to pay an indemnity to the family of the engineer of the vessel, who was killed. Germany also offers to salute the Spanish flag if this explanation should not be deemed sufficient

KIDNEY REMEDY HIGHLY RECOMMENDED

There is no medicine which we handle that gives such good results as your Swamp-Root. Many of our customers have informed us at different times that they have derived great benefit from its use.

There was one case in particular which attracted a great deal of attention in this neighborhood early last Spring, as the gentleman's life was despaired of and two doctors treating him for liver and kidney trouble were unable to give him any relief. Finally a specialist from St. Louis was called in but failed to do him any good. I at last induced him to try your Swamp-Root and after taking it for three months, he was attending to his business as usual and is now entirely well. This case has been the means of creating an increased demand for your Swamp-Root with us.

Very truly yours,
L. A. RICHARDSON, Druggist.

"Oh, mamma, Johnny has been taking antifat. He had to tighten his hat band."—Indianapolis News.

That Explained It.

"Here, you!" shouted the lord and master of the household to the maid of all work. "What's this your mistress tells me about all the cream missing again?"

"The cat, sir," replied the girl, who was offended at her employer's unceremonious manner.

"Nonsense, girl!" said the master. "You know we have not got one!"

"But, please, sir, the mistress said as she was a-going to get one."

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription othine — double strength — is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Adv.

LIFT YOUR CORNS OFF WITH FINGERS

How to loosen a tender corn or callus so it lifts out without pain.

Let folks step on your feet hereafter; wear shoes a size smaller if you like, for corns will never again send electric sparks of pain through you, according to this Cincinnati authority.

He says that a few drops of a drug called freezone, applied directly upon a tender, aching corn, instantly relieves soreness, and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts right out.

This drug dries at once and simply shrivels up the corn or callus without even irritating the surrounding skin.

A small bottle of freezone obtained at any drug store will cost very little but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet.

If your druggist hasn't stocked this new drug yet, tell him to get a small bottle of freezone for you from his wholesale drug house.—adv.

FOUR WEEKS IN HOSPITAL

No Relief—Mrs. Brown Finally Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio.—"For years I suffered so sometimes it seemed as though I could not stand it any longer. It was all in my lower organs. At times I could hardly walk, for if I stepped on a little stone I would almost faint. One day I did faint and my husband was sent for and the doctor came. I was taken to the hospital and stayed four weeks but when I came home I would faint just the same and had the same pains.

A friend who is a nurse asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I began taking it that very day for I was suffering a great deal. It has already done me more good than the hospital. To anyone who is suffering as I was my advice is to stop in the first drug-store and get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before you go home."—Mrs. W. C. Much Untilled Land.

The department of agriculture estimates that only 27 per cent of the tillable land of continental United States is actually under cultivation. According to this estimate, 60 per cent of the total area of continental United States, or 1,140,000,000 acres, is tillable, or capable of being brought under the plow. This includes large areas not yet cleared, but sure to be in the future. An additional 19 per cent of the whole, or 361,000,000 acres, is considered valuable for grazing or for fruits, though not for cropping. According to the last census, in 1910, the land area in crops was 311,000,000 acres, about 27 per cent of the tillable area, leaving 73 per cent still to be brought under cultivation. This does not suggest any immediate danger of food scarcity.

ANOTHER TWISTER TAKES DEATH TOLL OF 21; 100 INJURED

SWEEPS OVER PARTS OF THREE STATES IN SOUTHWEST DEALING DEATH AND ENTAILING MUCH DAMAGE.

400 HOUSES DESTROYED AT COALGATE, OKLAHOMA

Coffeyville, Kansas, in Path of Storm, 150 Houses There Being Wrecked —Oklahoma Teacher Saves Pupils When She Marshals Them Into Storm Cellar.

Kansas City, Mo., June 4.—Twenty-one known deaths, more than 100 injured and property damaged to an extent as yet unestimated, resulted from a series of tornadoes that struck several towns and districts of Southeastern Kansas, north Central Oklahoma and Southern Missouri.

Death Total Thought High.

With four hundred houses reported destroyed at Coalgate, Ok., a town of 3,500 inhabitants, in was feared the death total will be high. One message said 13 bodies had been counted and that the business section of the town virtually was destroyed.

Thirty persons were hurt, three of whom are expected to die, 150 houses were wrecked and property suffered an estimated loss of from $100,000 to $150,000 when a tornado struck Coffeyville, Kan., according to a telephone message the Southwestern American received from Coffeyville.

Reports from Buffalo, Mo., told of considerable damage there. Another storm was reported to have passed between Springfield and Lebanon, Mo. All wires were down in both directions.

Teacher Saves Lives.

A tornado struck Drake, Ok., killing five members of one family and destroying one other residence and the school. The lives of many school children were saved when a young school teacher marshalled her charges into a storm cellar.

Morse, Kan., 25 miles from Kansas City, was seriously damaged by a twister that took three lives. Property damage there has not been estimated.

From Ottawa, Kan., came a report that many farm houses in Franklin county had been wrecked and several persons injured.

EUROPE WILL STARVE UNLESS U. S. CROPS HELP

Assertion of Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Vrooman in Speech Before Medical Association.

New York, June 4.—Carl Vrooman, assistant secretary of the Department of Agriculture, in an address on the food situation before the convention of the American Medico-Psychological association, attacked food speculators as "vicious, recalcitrant Americans" who will "be clubbed into submission" by Congress, using unified public sentiment against them as a weapon.

"Famine is lurking over the skylines of every European country," Mr. Vrooman said. "If we do not keep it out, it will not be kept out.

"Our crops are the only thing that stands between mankind and starvation during the months to come."

WOMEN IN LIBERTY LOAN DASH

Fix Special Day for Demonstration to Encourage Bond Sale.

Washington, June 4.—Members of a special woman's Liberty loan committee, headed by Mrs. W. G. McAdoo, wife of Secretary McAdoo, reported at a meeting here that millions of American women have been enlisted for a nation-wide demonstration to encourage sale of bonds next Friday, June 8, designated as Woman's Liberty Loan day.

In most large cities women will hold mass meetings and women orators will speak at street corners on behalf of the loan, while women motorists will distribute literature throughout the country districts. In office buildings, railway stations and department stores women will be stationed with application blanks for the bonds and information for their purchase.

ITALIANS MAKE 400-YARD GAIN

Advance on 2½-Mile Front on Road to Trieste.

Rome, June 4.—Italian forces on the Julian front have advanced 400 yards along a 2½-mile front to the south of Castagnavizza, on the road to Trieste, says the official statement issued by the Italian war department.

Brazil to Reorganize Army.

Rio de Janeiro, June 4.—A political movement of considerable strength is on foot to bring about reorganization of the army. Mario Hermes has moved in the chamber of deputies that representatives of the war ministry appear before the chamber in secret session to discuss the question and the voting of credits for military purposes. Another measure has been introduced in the chamber under which the government would be authorized to increase the strength of the army by voluntary enlistments.

What's Doing in Minnesota

Minneapolis. — A party of 27 Minnesota men, which recently sailed for France to enter ambulance service in the Norton-Harjes corps, has arrived safely in Bordeaux.

Olivia. — The Renville county chapter of the American National Red Cross, with jurisdiction over all of Renville county, has 615 members, as the result of a ten days' campaign for members.

Duluth.—The ice at the end of the lake is so mushy now that boats find little difficulty in getting through. Tugmen say that in a few days the ice will have worn away, for that process now is going on.

St. Paul. — Minnesota began June business with the biggest June 1 cash balance of record in its treasury. Treasurer Rines announced $6,191,733.73 in cash in his official possession at the close of business May 31.

Blooming Prairie.—Blooming Prairie business men, 100 strong, plan to give material aid to farmers of this vicinity, in the form of their own services at such a time as they are needed and other help cannot be obtained.

St. Paul—State Treasurer Rines, State Auditor Preus and two of the latter's deputies, M. J. Desmond and Oscar Arneson, have returned from an eastern trip made primarily to inspect accounting systems preparatory to changing that of the state.

Eveleth.—Serbians on the Minnesota iron ranges are organizing to return to the Balkans and fight under the colors of the Allies. A company of 100 men is being recruited in this vicinity under the direction of the Serbian National Defense society.

Brainerd. — Bob Nukovich was killed and two other miners were injured in a free-for-all knife battle which took place in the rooming house of Louis Malovich, on Balkan street, Crosby. A woman over whom the fight is said to have started is held.

Minneapolis.—Whether or not Minnesota will have ninety more licensed dentists this year is to be decided by the state board of examiners. The work of the men taking the examination at the University of Minnesota Dental college has been graded.

Minneapolis. — The Minnesota College of Agriculture is sending out warnings to gardeners who are planting beans this year. The warning is to the effect that bean planters must be on the guard against two serious bean diseases — anthracnose and blight.

Minneapolis.—Many stores in the Twin Cities are perpetrating a gross libel on the navy bean, according to D. C. Arny of the University of Minnesota Farm school. Mr. Arny says soy beans are being sold under the name of navy beans. Soy beans are cheaper.

St. Paul. — Major Oliver J. Quane, Second infantry, Minnesota national guard, has been suspended for six months by Brigadier General F. E. Resche, on conviction before a court-martial of charges of insubordination preferred against him by Colonel W. T. Mollison, Faribault, of the Second regiment.

Duluth—Following a long and vigorous campaign for street car extension and reduction from 10 to 5 cent fare on prominent car line extensions, immediate steps for condemnation of the Duluth Street Railway company's plant, under the exercise of the right of eminent domain, have been ordered unanimously by the Duluth City Commission.

Minneapolis. — Appointment of C. G. Schultz, a young Minneapolis attorney, as secretary of the new state blue sky law commission has been tentatively agreed upon. Because the law creating the commission was not effective until July 1 and no funds available until August 1, it was explained, no official action toward organizing had been taken.

Winona. — Tardiness of the steamer Quincy, first of the packets in the St. Paul-St. Louis trade on its voyage, was explained by the fact that river lamps have not yet been lighted, and that the channel has shifted greatly during the past winter and spring. The boat was compelled to feel its way, but once the new treacherous places are discovered the boats will be able to maintain the schedule. Running on time will be the supreme effort of the lines.

Austin—Peter Paule, 26, of Austin, Minn., designated by Colonel W. T. Mollison as one of the members of the Second infantry, Minnesota national guard, to attend the officers' reserve training school, Fort Snelling, has been rejected as an alien enemy. Captain Adjutant C. H. Mason, after examining Paule, said there was no possibility of his entering the camp. Paule was born in Germany and came to the United States as a small boy after the death of his parents. He lived at Austin with his grandmother. He had supposed himself a citizen, he said, although he had never applied for papers.

St. Paul. — Early formation of an additional artillery regiment and field hospital corps to augment the Minnesota National guard and the state's fighting forces, as favorably recommended by the State Military board, probably will be ordered, Governor Burnquist announces.

St. Paul. — The State Land Improvement board, created by the last Legislature and provided with $50,000 a year to prepare tracts of state land for settlement, will be made up of A. P. Silliman, Hibbing; Otto Bergh, Grand Rapids, and L. B. Arnold, Duluth, Governor Burnquist announces.

PINE INDUSTRY IS MENACED BY RUST

MINNESOTANS WARNED AGAINST IMPORTING TREES BY STATE ENTOMOLOGIST.

USE MEAL IN PLACE OF FLOUR

Appeal to Minnesotans to Assist in Conservation of Food for Exportation is Issued—Policies Are Outlined.

St. Paul.

To keep out the white pine blister rust which, if it should get into Minnesota, would ruin the white pine industry in this state, F. L. Washburn, state entomologist, is urging residents not to import white or other five-leafed pines.

His appeal is based on the fact that white pines and evergreens are being shipped in from Illinois. While at present the nursery from which these shipments have been made is supposed to be free from rust, shipments from 1908-1909 are believed to have been the source of infection around St. Croix Falls, Wis., and across the St. Croix river in Minnesota. The state entomologist has power to destroy suspicious stock within a radius of half a mile of plantings or nurseries containing such stock.

A quarantine recently was established against Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Use of Corn Meal Urged.

A. D. Wilson, head of the agricultural department of the Minnesota Agricultural college, who recently was appointed chairman of the committee on food production and food conservation, in an interview, has outlined the general policy which will be pursued in the committee's fight for the preservation of food during the war.

"This year the question of conservation is much greater than that of production," Mr. Wilson said. "What we intend doing is to urge the use of corn meal in place of white flour, cut meat consumption 10 pounds per capita annually and try to abolish the manufacture of liquors in which grain is used. The substitution of corn meal for flour will not be undertaken unless great economy becomes absolutely necessary, but if the need should arise we could save 150,000,000 bushels of wheat for export through this single change. The substitution would not be a disagreeable one."

Sanitary Corps for Army Camps.

Creation of a state sanitary corps to safeguard the moral and physical welfare of men in Minnesota military camps have been recommended by Dr. H. M. Bracken, executive officer of the State Board of Health, to Governor Burnquist and it probably will be referred to the State Public Safety Commission for early action. Dr. Bracken's suggestion is in line with that made by Secretary of War Baker in a letter to governors of all the states, calling for co-operation.

Ruling on School Appropriations.

The school appropriations made by the 1917 Legislature can be used for meeting any school obligations incurred to that time. This is the opinion of Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith, expressed in a letter to Governor Burnquist, who, in vetoing a portion of the school aid appropriations bill several weeks ago, declared it was not clear to him whether school funds could be used for meeting prior "moral obligations."

Urges Coal Relief Measures.

A telegram urging that "extraordinary measures" be adopted immediately to avert a threatened fuel shortage in the Northwest by insuring an adequate supply of bituminous coal moving to Lake Erie for the head of Lake Superior has been sent President Wilson by Governor Burnquist, following a conference between the governor and prominent coal dock men of Duluth.

State to Inspect "Movie" Theaters.

The office force of the state fire marshal has begun the task of putting into operation the law passed by the last legislature providing for state supervision of all motion picture theaters. Blanks are being sent to proprietors of all such places of amusement to be filled out and returned. The blanks provide for specific details, especially as regards seating accommodations, exits, fire hazards, and provisions made to prevent fires or explosions. Return of the forms will be followed by inspection.

Certain-teed

Everywhere under the sun—wherever roofs are laid—Certain-teed stands for these two things:

Efficiency, Economy

CERTAIN-TEED roofing is the most efficient and economical type of roof for factories, farm buildings, garages, etc., because the first cost is less than that of metal, wood shingles or tar and gravel. CERTAIN-TEED costs less to lay than any other kind of roof. It will not rust, is not affected by fumes, gases and acids, coal smoke, etc.; it is light weight and fire retardant.

Certain-teed Roofing

is the best quality of prepared roofing. It pays to get the best. The only difference between the first cost of a good roof and a poor one is in the materials—the labor, freight, etc., costs the same in both. As CERTAIN-TEED Roofing is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years according to thickness (1, 2 or 3 ply) it will be in splendid condition years after a poor quality roof has to be replaced.

Canada's Liberal Offer of Wheat Land to Settlers

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

is open to you—to every farmer or farmer's son who is anxious to establish for himself a happy home and prosperity. Canada's hearty invitation this year is more attractive than ever. Wheat is much higher but her fertile farm land just as cheap, and in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta

160 Acre Homesteads Are Actually Free to Settlers and Other Land Sold at from $15 to $20 per Acre

The great demand for Canadian Wheat will keep up the price. Where a farmer can get near $2 for wheat and raise 20 to 45 bushels to the acre he is bound to make money—that's what you can expect in Western Canada. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed Farming in Western Canada is fully as profitable an industry as grain raising.

The excellent grasses, full of nutrition, are the only food required either for beef or dairy purposes. Good schools, churches, markets convenient, climate excellent. A MODERN BATTLE CRY.

Boston Post: We'll rally 'round the hoe' boys, and join the ranks of toil; shouting the battle cry of „Feed 'em!" We'll train the crops to grow, boys, as tillers of the soil, shouting the battle cry of "Feed 'em!" Where there is work to do, boys, we'll gather on the spot, shouting the battle cry of "Feed 'em!" To duty we'll, be true, boys, and till the vacant lot, shouting the battle cry of ',Feed 'em!" Nature, kind mater, will aid in our need. Down with the tater; up with the weed! So we'll rally 'round the hoe, boys, and train the crops to grow, shouting the battle cry of "Feed 'em!"

RANK ANARCHISM

While we do not care to go into any editorial controversy with a neighbor Editor? Yet we think that the man whose name appears at the head of the Editorial column of that sheet called the Eleven Towns, is a disgrace to the country that he swore allegiance to some eighteen months ago. At that time he held up his right hand and swore to support the constitution of the United States. Today he allows his name to appear at the head of the Editorial column of a Newspaper, that is nothing more nor less than a dirty anarchist sheet that it would be a disgrace to the socialist party to own as indorsing their views. Where he properly belongs is over in the German trenches, fighting for Kaiser Wilhelm, instead of being in this Country shooting off his mouth about democracy. America is now at WAR. Do you understand that you little decendant of Wales, who got admitted to citizenship a short time ago? America at this time do not need any of your advice about how to run their war, as it will be attended to and men of your caliber will be attended to. He speaks about novel reading of a man without a country. We wonder if he ever read history of men with a country, and of Gen Merion who used to promptly hang Tories and traitors to the first tree. America is now at war, with Germany and they are going into that war united to win, and they do not want any back talk from anarchist, or traitors at this time.

As soon as America gets through cleaning up Germany then you are at liberty to express your opinion about the conducting of the affairs of this country, but not now.

The high cost of horse feed has been a serious draw back to the farmers who had a short crop of oats last year, and will lessen the amount of ground broken up for flax. The feed speculators did not at first discover that we were short of feed, but as soon as they found that there was a big call for corn feed they raised the price from twenty five to ninety five dollars a ton. They want to save their illgotten grains for they are likely to not have any opportunity to skin the farmers of Northern Minnesota again for some time, as they are sowing a large acreage oats and barley.

LOSS FROM BAD ROADS.

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates that the farmers of the nation are annually losing $250,000,000 because of their inability to market their produce at certain times of the year. Counties which are rich in agricultural products are burdened with bad roads and it is of much concern to the farmers to see to the building of good roads. Good roads, 365-day roads, are insurance for continued community prosperity.

PLAN OF AERIAL COAST PATROL

Picked Line of Sea Planes For Defense Against Germany.

By Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, U. S. N., of the Vigilantes.

Chairman of the National Aerial Patrol Commission.

REAR ADMIRAL R. E. PEARY.

THE plan to establish an aerial coast patrol, consisting of a chain of aviation stations, one at every fifty or 100 miles along our coasts, is developing fast. The inexorable logic of actual events is working powerfully for it. The public interest in the plan has been great, and the co-operation of the commission has been sought by communities and groups of individuals throughout the country who wish to establish stations in their localities.

At the time the plan for the aerial coast patrol was proposed, about two years ago, international conditions were much different, no unattended war submarine had crossed the Atlantic, and the possibility of a submarine making such a crossing was denied by most people, including some high naval authorities. In outlining the plans for the aerial coast patrol we decided, therefore, on a bare skeleton organization, allowing only one aeroplane in connection with each unit.

The revolutionary changes that have taken place make it necessary to extend the plan, increasing the number of aeroplanes to each unit to four.

The aerial coast patrol is to provide a continuous picket line of seaplanes or flying boats fifty miles or more off shore around our entire coasts, from Eastport, Me., to Brownsville, Tex., and from San Diego, Cal., to Cape Flattery, Wash., each machine traveling back and forth over its section, or "beat," a winged sentinel, forming a cordon, a continuous line of whirring shuttles, weaving a blanket of protection around the country.

By means of the wireless, information as to the character, number and apparent destination of approaching ships will be transmitted to the shore stations and from these to Washington, whence if the ships are hostile orders will issue directing the movements of our fleet and the submarine squadrons for the preparation of the coast defenses and for the concentration of troops if necessary, while reserve planes hurrying out will keep the approaching craft under continuous inspection while themselves invisible.

Such a system is a departure. The like of it exists nowhere at present, and yet it involves no new principle, but is simply the utilization and multiplication of the known capabilities of a single seaplane.

Had there been such a system round the British isles the Lusitania horror would not have occurred.

Let us note the advantage of this system in war now that war has been declared. This advance notice of the approach of the enemy is the first step. In modern warfare hours and even minutes may spell victory. The enemy is still unaware that his approach is known, for the sentinel seaplane was invisible to him. With the next step a cloud of seaplanes sweep out in such numbers as to overwhelm and destroy the enemy's aeroplanes, leaving him blinded. Then follow the squadrons of great battle triplanes, each machine carrying several tons of high explosives to drop upon the hostile fleet. You can imagine the result.

We should have at a minimum not less than 2,000 hydroaeroplanes available on each coast, and we should have an aviator class in numbers like our present chauffeur class.

This is a matter of pressing individual interest to Philadelphia, to Baltimore, to Washington, to Portland, to Seattle and other cities. In an aviation sense these cities are just as much coast cities as New York, or Boston, or Norfolk, or San Francisco.

In the present development of the science of aviation a tramp steamship with a squadron of aeroplanes and a few tons of high explosives, creeping in shore in thick weather, might ruin any one of these cities in a single night.

The coast patrol, however, is but one feature of the country's needed aerial development. To obtain that development, to give us an air service sufficient for our protection, to secure for us that vital command of the air, there is one basic thing which we should have now: A department of aeronautics, separate from and independent of both the army and the navy, its head a member of the presidential cabinet in full and undivided control of a comprehensive aero coast defense system, which our peculiar geographical position and extended coast line render imperative; of a system of aviation training schools, located in each of the principal geographical divisions of the country, and of the civil and commercial avenues of aeronautic usefulness.

With our resources and mechanical genius under the spur of concentrated and undivided attention, such a department may in the near future be more vital to our national safety and integrity than either the navy or the army.

THE LOCAL NEWS

Pennington County is now sure of a good big crop this year, as all grain is now looking first class.

Owing to the backward spring there was not a very large acreage of corn planted in this locality but what there is is growing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter McAndress and Mr. and Mrs. Hammarsten, autoed down to the Community Picnic yesterday, which was held in the Ed Aubel grove.

While there is no lack of Patriotism among our farmers, there is lack of cash, for investment in Government bonds. But if the present crop turns out as well as it looks now they will be able to invest to help Uncle Sam out this fall.

Will Korstad, who bought the Shosten farm at Highlanding has planted 18 acres of potatoes as part of his first crop. Here is hoping he gets a good crop, which he is pretty sure of and the present prices for his spuds when he markets them.

There will be quite a large amount of flax sown next week. It is getting rather late in the season, but as the spring was late, there is a chance that the fall will be late, and the prospect of high prices makes one feel like taking some chances on securing a crop, by late seeding.

We received two columns of free plate matter this week, for publication complaining about increasing the taxes on incomes, as it is in opposition to our view of it they will not receive space in our column. Tax the rich mans income for war expense is the way to raise the cash.

We understand that the County Board of Commissioners have passed a resolution, requiring complaining witness to give bonds for costs in blind pig cases. This is a move in the right direction, as it will stop the practice of using the tax payers money for individuals to get even with some one that they have a greivance against. This rule should also be enforced as to the Singers, as they have no lawsuits coming to them at the expense of the tax payers of this county.

A notice of church services to to be held in the Catholic church at Rhoda, and published in the Thief River Falls papers Thursday, reaches the members of that church the next week on Tuesday aternoon, who live in the southern part of Kratka township. This is what is commonly called the Singer mail service for eastern Pennington county, and it seems that they are holding their job, against all the remonstrances and petitions of the people, who could have fairly good mail service at exactly the same expense to the government.

The selections for draft should be made with care, and for the best interest of America. The Pool Room should receive the first attention. When you see a hardy looking young fellow idling around the Pool Rooms and boarding at home with Ma, just inform him that his country has a steady job for him. Do not begin to look on our farms, where you will of course find some hardy young men, but when you find they are right behind the hoe doing their duty as a producer of food, let them remain at their job. Pick out the idlers. Go to the country stores as well as the pool halls, and when you find good husky young men looking for work nowadays, give them a job.

MONEY FOR FARMERS.

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

Many of our farmers will not have money enough to put in a maximum crop. This should not be the case. Of course, during this war excitement it is pretty hard to get onyone to do anything but run around in circles, but the greatest business problem we have is to finance our farmers so that they can get the maximum results for themselves and for our community. We believe that if the banks will ask young farmers and tenants who have not established their credit, to make a statement regarding what they want to do with the money, that they will take very little risk in advancing whatever money any farmer will intelligently use this year.

It is true that the federal reserve banks will re-discount farmers' paper, but they do it entirely on the credit of the bank asking for the re-discount.

We believe that our business men would be very glad to pro-rate any loss that any bank would make in extending loans to any farmer who wants to increase the production of his farm even though his land may be mortgaged all that it can stand. Especially in those counties where county agents can advise and O. K. the project, our bankers should have no hesitancy in furnishing whatever money may be required. There is very little risk because the world is short of food and everything will be high for this year and probably several years to come.

NEXT YEAR'S CROP

Let Us Begin Now to Organize for More Prosperity!

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

It is one of our American traits to speed up to high tension for a few days and then to relapse into our old "easy-going" habits. If we can only learn by experience that we must organize against emergencies of all kinds for peace and war, this excitement will not have been in vain. It will do little good to shout at the farmer through a megaphone. He knows his business and is doing just as good as he can under the circumstances. If there is any improvement to be made, it is to improve circumstances. Our prosperity depends upon the prosperity of the farmers and it is our duty to get him the best price possible consistent with quality. If we want the farmer to do better, we must do better by him. However, he can find no complaint about the present prices nor for several years to come. We may be too late to do very much more this spring, although we still have barley, corn and potatoes to put into the ground. We should organize for service in this county and get ready for early fall plowing after harvest.

THE NAVY NEEDS MEN! IT NEEDS THEM NOW

The United States Navy has continued its appeal to the Northwest for men to man the fleet by addressing the following appeal to societies and individuals:

CONGRESS GIVES MONEY AND MATERIAL;

THE NORTHWEST MUST GIVE THE MEN!

The Nation has called for its sons. It is up to the Northwest to answer. Young men have been coming forward at a fair rate, but more must come. Part of the fleet is idle and will be until America wakes up. Another 40 men a day would put four more big guns in action.

BARLEY VS. WHEAT.

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

Barley at 60c per bushel will profitably compete with wheat at $1.00. Were it not for the sustaining influence of the high prices for malting barley, it would compete with oats, but as it is the crop of barley for 1915 brought $122,500,000.00. The price of barley is now $1.20 to $1.50 per bushel, but taking $1.30 as a basis, the 1916 crop of 180,000,000 bushels, would bring $234,000,000.

Yields of 40 to 50 bushels of barley per acre are not uncommon and as just a feed value this means a handsome return to the grower. But in addition to this, there is always the incentive of raising a good crop of superior barley that can be sold for malting purposes at advanced prices, and a good yield of malting barley will hold its own with any other crop.

BARLEY NOT A HUMAN FOOD

As a Bread Cereal It is Little Used. As An Animal Food It is of Great Value.

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

For many centuries barley, the "corn" of holy writ, was used as a bread cereal, but it has practically gone out of use, except that Norway and Sweden use it in their peculiar bread disks, which are about the size and shape of a phonograph record.

Barley in itself does not make a a good bread flour and could be utilized only by mixing it with wheat, something which the American miller considers desecration of his shrine. It has a peculiar flavor and is just as different from wheat bread, as either corn or rye.

But as a stock feed, it has many merits. As the kernels are too hard for some animals to relish, it may be crushed by passing it between rollers.

If finely ground, the gluten makes a sticky mass as soon as it is wet, and this peculiar property makes it difficult to make it into good bread. Its main use in the American kitchen has been to use it as pearled barley in soups. It is used some in breakfast food through a malting process, but unless we as American people are on the verge of starvation, we will never use barley as a regular diet

SYSTEMATIZE your household expenses by opening a bank account for your wife. Give her a check book and teach her the use of it. Pay the butcher, the grocer, the baker, with a check. Then at the end of the month you'll find out just how much it costs you to run the home. When payment by check is made there never is any doubt as to whether or not a bill is paid. The check is a receipt.

Besides, a checking account will give your wife a business education. The number of ordinarily bright women who know absolutely nothing of banking is surprising. If you are a husband, father, brother, you cannot tell when death may overtake you, and it is well that your wife, daughter and sister know something of banking.

All in the Dialect

A New Zealand man vouches for the truth of the following story:

Dick Seddon was of Lancashire origin, and when he died the Lancastrian society in New Zealand sent a wreath with the following inscription: "I have gone whoam." The journalist who reported the funeral evidently did not come from Lancashire and consequently was somewhat puzzled by the wording, and, after thinking hard, concluded that some one had blundered. His report read:

"The Lancastrian society sent a beautiful wreath bearing the inscription: 'I have gone. Who am I?'"

Destroying an Idol.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "you can say anything you like nowadays about George Washington, can't you?"

"Yes. The lid seems to be off."

"Well, I never liked to mention it before, but I have my doubts about his being incapable of an effort to deceive. His pictures look to me as if the old gentleman wore a wig."—Washington Star.

THE BARLEY ACREAGE.

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

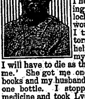
In 1915 we raised nearly 229,000,000 bushels on 7,000,000 acres. We did not fare so well in 1916 on account of the bad season. On seven and one half million acres we raised 181,000,000 bushels. The price of barley will warrant a large increase in the acreage this year. Forty-eight million bushels of barley were malted and about 25,000,000 of that 48,000,000 was sent back in the shape of feed to the farm. As an economic problem, it would seem that the high price of barley for malting would greatly offset any feeding-value, if any, lost thereby.

The season for planting barley is one week late, and therefore, barley can be put in to advantage up to the 10th of May, and perhaps the 15th. It is generally the best farm practice to put barley in just ahead of corn planting. There is less labor in producing a field of barley than a field of corn and a great deal less risk. If you are short of labor on your farm it will pay you to put in some barley.

If you put in all of your crops and still have some land idle, both oats and barley can be sown for hay or green feed which will be immensely valuable this year.

SICK WOMAN HAD CRYING SPELLS

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.



Enhaut, Pa.—"I was all run down and weak inwardly. I had female troubles and nervous feelings and my head bothered me. I would often have crying spells and feel as if I was not safe. If I heard anyone coming I would run and lock the door so they would not see me. I tried several doctors and they did not help me so I said to my mother 'I guess I will have to die as there is no help for me.' She got me one of your little books and my husband said I should try one bottle. I stopped the doctor's medicine and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It soon made a change in me and now I am strong and do all my work."—Mrs. AUGUSTUS BAUGHMAN, Box 86, Enhaut, Pa.

AMERICA FIGHTING FOR WORLD PEACE PRESIDENT AVERS

WAR AIMS OF UNITED STATES ARE OUTLINED IN STATEMENT SENT BY PRESIDENT TO PEOPLE OF RUSSIA.

TEUTON IMPERIALISM MUST BE DESTROYED

America Will End War Only When German Intrigue Is Broken, President Says and Calls on Russia to Help Conquer Common Enemy.

Washington, June 11. — President Wilson, in a communication to the new government of Russia, has made plain the war aims of the United States and its position on "no annexation, no indemnities."

"No territory must change hands except for securing for those who inhabit a fair chance of life and liberty," the communication says.

"No indemnities must be insisted on except those that constitute payment for manifest wrong done.

Future Peace of World Keynote.

"No readjustments of power must be made, except such as will tend to secure the future peace of the world and the future welfare and happiness of its people."

The President's communication in full is:

"In view of the visit of the American commission to Russia to discuss the best and most practical means of co-operation between the two peoples in carrying the present struggle for freedom of all peoples to a successful consummation, it seems opportune and appropriate that I should state again, in the light of this new partnership, the objects the United States has had in mind in entering the war.

Objects Much Beclouded.

"Those objects have been very much beclouded in the past few weeks by mistaken and misleading statements, and the issues at stake are too momentous, too tremendous, too significant for the whole human race to permit any misinterpretations or misunderstandings, however slight, to remain uncorrected for a moment.

"The war has begun to go against Germany, and in their desperate desire to escape the inevitable, ultimate defeat, those who are in authority in Germany are using every possible instrumentality, are making use even of the influence of groups and parties among their own subjects to whom they have never been just or fair or even tolerant, to promote a propaganda on both sides of the sea which will preserve for them their influence at home and their power abroad, to the undoing of the very men they are using.

America Fighting for Liberty.

"The position of America in this war is so clearly avowed no man can be excused for mistaking it. She seeks no material profit or aggrandizement of any kind. She is fighting for no advantage or selfish object of her own, but for the liberation of peoples everywhere from aggressions of autocratic force.

"The ruling classes in Germany have begun of late to profess a like liberality and justice of purpose, but only to preserve the power they have set up in Germany and the selfish advantages which they have wrongly gained for themselves and their private prospects of power all the way from Berlin to Bagdad and beyond.

"Government after government has, by their influence without an open conquest of its territory, been linked together in a net of intrigue directed against nothing less than the peace and liberty of the world.

"The meshes of that intrigue must be broken, but cannot be broken unless wrongs already done are undone, and adequate measures must be taken by preventing it from ever again being rewoven or repaired.

"Of course, the imperial German government and those whom it is using for their own undoing are seeking to obtain pledges the war will end in the restoration of the status quo ante.

German Imperialism Must Go.

"It was the status quo ante out of which this iniquitous war issued forth, the power of the imperial German government within the empire and its widespread domination and influence outside of that empire. That status must be altered in such fashion as to prevent any such hideous thing from ever happening again.

"We are fighting for the liberty, the self-government and the undictated development of all peoples, and every feature of the settlement that concludes this war must be conceived and executed for that purpose.

"Wrongs must first be righted and then adequate safeguards must be created to prevent this being committed again. We ought not to consider remedies merely because they have a pleasing and sonorous sound.

"Practical questions can be settled only by practical means. Phrases will not achieve the result. Effective readjustments will, and whatever readjustments are necessary must be made. But they must follow a principle and that principle is plain.

World's Future Peace Is Aim.

"No people must be forced under sovereignty under which it does not wish to live. No territory must change hands except for the purpose of securing for those who inhabit it a fair chance of life and liberty. No indemnities must be insisted on except those that constitute payment for manifest wrongs done. No readjustments of power must be made except such as will tend to secure the future peace of the world and the future welfare and happiness of its peoples.

"And then the free peoples of the world must draw together in some common government, some genuine and practical co-operation that will, in effect, combine their force to secure peace and justice in the dealing of nations with one another.

"The brotherhood of mankind must no longer be a fair but empty phrase.

"It must be given a structure of force and reality. The nations must realize their common life and effect a workable partnership to secure that life against the aggressions of autocratic and self-pleasing powers.

Pour Out Blood for Liberty.

"For these things we can afford to pour out our blood and treasure. For these are the things we have always professed to desire, and unless we pour out blood and treasure now and succeed, we may never be able to unite or show conquering force again in the great cause of human liberty.

"The day has come to conquer or submit. If the forces of autocracy can divide us, they will overcome us; if we stand together, victory is certain and the liberty which victory will secure. We can afford to be generous, but we cannot afford then or now to be weak or omit any single guarantee of justice and security."

PEACE PRINCIPLES WILSON LAYS DOWN

These are the principles which President Wilson lays down as the guideposts marking the return to peace:

"No people must be forced under sovereignty under which it does not wish to live.

"No territory must change hands except for the purpose of securing for those who inhabit it a fair chance of life and liberty.

"No indemnities must be insisted on except those that constitute payment for manifest wrongs done.

"No readjustments of power must be made except such as will tend to secure the future peace of the world and the future welfare and happiness of its peoples.

"And then the free peoples of the world must draw together in some common covenant, some genuine and practical co-operation that will combine in effect their force to secure peace and justice in the dealings of nations with one another.

"The brotherhood of mankind must no longer be a fair but empty phrase. It must have a structure of force and reality. The nations must realize their common life and effect a workable partnership to secure that life against the aggressions of autocratic and self-pleasing power."

DANIELS FEARS FOE GETS SECRETS VITAL TO FLEET

Naval Secretary Forbids Officers, Crews or Department Employes From Discussing Activities.

Washington, June 11.—"The navy department has reason to believe that information of a character most valuable to the enemy, and which might prove disastrous to the navy, has in some way reached the enemy," Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels has announced.

This disclosure preceded the establishment of stringent regulations to prevent persons in the navy from discussing naval and military matters even with members of their own immediate families.

"In view of the strenuous efforts that have been made to prevent the dissemination of such information the department believes that in practically every instance this has resulted from certain information being given in confidence to or spoken in the presence of a close relative or friend who, failing to appreciate the gravity of the offense, inadvertently transmitted it into the hands of those who most desired to obtain it.

"The situation at this time is entirely too grave to permit of a continuance of present practice in this regard."

"Officers, enlisted personnel and civilian employes are therefore directed not to discuss any question relating to the disposition, movements or proposed movements of naval or military forces (including personnel) at any time, except officially, either among themselves or with any person outside the naval service. It should be clearly understood that families and relatives are to be considered as 'outside the naval service.'

"All persons who attempt to obtain prohibited information from persons in the naval service should be regarded with suspicion and reported without delay to the proper authorities.

Daniels insisted that new regulations are not in any way aimed at American newspapers, though the order had the effect of at least partially closing usual legitimate news sources.

American Munitions Reach Gibraltar.

Washington, June 11.—The former German steamship Clara Menning, has arrived in Gibraltar, en route to an Italian port with a cargo of munitions and general supplies. The Menning was taken over by the American government when war was declared on Germany.

ROPE AROUND NECK, SUPECT'S DENIAL SAVES 6 FROM MOB

STOUT ASSERTION OF INNOCENCE AND SHERIFF'S SPEECH SAVES THOSE ACCUSED OF DEAD BABY PLOT.

HAD BEEN TAKEN FROM SPRINGFIELD FOR SAFETY

Man Stoutly Denies Any Guilt in Disappearance and Death of Little Lloyd Keet, Whose Body Was Found in an Abandoned Well.

Springfield, Mo., June 12. — Fears that the six persons arrested here in connection with alleged abduction plots would be taken from Sheriff Webb and lynched by irate Springfield citizens, apparently abated, when it became known that the prisoners were safe somewhere in the Ozark hills, north of here.

Their guard of deputy sheriffs was overpowered at Stockton, Mo., by leaders of the infuriated Springfield men, but the terrified prisoners saved themselves from the noose by denying stoutly any guilt of the disappearance and death of little Lloyd Keet. As a result Springfield is quiet and talk of violence hushed after the wild fury previously displayed when thousands of persons crowded the public square here awaiting the expected return and lynching.

Feeling High Against Prisoners.

Following the discovery of the body of Baby Keet in the well of an abandoned farm eight miles from Springfield, feeling ran high against the prisoners, a woman among whom had been arrested in connection with the alleged plot to kidnap a wealthy Springfield jeweler, a munition manufacturer of St. Louis and a Springfield baby. It was felt that the prisoners were implicated in the Keet case.

Slips Prisoners Away.

Sheriff Webb, fearing the attitude of the angry citizens, slipped his prisoners from the county jail and in swift automobiles started for a destination supposed to have been Jefferson City, Mo., where the six would have been lodged for safe keeping in the state prison. Leaders of the citizens upon learning of the move followed the officers in automobiles and it was upon the expectation that the prisoners would be taken by the irate citizens from the deputies and returned to Springfield that a crowd estimated at 10,000 waited until the early hours of the day in the square here.

The sheriff was thought to have four of his prisoners in the county jail at Stockton, 40 miles from here. The other two, C. J. Piersol and Taylor Adams, the latter's wife being the woman arrested in the alleged plot, were believed to be on the road northward toward a railroad that would provide transportation to Jefferson City.

Rope Around Neck, Denies Guilt.

Out of the meagre news that has come back to Springfield from the rough hills and sparsely settled districts of Cedar, Polk and Dade counties, it has been possible to supply only the bare outlines of the triumphant fight for the lives of Mrs. Adams and her five companions. Apparently it was when Piersol refused, despite a rope around his neck, to admit that any of the suspects were concerned with the death of little Lloyd.

SOCIALISTS OUST RUSSELL

Expelled Because He Joined War Mission to Russia.

New York, June 11.—Charles Edward Russell, widely known Socialist and a member of the American war mission to Russia, was expelled from the Socialist party by the central committee of the New York local at a meeting here. The specific grounds for the expulsion were given as Mr. Russell's failure to consult the party before accepting the mission appointment and his failure to resign from the commission after certain sections in the party had requested him to do so.

U. S. Officers Begin Work in France.

Boulogne, Sur Mer, France, June 11. —A number of officers of General John J. Pershing's staff have arrived here to begin the work of organizing the bases of the American army in France.

Another Norse Ship Sunk.

Christiania, June 11. — The Norwegian steamship Bollsta, 1,701 tons gross, was torpedoed off the Spanish coast on June 3. The crew was landed.

Chicago Clubs Dry If U. S. Says So.

Chicago, June 11.—Chicago clubs will respond willingly to any request by the government to bar liquors during the war. Also if a majority voluntarily debar liquors, the others are ready to make it unanimous. This was learned from a canvass of the leading clubs, following adoption by the Illinois branch of the Women's Council of National Defense of a resolution calling upon all clubs to cease serving liquor during the war, in order to save grain. Several organizations, in fact, have already "gone dry."

MOST CRITICAL IN 40 YEARS SAYS PRESIDENT OF SENATE.

Prieto Cabinet Out But King Requests Premier to Remain—Dato May Form New Body.

Madrid, June 12.—King Alfonso has asked the Marquis Prieto to continue as premier. The Marquis has promised to give the king his definite answer after he has conferred with the members of the cabinet.

May Form New Cabinet.

Paris, June 12.—A Madrid wireless dispatch says the report that former Premier Dato will be called upon to form a cabinet appears to be confirmed. Senor Dato will take the portfolio of foreign affairs provisionally and, according to the report, will be succeeded by Francisco Bergamin, the former minister of instruction.

Senor Bugallal, who was minister of finance in the Dato cabinet in 1913, is mentioned as a strong probability for the same post now.

The present political crisis in Spain was characterized as the gravest which has arisen in the last 40 years in a statement by Senor Groizard, president of the senate. He expressed this opinion after a conference with King Alfonso. It is thought probable that the formation of a government to succeed the ministry of the Marquis Prieto, who with the cabinet has resigned, will be entrusted to the conservatives with Eduardo Dato, former premier, again in power.

PERSHING IS RECEIVED BY KING OF BRITAIN

London Papers Warmly Welcome American General—Rush Preparations to Go To War Front.

London, June 11. — Maj. General Pershing, commander-in-chief of America's expeditionary force to France, was formally received by King George in a private audience.

Pershing and his staff got down to work early, conferring with British military officials and preparing every way possible for their transfer at an early date to the French front.

London newspaper comment overflowed its customary bounds of enthusiasm in greeting the American general and his men.

"The landing of Pershing is a historic event," declared the Daily Express. "He will learn from Admiral Sims how affectionately Great Britain will welcome America's aid. His arrival is a reminder that while we are hammering the United States is preparing with enthusiasm and ardor to hammer, too."

"The cheers that greeted Pershing had behind them a spirit of national welcome," declared the Daily Mail. "There is not a man in these islands in whose heart they do not find an echo."

KROPOTKIN SAYS RUSSIA MUST FIGHT TO THE END

Returning Exiled Prince Warns Country Against Any Attempt to Hinder Germany's Defeat.

Christiania, June 11.—Prince Peter Kropotkin, the Russian Socialist leader who has been in exile in England for many years and was invited to return home by the revolutionary government has arrived in Christiania on his way to Petrograd. He issued a statement warning "all true friends of peace" against any attempt to hinder Germany's defeat.

"Such fantastic dreams as German domination from Berlin to Bagdad must be given up," he said. "France must have Alsace and Lorraine. The independence of Poland must be assured. Until that is done Russia must and will fight for victory."

"The revolution came just in the nick of time to prevent the disgrace of a separate peace," he said. "Negotiations between the old regime and the Germans had been virtually completed, and the old regime planned to sign a separate peace agreement two days later."

GREAT EXPLOSION KILLS MANY

Occurs in Petrograd Harbor and Causes Big Fire.

Washington, June 11.—The navy department is advised of the arrival of the second American naval collier in French waters.

London Meeting of Socialists Planned.

London, June 11. — The Chronicle prints a telegram from the Belgian minister of munitions and Socialist leader, Emile Vandervelde, who is now in Petrograd, stating that the Western Socialists insist on a conference of Socialists of the allied nations in London in July. This conference is to precede that proposed in Stockholm by the Russian council of workmen's and soldiers' delegates and to which it has invited Socialists of all nations, both belligerent and neutral. Russia's situation will be discussed.

Friend of the Animals.

Barnum and Bailey's success in rearing rare animals of the Orient while in captivity is principally due to the extraordinary magnetism and affection of one called Andrew—no one ever heard his last name—the giraffe man. He has traveled all over Africa. Animals love him. A few years ago when a monkey was maimed in the circus and was to be killed, Andrew interceded, saved the monkey's life and nursed him back to health. The monkey is now Andrew's shadow. Among his other small pets, each of which has some special cause of gratitude to the kindly trainer, are a blind dog, a house cat, a parrot, a chicken and a white rat. Wherever he sits they take possession of his lap, shoulders and knees, and talk to him—and Andrew talks back. They all seem to understand him perfectly.

GERMANS UNABLE TO STOP FOE'S ADVANCE

Enemy Disorganized by Fierce Attack of Allies.

DRIVEN IN DISORDER FROM MESSINES RIDGE.

Mine Explosion Begins Work Completed by Artillery Fire and Brilliant Infantry Advance—Old Score Made Even.

With the British Armies in France, June 7, via London, June 8.—The British armies struck today on a new front and won a victory which supplements the successes at Arras during the last two months.

The Germans, though apparently aware that the blow was coming and seemingly prepared to meet it, were driven from their nearly three years' hold on Messines ridge, opposite "poor old" Ypres. Ypres in a sense was avenged today, for Messines ridge has been the vantage point from which the Germans have poured torrents of shells into the stricken city. The British also wiped off an old score against the Germans, for they held the ridge in October, 1914, and with very thin forces, and virtually no artillery, fought bloodily but vainly to hold it when the Prussian troops massed their modern and overpowering weapons of war against it.

Prisoners taken declared that the bombardment of Vimy ridge was child's play compared with the gunfire turned upon Messines ridge.

Artillery Fire Devastating.

This fire reached its climax just as dawn was graying the eastern skies and while the full moon was still suspended high in the heavens.

The attack was accompanied by all the arts and deviltries of latter-day war. The enemy guns and gun crews had been bathed for days in gas shells sent over by the long-range British guns.

The night was filled with red incendiary flames. Shells that spurted lead in streams crashed in appalling numbers about the heads of the defending soldiers. High-explosive and shrapnel fire was carried out with such rapidity that the earth writhed under the force of the attack.

Mines that had taken two years to dig and fill with an overwhelming explosive broke into an avalanche of flaming destruction in the half light of dawn. This was indeed an Ypres day of retaliation and victory for the vicious sufferings of two years and eight months.

Superfluous Clothing Discarded.

It was a day of intense heat, and the gunners worked stripped to the waist. The attack went forward with clocklike regularity.

The British casualties were slight. Three out of four of the casualties were reported to be walking cases, who would return to duty in a few days.

The attack began at dawn, and the setting was as picturesque as can well be imaginable. The day before had been hot and sultry. Toward evening there was a series of thunder storms which extended well into the night, the lightning mingling with the flashes of the guns, but the thunder being virtually unnoticed amid the din of the cannon. A full moon struggled continuously to break through the clouds.

Sing on Way to Fight.

On the way to the front were all the familiar pictures of the war—endless trains of motor trucks; all varieties of horse transport, the British soldiers marching to battle light of heart and singing songs familiar in every American community.

From the German line the same lazy, looping rocket signals were ascending to illuminate the treacherous bit of ground between the trenches known as No Man's Land. This nightly "straffing" had been going on so long that the enemy considered it entirely normal and took no alarm. Occasionally blue and yellow rockets would be flung into the air by Germans holding the front line.

Like Volcanoes in Eruption.

Day was scarcely breaking when from the dimly visible ridge a score of fiery volcanoes seemed suddenly to spring from the earth. The night had been filled with strange noises and still stranger sights, but these masses of flame, leaping from the ground, had a meaning all their own. They were the spectacular outward and visible evidences of more than a million pounds of high explosives which had been buried deep in mines below the enemy's positions for months.

All the world appeared lurid and horrible under the sinister glow. The earth shook as if torn by a great seismic disturbance. It was not a single shock. The force of the explosion actually set the earth rocking to and fro, and under the influence of the giant guns, which immediately began to roar from far and near, the trembling continued indefinitely.

It has seemed that the battle of the Somme attained the ultimate in the close assembly of war weapons, but this sudden outpouring on Messines ridge was beyond all calculation. The lighter field guns far forward set up a perfect curtain fire, under which the assaulting troops trudged confidently to their allotted goals. Farther back the deep-throated heavies began to pour out torrents of high explosive shells on the German trenches and communications, while still other guns—enough to win any ordinary battle—confined themselves solely to the task of deluging German guns and gunners in baths of gas fired in shells of every conceivable caliber.

The effect of this counter battery work was not appreciated until later in the day, when the infantry sent back word that their progress had not been hampered by the enemy artillery and that their casualties amounted to virtually nothing.

Enemy Signals for Help.

Great black observation balloons had stolen skyward during the din of the newly begun battle. In the wood back of the windmill spring birds, awakened by the deafening clamor, had begun to sing joyously. Like so many children who have come into the consciousness of being in the midst of the war, these birds regarded the appalling noise of the battle as a normal condition of life.

The smoke of the giant mines exploded along the battle front meantime rose in great, curling plumes toward the sky and was punctuated by red signals for help from the stricken Germans in the front and support lines. Never was the air filled with more frantic notices of danger. The entire horizon glowed with red balls of fire sent up by the nervous Germans.

More and more British airplanes began to make their appearance. One flew over the lines, the flashes of the guns being reflected brilliantly on its highly glazed wings.

Under this appalling fire trudged forward on the ten-mile front General Plumer's army. At many places the men found German troops utterly dazed by the mine explosion and the ordeal of the artillery fire.

Get Idea of Real Warfare.

Many of these troops had but recently come from Russia, where they had spent 18 months and knew nothing of what actual warfare was like on the western front. They had bolted at the first mine explosion and had only been gathered together in groups by their noncommissioned officers when the British appeared out of the smoke and shells and made them prisoner.

They said they had been given to understand by their officers that the British always killed their prisoners. It was really pitiful in some instances to see the manner in which these prisoners cringed to their captors.

As a matter of fact, the British soldier, when the fighting is done, is inclined almost too strongly to treat the German prisoners as pals. Some of the prisoners taken today had only gone into the German lines last night and had made their way forward under a galling fire and had lost heavily. But the troops already in the line were calling for relief in such a manner that their appeals could not be denied.

German Commanders at Fault.

In view of the fact that the attack had been expected the German commanders were endeavoring to get their best units actually into the fighting front, but had underestimated when the British would strike. The troops in a strange line were utterly bewildered when the attack began and fell easy prey to the advancing British.

The battle was far more visible during the first uncertain moments than later when the sun gradually burned its way through the eastern banks of clouds. By that time the smoke of exploding shells and the vapors from the blinding barrage, which had been part of the artillery duty, obscured the more distant landscape to such an extent that the roaring guns could not be seen at all, although the firing was almost at one's feet. The brilliantly leaping shrapnel shells, breaking far above ground, appeared through a thick mist only as brief and brilliant electric sparks.

German Airships Outclassed.

For a month past, but especially since June 1, the airplanes on this front have been indefatigably at work during every possible flying hour. They had brought down nearly 50 machines in six days as a means of blinding the enemy. Lately the Germans have endeavored valiantly to obtain airplane observations for their artillery, but their observing machines have seldom been able to direct more than one or two shots before the British fighting scouts had pounced upon them and either sent them crashing to the earth or had driven them to cover at breakneck speed.

Today the British planes flew far and long over the enemy's retreating lines and were only challenged by some very bad-shooting anti-aircraft batteries. All through the day British planes ruled the air. They co-operated actively with the British artillery and infantry in maintaining the success of this brilliant episode in modern warfare.

PREMIER HEARS GUNS ROAR

From His Residence in England, 140 Miles Away, British Statesman Listens to Battle's Opening.

London, June 7.—The tremendous explosions that opened the British attack on Wytschaete bend were heard by David Lloyd George, the British premier, who was staying for the night at his residence at Walton Heath, 140 miles away.

The plans for the attack had been long maturing and when the preparations were perfected the premier was acquainted with the exact hour it was intended to open it. Accordingly, on retiring last night Mr. Lloyd George gave orders to be called at three.

The premier and other members of his household clearly heard the tremendous detonations, as also did persons at the premier's official residence in London, who supposed they were the sounds of heavy guns until later they learned that they came from the explosion of mines.

What's Doing in Minnesota

St. Paul.—James H. Ege, charter member of the first G. A. R. post in Minneapolis and former state commander of the organization, died here after a long illness. A daughter and two sons survive.

St. Paul.—While more than 200,000 Minnesota young men are offering themselves to Uncle Sam for service in France, 500 veterans of the Civil War assembled in St. Paul for their annual G. A. R. encampment.

Saloonkeepers who permit men to become intoxicated in their places and who help or allow their bartenders to ply men with liquor are liable to damages for death or injuries that may result from the consumption of the liquor, the Minnesota supreme court has decided.

Construction of the Twin City-Duluth highway, which is to be aided by federal funds, will be completed as far as the north line of Washington county this fall, grading will be under way for some distance north, and the road will be completed to Duluth next season, officials of the state highway department predicted.

Moorhead.—The need of rain to insure the potato crop in the Red River valley is indicated by many familiar with the crop conditions of this section. In the vicinity of Sabin and Baker, the largest potato raising district of the state, a good soaking rain would benefit the crop, which was missed by recent rains which soaked terrtiory surrounding that district.

St. Paul.—Eighteen colonels in the United States army have been promoted to be brigadier generals. Among them are Col. W. H. Sage, now in command of the officer training camp at Fort Snelling; Col. S. D. Sturgis, formerly of St. Paul, brother of Mrs. Edmund Pennington of Minneapolis; Col. E. F. Glenn, formerly commandant at the University of Minnesota in the early nineties.

St. Paul.—The Rev. William C. Pope, senior priest of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Minnesota, St. Paul pioneer of 1857, soldier of the Indian wars, organizer of the Church of the Good Shepherd in 1868, and pastor of its congregation continuously since that time, died at his home here of pneumonia, by which he was attacked following an operation. Mrs. Pope is so seriously ill that she has not been told of her husband's death.

St. Paul.—The state printing commission has elected Sam Y. Gordon of Browns Valley, state expert printer to succeed Joseph T. Mannix, who has held the office since 1909. The appointment is effective Aug. 1. Mr. Mannix said he had no intimation of a proposed change in the office and has no definite plans for the future. Secretary of State Julius A. Schmahl said he voted to re-elect Mannix, while State Auditor J. A. A. Preus and State Treasurer Henry Rines supported Gordon.

St. Paul.—The state military board will meet at the capitol soon to further consider plans for the organization of an additional artillery regiment and field hospital corps in the Minnesota National guard. It is planned to enlist one new battalion in Minneapolis and St. Paul and the other in three Southern Minnesota towns, probably Mankato, St. Peter and Albert Lea, Captain Rhinow said, but active recruiting is delayed pending decision on officers to be commissioned in the new unit.

St. Paul.—Minnesota will supply 13,756 men when the draft is applied to registered men. This is based upon 625,000 for service in the first increment.

These figures, say Washington advices, may be slightly reduced by enlistments. The quota is figured on the pro rata population of the state. The war department adds to the total to be drafted the enlistments since April 1 and the total strength of the national guard. That number stands nationally at 935,943.

Washington. — Prohibition forces throughout the nation are making a determined effort to force Congress to enact dry legislation, at least for the war. Every senator and representative is being swamped with letters, postal cards and petitions urging the passage of a prohibitory law. Minnesota is particularly active in this campaign. Petitions are being received from every congressional district. Fully half the signatures are those of women. The petitions have been circulated throughout the state.

Minneapolis.—Minnesota and the Northwest will make a census of the skilled labor man-power of this section of the country for the government with a view to its use in the various branches of the military service in the work for which the men are trained. The census also is being made in the hope that as the government draws men to its service, the men can be taken from the various individual industries on a pro rated plan so as not to interfere with the efficient operation of the plants.

Stillwater.—Sherman F. Staples is dead. He was a son of the late Edward Staples and a grandson of the late Isaac Staples, a pioneer lumberman and merchant. He is survived by a widow (daughter of the late Samuel McClure, a pioneer lumberman), and two children.

Brainerd.—The Crow Wing county public safety commission organized at Brainerd, with R. R. Wise, director for the county, chairman of the meeting, elected as officers: President, R. R. Wise; vice president, S. R. Adair; secretary, Fred T. Lincoln, and treasurer, Miss P. O'Brien.

BURNQUIST TO HEAD STATE CAMPAIGN

TO BE CHAIRMAN OF GENERAL COMMITTEE OF RED CROSS TO RAISE MINNESOTA QUOTA.

$2,000,000 WANTED IN STATE

National Campaign Provides for Raising $100,000,000 and Minnesota Is Expected to Do Its Share Toward That Amount.

St. Paul.

Governor Burnquist will head the general committee for the state Red Cross campaign, according to the announcement made from the state headquarters. E. N. Huntress, experienced Red Cross campaign worker assigned to the Minnesota district by the society's Washington office, will be state campaign director and Harry Wilbern of Minneapolis will be associate director. The state quota of the national campaign for $100,000,000 is $2,000,000.

Contest Over School Finances.

The prospect for a sharp contest at the July meeting of the State High School Board over Governor Burnquist's proposal that any deficit in school aid which may have occurred in the past two years be paid out of the appropriation for this year, increased with the appearance of a letter to school superintendents and members of school boards by John Munroe, superintendent of schools at Faribault, and newly appointed member of the High School Board.

Mr. Munroe states that the attorney general, having held that such payment could be legally made by the board, the matter should have been determined at the recent meeting of the High School Board, that local boards could have arranged their budget accordingly, but that State Superintendent C. Schulz opposed paying the deficit, and his opposition forced the board to defer action until July.

State to Fall Short.

Of 90,000 men registering in 59 counties, approximately 50,000 may claim exemption, according to a tabulation made by Adjutant General Fred B. Wood.

The total registration of 116,135 against the government estimate of 123,593 was shown in official returns from 66 counties and Duluth city. These were exclusive, however, of Minneapolis, St. Paul and other thickly populated districts. At the present ratio, the Minnesota total will fall short by approximately 15,000 of the official estimate of 250,551.

Tabulations were complete on 59 counties and the city of Duluth. The grand total of 102,568 in this table includes 91,788 white citizens of whom 51,150 claim exemption; 171 colored citizens with 93 claiming exemption; 126,659 aliens and 670 alien enemies.

State's Army Quota Short.

In addition to its quota of the new national army to be raised by the selective draft, Minnesota must furnish more than 10,000 men for the regular army and national guard. These ranks will be filled by draft if enough volunteers do not come forward. The number of men needed for the new guard units are: One regiment of field artillery, 1,308 men; one battalion engineers, 513; one radio signal company, 78; one supply train, 309; and one engineers' train, 170; a total of 8,207.

Discuss Tornado Relief Fund.

An appeal from municipal authorities at Mattoon and Charleston for financial help for Illinois tornado relief work was taken up by the Minnesota organization of the American Red Cross at a meeting in Governor Burnquist's office at the Capitol. The Governor called the meeting of officials who raised the Red Cross fund for the Baudette-Spooner fire sufferers in 1910, and it was reported that an unexpected balance of nearly $13,000 in that fund may be found available.

Woman Assistant to School Head.

Word is received that Miss Katherine Hamilton, supervisor of elementary work in the Decatur, Ill., public schools, has resigned to come to St. Paul as an assistant superintendent of public schools. School officials said this means the inauguration here of a school administrative organization involving two or three assistant superintendents specializing in various departments of the school system.

War Field Training for Nurses.

Candidates for degrees at the school for nurses, University of Minnesota, are to be given a year's course in field nursing, university authorities announce. College women will be admitted to the nurses' school for a two years' course of intensive training, the required third year of study to be spent in the field.

Co-operation of Cities Asked.

Co-operation of Twin City officials is asked by Governor Burnquist in keeping all army camps clean. The War department has declared that immoral influences must be removed from all places where soldiers or recruits gather. This order will be enforced, Secretary of War Baker said in a letter to Governor Burnquist, by taking the camps away from cities that do not see to it that liquor and other bad influences are kept beyond the reach of men at the different military posts.

PAIN? NOT A BIT!
LIFT YOUR CORNS OR CALLUSES OFF

No humbug! Apply few drops then just lift them away with fingers.

This new drug is an ether compound discovered by a Cincinnati chemist. It is called freezone, and can now be obtained in tiny bottles as here shown at very little cost from any drug store. Just ask for freezone. Apply a drop or two directly upon a tender corn or callus and instantly the soreness disappears. Shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it off, root and all, with the fingers.

Not a twinge of pain, soreness or irritation; not even the slightest smarting, either when applying freezone or afterwards.

This drug doesn't eat up the corn or callus, but shrivels them so they loosen and come right out. It is no humbug! It works like a charm. For a few cents you can get rid of every hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes, as well as painful calluses on bottom of your feet. It never disappoints and never burns, bites or inflames. If your druggist hasn't any freezone yet, tell him to get a little bottle for you from his wholesale house.—adv.

CULTIVATE! CULTIVATE!

Produce More Food, But at the Lowest Cost.

A trip through most of the grain growing districts of Western Canada, and information received from authentic sources, reveals that the spring seeding of wheat, barley and oats is finished and the grain is having a most rapid growth. Men of farming experience here say that the conditions are similar to those years when there was an abundant harvest reaped. During the past year a number of new settlers came into the country, and they will undoubtedly have a good crop this year. This added to the normal acreage, made considerably less by the lack of labor owing to the number who have gone to the front, will give a fair general yield. It is surprising the growth that this country is capable of producing.

Wheat has this spring germinated and shown three or four inches growth in five or six days, and with anything like favorable weather, harvesting should commence about the 15th of August, or a little over one hundred days from first seeding. Hundreds of farmers throughout this vast country paid for their entire holdings out of one year's crop and it would not be surprising if the same experience met a great many more this year.

The best authorities on the wheat situation give it as their opinion that for many years to come, wheat prices will be high. They base their opinion on a scientific calculation and their reasoning seems to be sound. Anyway, it is quite evident that for some years to come, the producer of wheat will be amply rewarded for any effort he may make to develop this branch of agricultural industry. Money may be made on the high-priced lands of the wheat-growing districts of the United States, but it is a question if these high-priced lands would not be more profitably employed in other branches of farming than in growing the smaller grains, leaving it to lands just as productive for wheat, less expensive to operate, and with a much smaller initial price, to provide the world with this necessity of life. Here is where Western Canada, with its vast rich fertile plains, its low railway rates, its exceptionally good shipping privileges, its excellent climate, and its perfect social conditions, has a combination of advantages not possessed by any other portion of the continent.

Furthermore, these lands, of unexcelled quality, are extraordinarily cheap, while for the man who does not care to undertake farming on so extensive a scale there is the free homestead which offers him all the opportunity for which he is looking.

The prospective purchaser will have no difficulty at all in making a selection of a fine piece of land, well located and convenient to transportation, which may be had for from $15 to $25 an acre, and the railway companies or other holders of large tracts are always glad to sell on easy terms. Or if he desires a farm that is already under cultivation and improved, many such are to be had from farmers who already have made comfortable fortunes and are ready to retire.

It is not to the grain grower only that Western Canada offers great opportunities. If one wishes to go in for cattle raising, there are great stretches of range land both free and for lease; and in many sections of the country there are the finest of grazing lands that may be purchased at very low prices.

The appeal which has been sent out both by the United States and Canadian governments, for an unstinted, unlimited production of food stuffs to prevent what might otherwise be a famine throughout this great continent—and then consequently, throughout the world—should in itself arouse all the ambition and desire in the heart and soul of the man who is not fighting at the front, to produce all he can. In addition, there is the potent fact that no chances are being taken in answering the appeal. Take it from either standpoint you answer the country's call, although not fighting, and you are also insured against any loss by the high prices that are bound to exist for some time. Whether it be in the United States on its excellent grain lands or in Canada on its splendid grain lands, all should do their bit.—Advertisement.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics.

Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas H. Fletcher

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Old kiser Wilhiem must have sat up and took notice, when he read the record of over ten million soldiers in the U. S. between the ages of 21 and 31. Next take from 18 to 45. Then up to 60, and he had ought to know, that when he ordered his submarines to attack American merchant ship, flying our flag, murdering our citizens and destroying our property, that he has bit off more than he can "chaw." You can't lick America, Mr. big kaiser, or come near enough to it to tell them how much rations they shall eat, and the sooner you get that notion out of your head the more lives will be saved. But America would not talk peace with you, as your word is not worth the paper it is written on, but they are coming after you and they are going to "get you", and then the world can have peace, but there can be no lasting peace, until that monarchy is put out of business.

Last weeks issue of the Eleven Towns does not show any ownership, or that it has any editor, or has been admitted as second class matter at the Goodridge post office, which deprives it of being a legal newspaper. Read your affidavit of publication of your next land notice over carefully before signing. All the attacks of a combine of Singer's & Co., Criminal and civil, supported by the best expert testimony in the County can not take our name from the head of this column. It is there in plain print. Look at it. It has been in that place for over sixteen years.

We regret the loss of one good paying friendly subscriber, owing to our strong stand on the war issue. But we can't help it. Our ancestors came to this country on the Mayflower, and have shed their blood on the battle fields in every war that America has had, and as long as foreign nations were at war we were neutral, but when America gets into war that is US, and we will back her up to the limit. When the great raider southern General Price made a raid up into Missouri during the war of the rebellion he was met by a committee of civilians who told him they were neutrals. He answered them by saying: "To hell with your neutrality; this is war. Get into the fight, either for the north or south." That is the way we feel about this war. If you want the Kaiser to win this war, get over there and get into the fight, for he will be short of men for his submarines, when our American navy has been transacting business with them for a few months.

WOULD DEPORT SHIRKERS

It is notable that virtually all of the men who have fought registration are foreignborn, whether naturalized or not.

The selective conscription law is proving, therefore, to be a test of the working of the melting pot. It shows who is who in America, and who is not.

Punishment of those who evade their duty to the country should be rigorous and should miss none.

But after this punishment is inflicted, why not, at the earliest opportunity, deport those aliens who have abused the hospitality of the country by imperiling the national safety, first canceling the citizenship of those who have been granted it?

It would be a housecleaning that would help greatly to promote the national unity which we need so much.—Duluth Herald.

That would be the proper move to make. Fire all foreign born people that are not supporting this country in time of war back to the country from which they came, and see to it that they were not again allowed to land on American soil.

Last Mondays rain storm was just what this locality badly needed, as it was our first rain since the commencement of seeding and while our lands stands a good deal of dry weather the limit had about been reached, without serious injury to crops. The grass in the pastures had about stopped growing, and the tame meadow lands were not making a rapid growth of grass, but all crops are now shooting forward which makes the farmer smile.

THIS SAFELY REMOVES WORMS

Worms are a common disease of children and every mother should know their symptoms. Sallow complexion with dark circles under eyes, irregular bowel movement with stomach hard or swollen, grinding teeth or itching may mean that Kickapoo Worm Killer is needed at once. It is a mildly laxative remedy in candy tablet form that children like. Kill and removes the worms and lets the child grow strong and healthy. At druggists. 25c.—Adv.

Submarine Torpedoes.

Launching a torpedo from a submarine is simple. The torpedo fits closely in a tube or cylinder, with an opening at the rear made airtight when closed. At the desired moment there is a discharge of cordite and the torpedo is on its way.

When the torpedo is projected from a ship or boat into the water, a lever is thrown back, admitting air into the engines, causing the propellers to revolve and drive the torpedo ahead. The torpedo travels under water at a high rate of speed. It carries a large charge of explosive, which is ignited on the torpedo striking any hard substance, such as the hull of a ship.

The distance the tube is submerged depends on the target, but the nearer the surface the more effective.

Keeps Milk From Boiling Over.

Among the various devices which are intended to prevent milk from boiling over we noticed one which solves the problem in a very simple way, says the Scientific American. It consists of a straight tube of say two or three inches in diameter at the top and expanding somewhat toward the bottom. where it is provided with a flaring and cup shaped end of rather large diameter, the whole being somewhat of trumpet shape. Out of the lower part are cut, say four suitable openings, and we set the device upright in the vessel with the small end just out of the liquid. Should the milk tend to boil violently this action commences at the bottom, and the liquid is forced up the tube, then falls upon the surface again, so that the boiling action will continue in this way and the milk has no tendency to leave the vessel.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

THE LOCAL NEWS

Sovor Nelson of Mayfield has been hauling posts from The Sunbeam farm to enlarge his pasture, this week.

Alfred Hammarsten has been increasing the size of his pasture, on his farm north of Sunbeam this week.

We started the construction of an addition to our office this week Ole Vattendahl of Oklee will do the carpenter work for us.

Tallak Dahle has bought a new Overland four passenger automobile, and Mat Errickson and Henry Arndt have each bought a new Ford auto, this spring.

Edon Davis has his new barn about completed, which adds much to the good appearance of the Country north of Highlanding.

Carl Elg, of Erie had two horses struck and killed by lightning in his pasture last Sunday evening, They were insured against loss by lightning in the Bray Mutual fire insurance Co.

Eddie Hyland has the contract for grading one mile of road on the section line west of Highlanding. He pulls the Erie Road grader with his engine, and is doing first class work. Walter McAndress is road overseer for this District.

Pat Roarak took the contract for the grading of the three miles of of State Road, between Kratka and Mayfield, and Deer Park and Highlanding. He came up Wednesday with a crew of men and teams and is now at work on the job.

We met our Commissioner P. O. Wold, at Highlanding last Monday, who informed us that only his official position kept him from making an assault on us. Never mind Peter the voters of this Commissioner District, will remove that Official position the first opportunity that they have at the ballot Box, and then maybe we will get some bridges in eastern Pennington County.

District Court sets next Tuesday and we hope it will not prove as expensive a term as the last term did. We believe in the vigorous prosecution of law violators, but the tax payers money should not be used to allow individuals to gratify personal spite. If they are so sure that they have a criminal case, let them put up security for payment of cost if they fail to convict before a petit jury. The Grand Jury only hears one side of the case, while the petit jury hears both sides.

John Arntson sec 26 town of Hickory is building a new barn 30x80 feet, with large hay lofts for hay. It is a pleasure to look on this evidence of prosperity in a Township where there is so many vacant farms, by a man who was a homesteader there. We asked Mr. Arntson how much land he had broken up and he said only 65 acres and that it is about all seeded down to timothy and clover. Cows and stock is Mr. Arntsons hobby and he is a prosperous farmer. Oscar and Ole Nesland, of Deer Park assisted by Mr. Arntson and other workmen are doing the carpenter work. And thus we find them; one man mortgaging to the banks, for "all he can get" and leaving the country, while his next neighbor is building new barns and riding in his own automobile. Both came into the country with about the same amount of money, but one started to raise grain, the other stock, and we leave you to guess which one is building the big barns.

BIG CELEBRATION JULY 4th,

The people of Deer Park and Hickory Townships will celebrate July 4th, at the L. Wojnerowskie grove on Section 8 town of Hickory, Mr. C. L. Hanson, of Thief River Falls will deliver the oration of the day, at 11 o'clock A M. Mr. Hanson is a good speaker, who has well studied the history of America and you may be sure of hearing a good oration. Come and hear him.

AFTERNOON

The [illegible] Orchestra will furnish Music for a grand bowery ball during the afternoon and evening.

Excursion Boats will be run on the Red Lake River all day, and during the Evening.

There will be a good Program in the afternoon, of Horse races, Foot races and Boat races.

All are invited to come and Celebrate July 4th, at the Wojnerowski grove.

SUMMER MEETING.

The Fourth Annual Meeting of Red River Valley Development Association, will be held at Red Lake Falls next Thursday June 28th.

The Red River Valley Stock Breeder Association will hold a big meeting at Red Lake Fall on Wednesday June 27th. Noted speakers will address these meetings, and as many farmers as can spare the time should attend these meetings.

LOCAL LEADERSHIP

Somebody Must Take the Initiative—Are You Willing to Serve?

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Many agricultural plans are like a sky rocket. They make a fuss going up and blow up a few stars and descend like the stick. The reason of this is because few men can make a continued effort. They will get up a little scheme but at the first discouragement, their energy wanes and there is nothing to show for their activity.

Yet it cannot be said that this sort of energy is wasted. Like the overlapping waves of a tide, public opinion is being formed. Things which were ignored when crop improvement began its propaganda, are now adopted as a matter of course.

Local leadership is the weakest spot in this work, Somebody must take the initiative but it is not necessary that one man should undertake the whole thing. In every community there are bankers, commercial clubs, farmers clubs, granges, institutes, millers, grain dealers and public leaders of various kinds who can unite their efforts on a few specific things and after successfully tackling one problem be strengthened to tackle others.

HORSE LABOR ON FARMS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

On the grain farm the heaviest work for the horses comes in April, May and in August, September and October. The rest of the time there is practically nothing for the horses to do. But enough horses have to be kept during the year to take care of the work during these busy months. When averaged up the horse on the grain farm only works three hours a day. These figures were secured in an investigation by the Minnesota Experiment Station, under the direction of Thomas Cooper, now director of the North Dakota Experiment Station. In this same investigation it was found that, when the crops are diversified, the horse labor is better distributed. There is less work for the horses in the seasons that are the busiest on the all-grain farm, and there is work for the horses when there is no work for the horses on the all-grain farm.

MORE BEANS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

A farmer in Hubbard Co., Minn., planted twenty acres of beans from which he received 377 bushels, selling them in the field for $1,185. This is not the highest record.

The Michigan men and the Colorado men and, in fact, all states are turning to beans with a great deal of success.

There are three main principles to be observed in the control of weeds. They are, first, preventing the weeds from going to seed on the farm; second, preventing the weed seeds being brought to the farm, and third, in the case of perennials, starving out the underground parts by preventing them from making top growth.

BARLEY YIELDS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

"Regarding the best yields of barley we will say that this is rather a difficult thing to give, because the yield sometimes depends more upon the threshing record. However, the average yield of pedigreed barley of members of the Wisconsin Experiment Association was in 1913, 31 bushels, 1914, 33.3 bushels, 1915, 37.5 bushels. The yield for 1915 is the average from over 260 members reporting. Some of the highest ones are as follows: 60, 57, 56, 55, 53 and 45 bushels.

"It is impossible to state what has been the highest yield in Wisconsin, but I think some of these yields for last year, which was a very good barley season, are quite reasonable, but do not doubt though that there may be larger yields than these, but I have no knowledge of them."—J. J. Garland.

THE VALUE OF BARLEY.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

In the United States and Canada barley is used as a feed for farm animals, less than one-third being used for malting. A limited amount is used in the preparation of breakfast cereals and for pearled barley. "Our farmers are learning the value of barley as a part ration for dairy cattle and young stock and much more will be used as animal food in the future," says Professor R. A. Moore, the greatest barley breeder in the world.

In many states barley is quite generally grown as a hay and feed for horses. When used as a hay it is cut in the milk stage shortly after heading and cured like timothy and blue grass. We think that the hay phase of barley this year is very important because all acreage that has never been planted to other crops or that will need replanting for any reason, could be put into barley at a clear profit.

When the grain is used as a feed, it is either fed whole or the kernels crushed by passing between rollers. If finely ground the gluten therein makes a sticky mass as soon at it is brought in contact with moisture and it is not then readily masticated or digested. Only a limited amount of barley is exported from the United States and the export consists largely of a mixture of varieties as feed.

SYSTEMATIZE your household expenses by opening a bank account for your wife. Give her a check book and teach her the use of it. Pay the butcher, the grocer, the baker, with a check. Then at the end of the month you'll find out just how much it costs you to run the home. When payment by check is made there never is any doubt as to whether or not a bill is paid. The check is a receipt.

Besides, a checking account will give your wife a business education. The number of ordinarily bright women who know absolutely nothing of banking is surprising. If you are a husband, father, brother, you cannot tell when death may overtake you, and it is well that your wife, daughter and sister know something of banking.

BARLEY NEXT TO CORN.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Barley has a feeding value next corn. Indeed some feeders place ahead of corn for pig food and at t present prices, barley will make much and more profit than wheat. T wheat crop has now "gone to t jury." We cannot do much more abo wheat but we have two or three wee yet in order to put all of our acrea remaining into barley.

Barley is more profitable than oat in fact, very few farmers make an money out of oats under the best ci cumstances and very few barley fa mers ever lose money on barle There is always the fascination of ge ting a fancy price for fancy barley and although less than one per cen of all grains are used for malting pu poses, the additional price which gives to barley over oats alway makes money for the farmers. Whil perhaps one per cent of the grai crop is used in brewing, the loss o feed value is much smaller becaus fully one half goes back to dairy fa mers in the form of dried grains and other by-products, which for feed pu poses is among the best available.

"FORCED INTO WAR"—PRESIDENT WILSON

Chief Executive Lays Blame for Conflict Upon Germany.

Declares American People Had No Choice But to Take Up Arms—Duplicity and Intrigues of the Kaiser's Government Forced the Conflict in Which the Nation Is Engaged.

Washington, June 15. — President Wilson, in his Flag day speech, set forth the aims of the United States in the present war, practically as follows:

My Fellow Citizens: We meet to celebrate Flag Day because this flag which we honor and under which we serve is the emblem of our unity, our power, our thought and purpose as a nation. It has no other character than that which we give it from generation to generation. The choices are ours. It floats in majestic silence above the hosts that execute those choices, whether in peace or in war. And yet, though silent, it speaks to us—speaks to us of the past, of the men and women who went before us and of the records they wrote upon it. We celebrate the day of its birth; and from its birth until now it has witnessed a great history, has floated on high the symbol of great events, of a great plan of life worked out by a great people. We are about to carry it into battle, to lift it where it will draw the fire of our enemies. We are about to bid thousands, hundreds of thousands, it may be millions of our men, the young, the strong, the capable men of the nation, to go forth and die beneath it on fields of blood far away—for what? For some unaccustomed thing? For something for which it has never sought the fire before? American armies were never before sent across the seas. Why are they sent now? For some new purpose, for which this great flag has never been carried before, or for some old, familiar, heroic purpose for which it has seen men, its own men, die on every battlefield upon which Americans have borne arms since the Revolution?

These are questions which must be answered. We are Americans. We in our turn serve America, and can serve her with no private purpose. We must use her flag as she has always used it. We are accountable at the bar of history and must plead in utter frankness what purpose it is we seek to serve.

No Choice But War's Arbitrament.

It is plain enough how we were forced into the war. The extraordinary insults and aggressions of the imperial German government left us no self-respecting choice but to take up arms in defense of our rights as a free people and of our honor as a sovereign government. The military masters of Germany denied us the right to be neutral. They filled our unsuspecting communities with vicious spies and conspirators and sought to corrupt the opinion of our people in their own behalf. When they found that they could not do that, their agents diligently spread sedition amongst us and sought to draw our own citizens from their allegiance, and some of those agents were men connected with the official embassy of the German government itself here in our own capital. They sought by violence to destroy our industries and arrest our commerce. They tried to incite Mexico to take up arms against us and to draw Japan into a hostile alliance with her—and that, not by indirection, but by direct suggestion from the foreign office in Berlin. They impudently denied us the use of the high seas and repeatedly executed their threat that they would send to their death any of our people who ventured to approach the coasts of Europe. And many of our own people were corrupted. Men began to look upon their own neighbors with suspicion and to wonder in their hot resentment and surprise whether there was any community in which hostile intrigue did not lurk. What great nation in such circumstances would not have taken up arms? Much as we had desired peace, it was denied us, and not of our own choice. This flag under which we serve would have been dishonored had we withheld our hand.

Relations With German People.

But that is only part of the story. We know now as clearly as we knew before we were ourselves engaged that we are not enemies of the German people and that they are not our enemies. They did not originate or desire this hideous war or wish that we should be drawn into it; and we are vaguely conscious that we are fighting their cause, as they will some day see it, as well as our own. They are themselves in the grip of the same sinister power that has now at last stretched its ugly talons out and drawn blood from us. The whole world is in the grip of that power and is trying out the great battle which shall determine whether it is to be brought under its mastery or fling itself free.

The war was begun by the military masters of Germany, who proved to be also the masters of Austria-Hungary. These men have never regarded nations as peoples, men, women, and children of like blood and frame as themselves, for whom governments existed and in whom governments had their life. They have regarded them merely as serviceable organizations which they could by force or intrigue bend or corrupt to their own purpose. They have regarded the smaller states, in particular, and the peoples who could be overwhelmed by force, as their natural tools and instruments of domination. Their purpose has long been avowed.

Military Masters Dominate Germany.

Their plan was to throw a broad belt of German military power and political control across the very center of Europe and beyond the Mediterranean into the heart of Asia; and Austria-Hungary was to be as much their tool and pawn as Serbia or Bulgaria or Turkey or the ponderous states of the East. The dream had its heart at Berlin. It could have had a heart nowhere else! It rejected the idea of solidarity of race entirely. The choice of peoples played no part in it at all. They ardently desired to direct their own affairs, would be satisfied only by undisputed independence. They could be kept quiet only by the presence or the constant threat of armed men. The German military statesmen had reckoned with all that and were ready to deal with it in their own way.

Deceitful Cry for Peace.

Is it not easy to understand the eagerness for peace that has been manifested from Berlin ever since the snare was set and sprung? Peace, peace, peace has been the talk of her foreign office for now a year and more; not peace upon her own initiative, but upon the initiative of the nations over which she now deems herself to hold the advantage. Through all sorts of channels it has come to me, and in all sorts of guises, but never with the terms disclosed which the German government would be willing to accept. That government still holds a valuable part of France, though with slowly relaxing grasp, and practically the whole of Belgium. It cannot go further; it dare not go back. It wishes to close its bargain before it is too late.

The military masters under whom Germany is bleeding see very clearly to what point Fate has brought them. If they fall back or are forced back an inch, their power both abroad and at home will fall to pieces like a house of cards. If they can secure peace now with the immense advantages still in their hands which they have up to this point apparently gained, they will have justified themselves before the German people; they will have gained by force what they promised to gain by it: an immense expansion of German power, an immense enlargement of German industrial and commercial opportunities. If they fail, their people will thrust them aside; a government accountable to the people themselves will be set up in Germany as it has been in England, in the United States, in France, and in all the great countries of the modern time except Germany. If they succeed they are safe and Germany and the world are undone; if they fail Germany is saved and the world will be at peace. If they succeed, we and all the rest of the world must remain armed, as they will remain, and must make ready for the next step of aggression; if they fail, the world may unite for peace, and Germany may be of the union.

Practiced Campaign of Deceit.

The present particular aim of the masters of Germany is to deceive all those who throughout the world stand for the rights of peoples and the self-government of nations; for they see what immense strength the forces of justice and of liberalism are gathering out of this war.

The sinister intrigue is being no less actively conducted in this country than in Russia and in every country in Europe to which the agents and dupes of the imperial German government can get access.

Is a People's War.

The great fact that stands out above all the rest is that this is a People's war, a war for freedom and justice and self-government amongst all the nations of the world, a war to make the world safe for the peoples who live in it and have made it their own, the German people themselves included; and that with us rests the choice to break through all these hypocrisies and patent cheats and masks of brute force and help set the world free, or else stand aside and let it be dominated a long age through by sheer weight of arms and the arbitrary choices of self-constituted masters, by the nation which can maintain the biggest armies and the most irresistible armaments—a power to which the world has afforded no parallel and in the face of which political freedom must wither and perish.

For us there is but one choice. We have made it. Woe be to the man or group of men that seeks to stand in our way in this day of high resolution when every principle we hold dearest is to be vindicated and made secure for the salvation of the nations. We are ready to plead at the bar of history, and our flag shall wear a new luster.

IN HARMONY FROM NOW ON

Units of Allied Powers in the Field and on the Oceans to Be Placed Under One Control.

Washington, June 15.—An international army staff and international navy staff for co-ordination of military and naval operations will be created by the allied powers.

The organization of such bodies is deemed absolutely essential if the allies are to win the war. The nations fighting in league with Germany have practically surrendered their independence to Berlin.

It is at the German headquarters that the moves are planned, not only for the German fronts but for the Italian battlefields, the Balkans, Asia Minor and Persia. This unity of command has resulted in movements to hold vast bodies of enemy troops while a strenuous forward campaign was being conducted elsewhere. This scheme, it is felt, must now be put in force by the allies.

VIVID DESCRIPTION OF FIRST-AID WORK BY RED CROSS MEN

An American Pictures Scenes in Subway Dressing Station Near Trenches.

SURGEONS LABOR ENDLESSLY

Captain, Priest, Private and German Lad, All Dying, Get Tender Care From Overworked Hospital and Ambulance Aids.

The work of the Red Cross surgeons and stretcher bearers at the front in France was never more vividly illustrated than in a recent letter forwarded to America. It was written by Philip O. Mills to Mr. Elliot Norton, head of the Volunteer Motor Ambulance corps which Mr. Mills was serving. The communication was private, but was made public because of the clearness with which it sets forth the scenes amid which the surgeons and ambulance workers labor, day after day. The text follows:

"Tonight I am sitting in a small underground cellar of a public building, acting as a sort of timekeeper for the cars (ambulances) going up to our most dangerous post, and handling the reserve cars for wounded in the town itself. The whole world is passing here—French, Americans; living, wounded and dying.

"A long, heavily arched corridor, with stone steps leading down to it; two compartments off to one side, lined with wine bins, where our reserve men and a few French brancardiers (stretcher bearers) are lying on their stained stretchers, some snoring; beyond, a door that leads to a little sick ward—the most pathetic little room I have ever seen—with four beds of different sizes and kinds on one side, and six on the other, taken, evidently, from the ruined houses near by; and one tired infirmier (hospital attendant) to tend and soothe the wounded and dying.

"In the bed nearest the door a French priest, shot through the lungs, with pneumonia setting in, his black beard pointing straight up, whispering for water.

"Next to him a little German lad, hardly nineteen, and small, with about six hours to live, calling—sometimes screaming—for his mother, and then for water.

"Next to him a French captain of infantry, his arm off at the shoulder and his head wounded—weak, dying, but smiling.

"And next to him a tirailleur (infantryman) in delirium calling on his colonel to charge the Germans.

"The infirmier is going from one to the other, soothing and waiting on each in turn. He asks me what the German is saying, and I tell him he is calling for his mother.

"'Ah, this is a sad war!' he says, as he goes over to hold the poor lad's hand.

"A brancardier comes in with a message: 'A blesse (a wounded man) at Belleville—very serious.'

"This is a reserve car call, so one slides out and is gone like a gray ghost down the ruined street, making all the speed its driver can—no easy matter—with no lights. In twenty minutes he is back. The brancardiers go out. They come in again bearing the wounded man on a stretcher and place it on the floor. One of them, who is a priest, leans over him and asks his name, and his town. On answer to the question what his wife's name is, he whispers 'Alice,' while on the other side another brancardier is slitting the clothes from his body—and I shiver with the pity of it at the sight I see.

"The surgeon comes out of his little operating room. Weary with the night's tragic work—after so many, many other tragic nights—he douses his head in a bucket of water. He turns to the wounded man, gently feels his nose, lifts up his closed eyelid, and at his nod the stretcher is again lifted and the wounded man is carried into the operating room, and soon after into the little room of sorrows.

"In answer to my eager question, the surgeon shakes his head.

"'Not a chance.'

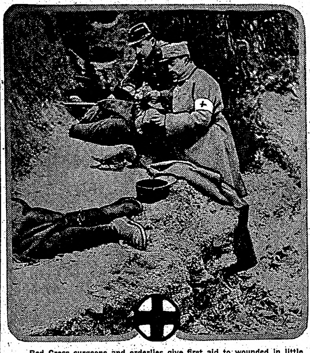
"A brancardier and I gather the soldier's belongings from his clothes to be sent to his wife, but even we have to stop for a few minutes after we see the photograph of his wife and their two little children.

"An hour later, as our night's work is slacking up and several cars have driven up and been unloaded, the infirmier comes in from the little room and says something to the brancardiers. Two of them get a stretcher, and in a moment the 'blesse from Belleville" comes past us with a sheet over him. They lay him down at the other end of the room and another brancardier begins rolling and tying him in burlap for burial. As I look he changes to a shapeless log. Then, out to the dead wagon with it.

"Soon after, I go into the little ward again to see how the others are coming through the night, and am glad to see them all quieted down. Even the little German seems in less pain, though his breathing still shakes the heavy bed he lies on.

"Through a chink I see that day is beginning to break, and I hear the chief's car coming in from the sap, and know that the night's work is over."

This is not a sketch from the imagination of a novelist—it is the actual occurrences of a night behind the front where the French, the Belgians, the British—and soon the Americans—hold at bay the German invader. This is the nightly work of the men who care for the wounded.



Red Cross surgeons and orderlies give first aid to wounded in little underground dressing stations in the front-line trenches. War records show that as many Red Cross men are killed by enemy fire as regular soldiers in the trenches. Red Cross field service is not a pastime.

27 U. S. AMBULANCE CORPS READY TO GO

Twenty-seven ambulance companies have been organized by the American Red Cross in this country for service in Europe. Some of them have already gone abroad. The list is:

No. 1—Pasadena, Cal., Dr. Charles D. Lockwood; No. 2—University of California, Berkeley, Dr. Alvin Powell; No. 3—University of Chicago, Dr. Elbert Clark; No. 4—Cleveland, Dr. Ralph K. Updegraff; No. 5—Washington, D. C., Dr. Ryan Devereux; No. 6—Fordham university, Dr. Joseph Donnelly; No. 7—New York university, Dr. Chester F. S. Whitney; No. 8—Detroit, Dr. Charles Barton; No. 9—Northwestern university, Chicago, Dr. Stephen Balderston; No. 10—Columbia university, Dr. William H. Rockwell; No. 11—Battle Creek, Mich., Dr. James T. Case; No. 12—University of Washington, Seattle, Dr. David C. Hall; No. 13—Pittsfield, Mass., Dr. Robert J. Carpenter; No. 14—University of Oregon, Eugene, Ore., Dr. J. E. Kuykendall; No. 15—Grand Rapids, Mich., Dr. Thomas D. Gordon; No. 16—Fredonia, Kan., Dr. Edgar C. Duncan; No. 17—Boston, Dr. Edward A. Cunningham; No. 18—Indianapolis, Dr. Mason B. Light; No. 19—Portland, Ore., Dr. Ernest H. Streit; No. 20—Atlanta, Dr. Leo P. Daly; No. 21—Flint, Mich., Dr. Walter H. Winchester; No. 22—Charleston, W. Va., Dr. Timothy L. Barber; No. 23—Portland, Me., Dr. Ernest B. Folsom; No. 24—Kansas City, Mo., commander not yet named; No. 25—Rutland, Vt., Dr. William Stickney; No. 26—Columbia, S. C., Dr. Marion H. Wyman; No. 27—Salt Lake City, Dr. Hugh B. Sprague.

Several of these units are already on the way to the front in France, and the prospect is that all will see early service. Not only is the Red Cross preparing to care for American soldiers and sailors when they move into the firing line, but France needs help badly with her hospitals, and America is giving it as rapidly as possible.

The German policy of sinking hospital ships with their thousands of helpless wounded is making it necessary to care for the British wounded in France, and it puts a terrific strain on the French hospital service.

RUSSIA GIVES WORD TO BATTLE TO END AT AMERICA'S SIDE

RINGING RESPONSE TO MESSAGE DELIVERED TO SLAVS BY ROOT, IS MADE BY RUSSIAN MINISTER.

RESOLUTION BY DUMA FOR OFFENSIVE AT ONCE

American Emissary Carries Message of Friendship and Brotherhood, Expressing Hope That Nation Will Develop to Meet Needs of the People.

Petrograd, June 19.—The Duma in secret session has passed resolution for an immediate offensive by the Russian troops.

The resolution declares a separate peace with Germany or prolonged inactivity on the battle front to be ignoble treason toward Russia's allies.

Petrograd, June 19 (delayed). — "The Russian people considered war inevitable and will continue it. The Russians have no imperialistic wishes. We know you have none. We shall fight together to procure liberty, freedom and happiness for all the world.

"We two peoples—Russia fighting tyranny, and America standing as the oldest democracy—hand in hand will show the way of happiness to nations great and small."

These ringing words, expressing the attitude of the Russian government toward America and the American mission headed by Elihu Root were voiced by M. Tereschtenko, minister of foreign affairs, responding for the council of ministers to Mr. Root's address of sympathy and good will on the part of the American government.

Fighting for Liberty.

"The triumph of Germany will mean death of liberty in Russia," Mr. Root declared. "No enemy is at the gates of America, but America has come to realize that the triumph of German arms will mean the death of liberty in the world.

"The American democracy sends to the democracy of Russia a greeting of sympathy, friendship, brotherhood Godspeed."

"The news of Russia's new found freedom brought to America a universal satisfaction and joy. From all the land sympathy and hope went out to the new sister in the circle of democracies. And the mission is sent to express that feeling.

"As we look across the sea we distinguish no party, no class. We see great Russia as a whole, as one mighty, striving, aspiring democracy.

Expresses Faith in Russia.

"We believe you will solve your problems, that you will maintain your liberty and that our two great nations will march side by side in the triumphant progress of democracy until the old order everywhere has passed away and the world is free.

"One fearful danger threatens the liberty of both nations. The armed forces of a military autocracy are at the gates of Russia and her allies. The triumph of German arms will mean the death of liberty in Russia. America has come to realize that the triumph of German arms means the death of liberty in the world and we who love liberty and would keep it must fight for it, and fight for it now when the free democracies of the world may be strong in union and not delay until they may be beaten down separately in succession.

To Fight Together.

"So America sends another message to Russia—that we are going to fight and have already begun to fight for your freedom equally with our own and we ask you to fight for our freedom equally with yours. We would make your cause ours and our cause yours and with a common purpose and helpfulness of a firm alliance make sure of victory over our common foe.

League of Honor.

"'The autocracy that crowned the summit of her political structure was not in fact Russian in origin, character or purpose and now it has been shaken off and the great, generous Russian people have been added in all their native majesty and might, to the forces that are fighting for freedom in the world, for justice and for peace. Here is a fit partner for a league of honor.'"

Submarine Hits German Ship.

Amsterdam, June 18.—According to the Telegraaf, the German steamship Turin, which was reported to have struck a mine off the Dutch coast while bound for Amsterdam from Sweden, in reality was torpedoed by a submarine. She remained afloat.

Cattle Infected by Plotters.

Honolulu, June 18. — Twenty-six deaths in two days from anthrax in a dairy herd brought a report from Dr. Victor Norgaard, territorial veterinarian, that the herd undoubtedly had been inoculated deliberately. Dr. Donald Carrie, head of the leprosy investigation board and anthrax expert, declared the outbreak of the disease must have been due to a plot to curtail the food supply of the islands. Federal authorities are seeking two men known to have been loitering about the infected herd.

BUSINESS GOOD IN CANADA

No Financial Depression, and None Since the War Began.

A well-known correspondent of an important Western daily paper recently made an extended visit to Western Canada, and in summing up the results, after going thoroughly into conditions there, says there is no financial depression in Canada, nor has there been anything of the sort since the war began. Anyone who has watched the barometer of trade, and seen the bank clearings of the different cities grow and continue to grow will have arrived at the same conclusion. The trade statistics reveal a like situation. The progress that the farmers are making is highly satisfactory. As this correspondent says: "It is true there have been adaptations to meet new conditions, and taxes have been revised, and that a very large burden of added expense in many lines has been assumed, but it has all been done methodically, carefully and with full regard for the resources to be called on.

"That this has been done fairly and wisely is proved by the present comfortable financial position.

"With the exception of a restricted area in the east, Canada is not an industrial country. The greater portion of the Dominion must be classed as agricultural area, with only an infinitesimal part of it fully developed.

"Lacking complete development, the agricultural portion of Canada has naturally placed its main dependence upon fewer resources than would be the case in the States. Even in peace times, business would be subject to more frequent and wider fluctuations, due to the narrower foundation upon which it rests.

"Thus, Canada has been able to come up to the war with efficiency and sufficiency and to maintain and even advance its civilian activities.

"Canada's first element of financial strength lay in its branch bank system. This system has two great advantages: it makes the financial resources of the Dominion fluid so that supplies of capital can run quickly from the high spots to the low spots; also, it places at the command of each individual branch the combined resources of the whole institution so that there is an efficient safeguard against severe strain at any one point.

"Here in Winnipeg, the all-Canada banking houses maintain big, strong branches and, as elsewhere in the Dominion, these held to an attitude of saneness and solidity that prevented even the start of any financial disturbance.

That business generally is now coming strong on an even keel is largely due to the absolute refusal of the banks, both branch and independent, to exhibit the slightest signs of excitement or apprehensiveness.

"For all Canada the savings bank figures are astonishing. Beginning with 1913, they are, for the fiscal year ending March 31:

1915	683,761,432
1917	888,765,698

"These figures represent what Canadians have put away after paying the increased living cost, which is about the same as in the States, all increases in taxes and imports of all kinds made necessary by the war and generous subscriptions to war bond issues.

"Prohibition has helped greatly in keeping the money supplies circulating in the normal, necessary channels. Tradesmen generally attribute a large part of the good financial condition to the fact that the booze bill has been eliminated. Canada takes law enforcement with true British seriousness.

"Financially, as in every other respect, Canada has developed sufficiency. She has done it in spite of initial conditions which would not look promising in the States and she has done it in a big, strong way.

"One of the best things we did," said one of the leading Winnipeg bankers to me, "was to decide early in the game that we simply would not borrow trouble.

"We started in ignorance of how the war would develop and without knowing exactly what our resources were, and had to find the way.

"And yet Canadians are not overburdened with taxes nor are they complaining of them. For the common people there has been but a slight tax increase, if any, in a direct way. Indirect payments, of course, are made in the shape of higher prices for living commodities, but the price advance on such items is no heavier than in the States in the same period."—Advertisement.

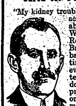
"Doans Saved My Life"

"I Had Given Up Hope" Says Mr. Dent, "But Doan's Kidney Pills Cured Me Permanently."



Mr. Dent

"My kidney trouble began with backache, which ran on about a year," says W. H. Dent, 2213 Reynolds Street, Brunswick, Ga. "My back got so I was at times unable to sleep, even in a chair. Often the pain bent me double. I would be prostrated and some-one would have to move me. Uric acid got into my blood and I began to break out. This got so bad I went to a hospital for treatment. I stayed there three months, but got but little better. Dropsy set in and I bloated until nearly half again my size. My knees were so swollen the flesh burst in strips. I lay there panting, and just about able to catch my breath. I had five doctors; each one said it was impossible for me to live.

"I hadn't taken Doan's Kidney Pills long before I began to feel better. I kept on and was soon able to get up. The swelling gradually went away and when I had used eleven boxes I was completely cured. I have never had a bit of trouble since. I owe my life and my health to Doan's Kidney Pills."

How Did He?

The absent-minded professor from the university town was in Indianapolis over Saturday, attending a convention. While here he took a tour of the larger department stores. In one of them he was much perplexed.

He read the sign over the door of the elevator:

"This car express to fifth and sixth floors. Up only."

Absently he read the sign again. Then the car door opened.

"I would like to know," he asked the elevator boy, "if this elevator goes only up how on earth did you get down here?"

The elevator boy grinned, frowned, scrutinized the man closely and then said in a dignified voice: "Oh, I just came down."—Indianapolis News.

Also Has Wounded Treated by Submarine's Surgeon Before Setting Crew Adrift—Four Lose Lives and Survivors Are Picked Up by Passing Boat.

Washington, June 18. — American naval gunners have met their first defeat in open fight with a German submarine. Official dispatches have announced the destruction of the tank steamship Moreni, abandoned ablaze June 12, by her crew and armed guard after a desperate running fight in the war zone, which cost the lives of four of her crew.

Half an hour after the tanker had been sent to the bottom her 43 survivors, including all members of the armed guard, were picked up with their life boats by a passing steamer. The German commander had set them adrift after congratulating the American skipper on his game fight and having the wounded men treated by the submarine's surgeon.

Attacks at Long Range.

The submarine began the action at a range of 8,000 yards, four nautical miles, when she hardly was visible to the steamer without glasses. Presenting virtually no target herself, she sent 200 shells at the big tanker, making many hits, while the American gunners wasted 150 shots without harming the speck from which the deadly hail came.

Naval officers assume that the submarine was armed with 6-inch rifles.

Courtesy Causes Comment.

The action of the submarine commander in treating his vanquished opponents with such unexpected courtesy was the subject of much comment. Germany has proclaimed her intention to treat British armed merchant crews as pirates. In this case even the naval bluejackets and their officer, properly prisoners of war, were set free, along with the merchant crew.

KAISER WILLIAM WRATHY OVER GREEK SITUATION

Tells Deposed King Constantine Mailed Fist of Germany Will Restore Him to Throne.

Berne, June 18.—A telegram from Berlin says Emperor William has addressed the following message to one of the Greek diplomatic representatives abroad for transmission to former King Constantine:

"I have heard with wrath of the infamous outrage committed by our common enemies upon you and upon your dynasty. I assure you that your deprivation can be only temporary. The mailed fist of Germany with further aid from Almighty God will restore you to your throne, of which no man by right can rob you. The armies of Germany and Germany's allies will wreak vengeance on those who have dared so insolently to lay their criminal hands on you. We hope to welcome you in Germany at the earliest opportunity. A thousand cordial greetings from (Signed) Your WILLIAM."

ONLY INDISPENSABLES EXEMPT FROM SERVICE

Men Who Can Serve America Better in the Field Than at Home Are Liable, Marshal Reiterates.

Washington, June 18.—Farmers are not exempt from military service. To dispel the widespread impression that men in agricultural pursuits are exempt from the selective draft, Provost Marshal General Crowder has reiterated that only "indispensable men" in any industry will be exempted.

Every man who can serve the nation better as a soldier than in the industry or occupation in which he happens to be, will be called to the colors unless it works an actual hardship upon his dependents.

The others—indispensables—will be exempted.

England Releases Irish Rebels.

London, June 16.—It has been announced in the house of commons by Arthur Bonar Law that the government has decided to release all the prisoners taken in the Irish rebellion of Easter Sunday a year ago without reservation.

Germans Get Milk From America.

Washington, June 16.—Large quantities of condensed or evaporated milk have been bought recently by German agents and shipped to Germany through neutral ports, the Department of Commerce has been informed by the war committee of the condensed milk industry. Fearing detection if they purchased from manufacturers or jobbers, the German agents have canvassed retail stores and paid retail prices. Buying operations have been reported in New York, Illinois and Oklahoma and shipments made.

What's Doing in Minnesota

Minneapolis. — William Williamson of Mankato has been taken to the City hospital with what were believed to be fatal injuries, suffered when he was run down by an automobile.

Gilbert. — J. Neimi, the village water wagon driver, was taken off his wagon by officers and arrested for not registering in accordance with the provisions of the draft law.

Minneapolis. — The Minnesota National guard, including the new units about to be organized, will need about 3,350 recruits to bring the organization up to full war strength.

St. Cloud. — J. C. Munro, former grand commander of the state Masonic body, died at his home here. He was secretary of the St. Cloud lodge for the last thirteen years. He was 74 years old.

St. Cloud. — A $1,000,000 theatrical corporation with Minneapolis as the nucleus, has been formed by a company headed by Frank E. Nemec, a local exhibitor, and a number of bankers and others.

Virginia. — Nick Luoha, 28 years old, an I. W. W., was shot in the back by a policeman at Virginia, Minn., while seeking to escape arrest as a slacker. Sixty-one arrests have been made in and near Virginia.

St. Paul. — Rains have finally checked the forest fires in Northern Minnesota and conditions are greatly improved, according to reports to the capitol. More charges of incendiary forest fires have been received.

Northfield. — Eighty-two received diplomas at the 50th annual commencement exercises of Carleton college in Skinner Memorial chapel. Prof. Maria Sanford and President-emeritus Cyrus Northrop of the University of Minnesota delivered the commencement addresses.

Cloquet. — Three men were injured, one seriously, here when the piston rod in the Cloquet water power mill broke and partially wrecked the plant. John Sironen escaped death when rescued from the slasher chain, on which he had been thrown and which was carrying him into a rapidly revolving saw.

Minneapolis. — Every organization of women in Minnesota will be expected to dovetail its war work with that of all the other organizations. War work centralization will be through the woman's auxiliary committee of the State Public Safety commission, of which Mrs. T. G. Winter of Minneapolis is director.

Minneapolis. — More than 33 per cent of Minnesota's fire losses are partly preventable, 25 per cent are strictly preventable and a large percentage of the balance are "unknown but probably preventable," according to a report furnished Chief Ringer of the fire department by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

St. Paul. — Reports from 14 additional scattered counties in Minnesota all carry the same story, "Crop prospects are excellent." Fred D. Sherman, immigration commissioner, has given out reports from Ottertail, Houston, Nobles, Pennington, Waseca, Dakota, Todd, Goodhue, Wilkin, Mower, Lincoln, Renville, St. Louis and Pipestone counties.

St. Paul. — Captain W. F. Rhinow, military secretary to Governor Burnquist; Colonel William J. Murphy, newly commissioned commandant of the proposed Second Minnesota field artillery, and Major Harry L. Brady, United States disbursing officer, left last Friday for an automobile tour of Southern Minnesota towns to look after plans to enlist a new artillery battalion.

St. Paul. — Organization of the additional regiment of artillery and a new field hospital corps to strengthen the Minnesota National guard and increase the state's contribution to the fighting forces of the nation is to be deferred temporarily, Captain Walter F. Rhinow, military secretary to Governor Burnquist, indicated, pending further investigation on plans to assign a battalion of new artillery units among Southern Minnesota towns.

St. Paul.—Governor Burnquist, who has been mentioned as a possible aspirant for the United States Senate to succeed Senator Knute Nelson, who, it has been announced, would not succeed himself, has announced officially he would not become a candidate for the office. "I should prefer," the governor said, "to be a candidate for re-election as governor, should I determine to remain in public life." State Auditor Preus has been considered a likely man.

St. Paul. — With only St. Paul city, Koochiching county and the Northwest angle precinct returns lacking, Minnesota registrations under the selective draft proclamation totaled 197,015 against the government's estimate of 215,578 for the districts included. Every slacker in Minnesota will be arrested. Both state and federal authorities have received specific orders to arrest every man eligible under the selective draft act who failed to register for military duty.

Rochester. — Roy Rasmussen, 18 years old, slayer of his cousin, Ralph Rasmussen, former restaurant man here, was sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge G. W. Granger in district court. The boy pleaded guilty to a charge of murder.

Washington. — Three projects for the improvement of 103 miles of road in Minnesota through federal aid have been approved by D. F. Houston, secretary of agriculture. These are the first of the road improvement projects to be approved in the middle western states. The improvements will cost $316,200.

ROADS MAY ATTACK STATE 2-CENT RATE

U. S. COURT'S DECISIONS MAY AFFECT SITUATION—MOVE TO BE CONTESTED.

HAPPENINGS AT STATE HOUSE

What Is Transpiring in the Different Departments Where the Affairs of State Government Are Administered.

St. Paul.

Minnesota's 2 cent passenger rate may be attacked as a result of a decision in the United States circuit court at St. Louis and the decision rendered by the United States Supreme Court in the South Dakota express rate case.

Such an attempt is considered probable by C. E. Elmquist, member of the State Railroad Commission, who says that any such action in Minnesota will be vigorously contested.

E. C. Lindley, general counsel of the Great Northern railroad, said the Great Northern railroad, said in these two cases might be broad enough to affect the situation in Minnesota; but that he could not say definitely until he had seen the text of the decisions. Nothing new in principle is involved, he said.

State Draft Returns 221,747.

The official Minnesota return, showing 221,747 selective draft registrations, has been sent by Governor Burnquist to Provost Marshal General E. H. Crowder at Washington, D. C. Koochiching county reports completed the returns. Minnesota's registration is now 18,804 below the government estimate of 250,551, but is subject to corrections on rechecks of the summaries and to supplementary returns on late registrations.

Exemption claims are indicated on the cards of 108,796 out of 194,163 white citizens and of 589 out of 982 negroes registered. The Indians included 32 in Carlton county, the cards of other Minnesota red men having been sent direct to Washington by the Indian agent.

Aliens numbering 24,599 and 1,971 alien enemies make up the balance of the state registration total.

Preliminary checks of the summary, Adjt. Gen. Fred B. Wood said, indicate that there will be numerous changes in the present returns by counties.

Murphy Colonel of Second Artillery.

Governor J. A. A. Burnquist has announced the promotion of Lieutenant Colonel William J. Murphy of St. Paul to the coloneIcy of the Second Minnesota Field artillery. The appointment was recommended some time ago by the state military board and has been ratified by the governor. Major W. C. Rutherford, St. Paul, was at the same time appointed to have charge of the organization of the new field hospital corps. Commissions will be issued at once according to the announcement of Captain W. F. Rhinow, military secretary to the governor. Immediate work on the reorganization of these units will start.

Summer Session at "U" Open.

The summer session of the University of Minnesota has just opened with a full curriculum and a large teaching force. For the first time the summer session will retain the form of registration in use during the regular college year and offer only courses of strictly college grade, L. D. Coffman, dean of the college of education, and director of the summer session, announced.

New State Tuberculosis Resort.

Proposals to erect the joint Crow Wing-Aitkin county tuberculosis sanitarium at Deerwood have been received by the State Board of Control. The new sanitarium will be located on the old state fish hatchery site at Deerwood. It will be the eighteenth tuberculosis hospital erected under the law providing that the state will bear half the cost up to $50,000 maximum.

Pine Rust Fight Is Begun.

Six experts from the state entomologist's office have begun a campaign for the eradication of the white pine blister rust. Every nursery, park, cemetery and private grove in the state is to be inspected. F. L. Washburn, state entomologist, is in charge of the work and his five assistants are running down every "lead" from infected nurseries. In two instances diseased stock has been found and adjoining pines destroyed. The work of inspection is not confined to pine groves.

Swiss Producing Alcohol.

The great demand for calcium carbide and the low cost of water power in Switzerland have caused a big increase of the application of the electric furnace for the production of this commodity. The leading Swiss hydroelectric concerns, as well as a concern with its own big power stations at Gampel, Viege, Thusis and Chevres, have now finished their researches for the production of pure alcohol for industrial purposes out of calcium carbide through treatment with hydrogen and by the electrolytic decomposition of water.

As the industrial production and sale of alcohol is under government control in Switzerland, the introduction of this new industry will be a joint work of the confederation and the Lonza concern.

Water-Wagon Revolutionists.

In the course of a conversation with one who was in Petrograd at the time, staying at the hotel which served as headquarters for the revolutionary party, I heard two or three significant facts, says a writer in the Westminster Gazette. One throws light on the morale of the troops who carried out the coup d'etat. The Hotel Astoria, three doors off, had served as a nest for the reactionaries, and was sacked by order, but when the troops came to its extensive wine cellars, they carried every drop of its contents to the street and poured them into the gutter.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription othine — double strength — is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Adv.

Too Ill to Walk Upright. Operation Advised. Saved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This woman now raises chickens and does manual labor. Read her story:

Richmond, Ind.—"For two years I was so sick and weak with troubles from my age that when going up stairs I had to go very slowly with my hands on the steps, then sit down at the top to rest. The doctor said he thought I should have an operation, and my friends thought I would not live to move into our new house. My daughter asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she had taken it with good results. I did so, my weakness disappeared, I gained in strength, moved into our new home, did all kinds of garden work, shoveled dirt, did building and cement work, and raised hundreds of chickens and ducks. Canadian Farmers Profit From Wheat

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

The war's devastation of European crops has caused an unusual demand for grain from the American Continent. The people of the world must be fed and wheat near $2 a bushel offers great profits to the farmer. Canada's invitation is therefore especially attractive. She wants settlers to make money and happy, prosperous homes for themselves by helping her raise immense wheat crops.

You can get a Homestead of 160 acres FREE and other lands at remarkably low prices. During many years Canadian wheat fields have averaged 20 bushels to the acre many yields as high as 45 bushels to the acre. Wonderful crops also of Oats, Barley and Flax.

Mixed farming as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses full of nutrition are the only food required for beef or dairy purposes. Good schools, churches, markets convenient, climate excellent.

There is an extra demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for the war. The Government is urging farmers to put extra acreage into grain. Write for literature and particulars as to reduced railway rates to Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or

With the Fingers! Says Corns Lift Out Without Any Pain

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn can shortly be lifted right out with the fingers if you will apply on the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

At little cost one can get a small bottle of freezone at any drug store, which will positively rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain or soreness or the danger of infection.

This new drug is an ether compound, and dries the moment it is applied and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding skin. Just think! You can lift off your corns and calluses now without a bit of pain or soreness. If your druggist hasn't freezone he can easily get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.—adv.

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR.

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 28 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn., under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

It is time for us to wake up to the fact that this is not England's war, nor France's war, nor Russia's war, but our war, and that it will be short or long, hard or easy, accordingly as we do our part quickly, fearlessly, well.

Whatever opinions we may have held, whatever opinions we may now privately hold, there is just this to consider: America will either lick or be licked to a standstill. If we hold off and let our Allies crumble we shall get—and deserve!—the licking. If that happens we pay Germany's war debts and our children for generations to come must carry the weight of an enforced military burden. If we strike hard, swiftly, with and not after our Allies, the war will end with victory for democracy—which means for us and for our children the right to go about our business safely, in a world where law reigns superior to Force.—Farm Stock and Home.

ADVICE TO BANKERS.

We drove out through the town of Hickory last Monday between the Red Lake and Clearwater Rivers, through that part of the country, which was flooded out last year. The abandon homes were numerous on what is now dry meadow lands. A large part of this land has been broken up, but is now going back into wild state, with the wild grass starting to grow. Now is the time for the Bankers who have their money invested in these lands to promptly invest some more money and have them all seeded down to timothy hay and clover. They can easily employ farmers who live in this locality to do the work for them, and next year a stranger coming into that country could see the now vacant lands all producing heavy crops of tame hay. If they make no sales next year, they could sell the grass on the land for enough to pay for the expense of seeding the first year.

Come on you men of money: We mean you men of cash, and take hold and help the settlers who still remains there to improve the Country. Every Banker and money loaner who has got the title to a quarter section of this land should attend to it now, and have all the land that has once been under cultivation seeded to timothy and clover, and next year when you auto out to look at your farms and show them to strangers you can gaze on your fields with pride, instead of being ashamed to take a stranger to look at them. Bankers are always willing to give farmers advice, so we just return you a little good advice how to reclaim your vacant lands in the town of Hickory.

Keeps Milk From Boiling Over.

Among the various devices which are intended to prevent milk from boiling over we noticed one which solves the problem in a very simple way, says the Scientific American. It consists of a straight tube of say two or three inches in diameter at the top and expanding somewhat toward the bottom, where it is provided with a flaring and cup shaped end of rather large diameter, the whole being somewhat of trumpet shape. Out of the lower part are cut, say, four suitable openings; and we set the device upright in the vessel with the small end just out of the liquid. Should the milk tend to boil violently this action commences at the bottom, and the liquid is forced up the tube, then falls upon the surface again, so that the boiling action will continue in this way and the milk has no tendency to leave the vessel.

THE LOCAL NEWS.

Fine weather for growing crops

There will be a basket social at Edon Davis new barn, one mile east of Highlanding tomorrow night, for a worthy object, all turn out.

Ole Vattedahl of Oklee is assisting us to build an addition to our office this week, or rather a new office so we can have our present office as an addition to our residence.

Edward Singer of Erie, and Stephen of Kratka, were both attending court at Thief River Falls last Tuesday.

The Engine on the Township road grader bursted beyond repair last week, and a new one will have to be bought.

The River bottom lands that was overflooded last year will furnish the most hay this year, as the hay crop will be very light on high land, on account of the small amount of rain fall.

Local showers have kept the grain growing the past week, but we badly need one of them good old fashioned heavy rains, that were dished up to us so regular last summer.

Lars Hyland went to the Grand Forks Hospital last Monday, where he has to have an operation on his jaw, which was broken in an accident last fall, and not properly treated.

Thief River Falls are to have a big Celebration on July 4th, with all the trimmings to make a day of pleasant entertainment for the large crowd which is sure to be there.

Our Town board met last Monday to equalize assessments. Several application were made for road work, one being made for a little work to be done on the south side of the river.

There is sure to be some good speaking at the Wojnerowski celebration in the town of Hickory on July 4th, as there will be several noted speakers present. Come and hear the American Eagle scream on July 4th, on our nations birth day.

That government free garden seed fake is of more actual damage to the country than the potato bugs and chinch bugs combind. The trouble is, that they send out tons of seed that will not grow, and the farmer, or gardener who plants it, not only will loose his time, but the use of his land, for that year.

The Singer V.S. Hunt case will either be Dismissed, or put over until the January term of Court. We are too busy with our farm work to be lawing with the Singers at this time of year. But we will endeavor to give them a satisfactory law suit next winter. It is a good thing for Stephen that the Case will not come up for trial this term, as flour is high which makes the employment of witnesses expensive, and he will have a chance to train up Edward, how to testify as he seemed to have lacked proper training at the last session of Court.

County Attorney Kjomme is busy training a company of home guards now days, and will later be called to the colors if the war continues. Our Orator County attorney is not only calling on the young men to enlist and come to the aid of the Country, but is ready to shoulder the rifle himself. That is the kind of leaders that America wants, and they are true leaders, who will say: Come on boys, instead of saying go ahead you fellows.

The town borad met last Monday to check up and equalize the assessment There was several applications for road repairing in differant localities, one being from the south side of the river.

BIG CELEBRATION JULY 4th,

The people of Deer Park and Hickory Townships will celebrate July 4th, at the L. Wojnerowskie grove on Section 3 town of Hickory. Mr. C. L. Hanson, of Thief River Falls will deliver the oration of the day, at 11 o'clock A.M. Mr. Hanson is a good speaker, who has well studied the history of America and you may be sure of hearing a good oration. Come and hear him.

AFTERNOON

The Ben Symaski Orchestra will furnish Music for a grand bowery ball during the afternoon and evening.

Excursion Boats will be run on the Red Lake River all day, and during the Evening.

There will be a good Program in the afternoon, of Horse races, Foot races and Boat races.

All are invited to come and Celebrate July 4th, at the Wojnerowski grove.

ESTATE OF Gunder Evenson, Also Known As Gunder Evendson Austad STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Pennington .S.S. IN PROBATE COURT: In the Matter of the Estate of Gunder Evenson, also known as Gunder Evendson Austad, THE STATE OF MINNESOTA To Signe Evenson, Annie Evenson, Eivind Evenson, Martin Evenson, Gunhild Evenson and Thelma Evenson, and all persons interested in the mortgaging of certain lands belonging to said Gunder Evenson; The petition of Hans O. Kjomme as representative of the above named Gunder Evenson, being duly filed in this court, representing that it is necessary and for the best interests of said estate and of all interested therein that certain lands of said decedent described therein be mortgaged and praying that a license be to him granted to mortage the same;

Now Therefore, you, and each of you, are hereby cited and required to show cause, if any you have, before this court, at the Probate Court Rooms, in the city of Thief River Falls County of Pennington State of Minnesota, on the 23rd day of July 1917, at 10 o'clock A. M., why the prayer of said petition should not be granted.

Witness the Judge of said Court, and the seal of said Court, this 26th day of June, 1917.

MAYFIELD DOINGS

Miss Juri Austad spent Sunday evening with Gunhild and Olina Langie.

M. T. O. Langie and children Sophie, Olaf, Olai, Gilbert and Gertie called at Asklands on Sunday.

Gunstein Tveit made a business trip to Oklee on Wednesday.

Miss Gunhild Langie left for Werner N. D. where she intends to work.

Sam Swanson and family have returned from Hibbing and will again live on their Deer Park farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Swanson and children Emma, Bessie and Ells Hegland, Gunhild and Olina Langie, Julia Myrum Juri Austad and Ole Hegland were entertained by Tveits Sunday evening.

Leather Medals.

Leather medals were originally conferred as a genuine mark of honor. When King John of France, captured at Agincourt, was forced to pay to Edward III. of England a ransom of 3,000,000 gold crowns to effect his release he was left without precious metal for coins or decorations. So he found it necessary to pay the palace expenses with leather money. He also used leather medals when he wished to confer honor on some nobleman. The custom quickly arose of presenting leather medals as a burlesque distinction.—American Boy.

THE NAVY NEEDS MEN!
IT NEEDS THEM NOW

The United States Navy has continued its appeal to the Northwest for men to man the fleet by addressing the following appeal to societies and individuals:

CONGRESS GIVES MONEY AND MATERIAL;

THE NORTHWEST MUST GIVE THE MEN!

The Nation has called for its sons. It is up to the Northwest to answer. Young men have been coming forward at a fair rate, but more must come. Part of the fleet is idle and will be until America wakes up. Another 40 men a day would put four more big guns in action.

THE QUESTION OF LABOR

Probably the Most Serious Handicap to Put in Maximum Crops This Year Is the Scarcity of Farm Labor.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Many a good crop will be ruined because farmers cannot get labor at the right time. There are two times of the year when more labor is absolutely necessary—at seed time and at harvest. While our farmers need men at other times of the year, these are the two crucial periods.

As it is to the interest of every person living in this county to produce a bumper crop this year, we must do all we can to help the farmer and perhaps the most important thing we can do, is to find him right help of the right class.

There are three classes of farm help—(1) The regular farm hands who are going to be rather scarce. (2) There are, however, a great many men who work in factories, in wholesale houses, drive teams and other occupations who could possibly be spared during the rush seasons. It is the duty of the commercial clubs and manufacturers to make a list of these men and offer them for detached service when urgently needed. There is a third class of labor which is very efficient, and that is men of affairs who have been raised on farms who will volunteer to help the farmers out during the rush. This is the greatest work our business men can accept to show their patriotism at this time.

A Report on Rotation of Crops.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

The tenth annual report of the North Dakota Demonstration Farms is ready for distribution. The crops are rotated on these farms. The results indicate that a rotation of crops pays. The average wheat yield was 29⅝ bushels. This wheat was in most cases followed by corn that had been manured. Oats 58½ bushels, barley 37½, rye 21½; alfalfa 2⅝ tons per acre. The rotation practiced on each farm is given in the report as well as a detailed account of just how each field was handled.

SYSTEMATIZE your household expenses by opening a bank account for your wife. Give her a check book and teach her the use of it. Pay the butcher, the grocer, the baker, with a check. Then at the end of the month you'll find out just how much it costs you to run the home. When payment by check is made there never is any doubt as to whether or not a bill is paid. The check is a receipt.

Besides, a checking account will give your wife a business education. The number of ordinarily bright women who know absolutely nothing of banking is surprising. If you are a husband, father, brother, you cannot tell when death may overtake you, and it is well that your wife, daughter and sister know something of banking.

Bookplates.

No book collector should be without a bookplate, and a bookplate once inserted in a volume should never be removed. When the plate is that of a good collector it constitutes an indorsement and adds a certain interest and value to the volume. I was once going through the collection of a friend, and, observing the absence of a bookplate, I asked him why it was. He replied, "The selection of a bookplate is such a serious matter."—Atlantic.

An Artist's Impromptu Solo.

Pierre Garat, the singer and exquisite of Napoleonic France, was not merely a glass of fashion and a wonderful, self instructed singer, but an artist devoted to his art. "But is the following," asks Bernard Miall in his biography, "an example of sincerity in art or of love of attracting attention?"

Coupigny had supplied him with a "romance" to be set to music. Whenever the two met Garat said, "I have not hit upon an idea as yet." One day Coupigny was walking down the Rue Neuve des Petits Champs. Hearing a sound of some one running up behind him, he turned. It was Garat, who seized him by the arm, dragged him up the stairs of a neighboring house and, halting on the first landing, exclaimed, "I've got it!" At once he began to sing the romance through at the top of his voice. The inhabitants of the house began to open their doors, heads were projected over the banisters, until they began to approach. But Garat, having finished, tore down the stairs like a monkey, dragging the bewildered poet with him.—Youth's Companion.

To Keep Phone Cord Straight.

A new conrtivance described in Scientific American promises to keep the kinks out of flexible telephone cords. The device consists of "two small composition parts turning on a central spindle, all inclosed in two brass shells or covers. Between the two rotating parts are two ball races that serve both as fractional bearings and as conducing means. The cord terminals are easily connected to the binding screws on each part, and there is ample room for a strain knot within each shell. The freedom of the swiveling of the two halves eliminates the snarling of the cord."

ANY CORN LIFTS OUT, DOESN'T HURT A BIT!

No foolishness! Lift your corns and calluses off with fingers—it's like magic!

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn, can harmlessly be lifted right out with the fingers if you apply upon the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

For little cost one can get a small bottle of freezone at any drug store, which will positively rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain.

This simple drug dries the moment it is applied and does not even irritate the surrounding skin while applying it or afterwards.

This announcement will interest many of our readers. If your druggist hasn't any freezone tell him to surely get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.—adv.

GERMAN INFANTRY IS HURLED BACK BY ENGLISH GUN FIRE

TROOPS LED BY TEUTON CROWN PRINCE MAKE REPEATED ATTACKS BUT ARE FORCED BACK TO TRENCHES.

FRENCH RETAKE MUCH OF GROUND PREVIOUSLY LOST

Haig's Operations Consist Entirely in Putting Down Attempted Enemy Raids and Answering Fire of Hostile Guns—No Resumption of Offensive.

London, June 26.—The French now have retaken the greater part of the territory in the region of Vauxaillon which the army of the German Crown Prince had captured in attacks in which they suffered extremely heavy casualties. In the region of Hurtebise and Craonne, the violent artillery duel continues, and the French guns have put down an attempted infantry attack by the Germans, the intensity of the fire and the accuracy of the artillery keeping the men fast in their trenches.

Haig Puts Down Raids.

The operations of Sir Douglas Haig's army against the Germans in France and Belgium have consisted entirely in putting down attempted enemy raids and answering the fire of hostile guns. There is still considerable artillery activity on the part of the Germans in Belgium, especially near Reninghe, Pypegaale and Lizerne, and lively hand grenade fighting between the French and the Germans near Steenstraete and the Ferryman's house.

There has been no resumption of the Italian offensive in the Trentino region, but on the Asiago plateau there has been considerable artillery activity. To the northeast, the Austrians delivered an attack in the Cordevole valley at Mont Seltsass. The Italians stopped the attack and took the initiative, driving back the enemy and inflicting heavy casualties on him.

Patrol Fights in Galicia.

The operations in Russia and Galicia still have not risen in importance above patrol engagements and reconnaissances. These have been lively in Galicia.

Likewise in the Macedonia theater only small engagements by patrol parties have been reported, although east of Lake Presba the enemy has violently shelled Entente trenches.

RUSSIANS ARE ORDERED TO STAY OUT OF GREECE

New Slav Government Is Following Independent Foreign Policy, Says Minister of War.

Petrograd, June 25.—"Russia is following an independent foreign policy, and the government unconditionally forbade Russian troops to disembark at Athens," said Minister of War Kerensky during the debate in the all Russian congress of soldiers and workmen's council on the subject of war aims.

Referring to Finland and the Ukraine, M. Kerenswy appealed to the people of those regions not to break their union with Russia in the struggle for common happiness and liberty.

Concerning Armenia, M. Kerensky declared that country could not be evacuated, because it would then become a prey to Kurds and Turks.

COCCHI ADMITS MURDER OF CRUGER GIRL IN U. S.

Bologna, June 25.—Alfred Cocchi has confessed to the Italian authorities that he had murdered Ruth Cruger in New York. Cocchi said he murdered Ruth Cruger in a fit of furious jealousy because he failed to win her love.

Cocchi came to Bologna from New York in February, after the disappearance of Ruth Cruger, a girl 18 years old. When the girl's body was discovered in the basement of Cocchi's motorcycle shop in New York, Police Commissioner Woods cabled to Italy asking for the man's arrest on a charge of murder.

Fairview, Utah, June 25.—The main core of the mammoth reservoir of the Price River Irrigation company, impounding 11,000 acre-feet of water, has broken. The water is pouring through a break 50 feet wide while 5 feet of water is rushing over the top of the great dam. Four towns are in the path of the water. Farmers are taking refuge on higher ground.

Cotton Traders Are Warned.

New York, June 25.—A statement expressing the opinion that pronounced movements in cotton prices are inimical to the best interests of the United States is contained in a letter which has been sent to all members of the New York Cotton Exchange by the president, George M. Shutt. "The board of managers," the communication said, "will look with extreme disfavor upon action of any member of the exchange which will tend to cause unnecessary and extreme variations in prices of cotton."

EVIDENCE IN COAL PLOT CASE

INTRODUCED TO SHOW ATTEMPT TO KEEP PRICE UP.

Agent Told to "Put on Your Fighting Clothes and Get the Money"—Top Notch Prices Demanded.

New York, June 25.—Letters written by members of the Smokeless Coal company of West Virginia and abstracts from the minutes of its more important meetings were read into the record at the trial in the United States district court here of 51 individuals and 102 Virginia and West Virginia corporations charged wtih conspiracy to control the coal industry and fix prices.

"Keep Within Pale of Law."

Included in the correspondence introduced was a letter written by G. H. Caperton, president of the New River Coal company to R. Grant, president of the New England Coal and Coke company of Boston, who was not a member of the association.

"I know your feelings as to the law covering the situation," wrote Mr. Caperton, "but now that we have elected Wilson again I do not believe we have much to fear from that source. In fact, we never do anything that is not within the pale of the law."

Another letter address to to G. P. Daniels, a sales manager of Cincinnati from the vice president of the Smokeless Fuel company, declared:

"What you have to do, old boy, is to get your fighting clothes on and get money for the product. Don't let anybody put it over you about having a less price from somebody else. When they say that tell them to go ahead and buy it. We have the world as a place to put the coal and are in elegant position to get the very top notch for any stuff we have, whether it is high volatile or our own smokeless coal."

GERMANY STILL SUFFERS FROM HOT DRY WEATHER

Temperature Equalled Only Three Times In Seventy Years—Early Vegetable Crops Fail.

Copenhagen, June 25.—The period of intense heat continues, according to reports from Berlin, over the greater part of Germany. Berlin experienced heat Wednesday exceeded only three times in 70 years and then in mid-July. According to the Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin, the protracted heat and dry weather, following the late cold spring, have had a most unfavorable effect on the yield of fruit and particularly of early vegetables, which this year are of special importance owing to the disappearance of potatoes.

"RUSSIA REJECTS IDEA OF A SEPARATE PEACE"

Statement by Head of Slav Mission to America Greeted Enthusiastically in House of Representatives.

Washington, June 25.—A storm of cheers that echoed and reverberated throughout the capitol greeted Professor Boris Bakhemtieff, head of the Russian mission and new ambassador to the United States, when he told the House of representatives that "Russia rejects any idea of a separate peace."

The ambassador's declaration came at the end of the most remarkable and demonstrative reception yet given any of the foreign missions in either House of Congress.

U. S. TAKES OVER SIX BASE HOSPITALS IN WAR ZONE

American Army Units Act Quietly and With Little Ceremony—Render Valuable Aid.

British Headquarters in France, June 23.—Quietly and with very little ceremony, so as to escape practically all but official attention, American doctors, nurses and enlisted men have within the last fortnight taken over six of the British great general field hospitals, relieving the British staffs for duty near the front.

American surgeons have been rendering valuable aid also in the forward casualty clearing stations during the battle of Messines.

DRIVE FOR 70,000 RECRUITS

Campaign Begins in Accordance with Proclamation.

Washington, June 25.—A nationwide drive of one week to recruit 70,000 men to bring the regular army up to its authorized war strength of 300,000 men has begun in accordance with President Wilson's proclamation calling for volunteers.

This is the first step in the war organization of America's army. Next is the task of completing the full strength of the national guard, then comes the selection of men for the new national army from the millions who registered here June 5.

American Fighters Into U. S. Army.

Washington, June 23.—The repatriation of at least 45,000 Americans now serving in Allied armies, in order to permit their incorporation in American forces, is favored by the government. State department officials have said that legislation to permit it was necessary as Americans who have taken the oath of allegiance to a foreign nation have lost their American citizenship for the length of the war, and it can only be restored by act of Congress. No trouble is anticipated in passing the necessary law.

KING OF WAR AVIATORS IN THE CLOUDS

Copyright, Underwood & Underwood

This, considered the most remarkable aerial photograph ever taken, shows Captain Guynemer, premier war aviator of France, guarding observation planes, from one of which the photograph was made. Shortly after the picture was taken Guynemer attacked a German airplane and sent it crashing to the earth, 10,000 feet below.

U. S. SHOT HITS SUBMARINE

AMERICAN FREIGHTER WINS IN FIGHT WITH U-BOAT.

Suffers No Damage While Periscope of Diver Is Destroyed and Boat Believed to Have Been Sunk.

An Atlantic Port, June 25.—A fight between an American freighter and a German submarine, which took place June 6 one day out from Genoa, Italy, and resulted in the navy gunners on the American vessel scoring at least one hit, is reported by the captain of the steamer.

Freighter Escaped Torpedo.

The captain said the U-boat suddenly appeared at a distance of about 500 yards and launched a torpedo. Its wake was clearly discernible and it was possible to maneuver the vessel so that it missed the ship by about 20 feet. Fire was immediately opened on the U-boat from a stern gun and four shots were discharged as the submarine submerged. The second shot, the captain said, struck the periscope, throwing it high in the air and the last shot fired hit the water on the exact spot where the U-boat disappeared. The American vessel suffered no damage.

This is the second encounter reported within two days in which an American ship successfully defended herself against submarine attack.

Confirmation Received.

Washington, June 25.—Confirmation of the sinking of a German submarine by the navy gunner crew of an armed American merchantman has been received by the Navy department in a report from Chief Boatswain's Mate O. J. Gullickson, commanding the gunners.

"Apparently the submarine was either sunk or badly damaged," his report says, "as nothing further was seen of it."

LIBERTY BONDS BOUGHT BY MORE THAN 4,000,000

First Great War Issue Is Oversubscribed Nearly 52 Per Cent—Allotments to Be Made.

Washington, June 25.—Liberty Loan subscriptions totaled $3,035,226,850, an over subscription of nearly 52 per cent.

The final tabulation as offiically announced shows that more than 4.000,000 persons bought bonds. Ninety-three per cent. of subscriptions, or those of 3,960,000 persons were for sums varying from $50 to $10,000 and 21 subscribers applied for allotments of $5,000,000 each or more.

The New York Federal reserve district led the list with subscriptions totaling $1,186,788,400, or more than three times the amount subscribed in the next district, Chicago, $357,195,950.

Root Mission May Go to Stockholm.

Stockholm, June 25.—Reports that the American mission to Petrograd would journey to Stockholm for a conference with certain elements of the Socialists group now here for the German-called "peace conference," have been circulated.

Kansas Wheat Shows Big Gain.

Topeka, Kan., June 25.—A total production of 42,000,000 bushels of winter wheat in Kansas this year, 2,000,000 bushels more than the May estimate, was forecast in the June crop report issued by the state board of agriculture. The prospective yield of oats for the state is given as 80,354,709 bushels, exceeding the best previous year, 1888, by 16,000,000 bushels, and surpassing the crop of 1916 by 41,000,000 bushels, the report declares. Barley may aggregate a total of 16,000,000 bushels.

FOOD MEASURE PASSES HOUSE

DRY CLAUSE INCLUDED IN BILL AS FINALLY ADOPTED.

Carries Appropriation of $152,500,000 for Enforcement and Administration—Vast Power to President.

Washington, June 26. — The administration food control bill, giving the President broad authority to control the distribution of food, feed and fuel for war purposes and appropriating $152,500,000 for its enforcement and administration, has been passed by the House after far-reaching prohibition provisions had been written into it.

The vote was 365 to 5, Representatives McLemore, Slayden and Young of Texas, Democrats, and Weeker, Missouri and Ward, New York, Republicans, voting in the negative.

Provides for Prohibition.

Prohibition provisions adopted would prevent use of foodstuffs for manufacture of alcoholic beverages and would give the President authority to take over for war purposes all liquor now on hand. The bill now goes to the Senate where it probably will be substituted for a similar measure already under consideration. Leaders hope to get the measure to conference by the first of July.

The most important changes made by the House outside the prohibition section were limiting the control powers of the President to articles specifically mentioned by the bill and subjecting voluntary aids in control work to the penal provision.

Whiskey Seems Doomed.

Retention by the Senate of drastic prohibition amendments added by the House or at least of provisions prohibiting use of foodstuffs in manufacturing distilled spirits, is deemed probable. The principal fight on the prohibition question is expected to come over permitting manufacture of malt liquors and wines. Senate sentiment against further manufacture of whiskey, brandy and other distilled spirits is widespread, but many "dry" senators oppose extending the prohibition to beer and wines.

ROOT GETS WARM WELCOME

Russ Assembly Rises and Cheers Americans.

Moscow, June 25. — The first meeting attended here by Elihu Root and other members of the American commission, was held in the palace of the governor general. It is said here that no foreigner ever before succeeded in enlisting the attention and interest of this association of committees representing the working masses of Moscow. But as Mr. Root began to speak, antagonism and indifference yielded to rapt attention, and he was warmly applauded at the conclusion.

The entire assembly arose and cheered the Americans when they left the hall.

U. S. Aviators Welcomed by French.

Nice, France, June 24.—Fifty American aviators have arrived here to undergo a course of instruction at the seaplane depot. They were given the heartiest of welcomes by their French comrades.

14 Christians In Japan House.

Tokio, June 23.—Fourteen of the 381 members of the house of representatives just elected are Christians. They are Saburo Shimada, former president of the house, who has been a member since its organization; Hogi Oshikawa, Yoshiyuki Imai, Tetsunosuka Yoshimura, Motokichi Takahashi, Sei Nemoto, Dr. Somei Uzawa, Tosuke Koyama, Uichiro Saito, Jiro Koike, Yoshiwo Saito, Koichiro Ishiguro, Ryotaro Kodama and Ryoichi Kikuchi. Four were elected for the first time in the recent general election.

Economy.

An amateur gardener of Irvington has learned to "have his potatoes and plant them, too," and his plan may afford a suggestion to others who are planting gardens in back yards and vacant lots.

In place of cutting the potato up in the usual way—into as many pieces as there are eyes—the Irvingtonian simply peels the potatoes, cutting a little deeper where the eyes occur. Thus the part of the potato which clings to the peeling hanging to the eye will afford nourishment for the plant until it takes root, and he saves about half the inside of the potato for the pot.

He took the hint from an old negro who has had such success in raising potatoes that his "tater patch" is famed in his neighborhood.—Indianapolis News.

The Modern Way.

"What is your diagnosis, doctor?"

"Well, I find that you have a little inflammation in the ears; your throat is slightly affected; your digestive organs are not functioning properly and there is evidence of bronchitis."

"But can you fix me up?"

"Well, I advise that you go to Doctor Taphem for your ears; across the street you will find Doctor Swallow, who is a throat specialist, and Doctor Pepsin will understand your digestive difficulties. As to your bronchitis, you should see a good lung expert at once."

"But isn't there anything the matter with me that you can cure?"

"Yes, you have a $10 bill in your wallet. I'll relieve you of that."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Abandon Use of Oyster Shell.

The commissioners of St. John's county, Florida, announce their intention of abandoning for all time the use of oyster shell as a paving material for the country roads. It is claimed that enough money has been spent in St. John's county for oyster shell in the last forty years to have paved with brick every important highway in the county.

Caesar Rodney's Ride

By Richard F. Beamish

HOW the historians and romanticists have missed the true and dramatic story of Caesar Rodney's ride is one of the mysteries which surround the Declaration of Independence.

Pennsylvania and South Carolina had voted against independence. New York held aloof because her delegates had not received instructions from the assembly. Congress was in turmoil, the army panic-stricken, the sentiment for submission to Great Britain growing hourly in all the colonies. It was necessary that all the colonies should vote in the affirmative if independence was to be proclaimed, as the defection of anyone in the federation would mean division and inevitable defeat.

In the vote that was taken in the State House (now Independence Hall) on July 1, Delaware's vote was not cast, there being but two of the three delegates present. Thomas McKean voted for freedom, and George Reed against it. Caesar Rodney was ill at his home with a cancer that had attacked his face to such an extent that he was compelled to wear a veil to conceal the fearful ravages of the disease.

McKean shrewdly calculating that if Delaware's vote was cast for independence on the following day, Pennsylvania and South Carolina might be induced to change their votes, sent a horseman to Rodney and arranged relays of horses to bring the sick man to Philadelphia.

In spite of the terrific heat, the urging of relatives and the commands of a nurse and physician, who warned him that the ride might mean his death, the patriotic Delawarean set out for Philadelphia. There with his remaining strength Rodney cast the vote of Delaware for American independence. Edward Rutledge of South Carolina thereupon was deeply moved and changed the vote of his colony. After a stormy scene the Pennsylvania delegates opposed to independence left the chamber, and the patriotic faction, with Franklin at its head, promptly cast the colony's vote for freedom.

Rodney rallied from the strain of his ride and died at Byfield a few years later in his forty-sixth year.

TEACHERS, tell us of Rodney. Rodney of Delaware!
Some of you start and stammer. Others stand mute and stare.
Put up your sums and fables. Listen that you may hear
The gallop of Caesar Rodney with Death always riding near.

Heat, like a thick, black blanket, closely on Byfield lay.
It harried the flesh and spirit of him who waited for day,
His fevered eyes watched the candle that blinked like a far-off star.
They looked from a face upon which all the grace was hid by a cruel scar.

Out of the heat and blackness clamors a-trooping came,
Barking of dogs and a thunder of knocks on a door's stout frame.
Sternly a nurse hissed, "Silence!" and then came a stranger's call:
"McKean bids you ride. I will be at your side. Come quickly or freedom will fall."

"He'll die on the way," shrilled a servant, but Rodney was out of his bed.
"Boots, horses and spurs," he commanded; "and the veiling to cover my head."
"Horses are posted to meet you," the voice in the doorway said.
"It is well. I am ready." The weak voice was steady. "I will vote or you'll bear me there dead."

It's seventy miles to the State House in the city of William Penn.
Seventy miles of torture, to forward the freedom of men.
For some in the Congress were Tories and others too timid to dare,
So Rodney must ride that his vote might decide the ballot of Delaware.

Neck by neck through old Dover they galloped, and Rodney bent low to his task.
It was gray in the East when he tarried to cover his face with the mask.
A woman screamed loud at the vision, but Rodney was riding again,
Though, beneath him, the back of his horse was a rack to torture the bravest of men.

Great weariness came upon Rodney. He galloped as one in a dream;
But lightning-like pains broke his trances as rocks break a mountain stream.
Somewhere, in the misty morning, his comrade faltered and fell.
Thence rode at his side, with a long silent stride, a Shape that Rodney knew well.

The tropical heat-haze closed round him, the Veiled and the wraith at his side,
At inns and by-lanes he changed horses, then, on with the furious ride.
Weakness at last made him falter. He fed and then slumbered awhile.
But the will was so strong that the rest was not long, for the goal still lay many a mile.

And then he came into the city, the half-Tory town of Penn.
Down Passyunk Road he galloped, past wondering women and men.
His veil streamed, a pennon of Freedom, and his limbs hung like bags of sand;
But the horse he bestrode knew the turns of the road and needed no guiding hand.

So to the State House came Rodney, merely the shell of a man.
There McKean met and bore him as gently as only a sturdy friend can.
Steadied him in the chamber, and gloried to hear him declare:
"For the right to be free, and to end tyranny, we vote aye, for our Delaware."

You know the rest of the story, you teachers who teach by rote,
How prudent South Carolina announced the change of its vote;
How Pennsylvania also veered round in Freedom's gale;
How the Thirteen broke from their necks the yoke, and a nation came through travail.

Paint us a noble portrait; Story or Sargent or Chase.
One of the missing Signer. Show us an eager face.
Glorified through its veiling, and we will uplift it where He ended his ride with Death by his side, brave Rodney of Delaware.

INDEPENDENCE DAY IN 1835

Revolutionary Officers and Soldiers Still Living and Taking Part in the Celebrations.

(From Files of New Hampshire Telegraph, Nashua, N. H., 1835.)

Revolutionary Soldiers: —The committee of arrangements for the celebration of the Fourth of July respectfully invite all the remaining officers and soldiers of the Revolution in this and the neighboring towns to join the citizens in celebrating the anniversary of our national independence on Saturday the Fourth of July next. They are requested to meet at the Washington house on the morning of said day.—Issue, June 22, 1835.

The presentation of a standard by the ladies of this community to the Nashua guards will add much to the interest of the coming celebration of the Fourth. We anticipate for those who take part an excellent and highly interesting celebration.

Its coming was welcomed with appropriate manifestations of joy and rejoicing through the medium of bells and cannon. The procession formed under direction of Capt. Thomas G. Buck, as chief marshal, with able assistants, at half past ten on the green, near Tyler's Coffee house, and proceeded under escort of the Nashua guards commanded by Capt. Daniel M. Fisk, to the Oval, where the standard was presented by Miss Ann G. Smith, assisted by Misses Belinda Gibson and Sarah Knowlton, her aids. It was accepted by Ensign Sheldon.

Procession then moved to Rev. Mr. Nott's church. Order of exercises:

1. Select music, by the choir; 2, prayer by Rev. Mr. Pratt; 3, hymn, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," etc., read by Rev. Mr. Emmons; 4, Declaration of Independence, by B. F. French, Esq.; 5, oration, by Jonathan Lewis Clark; 6, prayer, by Rev. Mr. McGee; 7, music, by the choir; 8, benediction, by Rev. Mr. Mott.

The procession was again formed and proceeded to the Washington house, where a splendid dinner was provided.

Citizenship Imposes Duty.

Citizens of a free nation owe a duty, not only to their country and themselves, but to the whole world—to humanity. There is hardly a moment in the life of any man when some sacrifice for liberty and free government is not called for. This is as true in peace as in war. The lesson is being impressed on the national conscience today as it has not been before for many years.

Gopher State Happenings

Important Events of Various Sections of the state reported during last few days.

Rochester.—The fifty-second annual convention of the Universalist churches of Minnesota has just been held here.

Twenty-eight members attended the quarterly meeting of the Red River Valley Medical association at Thief River Falls.

More than 3,000 gathered in the Dodge Center park for the forty-first annual program of the Dodge County Old Settlers' association.

Patrick Hammel, of Duluth, has won his fight to establish a claim to partnership in Cuyuna range from lands valued at $5,000,000.

Henry Slade Goff, educator, author, poet, soldier and pioneer of the northwest, is dead at his home in Minneapolis. He was 75 years old.

Twenty-five vacancies in the Sixth enlisted engineers' regiment, now in training at Detroit, Mich., are being held open for recruits from St. Paul.

Col. C. H. March of Litchfield, food commissioner on the state public safety commission, is sanguine over the outlook for a big 1917 crop in this state.

A conference of about 160 women workers of the central committee of the Minnesota Public Safety Commission in the Twin Cities will be called for July 10 and 11.

Winona.—The state convention of Elks opened here June 21 and brought 2,000 or more visitors. The city has taken on its gala attire. Flags are draped in the business district.

An unfavorable report has been submitted to the House by the Secretary of War and chief of engineers upon the proposed drainage project of Traverse and Big Stone lakes.

Absence of Adjt. Gen. Fred. B. Wood from the capitol has again delayed developments on demands by Governor Burnquist and the federal militia chief for an accounting.

The first complete census returns of labor conditions in Minnesota, so far as they pertain to farm help, have been received at the newly created Public Employment bureau in Minneapolis.

Transfer of 60 chronic insane patients from various state hospitals to the asylum to be established in connection with the state farm for inebriates at Wilmar will be made Aug. 1.

The State Public Safety commission has passed a resolution calling upon police officers of the state to enforce 1917 laws against criminal syndicalism and interference with military enlistment.

St. Paul.—Governor Burnquist has re-appointed William F. Houk, commissioner of labor. The appointment is for two years. Houk was first appointed by Governor Eberhart in 1911 and has served continuously since.

The bodies of the two young men and two young women who were drowned when a launch in which they were returning from an outing down river struck a submerged piling, have been found two miles below the city.

Purchase of a building at Hibbing to be used by the state bureau on mines, has been consummated by State Auditor Preus and representatives of the E. J. Longyear company, Minneapolis, at a consideration of $35,000.

St. Paul.—A warning has been issued to manufacturers and licensed dealers in intoxicants to see that the state laws are observed with regard to selling liquor. A "bone dry" order is threatened if the warning is disregarded.

A reign of lawlessness and I. W. W. demonstration at International Falls, reported to the State Public Safety commission has resulted in the appointment by Governor Burnquist of a commission of three to make an immediate investigation there.

A. C. Gooding, of Rochester, former state treasurer, has been elected president of the Minnesota Bankers' association, succeeding Henry von der Weyer, of the Merchants National bank, St. Paul. The bankers were the guests of the St. Paul bankers on a steamboat excursion down the river.

Twenty farm superintendents and gardeners from fifteen state institutions attended a semi-annual convention at Fairmont. Demonstrations in soil tests and spraying of plants to rid them of disease and parasites were featured. Prof. R. S. McIntosh lectured at the state school for the feeble-minded.

Winona.—Roadmaster G. H. Clayton probably saved the lives of several score of passengers on the North Western railroad when he drove his gasoline speeder over a device that derailed the machine and caused minor injuries. Clayton's car was demolished but he escaped without broken bones.

Fifty young men enlisted for Albert Lea's new battery in the Second Minnesota Field artillery at a mass meeting here. Colonel W. J. Murphy, commanding officer of the new artillery regiment was the principal speaker. A patriotic parade preceded the meeting.

At the College of Agriculture 900 rural and elementary teachers of the state have become students once more. They will attend classes until July 27 to earn credits toward first and second class state certificates and to raise their professional status in general.

FARMS THE SOURCE OF WEALTH

Careful Tillage, Good Management and a Beneficent Soil.

Reading the reports of the managers of the chartered banks in Canada, one is struck by the wonderful showing that they have made during the past two or three years. They are careful in their statements, and while they attribute the success that they have met with, together with that which has followed other lines of business, they are careful to emphasize the fact that the condition of big business may not continue. On the other hand, they point out that the material and fundamental source of wealth is the farm. While other lines of business may have their setbacks, and while care and scrupulous care, will have to be exercised to keep an even balance, there is but little risk to the farmer who on economic and studied lines will carry on his branch of industry and endeavor to produce what the world wants not only today, but for a long distance into the future, with a greater demand than ever in the past.

Speaking recently before a Canadian bank board at its annual meeting, the vice president, once a farmer himself, said:

"The farm is the chief source of wealth. We have now three transcontinental railways with branches running through thousands of miles of the very best undeveloped agricultural land in the world. In the natural course of things, these must attract immigration. The products of the farm are now commanding the highest prices ever known, and in my opinion even after the end of the war, high prices for foodstuffs must continue to prevail. With the mechanical appliances now available for farm work, the farmer needs no considerable supply of extra capital, but should be helped to the extent needed upon good security. The food supply of the world is short, the demand is likely to increase rather than decrease. Development of mines, extension of factories and the reconstruction of devastated Europe must all call for supplies for the workers. On the whole, the farmer has been helped rather than hurt by the war, and will continue to be, at least for a long time to come."

Many men of authority and intelligence support what the vice president has said, and their statements are borne out by the facts that readily present themselves. The different grain-producing countries of Europe have been robbed of the man power that developed their agriculture, the farms have been devastated and laid waste. Full and complete reliance will have to be placed on the United States and Canada, and from what we see today, it will take the combined forces of these two countries to come anywhere near meeting the cry that will go out for food. The warnings and appeals sent out by the heads of these two countries are none too soon nor too urgent. Therefore, it becomes necessary for those who can produce to exert themselves. Secure land, rent it, buy it. Get it somewhere, some way, and have it operated. The Canadian Government, sending out its appeal, is not selfish in this matter. Thousands of acres in the United States await the tiller's efforts, and none of it should be idle. Canada, too, offers wonderful advantages, with its free lands and its low-priced lands, to those desirous of helping the nation, and improving their own condition at the same time. Many are taking advantage of this wonderful opportunity.—Advertisement.

Too Sick To Work

Many Women in this Condition Regain Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Convincing Proof of This Fact.

Ridgway, Penn. — "I suffered from female trouble with backache and pain in my side for over seven months so I could not do any of my work. I was treated by three different doctors and was getting discouraged when my sister-in-law told me how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped her. I decided to try it, and it restored my health, so I now do all of my housework which is not light as I have a little boy three years old." —Mrs. O. M. Rhines, Ridgway, Penn.

Mrs. Lindsey Now Keeps House For Seven.

Tennille, Ga.—"I want to tell you how much I have been benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. About eight years ago I got in such a low state of health I was unable to keep house for three in the family. I had dull, tired, dizzy feelings, cold feet and hands nearly all the time and could scarcely sleep at all. The doctor said I had a severe case of ulceration and without an operation I would always be an invalid, but I told him I wanted to wait awhile. Our druggist advised my husband to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has entirely cured me. Now I keep house for seven and work in the garden some, too. I am so thankful I got this medicine. I feel as though it saved my life and have recommended it to others and they have been benefited".—Mrs. W. E. Lindsey, R. R. 3, Tennille, Ga.

It is rather amusing to consider how willing the Commercial Club of our County seat is to render assistance to the farmers, by advice of how to sow and plant their crops, and how to feed and care for their horses. They appointed a labor committee last winter to assist the farmers to get any extra help that they might need for springs work, but when it came down to the point of furnishing any help for actual labor on a farm they were unable to deliver the goods. As it is now getting pretty close up to haying and harvest time, we would advise them not to endeavor to get help for the farmers to do actual labor in the fields, as some farmers might be lead to believe from their articles published in the papers that they could get men to do farm work, by applying to the Commercial Club of Thief River Falls, and thus fail to get any harvest or haying help when they most needed it But we will tell you fellows what you can do: Call a meeting and send out men to hold meetings in school houses and instruct the farmers how to cut ice next winter, so they will have a good supply for next summers use. However the Commercial Club are a good lot of fellows who take an active interest in the upbuilding of Pennington County, but as farmers we fear they are failures.

AMERICA IS AT WAR
REMEMBER THIS

America is beginning to wake up the fact that WE are at WAR, with a foreign Monarchy, that would invade our shores. A visit to our County seat on Tuesday disclosed the fact, that our Republican Judge of Probate and U.S. Comissioner was in active training in the manual of arms, with our democratic county Attorney. County Auditor Anderson and deputy Sheriff Paul Midlidge each contribted one son to the first call for volunteers, and they are now in training camps. Do not make the dirty remark, that this is a rich mans war and a poor mans fight, but stand by the country of your birth, or adoption, solid to a man, until we we get through with kaiser Wilhelm, and then we will discuss and settle our political differences among ourselves, without any instructions from "de kaiser" Then Kjomme and Michelet can discuss the tariff, as Democrats and Republicans, BUT NOT NOW.

Kaiser Wilhlem is a pretty big fellow, but when he told the german people that he would pay the last war load with indemnity collected from America, we will show him that he can't deliver the goods.

America is slow to anger, and it takes them a devil of a long time to get their coats off and sleeves rolled up and get ready for action. But "kaiser Wilhelm" will discover that he is in a fight, before he can make America bow the knee, or take off the hat to a foreign monarch, for America now has just began to get warmed up and "clear the decks for action" and they will put thirty million of armed men into the fighting ranks backed up by the money to feed and pay them, before they will ask Kaiser Wilhelm for terms of peace. America have just got started, but they now are coming, and don't propose to be licked by a foreign nation.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of One Hundred Fourteen ($114.60) Dollars interest, which became due May 25th 1915, whereby under the terms of the Mortgage the whole principal sum and interest became and is hereby declared due and payable, to-wit the sum of Two Thousand Two Hundred Seventy-three and 73-00ths ($2,273.73) Dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain Mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Hjalmar H. THE LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Martin Hyland is visiting friends and relatives at Fertile this week.

Pat Koarak is rushing the work on the state road, and now has about one mile finished.

Flax is making a rapid growth now days and it now has plenty of moisture.

Miss Lena Sand is teaching a tearm of Norwegian school in the Arne Mostue building.

Haying season will be about two weeks later than usual this year, but we now have a good prospect for a fair crop.

The heavy rain of yesterday did not have any effect on the Red Lake River, as the dry ground promptly took care of all the water that fell.

England were so glad that the American army and navy had arrived in Europe to help them clean up Germany that they turned in and helped the Americans to celebrate the 4th of July.

This part of the Country was visited by a good old fashioned last seasons soaking rain. There was no hail or wind, or any severe electric storm, but just rain just what we wanted to soak up the meadow lands and make the grass grow.

There was a large attendance at the Sam Swanson benefit party on last Saturday evening and the neat little sum of $84 was raised as a donation to Mr. Swanson who has been sick and unable to work for the past six months.

S.L. Holm gave a Neighborhood party at his farm residence on July 4th, where a number of his friends and neighbors met and spent the afternoon and evening, as we had promised to be at the Hickory celebration, we could not be at two places at the same time, but those who attended report a pleasant time.

There was a large crowd attended the wejnerowski celebration on July 4th, in the town of Hickory Mr. C.L. Hansen of Thief River Falls and Mr. L.C. Simons, of St Paul; delivered the Orations. Mr. Simons patriotic speaking on the war issue brought liberal applause from the crowd, which indicates that there are no slackers among the Patriotic American Citizens of this locality.

Be it known that Edward Singer, of Erie took unto himself a wife a short time ago. It has been the custom in this locality for the young men to give a wedding party but as there was a continued silence from Erie on that subject, the boys turned out on last Saturday evening to chivree the newly married couple. This of course meant the expense of a treat, and as Edward has been spending about all the spare cash he could raise, for the past year in lawsuits he informed the boys that the best he could do was to set up a box of two for fivere's cigars costing at wholesale about $1.25. This looked too small to the boys and they started the serenade in good earnest, when Edward pulled a gun on one of the party and threatened to shoot, but at last consented to buy them a keg of beer, if they would only depart in peace, and as we have not heard of the sheriff or coroner being called, we suppose Edward is now enjoying his honey moon at Erie.

A Puzzle.

Bacon—There's one thing I can't understand. Egbert—What is that? Bacon—When a couple get married they become one. But they say it takes two to make a quarrel.

Eskimo Candy.

Tallow is the Eskimo's candy. It is put up in bright red packages made out of the feet of a waterfowl. The women cut off the red feet of this bird, which is called the dovekie, draw out the bones and blow up the skin so as to make pouches, which they fill with reindeer tallow for their little folk. None of the food that the Eskimos eat seems very inviting to us, but they are extremely fond of it and are very apt to overeat. It is said by explorers who have gone into Greenland that it is no uncommon sight to see an Eskimo man who has eaten an enormous meal of the raw frozen flesh of the reindeer, seal or walrus lying on his back and eating blubber until he cannot move.

When Wild Winds Blow.

Most of us are apt to look on a storm as simply a strong wind blowing straight from one place to another. It is not so at all, for a storm wind always blows in a curve, and a storm is not really a wind, but a whole wheel of winds with curving spokes. These curving spokes represent the various winds, all blowing toward the hub. This hub is called the "eye" of the storm. It is the spot at which the barometer is lowest. On the rim of the wheel the barometer is high, and the nearer the hub the lower is the barometer. This wheel of winds is usually several hundred miles across.

Havana.

Havana, or San Cristobal de la Habana, as it was originally named, was the last of seven cities founded in Cuba by the island's conqueror, the Adelantado Diego Velasquez, the date being July 25, 1515. Since that was twenty-three years after Columbus' discovery there cannot be many new world cities older than Havana, assuming that most of the other six in Cuba have since disappeared.

Famous Talkers.

The art of conversation was not always possessed by literary men. Coleridge and Macaulay were said to absorb so much time on an interesting subject that they were generally regarded as bores, whereas Robert Browning, with all his cumbersome poetry, was fascinating in his talk.

THE NAVY NEEDS MEN! IT NEEDS THEM NOW

The United States Navy has continued its appeal to the Northwest for men to man the fleet by addressing the following appeal to societies and individuals:

CONGRESS GIVES MONEY AND MATERIAL;

THE NORTHWEST MUST GIVE THE MEN!

The Nation has called for its sons. It is up to the Northwest to answer. Young men have been coming forward at a fair rate, but more must come. Part of the fleet is idle and will be until America wakes up. Another 40 men a day would put four more big guns in action.

POWER ENOUGH

Work Your Tractors Night and Day and Plow Every Acre.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Many farmers will not be able to put in their whole acreage on account of the lack of horses or other power. Every tractor in this county should work night and day as long as there remains an acre unplowed. There is still time to put in barley, and corn and potatoes, all three of which are worth almost their weight in gold. We appeal to every tractor owner to offer its services to any man who will not be able to get his soil prepared otherwise.

Our First Theater.

In 1752 the first theater in the United States was opened in the colony of Virginia at old Williamsburg. The originator was an English actor, William Hallam, Sr., who brought his own company from over seas and presented "The Merchant of Venice" as the initial performance. The idea spread rapidly, and soon New York, Philadelphia and the other leading communities of colonial America each had its theater. While the Virginia playhouse was the first in the United States, actors had played in the colonies before this date. The first is said to have been the English strolling player, Anthony Aston, who was known as Mat Medley. The actor and his art of that day were generally despised by the Puritanical colonists. The Massachusetts legislature passed a law shortly after amateurs had given "The Orphans" at the Coffee House in Boston in 1740 which forbade such performances, prescribing a penalty for actors and spectators alike of $25 each.

Evolution of a Name.

Cosmo Innes, in his work on surnames, quotes an instance showing the gradual transformation of a patronymic. "A respectable citizen of Dublin named Halfpenny throve in trade, so his children prevailed on him in his latter years to change the name, which they thought undignified, and this he did chiefly by dropping the last letter. He died and was buried as Mr. Halpen. The fortune of the family did not recede, and the son of our citizen thought proper to renounce retail dealing, and at the same time looked about for a euphonious change of name. He made no scruple of dropping the unnecessary 'h.' That being done, it was easy to go into the Celtic rage, which 'The Lady of the Lake' had just raised to a great height. So he who had run the streets as little Kenny Halfpenny came out at the levees as Kenneth McAlpin, the descendant of a hundred kings."—London Chronicle.

CORN ROOT WORM

200,000,000 Bu. Lost to Corn Crop Annually by This Pest.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

The damage done to corn in the corn belt is estimated to be 200,000,000 bushels annually. In our mad scramble to get corn into the ground this year, we do not want to overlook this tremendous waste. Next to poor seed corn, the corn root worm is the greatest source of loss to corn. The remedy is the rotation of crops. Never grow more than two crops of corn consecutively on the same ground. If you had corn root worm bad last year and it is too late to put in anything else, you had better change to barley. Your seedsman can still furnish you with some excellent seed barley. If you do put in corn on that land, be careful to give your land more than a usual preparation. The time is late and we will have to bend every energy to plant our corn crop.

"Dry Farming" Needed Everywhere.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

When we say "dry farming" we immediately begin to think of the western plains where the rainfall is deficient. We all admit that they should take unusual pains in conserving their moisture.

Well we ought to be ashamed of ourselves in the humid territory. When comes along a year like this, we think we are terribly abused and yet in any of this territory we have had more rain than Western Kansas and Nebraska gets any year.

Therefore, let us take dry farming methods to ourselves. Because in some years the rain comes when we want it, is no excuse for neglecting conservation of moisture.

What is this dry farming? Let us take it up with the clubs and make it an institute subject. Let us get our best farmers to agree to practice it. There is no drought year in the corn belt which does not have more moisture than necessary, if conserved, to raise a crop of corn.

There's a Reason For Everything.

"Wouldn't you try to get a divorce from a woman who abused you and neglected your home and thought more of her [illegible] than she did of you?" thundered the big man.

"I don't think I would," replied Henry Peck. "I am afraid Henrietta would not let me."—Philadelphia Ledger.

STILL TIME TO SOW BARLEY.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

The seeding time of barley should be done later than that of oats or spring wheat, as an early spring frost is more detrimental to young barley than to other small cereals. The season is usually a week later. In Canada barley is sown up into June, but that is not advocated in this country. Still, the second or third week in May will probably be safe this year.

A drill or broadcast seeder is commonly used and the barley is sown at the rate of 1½ to 2 bushels to the acre. Where it is desirable to seed the land down to clover and timothy, 1 to 1½ bushels of seed barley as a nurse crop is sufficient.

TEST BARLEY.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

All seed barley should be tested for vitality before sowing as the seed is quite frequently injured by heating in the stack or bin. If the seed is of low vitality and does not test 90 per cent it should be regarded as inferior and new seed should be purchased.

CORN CULTIVATION

In Periods of Drought Any Cultivated Crop Can Be Greatly Benefited by Continued Cultivation.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

It is a debated question whether or not the mulch conserves moisture, but a shallow cultivation surely does kill the weeds and any farmer who is energetic enough to kill the weeds will get the best crops. There is still time to plant barley ahead of your corn. Don't allow an acre to lay vacant this year.

VALUE OF STRAW.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Don't burn that straw stack. You might just as well burn up dollar bills. In addition to returning actual fertilizing elements to the soil, it adds a large quantity of immensely valuable humus, if carefully spread over the fields.

AMOUNT OF SEED CORN.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

From twelve to fifteen ears of seed corn are required to plant an acre. All corn should be germinated right now in order to test its vitality and you should throw out every weak ear you can find. It will not pay you to plant poor corn this year.

THOSE AWFUL CRAMPS

Suggestions that may save Much Suffering

Marysville, Pa.—"For twelve years I suffered with terrible cramps. I would have to stay in bed several days every month. I tried all kinds of remedies and was treated by doctors, but my trouble continued until one day I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for others. I tried it and now I am never troubled with cramps and feel like a different woman. I cannot praise Lydia E. What He Was Doing.

The motorist pushed his head through a wheel, removed a tire and a couple of cylinders from his left ear and glared at the much too cheerful idiot who stood looking on.

"Well?" he asked, after he had released the spare wheel from his back teeth. "What do you want?"

"Oh, nothing," replied the idiot. "By the way, have you had an accident?"

The motorist nearly swallowed the starting crank.

"Oh, no!" he hissed. "As a matter of fact, I'm just teaching an Egyptian haddock how to sew buttons on policemen's socks!"—London Ideas.

To Hunt Coyotes.

The remaining few "dead shots" in the state of Montana are polishing and oiling the old "six gun" and Winchester, for the decree has gone forth that the coyote must be exterminated. State Veterinarian W. J. Butler approved the plan to send out the best shots in the state to kill off the animals.

Evidence has been brought to light that coyotes are infected with rabies. A cow was found to be infected after having been bitten. Coyotes and wolves, when infected with rabies, will attack any living thing.

GREECE BREAKS WITH ENEMY

ANNOUNCES STATE OF WAR WITH GERMANY EXISTS.

Ministers Instructed to Sever Relations—New Policy Began With Ousting of Constantine.

Athens, June 30.—The Greek government has broken diplomatic relations with Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey. Though war has not yet been declared, the Greek government considers that a state of war exists since its advent to power.

Ministers Instructed.

Paris, June 30.—Telegraphing from Athens under Friday's date the correspondent of Le Temps says:

"The Greek government has directed the Minister to Switzerland, G. Caradja, to communicate to the Greek legations at Berlin, Vienna, Sofia and Constantinople, instructing the ministers to break diplomatic relations between the Greek kingdom and the governments of Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey.

"The Greek ministers at these capitals are instructed to leave their posts with their staffs and to place their archives with the Netherland legations.

"The rupture is based on the incompatibility of maintaining diplomatic relations with governments that are carrying on war in Greek territory."

New Course Began June 12.

Greece's new war course began to be shaped June 12 with the abdication of King Constantine and the accession of Alexander, his second son, as king. The abdication was in effect a dethronement of Constantine, whose pro-German attitude had given the Allies endless trouble.

Eliptherios Venizelos, Greece's leading statesman, was summoned back to the premiership by King Alexander. Venizelos quickly formed a cabinet and the re-establishment of Greek constitutional government, virtually abolished by Constantine, began.

NAVY IS NEARLY DOUBLED

Needs Less Than 25,000 to Reach Authorized Strength.

Washington, June 30. — The navy has almost doubled its personnel since war was declared and now needs less than 25,000 men to bring it up to the new authorized strength of 150,000.

Navl officials have announced that the total enlisted strength then was 125,363. On April 6, the day war was declared, there were 64,680 in the navy.

The marine corps, whose strength on April 6 was 13,260, has recruited to a strength of 26,356. Its authorized total is 30,000.

BAKERS ARE TO CO-OPERATE

Voluntarily Put Business Under Food Administration Control.

Washington, June 29.—The country's bakers have put their industries voluntarily under the food administration and assured Herbert C. Hoover that they would carry out all directions issued by the administration as to the conduct of their business.

A representative of the baking industry will be chosen to serve as a voluntary aide to Mr. Hoover and 200 local committees will be named to carry out his instructions.

One of the first moves will be toward standardization of loaves. The number of styles and sizes will be reduced considerably soon.

Papers Describe Pershing's Welcome.

New York, June 30.—London newspapers just received here show graphically the great welcome which Major General Pershing and his staff received in England. The Times of June 9 devotes several columns to describing the Americans' arrival and topographies of the officers. All the newspapers print descriptions of the American formation and how to tell the rank of the various officers. Several printed lengthy laudatory articles of the American army and its achievements.

PRICE OF COAL TO BE REDUCED

CUT OF $1 TO $1.15 PER TON AT MINES AGREED ON.

New Rates to Be Effective July 1 and Further Decreases in Price Are Seen—Operators Take Action.

Washington, June 29.—An immediate general reduction of $1 to $1.50 a ton in the price of coal at the mine has been agred upon here by representatives of the coal operators.

This reduction is expected to be followed by still further decreases in price after investigation into the costs of mining coal and it is probable that the government will be given a still lower price than the general public. Millions of dollars will be saved to the American people through this decision.

The operators agreed to the immediate reduction at a meeting here after adopting a resolution by which coal prices would be fixed with the aid and approval of the Secretary of the Interior, the Federal Trade commission and the commission on coal production of the National Defense council.

As soon as this resolution was agreed to another one was presented under which it was proposed that the government authorize the government representatives named in the resolution to issue a statement forthwith fixing a tentative price which, in their judgment, shall be a fair and reasonable one for the various districts and to be effective from July 1 until the committee shall fix a permanent price.

FOUR LARGE BRITISH STEAMERS ARE SUNK

List Includes Largest American Vessel Which Has Yet Fallen Victim to U-Boats—Fate of Crews Unknown.

Boston, June 30.—The torpedoing and sinking of four large British cargo-carrying steamers is announced in advices to local insurance offices. The steamers were the Ultonia of the Cunard line, 6,593 tons; Haverford of the American line, 7,495 tons; Buffalo, Wilson line, 2,583 tons, and the Manistee, another Cunard vessel. No details of the losses were given and no mention was made of the fate of the crews.

New York, June 30.—The American line steamer, Haverford, which was under British registry, was said to be the largest American line vessel which has yet fallen prey to a submarine. She was 531 feet long, 59 feet beam and 11,635 gross tons.

WOMEN TO CONTINUE CAPITOL PICKETING

Suffragists Are Undaunted by Arrest and Jailing of Banner Bearers and Claim Many Volunteers.

Washington, June 30.—Women suffragists plan to continue demonstrations before the White House or places President Wilson may visit, despite the arrest of 25 women and the jailing of six in the last week. Miss Alice Paul, head of the women's party, announced that the campaign would be continued and that hundreds of women had volunteered to come to Washington to help.

Portland, Oregon, June 29.—Sixty-five thousand pounds of wool were sold here to Boston interests at 72 cents a pound, said to be the highest price ever paid for wool in the state.

Plan Strike in Ship Yards.

New York, June 28. — Despite the shipping crisis in the United States, 21 of the largest Eastern ship yards will be tied up Saturday by a strike of their 12,000 employes, if the employers do not give them $3 more a week. Secretary of Labor Wilson, after pleading with the builders for days, announced that his effort to get bosses and men together for a conference had failed. The wrangle began a year ago The men, all employed in New York and New Jersey yards, say they will not compromise.

INTERVENTION BY PRESIDENT STOPS "BONE DRY" IDEA

CONFINEMENT OF PROHIBITION LEGISLATION IN FOOD BILL IS LIKELY TO BE CONFINED TO DISTILLED SPIRITS ONLY.

FIGHT ON BEER AND WINE IS BROUGHT TO AN END

Expected Compromise May Later Allow President to Bar Brewing—President's Plea Based On Necessity of Immediate Passage of Food Legislation.

Washington, July 2.—Intervention of President Wilson has checked the "bone dry" national prohibition movement in congress. Confinement of prohibition legislation to distilled beverages without interference with manufacture of beer and wines it is generally agreed will result.

Prohibition leaders were asked by the President, in order to prevent delay in passing the food control bill, to drop their fight against the manufacture of beer, wines and other light intoxicants. With a formal response from the "drys" deferred, Senate leaders of all factions quickly reached an understanding to limit absolute prohibition to distilled spirits.

President Wilson exchanged letters with the Rev. Dr. James Cannon, chairman of the National Anti-saloon league's legislative committee and called Senate leaders to the White House in his effort to harmonize differences and smooth the way for final enactment of the food measure.

President's Letter to Cannon.

In his letter to Dr. Cannon, the President said Senator Martin, the Democratic leader, had asked him to express his views on the food-liquor legislation regarding the "wisest and most patriotic policy to be pursued," and added: "I regard the immediate passage of the bill as of vital consequence to the safety and defense of the nation. Time is the essence and yet it has become evident that heated and protracted debate will delay the passage of the bill indefinitely if the provisions affecting the manufacture of beer and wines are retained and insisted upon. In these circumstances I have not hesitated to say to members of the Senate who have been kind enough to consult me that it would undoubtedly be in the public interest in this very critical matter if the friends of those provisions should consent to their elimination from the present measure. Feeling that your committee is actuated by the same patriotic motives which inspire me, I am confident that these considerations will seem to you, as they seem to me, to be imperative."

Definite Answer Deferred.

Anti-saloon league representatives replied that while recognizing "the force of any appeal from the President and commander in chief of the army and navy in time of war," a definite answer would be deferred until after conference with prohibition leaders in the senate and house.

Informal agreement, however, was reached by the prohibition forces in the senate for virtual abandonment of the fight to include beer and wines in the liquor legislation. Their future efforts probably will be directed to obtaining an amendment authorizing the President to suspend manufacture of malt, fermented and vinous beverages in his discretion. President Wilson told the senators with whom he conferred that as a compromise and to get action on the food control legislation he would be willing to have congress clothe him with such authority.

CANADA TO PASS DRAFT BILL

Labor's Threat of Strike Believed Unavailing.

Ottawa, June 30.—Canada's bitterly debated conscription bill is expected to become law, despite the threat in commons from Alphone Verville, Labor member, of a general strike unless the proposed measure is first submitted to the people.

The general feeling is that the bill will pass in the house with from 40 to 60 majority and that it will undoubtedly be carried in the upper house.

Lieutenant's Body Found.

Washington, June 30. — A body washed ashore in the Potomac below the Naval Proving ground at Indian Head, Maryland, has been identified as that of Lieutenant Luther Welsh of Kansas City, who was killed by the explosion of a bomb during air airplane flight on November 8, 1916.

Canadian Officers Reserve Formed

Ottawa, June 30.—Sir Edward Kemp, minister of militia and defense, announces the formation of a "reserve of officers for the Canadian expeditionary force." His announcement said: "There are many officers who, for no other reason than that there were vacant no suitable appointments which could be offered them in Canada, have from time to time been struck off the strength of the Canadian expeditionary force. They are now to be restored to it with the rank and seniority which they held therein."

TO DO NO FIGHTING FOR WEEKS

PERSHING'S MEN NOT TO GO TO TRENCHES NOW.

Plans Closely Guarded—Vast Problems Yet to Be Worked Out—France Shown Friend is At Hand.

Washington, June 30.—Complete reports from Major General Pershing upon the landing of his first expedition in France are still lacking and the War department remains silent. The delay may be accounted for by the report that General Pershing had not personally visited the American encampment.

At the Navy department reports are awaited from the commander of the convoy that accomplished without a marring incident, so far as known, one of the greatest tasks ever assigned a naval force.

There is much discussion as to when the American forces will take over a part of the great battle line in France.

Plans Closely Guarded.

Whatever plans have been made in this regard are closely guarded. No official of any branch of the government would admit having any knowledge on the subject.

In a general way, however, it is known that a considerable period must elapse before they can be thrown forward into the trenches. Vast problems of strategic campaigns, of political effects to be sought and of supply and supply lines must be worked out. The men, fresh from the tropics or from the Mexican border must be carefully acclimated to prevent sickness.

Admittedly the main purpose of sending the force in the brief period that was allowed to make ready and get them across was political.

Friend Is At Hand.

It is understood to be the sentimental rather than practical arguments advanced by members of the French and British commissions which influenced the Washington government in dispatching General Pershing and his men.

RED CROSS AID INCREASES

Millions More to Come From West and Middle West.

Washington, June 29.—New reports of small cities and towns just starting campaigns to swell the Red Cross fund above its present estimated total of $115,000,000 reached headquarters here and encouraged officials to hope the total may be increased by many millions.

From the West and Middle West came a number of messages telling of towns stirred to activity on behalf of the Red Cross for the first time as the formal mercy fund campaign period was closing.

ARGENTINA TO FOLLOW U. S.

Considers Revocation of Neutrality in Great War.

Buenos Aires, June 30.—Argentina appears likely to announce a revocation of her neutrality between Germany and the United States within a few hours. Sinking of the Argentine steamship Toro recently by a German submarine has apparently brought the government to a crisis.

Public sentiment here favors following Brazil's course in aligning with the United States.

Was Costly to Britain.

London, June 28.—The total national expenditure for the nine weeks from October 8 to December 9 last was a daily average of 6,615,000 pounds, says a statement in detail prepared by Andrew Bonar Law, the chancellor of the exchequer, for the House of Commons. For the five weeks from April 1 to May 5, 1917, the statement shows the daily average of expenditure was 7,791,000 pounds, while for the five weeks from May 6 to June 9 it was 7,532,000 pounds, or about $37,000,000 in American money.

Is Your Work Hard?

Work which brings any unusual strain on the back and kidneys tends to cause kidney ailments, such as backache, lameness, headache, dizziness and distressing urinary troubles. Kidney complaints make any kind of work doubly hard and if neglected there is danger of gravel, dropsy or Bright's disease. If your work is hard on the back, keep your kidneys in good condition with Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands rely on them.

A Desperate Fight.

It was in the smoke-room of the village inn. The members of the company had been letting off some pretty tall tales when a rustic in the corner, who had hitherto been quiet, fired off:

"I well remember a vicious old tom cat I had which used to attack all the cats and dogs in the neighborhood. Hearing of another celebrated pugilistic tom in the district, I got the two together, placed them in a box, and weighted the lid. After I finished my tea I went out to see which was the winner, but all was quiet. I quietly opened the lid, and what do you think I saw inside? Only a pair of tales!"—London Ideas.

Under authority given by the measure passed by the City council, prohibiting unpatriotic demonstrations by professional agitators, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, of New York city, who recently arrived in Duluth, was arrested.

Ray P. Speer of St. Paul, publicity manager of the American Association of Fairs and Expositions, has received a telegram from Herbert C. Hoover, food controller, calling him to Washington for a conference on the part of food training camps.

Charles E. Lamberton, Redwood Falls transfer man and garage owner, has been shot and instantly killed here. His alleged slayer, William Rosendahl, formerly a blacksmith in Lamberton's employ, and now an automobile agent, is under arrest.

Brewery officials of Duluth called into conference by Sheriff Meining have pledged their support to the requirements of the Order No. 8, issued by the State Public Safety Commission regulating the sale and disposition of liquor in Minnesota during the war.

The convention of the Minnesota Live Stock Breeders' association was crowded with meetings and addresses. C. H. Frederickson of Clements talked on "use of farm pastures." Dr. C. W. Gay of the University farm, St. Paul, and W. F. Shilling of Northfield also addressed the convention.

GUARD SHORTAGE UP TO GOVERNMENT

RHINOW SENT TO WASHINGTON IN EFFORT TO SAVE STATE'S $22,000 ALLOTMENT.

DENIED THE USE OF UNIFORM

Minnesota Home Guard Companies Hit by New War Department Ruling—Outfits Purchased at Individual Expense.

St. Paul.

In an effort to save for the Minnesota National guard the $22,000 allotted by the federal government which is being held up because of unexplained shortages here, Capt. W. F. Rhinow, acting adjutant general, has been sent to Washington.

Captain Rhinow will place before Brig. Gen. W. M. Mann, chief of the militia bureau, the exact situation here, presenting his reports showing shortages in equipment amounting to more than $38,000 and unpaid bills amounting to $48,000.

Nothing further will be done in requiring an accounting from Adjt. Gen. Fred B. Wood until Captain Rhinow returns, according to Governor Burnquist. The War department officials will be asked to advise the state authorities as to the steps to be taken.

Ruling Hits Home Guards.

The Minnesota home guard is denied permission to wear the regulation army uniform, under a new ruling by the War department, Adjutant General H. T. McCain, Washington, has advised Major Oscar Seebach, home guard organizer of the State Public Safety Commission.

Major Seebach said the order probably will compel members of the citizens' auxiliary companies to discontinue wearing the uniforms they have purchased at individual expense.

The military commissioner of the state war board is in Washington and he may be requested to attempt to prevail on the War department to modify its order, the major said.

To Relieve Crowded Asylums.

Planning to relieve overcrowded conditions in state insane hospitals and asylums, the State Board of Control has opened bids to finish third floor dormitory space in four cottages at the Hastings asylum. The room is expected to accommodate 80 patients. The proposal received from P. O. Nasvik was the lowest and the contract probably will be awarded. Because of condition in the hospitals, numbers of patients are forced to sleep in corridors.

Artillerymen at Fort Snelling.

Immediate mustering into federal service of the First Minnesota Field artillery has been confirmed in advices received from Washington by military officers at the state capitol. Because of the large number of men in the batteries hard training will be instituted at once. Approximately 250 gunners have just had their first experience in drill work and camp life.

Todd County Educator Suspended.

Suspension of Victor S. Knutson, Todd county superintendent of schools, has been ordered by Governor Burnquist, pending investigation of charges of nonfeasance and malfeasance on which members of the board of county commissioners are demanding the superintendent's permanent removal from office.

Third Short of War Strength.

The Third Minnesota regiment is 700 men short of full war strength. Full war strength is 2,002. Colonel Eva of Duluth says recruits are coming fast and he is confident the regiment will be up to its full war strength when the call comes.

To Test War Board's Power.

An action which will indirectly test the power of the Minnesota Public Safety commission and will directly determine property rights valued at several hundred thousand dollars involved by acts of the commission has been filed in Minneapolis.

Second Near War Strength.

The Second Minnesota infantry is in better condition than it has been for years, according to Colonel W. T. Mollison of Faribault. There are now more than 1,200 accepted and ready for service, with 317 recruits not examined.

Crop Prospects Encouraging.

Farm census returns to the Minnesota Public Safety commission are encouraging, Secretary John Pardee says. Increased acreages as well as prospective big yields are shown. The crop estimates are to be made public soon.

Dynamite Near Guard Camp.

Ninety sticks of dynamite packed in a beer case have been found half buried 300 yards east of the camp of the First Minnesota infantry at Fort Snelling by two guards. The discovery was made after Sergeant Clyde M. Waterman of the First infantry and Private Joe Derington, headquarters' company of the Thirty-sixth infantry, saw a suspicious looking man crawling on hands and knees in the grass near where the explosive afterward was found.

SOUNDNESS OF HORSE

One of the First Considerations of the Buyer.

Temporary Unfitness Should Be Distinguished From Permanent Unsoundness—Some of Common Faults and Blemishes.

(By H. H. REESE.)

Selection of a horse must be based primarily on a thorough, systematic examination; the examination should be based on a clear knowledge of desirable and undesirable qualities. Not only the presence of unsoundness but also the condition or seriousness of the unsoundness should be noted. Temporary unfitness should be distinguished from permanent unsoundness.

Shoulders Lacking in Depth and in Good Seat for a Collar.

A hurried examination is likely to prove a disappointment. Observe blemishes, vice, faulty conformation, unsoundness and general characteristics. Common blemishes are scars from old wounds, poll evil, scratches, shoe boils and small ruptures. Common vices are halter pulling, cribbing, kicking, stall walking, weaving, and biting. Common faults of conformation are straight shoulders, crooked, weak or improperly set legs, ewe neck, long, weak back and drooping croup.

Common unsoundness are splints, thoroughpin, spavin, curb, extreme fistula, ringbone, side bones, extreme atrophy of muscles, contracted tendons and broken wind. General characteristics include fleshing, temperament, quality, color, and age. In final selection, look for the good qualities and weigh them against the defects.

Enlargements or scars (due to deformity, unusual mishap, or uncommon disease) not conforming to any of those discussed should cause a horse to be rejected unless the nature of the cause and the detriment to the value and usefulness of the animal is self-evident. Experience gained by examining large numbers of horses will aid in quickening the eye and judgment, thereby making it possible to perceive readily any unusual condition, but it should be remembered that a hurried examination is liable to prove a disappointment, consequently plenty of time should be taken in making the examination, because time is much cheaper than money tied up in an unsatisfactory horse. If possible, get a history of the animal, and while you are about it, get a history of the person having it for sale. So many defects may be covered up by such unfair methods as drugging that it is a good plan to make purchases only from those with good reputations. Horses offered at auction sales should be thoroughly examined previous to their being brought into the ring, or else they should be tried out in compliance with the rules of the sale before time for settlement.

It is well not to form the habit of seeing only the defects, for horses, like people, are seldom perfect, consequently in judging them weigh the good qualities against the bad. A horse should be valued by the amount of service he will perform rather than by his minor shortcomings.

CAUSE OF SCOURS IN CALVES

Avoid Irregular Feeding and Dirty Milk or Pails—Best to Separate Affected Animal.

Scours in calves are caused by irregular feeding, overfeeding, sudden change of feed, fermented feeds, feeding dirty or sour milk or milk of diseased cows, the use of dirty milk pails or feed boxes, and damp, dirty stables. As soon as scours are discovered it is best to separate the affected calf from the others and carefully disinfect the pen.

FEED CALF SEPARATED MILK

This May Be Done Where Animals Are Especially Strong at Birth—Make Change Gradually.

Calves especially strong at birth may be put on separated milk entirely at two weeks of age, but this should not be attempted with weak ones. Until the calf is in vigorous and thrifty condition no attempt should be made to change to separated milk. This change should always be made gradually.

LATE POTATO BLIGHT SPRAY

Work Should Begin as Soon as Plants Are Six Inches High and Continue at Intervals.

The weather conditions which favor the spread of late potato blight are a humid, still atmosphere with a temperature around 73 degrees F. Above 78 F. and below 50 F. there is practically no germination of the blight spores. Since spraying for late blight is a preventive rather than a curative measure, spraying should begin as soon as the plants are six inches high and should continue at intervals of one or two weeks, depending upon weather conditions until near the time of maturity.

The effectiveness of spraying as a preventive depends upon the thoroughness with which it is done. It is essential that the whole plant be kept constantly covered with the mixture if the blight spores are to be prevented from finding a place of entrance into its surface.

The wheels of the sprayer do not seem to injure the vines sufficiently to be a source of apprehension, even when they are large and cover the ground, as is often the case late in the season.

ESTIMATE OF DAY'S PLOWING

Time Required to Plow an Acre Depends on Size of Plow and Number of Horses Used.

Farmers frequently want to know how much land can be plowed in a day and how much work it requires to break an acre. Records at the Missouri College of Agriculture on 2,122 acres of land show that it required 3.4 hours of man labor and 9.3 hours of horse labor for each acre. Of course, the time required to plow an acre will depend on the size of the plow and the number of horses used. A four-horse gang plow with two 12-inch bottoms will average about 4.12 acres a day of 9.6 hours when it is running six inches deep. The same plow running eight inches deep will break a quarter of an acre less. A three-horse sulky with a 14 or 16-inch bottom will average about 2.5 acres at a six-inch depth, and about .2 acre less for the eight-inch depth. A two-horse 14-inch walking plow will break about 1.75 acres a day at a six-inch depth and about .2 acre less at the eight-inch depth.

GOOD RACK FOR IMPLEMENTS

Device Shown in Illustration Keeps Tools Together and Saves Gardener Much Time.

To have the tools within reach makes for economy of time in putting in odd moments in the garden. Tools have a way of scattering and hiding when wanted most. A tool rack as illustrated, placed in a handy place, keeps the tools together. Such a rack is merely a modification of a carpenter's saw horse. Holes bored through the top hold the handles of tools and a board across the bottom is for the handles to rest on.

PLAN TO FERTILIZE TUBERS

Use of Barnyard Manure and Acid Phosphate Recommended as Ideal by Ohio Station.

Selection of a good clover sod where potatoes have not grown for at least five years, and the use of barnyard manure with acid phosphate are given by the Ohio experiment station as ideal conditions for fertilizing potatoes. After 23 years' investigations with this crop the experiment station advises farmers to plow under 12 to 16 tons of manure per acre if plenty is available, and then to apply about 300 pounds of acid phosphate per acre as a surface dressing. If manure is scarce four or five tons per acre may be used, and then 400 pounds of acid phosphate along with 100 pounds of nitrate of soda will yield about the same results. These experiments have shown that fertilizer should be spread over all the land and not confined to the potato rows, for in this way the potato roots spread out more widely and succeeding crops make better use of what the potatoes leave.

LOOK OUT FOR SQUASH BUGS

Insects Attack Melon, Cucumber and Squash Vines When Plants Are Small—Use Netting.

Look out for the yellow striped squashbugs that attack melon, cucumber and squash vines when the plants are small. The best preventive is to put a mosquito-netting tent over each hill, using two little sticks as supports, and covering the edges with soil to hold the netting in place. Erect these tents as soon as the plants come through the ground, or sooner, and leave them in place until the vines begin to push for room. Then store the netting for future use.

Too, Too True.

"Life is made up of one darned thing after another," remarked Congressman Hammfatt sadly.

"I seem to have heard that before," said the loyal constituent.

"Perhaps you have," admitted the distinguished statesman, "but if you held my job representing that bunch of kickers down home, all of whom want jobs with big salaries and no duties, you would realize that the author of the epigram knew what he was talking about."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Mrs. Smythe—Yes; she gives tone to the establishment; she dresses so well, you know. I can't afford new clothes myself—war economy, you know—and so I go out the back door, and in that way do not bring discredit upon the house.

Practice may not make the lawyer perfect, but enough of it will make him rich.

Save the Babies

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. There can be no danger in the use of Castoria if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher as it contains no opiates or narcotics of any kind.

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

Raise High Priced Wheat on Fertile Canadian Soil

Canada extends to you a hearty invitation to settle on her FREE Homestead lands of 160 acres each or secure some of the low priced lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. This year wheat is higher but Canadian land just as cheap, so the opportunity is more attractive than ever. Canada wants you to help feed the world by tilling some of her fertile soil—land similar to that which during many years has averaged 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Think of the money you can make with wheat around $2 a bushel and land so easy to get. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed farming in Western Canada is as profitable an industry as grain growing.

The Government this year is asking farmers to put increased acreage into grain. There is a great demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for service. The climate is healthful and agreeable, railway facilities excellent, good schools and churches convenient. His Most Exciting Experience.

A Welsh officer, well known as a Rugby footballer, was asked what was his most exciting experience at the front. He said he could not decide, but that the following incident was one of his most thrilling experiences. He had come from the trenches, and was looking forward to a fairly restful time in billets. Entering his room, he was about to throw himself into a seat when he heard a hissing noise. It sounded just like a lighted fuse, and, with thoughts of spies and bombs flashing through his mind, he forgot his fatigue in a wild dash outside. Getting to shelter, he waited to hear the building being blown up, but a minute passed and nothing happened. Then his orderly poked his head out from somewhere and said, "Kettle's singing, sir."

Twenty-Five Years' Experience With Kidney Remedy

Between twenty-five and thirty years ago I commenced selling Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and during all that time I have never heard a single complaint from my customers; they are more inclined to praise it; and judging from their favorable remarks and the repeated sales I enjoy I am confident that Swamp-Root is a valuable medicine for the troubles for which it is intended.

DISRAELI MADE GREAT COUP

Purchase of Suez Canal by England Great Stroke From Both Political and Financial Standpoints.

As we move away from the day in which they labored, Disraeli looms larger as a British statesman and Gladstone smaller. Once these legislative gladiators appeared just the reverse.

Gladstone never did anything for his empire of such transcendent importance as Disraeli's financial coup in buying control of the Suez canal from the khedive of Egypt, Girard observes in the Philadelphia Ledger. That ended finally the French hopes of empire in the East.

Besides delivering a mighty political stroke for his country, which reminds one of Jefferson's purchase of Louisiana, Disraeli made a financial investment that was worthy of Rothschild.

The Suez canal stock which he bought—176,600 shares out of a total of 400,000—are now worth just seven times what England paid for them. Their par value is $100, and a dividend of 18 per cent has just been declared, and it was over 30 per cent before the war cut down canal traffic.

The Panama canal will in time become a Standard Oil type of investment for Uncle Sam.

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR
HARRIET G. HUNT, PUB.

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 30 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn. under the Act of Congress of March 3,1879

The manufacture of beer and wine is not to be interfered with by the government at present. Congress see the terrible hole that it would make in the revenue of the government and promptly dodged the responsibility of stopping the manufacture of beer.

The Newspapers have received the thanks of the government for their generous donations of free space for the advertising of the liberty bonds. There is never any doubt of the patrotism, of the newspapers to come to the aid of of the government, but they will also make it their business to releeve some of them congressmen of their job, that have been making persistant efforts to drive the newspapers out of business to please a few cranks.

The Fourth of July oration of C.L.Hanson, delivered at the celebration in Hickory township was listened to by a large and appreciative audience. His explanation of the cause of the difference in the price of farm produce, between the producer and consumer, is likely to make the farmers sit up and take notice. Mr. Hanson said that the men elected to represent the people in legislative bodies spent lots of time passing laws to prohibit gambling, that is such small games as pennie anti in your own private homes, while the Chamber of Commerce was gambling by the millions with our farm produce and not an act passed by either Congress or the legislature to prohibit it. He explained the difference between a politician, who got elected to office for his own private gain, by reason of being a good talker, and a business man who had the interests of his constituents at heart, and spent his time and energy for the benefit of the people he was elected to serve. The historical part of his address was well arranged and delivered and was a plain plea for patriotism at this time.

ALL ANIMALS ARE ACTORS

Never before in the history of the circus business has such a display of educated wild animals been exhibited as can be found with the Yankee Robinson Three Ring Wild Animal circus this season. Animals carry on, almost the entire performance. Not only are the wild animals displayed in steel bound arenas in the big tent in all kinds of acts and tricks, but the performance has lost none of the old favorite stunts of the circus we have all visited every year. Clowns by the dozen; led by such international favorites as Billy Jamieson, Freddie Gay, Eddie Dorie, Joe Marvello and a host of run makers who have no peer, keep the audience in a continual uproar.

Two trains of cars, a herd of elephants and camels, a complete carnival company, a wild animal display with every animal an actor, a wild west performance led by Jim Kinney—the world's greatest bucking horse rider, the finest horses ever exhibited—in fact the greatest and most satisfying performance ever offered, is the promise of Yankee Robinson. This tremendous aggregational of shows will exhibit at (here, run date and town) Thief River Falls Minnesota, July 11th. Adv.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Diet and Health.

In an article on "Taming the Liver" World's Work says that the daily meal of the average business man consisting of meat and potatoes and white bread is ideal for inducing constipation. Most of us should not eat more than once a day. Eat the shells of your baked potatoes and eat whole wheat bread or graham for the help that what we call "roughage" has in stimulating bowel action. And see to it that you take liberal portions of at least two kinds of vegetables at both luncheon and dinner, such vegetables as peas, beans, lettuce, parsnips, carrots, turnips, celery, oyster plant, cabbage, Brussels sprouts, tomatoes, salsify, Spanish onions, asparagus and spinach. If you dislike these you will be able to substitute fruits that you do like. Eat the right things, get sufficient exercise and rest and you will have no need for habit forming laxatives which eventually may do you much harm.

MONEY IN BARLEY.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Those who have been disappointed in getting spring wheat seed are able to still make an even more profitable crop by putting in barley. The Wisconsin Experiment Station with headquarters at the University in charge of R. A. Moore, can furnish on telegram orders pedigreed barley by express in almost any quantities. The seedsmen are well supplied with this seed, and farmers who have otherwise idle land, can still make barley-raising a great success. Barley should be a leading crop wherever spring wheat can be grown and in many cases far their south where other crops may have to be plowed up.

What "Barrage Fire" Is.

An interesting feature of artillery fire is the "curtain" or "barrage" fire. This means simply keeping up such a terrific fire on a certain area that an enemy cannot or will not cross it. When an infantry attack is launched a barrage on the ground beyond the enemy's front line prevents his re-enforcements coming up while the attacking infantry are having it out with the defenders of the trench. If the attack carries beyond the first line the artillery of the defense promptly interposes a barrage to prevent its reaching the second line. If the attack on the first line fails the defending artillery puts a barrage behind the attacker's line to prevent re-enforcements coming up to it and to enable the victorious defenders to counterattack and destroy the enemy in his own trenches. It is merely a wholesale development of a long established method of supporting the infantry.—Major E. D. Scott in National Service Magazine.

Mystery of a Fish.

In the economy of nature nothing is more remarkable than the metamorphosis of the flounder, which when young swims in an upright position, as do all other fish, but when maturity develops it becomes topheavy, falls over on its side and its existence is passed as a flat fish.

That nature moves in a mysterious way is here freely illustrated, for when the flounder falls the two eyes, which originally were on either side of the head, are transposed to the upper side of the fish, where they always face the light.

The process by which this strange change is accomplished has never been discovered by scientists and is a marvelous instance of nature's operations, for while the fish usually rests upon bottom it can readily swim about in any depth of water.—New York Sun.

A Short Business Talk.

In a certain store the merchandise manager sent for the ready to wear and millinery buyers and said to them:

"You men are getting a bad accumulation of stock that is hard to move. Hereafter you will make a daily and weekly inventory and send the report to this office."

Both buyers declared this to be impossible, but the merchandise man told them to go and do it. Especially he wanted them to show the age of the goods in stock, the sizes and the colors.

After attempting to take some of these daily inventories the buyers decided that an easier way would be to get busy and sell the goods faster. This same plan has been used in many departments with fine results.

There is nothing like the spot light to engender selling activity in a store.—Philadelphia Record.

Didn't Wait the Attack.

At Boulogne during a royal reception some years ago a number of English ladies in their anxiety to see everything pressed with such force against the soldiers who were keeping the line that the soldiers were forced to give way and generally were, as policemen say, "hindered in the execution of their duty." The officer in command, observing the state of affairs, called out: "One roll of the drum! If they don't stand back kiss them all!" After the first sound of the drum the ladies took to flight.

"If they had been French," said a Parisian journal, "they would have remained to a woman."

Inspiration in Dreams.

Coleridge must be added to the list of authors who have found inspiration in dreams, for he himself has told us that he composed over 200 lines of the "Kubla Khan" during a sleep of three hours. On awaking he wrote down the fragment now existing, but the interruption of a visitor banished the rest from his mind. The first idea of "The Ancient Mariner," too, was suggested to the poet by a dream of his friend Cruikshank. And Kipling's "Greatest Story in the World" was but the half remembered dream of a commonplace young man.—London Mail.

His Modesty.

"Are you an art connoisseur?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Cumrox, "although I should never speak of myself as such."

"Why not?"

There will be a big ball at the S.L Holm hall on tomorrow evening. All are invited. Ladies bring a basket lunch.

Mr. Wm Causin, Miss Ella and Otto Causin, and Stephen Singer attended the circus from Kratka Township Wednesday,

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hyland, Artie Hyland Miss Edith Gustofson, O.M. Mandt and Edwin Lunde of Deer Park attended the circus Wednesday.

Ole Vattendahl completed the new addition to our Office this week, which will give us better room for the Post Office and printing office.

People can get a good idea of how aeroplanes work in time of war, by a visit to the Pennington County Fair Aug, 1, 2, and 3rd, as there will be exhibition flights given each day, by an experienced aviator.

Elo Sanders and wife, Mrs. Ole Overum and two children, Mr. and Mrs Henry Arndt, and Mrs. Morgan Vaughn, T. S. Jacobson boys Wm Korstad Edon Davis Miss Arvella Heggestuen and Mrs. W. G. Hunt, of Highlanding attended the circus at Thief River Falls Wednesday.

The Pennington County Fair is to be held at Thief River Falls, on Aug 1,2, and 3rd, this year. Farmers are especially urged to to make exhibits at the fair this year, as a good display of farm produce, is what adds interest to a fair. There is to be a big Program of instertainment to amuse the people this year.

What might have been a fatal accident happened at the Highlanding ferry last Saturday. But while it was a serious mishap, we still consider it fortunate as the chances were more than even that it might have resulted in the loss of life. C. L. Hanson, president of the First National Bank of Thief River Falls was on his way to Deer Park Township, and in crossing the Highlanding ferry the auto brake failed to work and the auto with its occupant ran over the end of the ferry into the river. As it was near the bank the water was only about four feet deep and when the auto made the plunge it remained right side up, with Mr. Hanson seated at the wheel, who escaped without any injury. James O'Brien and Eddy Hyland assisted Mr. Hanson to get the auto onto the land and Fred Haug came up from Thief River Falls Sunday, and ran the auto back to Thief River Falls.

NEW BRIDGE

The County Comissioners, at their meting on Wednesday approved the petition of the people to issue the bonds of Pennington County for the construction of a bridge across the Red Lake River at Highlanding. We don't believe that any board of County Commissioners since organization of Pennington County ever did an act that will meet with more general approval than this one.

We sit down with a sigh of relief, as it has been a long and tedious fight to get this matter up to the point of having the Commissioners pass this resolution. We started the fight nearly two years ago for a bridge at Highlanding, which is now ended.

The first steps to be taken was to get government clearance for the bridge which we did, by getting Congressman Steenerson to pass an act through Congress granting permission to the township of Highlanding, for be it known that our County Commissioner would not ask for this act to be passed by Pennington County. It took about a year to get the act through and then the Town of Highlanding very generously donated their right to Pennington County. The next complaint was that there was no money to build the bridge. But when the session laws came out last spring with that law in granting the Commissioners a right to bond a County for the Construction of one necessary bridge, there was an order left this office by next mail to C.A. Pitkin of Thief River Falls to draw the petition and that is the petition that was filed with the board on the 10th of July. THE SUNBEAM don't ask any credit for anything but had we just remained silent, there would have been no more prospect for a bridge across the Red Lake River at Highlanding today than there was three years ago.

THE FARMERS STAYED

The farmers of the First Congressional District of North Dakota stood solidly by Baer, their Non-partisan candidate for Congress at Tuesdays election, and he got 1,500 more votes than his nearest opponent, O.B. Burtness, who ran on the Republican ticket and is still running.

John Baer is the man who drew the cartoons for the Non-partisan Leader last year, which were of such great assistance to win the election for the farmers cause in North Dakota, and the farmers elected him to Congress Tuesday.

Teeth of the Ancients.

The silence of the classics certainly seems to indicate that the Greeks and Romans suffered very little from their teeth. Words for toothache and for tooth extracting instruments can, indeed, be found in the Greek and Latin dictionaries, but the authors quoted for them are generally late and always uninteresting. We can hardly believe that if toothache had been common in Athens Aristophanes would have made no jokes about it. But a classical scholar may pretty safely be defied to cite a single Greek or Latin passage about it. Even Lucretius, when he gets on the subject of teeth in a passage where a reference to toothache might be expected, merely refers to the jar given to the teeth by very cold water or by biting a stone in one's bread.—London Chronicle.

Kilted Troops.

The Greek kilted troops, the Evzones, bear a variant of a name which was given to troops in the days of ancient Greece. Euzonoi, meaning well girdled and so girt up for exercise as kilted men are, were light troops or even the heavily armed hoplitai, but without their weighty shields. At first, however, the term, as in Homer, was used only regarding women, the "zone" being the lower girdle worn by them about the waist, but by an easy and natural transition this came to mean a man's belt. Then, as the belt supported the short skirts, kilted men were called well belted.

Use of Gas.

It is now a hundred years since gas was first used for illumination in this country, and this is supposed to be "the age of electricity," yet the amount of gas consumed is still increasing. There has indeed been a falling off in the amount used for lighting, but a great gain in the amount used for fuel. This is not only the age of electricity, but also the age of the gas burning cook stove.

Power of a River.

There are more spindles turned in the mills of Lawrence by the power of the Merrimac river than are turned by any other river in any other city in the world. Four hundred acres of mills, employing 40,000 hands, put out 2,000,000 tons of woven fabrics each year.—Exchange.

Healthful Whipping.

It is considered beneficial to be whipped or spanked provided it is done mechanically. In the mechano therapy departments of up to date institutions the whipping post, a mechanical device for therapeutic paddling, is an accredited healing machine. You are whipped by straps of heavy cloth or leather attached to two rapidly revolving posts. When you take the treatment you step backward into the flying whips and receive their blows upon your legs, back, abdomen or chest, depending upon the malady from which you are suffering. The impact of the straps is just sufficient to set the blood in free circulation. There is no smarting, stinging sensation because the straps are broad enough to eliminate any possibility of a cutting blow. You are paddled rather than lashed. The whipping post is valuable in many types of nervousness.—Popular Science Monthly.

Using Up Energy.

"A calory is the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of one pint of water 4 degrees Fahrenheit. If a man rises from his chair and walks about eight feet, then returns, he uses up one of these units," writes Dr. Edwin F. Bowers in "Sidestepping Ill Health."

"Yet the body, even while resting or quiet in sleep, is constantly using up energy. It is also giving off heat about as rapidly as a sixteen candle power electric lamp."

To make up for this constant loss of heat and energy from 2,000 to 3,000 calories are needed every twenty-four hours. This is why we eat, and it behooves us to see that our food furnishes about the right number of calories.

POWDER HOUSE PERILS.

A "Jag" Without Whisky and a Weird Nervous Disorder.

Alcohol is greatly feared by the powder people, and rightly so. But they cannot eliminate a strange malady that appears among their workmen in the powder mills. As subterranean labor in compressed air produces "the bends," work in the powder mills creates the "powder house jag," which is described as follows by Merle Crowell in the American Magazine:

A powder house is no place for an unsteady hand or an unseeing eye. But the "powder house jag," a freak product of the plants themselves, is something which no amount of diligence can forefend. Large quantities of alcohol are used in the making of smokeless powder, and the air in the shops frequently gets heavy with its fumes. Men have been known to leave the plants reeling and stupefied, while one serious accident was caused because a fume fuddled workman threw on both the high pressure and low pressure brakes at the same time.

A weird nervous disorder that steals upon powder makers has been called, "powderitis." Treading all day with rubber sole shoes in a shop which a vagrant spark will change into a crater, they get keyed up to a nervous tension that never runs down, with the result that even when off duty they nearly jump through their collars at an unexpected flash of light. Although powder, unless it is confined, does not explode at a spark under normal conditions, a powder shop may be changed into an inferno of wildfire in a few seconds.

Window Glass.

It is certain that there were glass windows in Pompeii, as the proof is found in its ruins. In more modern times it is known that windows of some kind were glazed so early as the third century, if not before, though the fashion was not fairly introduced until it was done by Benedict Biscop about 674. Windows of glass were used in private houses in Italy as early as 1177. —Exchange.

CORN ROOT WORM

200,000,000 Bu. Lost to Corn Crop Annually by This Pest.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

The damage done to corn in the corn belt is estimated to be 200,000,000 bushels annually. In our mad scramble to get corn into the ground this year, we do not want to overlook this tremendous waste. Next to poor seed corn, the corn root worm is the greatest source of loss to corn. The remedy is the rotation of crops. Never grow more than two crops of corn consecutively on the same ground. If you had corn root worm bad last year and it is too late to put in anything else, you had better change to barley. Your seedsman can still furnish you with some excellent seed barley. If you do put in corn on that land, be careful to give your land more than a usual preparation. The time is late and we will have to bend every energy to plant our corn crop.

"Dry Farming" Needed Everywhere.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

When we say "dry farming" we immediately begin to think of the western plains where the rainfall is deficient. We all admit that they should take unusual pains in conserving their moisture.

Well we ought to be ashamed of ourselves in the humid territory. When comes along a year like this, we think we are terribly abused and yet in any of this territory we have had more rain than Western Kansas and Nebraska gets any year.

Therefore, let us take dry farming methods to ourselves. Because in some years the rain comes when we want it, is no excuse for neglecting conservation of moisture.

What is this dry farming? Let us take it up with the clubs and make it an institute subject. Let us get our best farmers to agree to practice it. There is no drought year in the corn belt which does not have more moisture than necessary, if conserved, to raise a crop of corn.

There's a Reason For Everything.

"Wouldn't you try to get a divorce from a woman who abused you and neglected your home and thought more of her club than she did of you?" thundered the big man.

"I don't think I would," replied Henry Peck. "I am afraid Henrietta would not let me."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Luxury and Labor.

Happiness.

Happiness rarely is absent. It is that we know not of its presence. The greatest felicity avails us nothing if we know not that we are happy.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Diet and Health.

In an article on "Taming the Liver" World's Work says that the daily meal of the average business man consisting of meat and potatoes and white bread is ideal for inducing constipation. Most of us should not eat more than once a day. Eat the shells of your baked potatoes and eat whole wheat bread or graham for the help that what we call "roughage" has in stimulating bowel action. And see to it that you take liberal portions of at least two kinds of vegetables at both luncheon and dinner, such vegetables as peas, beans, lettuce, parsnips, carrots, turnips, celery, oyster plant, cabbage, Brussels sprouts, tomatoes, salsify, Spanish onions, asparagus and spinach. If you dislike these you will be able to substitute fruits that you do like. Eat the right things, get sufficient exercise and rest and you will have no need for habit forming laxatives which eventually may do you much harm.

PRESIDENT ORDERS STRICT EMBARGO ON FOOD EXPORTS

PROCLAMATION PROSCRIBING THAT EVERY COMMODITY MUST BE CENSURED FOR USE AT HOME.

TEUTON POWERS CUT OFF; NEUTRALS PROVIDED FOR

Makes It Plain That if United States Is to Feed the World She Is Going to Control the Business With an Iron Hand—No Sustenance for Enemies.

Washington, July 10—President Wilson has issued his long expected embargo proclamation and made it plain that if the United States is to feed the world she is going to control the business with an iron hand.

The embargo includes every basic commodity in the list of things that may not be exported without the license of the Secretary of Commerce.

The President specifies every country in the world, allied, neutral and enemy countries to which the embargo commodities may not be shipped.

To Cut Off Germany.

But primarily the embargo was issued to check the export of foodstuffs to neutrals adjacent to Germany. The President has determined that no more sustenance shall reach our enemies through these mediums.

Mr. Wilson's proclamation does not mean that none of the commodities may be exported. They may be exported only in such quantities as:

First—To relieve the stringency and high prices in our own country.

Second—To effectually prevent the neutrals from sending any possible surplus to Germany, and,

Third—To provide so far as possible, an equable distribution of the food, fuel and iron supply among the nations of the Allied world.

The first effect of the proclamation will be the immediate organization in London of the buying council for the Allies. Once established this council will proceed with the purchase of wheat through one central agency and it's allotment to all the countries of the world outside the Central Powers.

Wheat Purchasing Agency Planned.

The council will immediately establish an agency in the United States for the purchase of our wheat. It is probable that the Federal food administration will be asked to perform this function under the direction of Herbert Hoover.

This step was not taken without strenuous opposition both from the neutrals and from England. The President has been convinced, however, that the instrument of control must be placed in the hands of the United States.

If, as the neutrals allege, their present imports from this country are no more than enough to make up something like their own needs in view of the cutting off of other sources of supply like Russia and Roumania, they will have to show this to the exports council.

And the exports council will have to be "shown" beyond the shadow of a doubt. This will be difficult for the neutrals to do. It is known here that the government's own agents have sized up the situation abroad in a thorough manner. The best opinion is that the recent figures made public as to the amount of foodstuffs finding its way through neutrals into Germany were very conservative.

NIVELLE IS OUSTED AS COMMANDER OF FRENCH

Serious Mistakes Admitted by War Minister in Last Drive Despite It Was Success.

Paris, July 10.—General Nivelle, who was commander-in-chief of the French offensive last April, has been relieved of his command. War Minister Paintlev made this announcement at the public session of the chamber.

Other military chiefs responsible for the offensive were also ousted, he said.

While admitting that serious mistakes were made, he asserted that the drive was nevertheless a real success.

There were stormy scenes in the chamber. Deputy Accambray was hooted down when he charged the government with sending men to the United States who had been relieved of their commands by Parliament and who were trying to use America as a "springboard."

The war minister said peace now would mean German domination of the seas and of the world's commerce.

Farmers Arm to Oppose I. W. W.

Portland, Ore., July 10.—I. W. W. strikers have tied up logging camps in eastern Washington and the eastern Idaho panhandle. Threats in the Yakima valley have led to requests for troops. Farmers are forming home defense guards, armed and prepared to resist activities of the I. W. W. members of which, it is believed, intend burning the wheat fields. "The situation, from information which has been coming to me, is much more alarming than the people realize," said Gov. James Withycombe of Oregon.

LIKELY TO BE LONG SESSION

NO EARLY ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS IS SEEN.

Leaders of Opinion It Will Take Weeks to Work Out Related Revenue Measures.

Washington, July 10.—The prohibition issue in Congress may cause a general revision of legislative plans and indefinitely prolong the war sessions.

With the House recorded for prohibiting manufacture of all intoxicants and the Senate favoring a ban on manufacture and importation of distilled beverages only, leaders expressed belief that it may take weeks to work out the related revenue and other problems which cannot be settled until Congress determines its course on the liquor question.

Cloture May Be Invoked.

Having disposed of the prohibition features for the time being, the Senate will resume consideration of other features of the administration food control bill with the leaders expecting to pass it this week even if cloture is necessary.

While the Senate continues its struggle with food legislation this week, the House will consider the administration trading with the enemy bill, while a committee begins hearings on the new administration measure enlarging the aviation service.

Government Coal Control.

In the Senate the section of the food bill proposing federal authority to commandeer factories, packing houses, mines and other plants and to operate them and fix employees' wages is to be declared. Other important features are the minimum price fixing provision and extension of government control to steel, iron, cotton, wool and other products.

Senate leaders and the Senate interstate commerce committee, which will meet today for that purpose, plan amendments extending government control over coal.

UNION OF 7,000 MILLERS TO WIN WAR PLANNED

J. F. Bell, of Minneapolis, Chairman of Provisional National Committee, to Mobilize Industry.

Minneapolis, July 7.—James F. Bell, of Minneapolis, has been appointed chairman of the provisional national committee to mobilize the milling industry to help win the war for the United States.

Announcement that Mr. Bell is to head such a committee is the first intimation that a plan is in the formative stage to unite 7,000 flour mills of the country in wartime productive, distributive, and price control work that the country's food supply may be conserved.

French Submarine Is Sunk.

Paris, July 8.—The submarine Ariane was torpedoed and sunk by a German U boat in the Mediterranean June 19, according to an official announcement of the ministry of marine. All officers and part of the crew perished. Nine were saved.

Swedish Glass Industry Hit.

Stockholm, July 9.—Lack of raw materials, principally soda, already has compelled Swedish glass manufacturers to restrict production, and it is feared that it will have to cease altogether in two of three months more unless import conditions change. The Swedish glass industry, which is considerably more than 200 years old, is one of the country's most important industries, employing nearly 6,000 persons and having an annual output around $3,500,000, of which more than one-third is exported.

HALF BILLION MORE FOR SHIPS

SUM TO BE ASKED OF CONGRESS AT ONCE.

Building of 5,000,000 Tons in Eighteen Months, Instead of 3,000,000 Is Plan Now Being Considered.

Washington July 10—Another appropriation of half a billion dollars for shipbuilding probably will be asked of Congress immediately by the administration. Contracts already let and about to be closed, the shipping board announced, have absorbed the first $500,000,000.

President Wilson's approval for the program is yet to be obtained, but it is understood the President is in full sympathy with officials who believe the Allies cannot win the war unless every resource is used to construct a great American merchant fleet.

First Estimates Exceeded.

First estimates of 3,000,000 tons construction within 18 months will be far exceeded if the plans of the shipping board and Major General Goethals are carried. The present aim is to build at least 5,000,000 tons dead weight of shipping in addition to vessels already under construction for private account which will be taken over by the government. The second sum asked may be used largely for wooden construction.

General Goethals' attitude towards wooden ship construction still is somewhat in doubt, but recent reports have indicated that he is favoring a larger wooden ship program.

WHEAT CROP ESTIMATED AT 656,000,000 BUSHELS

Visible Supply of Important Cereal Shows Decrease During Last Week in June.

Washington, July 9.—The visible supply of wheat in the United States decreased 1,450,000 bushels during the week ending June 30, 1917. This was a decrease of 9.3 per cent on the visible supply of June 23. The visible supply of wheat for the week ending June 23 was 15,695,000 bushels and for the wek ending June 30 14,209,000 bushels as compared with 48,291,000 bushels for the week ending June 30, 1916.

An estimate of the probable United States wheat crop in 1917 based on reports up to June 1 is 656,000,000 bushels.

DRAFTING OF ARMY DELAYED

Organization Completed in Few States—Methods Not Disclosed.

Washington, July 9.—Prospects for setting in motion the draft machinery for the new national army Monday, as planned by Provost Marshal General Crowder, are regarded as remote, since organization is complete in only eight states. Delinquent states probably will make it necessary to defer the first drawing till the middle of the week.

The method to be followed in making selections has not been disclosed by war department officials.

Northwest Sailors Made Officers.

Washington, July 7.—The Navy department has announced the appointment as warrant officers of the following men from Minnesota and the Northwest: As boatswain, Carl R. Sauke, Heltva, assigned to the Wisconsin; Louis H. Rassler, Minneapolis, on the Navajo; Fillmore S. D. Lyman, Minneapolis, on the Nevada; Richard A. Vallcrecht, Hanover, on the Minnesota; Carl J. Hardahl, Dell Rapids, S. D., on the Utah. As chief machinists, Adolph Peterson, St. Paul, and Frank H. Bassen, New Ulm.

POLITICAL CRISIS OF SERIOUS NATURE FACED BY KAISER

REPORT THAT HOLLWEG IS TO BE DISMISSED IN FACE OF CRY FOR PEACE TERMS AND REFORMS.

SPEAKER IN REICHSTAG ATTACKS PAN-GERMANS

Field Marshal Von Hindenburg and Gen. Von Ludendorff Are Called to Berlin for Conference With Emperor—Hair Trigger Tension Exists.

Zurich, via Paris, July 10—A serious political crisis has arisen in Germany. A Berlin telegram to the Koelnische Zeitung says it is probable that the Kaiser will dismiss Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg. The German government's semi-official mouthpiece, the Nord Deutsche Allegemine Zeitung, mentions Vice Chancellor Dr. Karl Helfferich, who was the first German food dictator, as the most probable successor to Hollweg should the latter fall.

Hair Trigger Tension.

Berlin, July 9.—This is a day of "excursions and alarms." Following the mass of plain spoken editorial comment based on the hair trigger tension in the relations between the Reichstag and the Government, comes the official news that Field Marshal von Hindenburg and General von Ludendorff have arrived in Berlin for a conference with the Emperor.

Situation Is Critical.

The identity of the member of the Reichstag who launched forth in candid exposition of the situation at home and abroad now has been established definitely. The Tageblatt names Mathias Erzberger, a leader of the Clerical Center, as the man who paved the way for the discussion which resulted in a common meeting ground for all but the Pan-German faction of Friday's session of the main committee.

Herr Erzberger's discussion of the internal situation is said to have been remarkable for its lucidity and candor.

He expressed serious misgivings as to the general military and naval situation. He demanded a clear statement from the government regarding the Russian offensive and the situation on the Western front. He also demanded assurances that the U-boat war is really as efficacious as it is claimed to be.

Kaiser Calls Chancellor.

The Kaiser had a long audience with Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg Saturday night. Afterwards the Emperor received Field Marshal von Hindenburg, War Minister von Stein and Minister of Marine von Capelle.

The Berliner Tageblatt says the Socialists and National Liberals are convinced the government must declare finally whether it wants a Pan-German peace or a peace without annexations.

BELIEVE BREAK IS IMMINENT

Diplomatic Circles in Berlin Think Rupture May Have Occurred.

Amsterdam, July 9. — Diplomatic circles in Berlin believe a break between Argentina and Germany imminent, if it has not already been formally noted, according to dispatches from the German capital.

The Argentine minister, it was stated, conferred at length with Foreign Minister Zimmerman and then briefly with Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg. Later he visited the Spanish embassy and the Chilean legation.

PERSHING BUSY WITH AIDES

American Commander Foregoes Visit to General Haig.

Paris, July 9.—Maj. Gen. Pershing is busy holding conferences with his staff. The American commander's organizing work will completely monopolize his time this week. He was obliged to forego a visit to the British front which he had planned for this week. Instead he is sending a staff officer to Sir Douglas Haig's headquarters.

TEUTONS GAIN IN MACEDONIA

Sudden Drives Win Temporary Footing Near Dolzeli.

Saloniki, July 7.—By a sudden offensive Teutonic forces on the Macedonian front succeeded in gaining a brief, temporary footing on British trenches west of Dolzeli, according to announcement here.

The assault was made in the evening and the enemy was immediately driven out by a British counter-attack.

Movements for Irish Freedom.

London, July 7.—Darrell Figgis, one of the prominent Sinn Feiners lately released from prison, said in a speech at Killaloe, Ireland, that steps to achieve Irish independence were being thought out and that the full policy would be disclosed at the proper time. Meantime, he said, the Sinn Feiners would appoint a constituent assembly and appeal to the peace conference, at which England would not be the best loved of conferees. If the nation rallied they would see a sovereign Irish republic within two years.

RUSSIANS HAVE ONLY BEGUN

PRESENCE OF AMERICAN TROOPS A MORAL HELP.

Knowledge of Arrival of U. S. Army Electrifies Eleven-Mile Line—Men Show Great Vigor and Dash.

French Front in France, July 9.—Personal initiative, combined with bravery and tenacity, won for the French a splendid victory when the Germans attempted last Tuesday night to retake Chemin-des-Dames by a furious attack.

The French commanding officers are enthusiastic about the undiminished dash and vigor of their men which they regard as largely attributable to the moral aid provided by the arrival of American troops in France.

Commanders Are Encouraged.

The commanding general declared to the press that the presence of American fighting men not only encouraged the French soldiers in the ranks, but also their commanders.

"The German crown prince had arranged a surprise party for us, in order to offset the Russian victory in Galicia, but he knocked at the wrong door and received a disagreeable reception," said the commanding general.

Suddenly the German bombardment opened and its intensity impressed the French general as being greater than he ever before experienced on the Somme, at Verdun or in the Champagne, where he had taken part in all the battles since the beginning of hostilities.

Don't Wait for Command.

Then, to his astonishment, he saw his own artillery without waiting orders, open a barrage fire.

Meanwhile the French infantry swept the German front lines with rifle fire and hand grenades while the French trench mortars worked as never before.

Kansas Official Wants Protection From I. W. W.

Topeka, Kan., July 9.—Secretary of State Tom Botkin has applied to Governor Capper for permission to organize "Home Guard" companies in the wheat belt of Kansas to mete out punishment to I. W. W., who have been setting fire to stacks of grain.

Botkin told Governor Capper that German spies are behind the outrages. Stacks have been fired by flaming bombs thrown from passing freight trains and it was reported sun glasses had been left on top of stacks at night, to fire the stacks at midday.

Much grain has been lost at Hutchinson through fires started by I. W. W.

SAVING NICKELS AND DIMES

Shortage in Small Coins Declared Due to Widely Adopted Practice of Thrift.

Shortage of small coins, complained of by banks, may be due partly to the practice of saving Buffalo nickels and the new dimes, bankers say, according to the Minneapolis Journal.

Many persons have formed the habit of putting away the buffalo coins or the new ten-cent pieces on the well-established theory that the saver can accumulate considerable sums in this way and yet do it so gradually that "he never misses it."

"The shortage of nickels and dimes probably is due in part to this practice. There is, however, an even more stringent shortage of pennies, which has been felt for the last six months."

Bankers said the penny famine probably was due to recently instilled thrift among children. Pennies given them by parents, coins that formerly went back into circulation as quickly as little feet could flutter to the corner candy store, now find their way into the toy bank.

Why He Didn't Register.

An Indianapolis man who makes a practice of bragging about his shortcomings, said that there were just 85 reasons why he didn't register for conscription.

"The first one is that I am only five feet one inch tall.

"The second one is that, taking my height into account, I am too fat for my stature.

"The third one is that I have only one arm.

"The fourth one is that my teeth are bad.

"The fifth one is that I am too old."

"Well, what are the other 80 reasons?" he was asked.

"Well, the other 80 don't matter. The five I have enumerated would give me the necessary alibi."—Indianapolis News.

Nothing to Run Into.

"When I was in the railroad business," said Chauncey M. Depew once, "the president of a small line waited on me to request an exchange of courtesies. I interrogated him, and he said proudly:

"'On our line, sir, not only has a collision never occurred, but on our line a collision would be impossible.'

"'Impossible?' said I. 'Oh, come; I know that the latest automatic safety devices are excellent things. But impossible is a large word.'

"'It's literally true with us, sir,' he replied.

"'How can it be?' said I.

"'Why,' said he, 'we own only one train.'"—Railway Employees' Magazine.

"There's a Reason"

FARM MORE LAND

Cultivate for the Soldier at the Front.

This question of conservation of food has become so agitated by those who have a knowledge of what it means in the preservation of life, who have made a study of the food conditions, and the requirements of the country, that it is beginning to arouse the entire nation. The economist whose duty it is to study the output and compare it with the consumption, sees a rapidly creeping up of one on the other, and, when the appetite of consumption gets a headway on the output, where will the nation be? It is time the people were aroused, for there is danger ahead unless the intelligence of the people is awakened to the facts. The crop of 1917 will be less than an average one, and see the work it has to perform. It has to feed the man producing it, and he is of less efficiency today than a year ago. His strength has been reduced by the drawing away of the thousands from the farms, who are now in the ranks of the consumer instead of in that of the producer. There is an inverse ratio here that can only be understood when confronted with the appalling figures presented by those in charge of the conservation work. The army has to be fed, dependents cared for, the navy has to have provisions, and we cannot sit idly by and see the women and children of the countries across the sea starve. There is such a great call for active participation in the matter of providing food, that those who are left at home in charge of this work have a responsibility placed upon them fully as great as has the man at the front who has gone out to protect the homes, the sanctity and the honor of those who are left behind. The producer should think only of this; there should be economy, not only of labor. Every acre of available land should be producing. Advantage should be taken of every daylight hour. It must not be a case of how much can we make. It must be a case of "fight" with those who have gone overseas, but in our way, fight to win the war. Where that spirit pervades will be found the spirit of the patriotic American. There is no difficulty in securing land in any of the states. It may be rented on easy terms or purchased at low prices, and there should be little difficulty arranging with bankers to get the necessary funds to carry on operations. Should you not be able to get what you want in your own state, Western Canada offers an immense wide field for operations at the lowest possible cost, and Americans are welcomed with open arms. Homesteads of 160 acres each may be had on easy conditions, and other lands may be purchased at low prices on easy terms. The yields of all kinds of small grains are heavy. The prospects for a 1917 crop are excellent, and it looks today as if there would be as good a return as at any time in the past, and when it is realized that there have been yields of forty and forty-five bushels of wheat over large areas this should be encouraging. Now that the two countries are allies and the cause is a common one there should be no hesitation in accepting whatever offer seems to be the best in order to increase the production so necessary, and which should it not be met, will prove a serious menace. Particulars as to Canadian lands, whether for purchase or homestead, may be had on application to any Canadian Government Agent.—Advertisement.

PRESIDENT WILSON ANNOUNCES RULES FOR SELECTION OF NATIONAL ARMY

"Be Fearless and Impartial," Is Admonition of Executive to Members of the Various Exemption Boards—To Be No Class Exemptions and Every Case Will Be Decided on Its Own Merits.

MEN WHO ARE EXEMPT

Officers of United States, states, territories and District of Columbia.

Ministers of religion and students of divinity.

Persons in military or naval service of United States.

Subjects of Germany and all aliens who have not taken out first papers.

County or municipal officers.

Customhouse clerks and workmen in arsenals and navy yards.

Pilots, merchant marine sailors.

Married men with dependent wives or children.

Sons of dependent widows, sons of dependent, aged or infirm parents, or brothers of dependent orphans under sixteen years of age.

Men morally deficient.

Members of recognized religious sect existing prior to May 18, 1917, whose creed forbids participation in war.

Washington.—President Wilson, in announcing the regulations for selecting a national war army from the millions registered on June 5, urged upon every member of every draft board "impartial and fearless performance of the delicate and difficult duties intrusted," in order that "our armies at the front may be composed of men free from sense of injustice in their mode of selection."

In the near future a date will be set by Brig. Gen. Crowder, provost marshal-general, for the meeting and organization of the boards. At the same time it is expected that the selection regulations will be promulgated so that the process may be put under way without delay. The present intention is to call the men selected to the colors about September 1.

All Forces on Equal Footing.

President Wilson's statement follows:

"The regulations which I am today causing to be promulgated, pursuant to the direction of the selective service law, cover the remaining steps of the plan for calling into the service of the United States qualified men from those who have registered; those selected as the result of this process to constitute, with the regular army, the National guard and the navy, the fighting forces of the nation, all of which forces are under the terms of the law placed in a position of equal right, dignity and responsibility with the members of all other military forces.

"The regulations have been drawn with a view to the needs and circumstances of the whole country and provide a system which it is expected will work with the least inequality and personal hardship. Any system of selecting men of military service, whether voluntary or involuntary in its operation, necessarily selects some men to bear the burden of danger and sacrifice for the whole nation. The system here provided places all men of military age upon an even plane, and then, by a selection which neither favors the one nor penalizes the other, calls upon the requisite number for service.

Urges Boards to Act Impartially.

"The successful operation of this law and of these regulations depends necessarily upon the loyalty, patriotism and justice of the members of the boards to whom its operation is committed, and I admonish every member of every local board and of every district board of review that their duty to their country requires an impartial and fearless performance of the delicate and difficult duties intrusted to them." They should remember as to each individual case presented to them that they are called upon to adjudicate the most sacred rights of the individual and to preserve untarnished the honor of the nation.

"Our armies at the front will be strengthened and sustained if they be composed of men free from any sense of injustice in the mode of selection, and they will be inspired to loftier efforts in behalf of a country in which the citizens called upon to perform high public functions perform them with justice, fearlessness and impartiality."

Methods of Making the Draft.

Upon organizing the local boards will take over from the registration boards all registration cards, which they will number serially and list for posting to public view. Then, after having been advised of the method by which the order of liability for service shall be determined and of the quota to be drawn from its territory (minus credits for enlistments in the National Guard or regular army), each board will prepare a list of persons designated for service in the order of their liability, post the list, give it to the press, and within three days send notice to each designated person by mail.

As the men so notified appear the boards first will make a physical examination in accordance with special regulations to be provided, bearing in mind that all persons accepted by them will be re-examined by army surgeons. If the physical examination is passed successfully, then comes the question of exemption.

Those Entitled to Exemption.

Persons who must be exempted or discharged by the local board include:

Officers of the United States, of the states, territories and the District of Columbia; ministers of religion, students of divinity, persons in the military or naval service of the United States, subjects of Germany, all other aliens who have not taken out first papers, county or municipal officers, customhouse clerks, workmen in federal armories, arsenals and navy yards, persons in the federal service designated by the president for exemption, pilots, merchant marine sailors, those with a status with respect to dependents which renders their exclusion desirable (a married man with dependent wife or child, son of a dependent widow, son of dependent, aged or infirm parent, or brother of dependent orphan child under sixteen years of age), those found morally deficient, and any member of any well-recognized religious sect existing May 18, 1917, whose creed forbids participation in war and whose religious convictions accord with the creed.

Man or Wife May Make Claim.

Claims for exemption because of dependents may be made by the man himself, his wife or other dependents, or by a third party who has personally investigated the case. A claim made by the husband must be accompanied by supporting affidavits signed by the wife and by the head of a family residing in the same territory. A claim by the wife or a third party must be accompanied by two supporting affidavits signed by heads of families. Similar rules govern claims on the grounds of other dependents when the dependents or third parties being authorized to file claims with supporting affidavits. In each case the board must be satisfied before it grants exemption or discharge that the dependent or dependents actually are supported mainly by the fruits of the man's mental or physical labor.

Local boards are required, subject to appeal, to pass upon claims for exemption or discharge within three days after the filing of affidavits.

District boards must decide appeal cases within five days after the closing of proofs and their decisions are final. If the ruling of a local board is affirmed the person in question stands finally accepted for military service.

In passing on claims for exemption on the ground of employment in necessary industrial and agricultural occupations the district boards must be convinced that the particular enterprise affording such employment actually is necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment of national interest during the emergency.

"The evidence must also establish," the regulations say, "even if the particular industrial enterprise or particular agricultural enterprise is found necessary for one of the above purposes, that the continuance of such person therein is necessary to the maintenance thereof and that he cannot be replaced by another person without direct, substantial material loss and detriment to the adequate and effective operation of the particular industrial enterprise or agricultural enterprise in which he is engaged."

May Designate Certain Industries.

Later the president may from time to time designate certain industries or classes of industries that are necessary and the district boards will be so notified. It will be the duty of each board, however, to ascertain the available labor supply for such industries outside the men called for military service and to take the result into consideration in determining such things.

"If, in the opinion of the district board," this section of the regulations concludes, "the direct, substantial, material loss to any such industrial or agricultural enterprise outweighs the loss that would result from failure to obtain the military service of any such person, a certificate of discharge may be issued to him X X X."

Certificates of exemption will not necessarily be permanent. They may be revoked with changing conditions, or may be granted only for prescribed periods.

Animal Trainers Win Fortunes.

Since the beginning of time mankind has been amused by attributing human faculties to animals, and wherever one of the lower creatures has shown signs of intelligence, public curiosity has run high. We have long been familiar with the elephant which stands on a ball and does similar feats; but the first elephant to accomplish these things was a seven-days' wonder. One of the most unique novelties ever offered to the public was the first batch of trained seals, brought out by Captain Woodward. Their ability to play musical instruments, throw a ball about, and so on, captured the fancy of the nation and made their owner rich. Another novelty of this kind brought wealth to Leoni Clarke, who taught a cat to go up in a balloon and descend by a parachute.

True Optimism.

"True optimism never closes its eyes to the formidable enemies of hope and happiness, but goes out armed and armored to meet them."

Child Desertion Now Felony.

The statute framed by the State Child Welfare commission and passed by the last Legislature, providing for more drastic provisions regarding abandonment has gone into effect.

It now is a felony to abandon a child under 16 years of age, and maximum punishment for this crime has been raised from one year to five years imprisonment. A divorced husband who is responsible for the support of a child, or the father of an illegitimate child is considered as the head of a family. Desertion of a pregnant wife is considered as sufficient evidence of intention to abandon the child.

By the new law not only the wife of a deserter but anyone can make a complaint against the offender.

While before it was a misdemeanor to fail to provide for a child under 15 years, the age now has been raised to 16.

Agree to Suppress Blind Pigs.

Representatives of practically all brewing companies doing business in Minnesota, assembled in St. Paul, have assured the Minnesota Public Safety commission that they will take effective measures to suppress blind pigs, according to Judge J. F. McGee who had just returned from Washington and represented the state authorities.

Home guard uniforms are to be prescribed by order of the war department, Judge McGee announced. It is believed, the Minnesota home guard will be able to use the uniforms they now have, with little modification.

"We also were assured," Judge McGee said, "that 4,000 rifles for the Minnesota home guard will be sent us at an early date. They will be partly Krag-Jergensons and partly Springfields."

To Survey Red Lake River.

The state drainage engineers will begin a survey of Red Lake river August 1. This assurance has been given Congressman Halvor Steenerson of Crookston by state officials. The survey will be the first step toward the establishment of a drainage and flood control district which will bring with it the drainage of 500,000 acres of land, of a deep waterway for the movement of logs and perhaps boats, waterpower and an all-year supply of water for the cities and villages that depend upon the river for their supply.

To Inspect State Iron Mines.

J. A. O. Preus, state auditor, has received a letter from Van H. Manning, director of the bureau of mines, Washington, stating that an engineer soon will be appointed to inspect the iron mines of Minnesota. There are thirty-four iron mines and the auditor recently made application for an examination of mining methods. The question at issue is whether the leaseholders should be compelled to remove both the lean and the merchantable ore.

Swamp Land Sale Held Fraud.

In purchasing a 140 acre farm in Yellow Medicine county in the dry summer of 1915, Hans H. Further Uses for Aluminum.

Aluminum is now being substituted in place of wood in the manufacture of automobile bodies. Large sections of aluminum castings are now used in making touring cars and the inclosed bodies of certain other motorcars, a use which was not practicable ten years ago. Cast aluminum is also used for making automobile dashes. Bodies made of it are lighter than those made of other sheet metal, and have a rigid surface that will not dent easily in case of accident. The aluminum surface retains paint well, and the increased rigidity makes the car more durable.

The Shifted Shame.

The ex-convict who recently testified that he, a mere unsophisticated rounder of thirty or more, was lured into stealing from his employers by a woman to whom he gave part of the money, reminds me of a boy who was brought into a prison in New York one afternoon in July, 1860. As the turnkey led him along the youth saw in a cell a man with a smooth, shrewd, somewhat hard face. The boy stopped and addressed the man in the cell.

"You," he cried, "are the cause of my being here!"

"How comes that?" inquired Hicks the pirate, for the man in the cell was none other.

"Why," said the boy, "I stole $5 to hire a boat so I could go down to Bedloes island tomorrow and see you hanged."—New York Sun.

He'd Ask Her.

At a dance in a certain town a visitor to the place got into conversation with an elderly gentleman.

Presently the younger man said, pointing to a lady across the room, who was smiling pleasantly in his direction:

"I wonder if that dreadful-looking woman is actually trying to flirt with me?"

"I don't know," the elderly gentleman answered, mildly, "but I can easily ascertain for you. She's my wife."

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR.
HARRIETT G. HUNT, PUB.

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 30 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn, under the Act of Congress of March 3,1879

There can not be any one say that Teddy Roosevelt does not practice what he preaches, as he has four sons already enlisted in the army and navy, and is ready to go himself. When the tail feathers of the American Eagle is pulled Teddy is ready to fight.

Some of our American girls are getting jealous of the attentions paid our soldiers in France by the French girls, and we can't blame them. But the French girls were so pleased to see the American soldiers come to help them drive the German army out of France, that they threw their arms around the boys neck and kissed them.

We wonder if the bones of Old King George the III. Turned over in the grave when he beheld the English people celebrating the 4th of July beside their American brothers: We wonder what Kaiser Wilhelm will say if he lives a few years more when he sees the common people of Germany celebrating the birthday of the Nation that relieved them of a tyrant King, and establish a republican form of government for them.

THE LECTURE AND THE LAW

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, frequently in the public eye as a result of unique attitudes on the bench of the federal court, is at his spectacular best in the disposition of the registration slacker cases brought before him. It is not enough for him to administer the law in the case so he accompanies each homeopathic dose of law with an allopathic allowance of moral lecture. He has no patience with those foreigners who come to enjoy the benefits and advantages of America and shirk the duties and responsibilities which should go with them. "Here, take this fellow out of here, register him and commit him for a year of hard labor in the house of correction," is his peroration in each case. Judge Landis has no more patience with the war slacker than with the "malefactor of great wealth."—St Paul Dispatch,

ANY OLD THING FOR A CHANGE

There seems to be a good deal of talk going on between the city editors and Politicians about a successor for Knute Nelson, should he conclude to retire from Public life at the close of his present term. A number of papers of the 9th District have mentioned the name of Congressman Steenerson, as the man who is best qualified, by location and ability to succeed Senator Nelson. As far as the people living in the eastern part of Pennington county and Thief River Falls are concerned; they are looking for any change that that would give them justice as to mail service, for while the people living on the north side of Red Lake River, have a daily mail service, those living on the south side only get a three times a week service, with a three days layover at Sunbeam post office, this taking mail five days to go a distance of sixteen miles, and the common people can protest and petition, until their tongue sticks out and that is all the good it does them, until they have got in the position of the fourth class restaurant [illegible] when he told the waiter, if this is tea I'll take coffee, and if this is coffee, give me tea, anything for a change. That is what the people of this forsaken territory are looking forward to and what they will vote for, regardless of any other issue whatever, and no one could blame them, who travels over that territory.

The cow jumped over the moon in Chicago last week, when steers sold at fourteen cents a pound on the hoof. Now all we need to do is to get the Nonpartisan League into power so the producer can get the benefit of these prices and they will produce the steers for sale, but not for five or six cents a pound. If the government want the farmers to produce all the food they possibly can, it is up to congress to protect them, and see that they are not robbed by gamblers and food speculators.

The Gully Advance has taken in a new partner and editor, as Mr. Cashman says, that it is to much for one man to attend to the editorial and mechanical department of a newspaper. We are not overly crowded at this office, and the editor has a farm and a lot of stock to look after, and the publisher milks the cows, feeds the pigs, does all her own house work, attends to the duties of assistant post master, at Sunbeam Post office, and attends to a large poultry yard, and yet we are not very busy at this office,

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of One Hundred Fourteen ($114.00) Dollars Interest, which became due May 25th, 1915, whereby under the terms of the Mortgage the whole principal sum and interest became and is hereby declared due and payable, to-wit:-the sum of Two Thousand Two Hundred Seventy-three and 73-00ths ($2.273.73) Dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain Mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Hjalmar H. Johnson, a single man, Mortgagor, to Mary M. Elliot mortgagee, bearing date the 25th day of May 1914, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Pennington and State of Minnesota, on the 2nd day of June 1914 at 8:30 o'clock A.M. in Book 13 of Mortgages, on page 76. Which said Mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby, was duly assigned by said Mary M. Elliot Mortgagee, to Merchants State Bank of Red Lake Falls by written assignment dated the 25th, day of March 1914 and recorded in the office of said Register of Deeds, on the 15th day of June 1914. at 8 o'clock A.M., in book 11 of Mortgages on page 451.

Which said Mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby, was duly assigned by said Merchants State Bank Of Red Lake Falls the assignee and Holder thereof, to John Leonard by written assignment dated the, 31st day of July 1914, and recorded on the 1st day of August 1914, at 8 o'clock A.M., in Book 8 of said Mortgages page 385; and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said Mortgage or any part thereof.

NOW THEREFORE, Notice is hereby given, That by virtue of the Power of Sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The Southeast quarter (SE ¼) of Section Eighteen (18), Township One Hundred Fifty-three (153), North, Range Forty-five (45) West, of the 5th Principal Meridian containing 160 acres of land, more or less, according to the Government survey thereof in Pennington County and State of Minnesota with the hereditaments and appurtenances, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said Pennington County at the front door of the Court House in the City of Thief River Falls in said County and State on the 11th day of August 1917, at 10:00 o'clock A.M., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of $2,273.73 Dollars, and interest and taxes, if any, on said premises and Fifty Dollars Attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure; and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at at any time within one year from the date of sale, as provided by law.

Dated June 25th, A.D. 1917.

WHO HELP THEMSELVES.

By Joseph Altsheler of the Vigilantes.

I ARRIVED in Vienna one night late in July, 1914. The streets were filled with young men, singing, dancing, shouting and expressing joy in many ways. Why? Austria-Hungary had just declared war upon Servia, and they were going to a picnic. In a week they would wipe Servia off the map.

It all seemed very far away from my country. A war in southeastern Europe could not affect us, and Americans could go on in the ways of peace, ignoring cannon and rifles.

But Russia undertook to defend Servia. Germany, the ally of Austria-Hungary, promptly declared war upon Russia and also attacked and invaded France, the ally of Russia. But it still seemed very far from America, and we could go on with the ways of peace.

Belgium was devoted to peace, but it was overrun by the German army, its people were slaughtered and its cities burned. But that was still very far away from us, and we could go on in the ways of peace, ignoring the cannon and the rifles.

Great Britain was drawn in. The war came a little nearer and spread upon the sea. But it was yet far away and would never touch us. We could sleep in peace. These matters did not concern us.

But we awoke suddenly from our dream. The little fire that had been started in southeastern Europe had spread all over the world. Although we withdrew steadily from the flames, they reached out for us as steadily. Now we cannot avoid them if we would, and we must fight fire with fire.

As the world comes more closely together what affects one is likely to affect all. Isolation is no security, and in reality there is no isolation. Doing everything our self respect admits to avoid it, we are nevertheless drawn into war.

Easy Jail Methods.

The greatest leniency is shown to criminals in New Zealand. Thus in one jail at the end of the South island a prisoner may keep a race horse and is permitted to transact business concerning it. In the same jail well behaved prisoners are allowed an afternoon out occasionally.

Prison authorities in New Zealand are believers in the moral effects of open air. In one of their institutions the newly arrived misdemeanant is allowed the choice of living in jail or outside it, tents being erected at the back. This system of sending people to jail by letting them live outside has, however, its disadvantages. In one case the "prisoners," resenting harsh treatment in the way of a "lockout," lifted up the "jail" and deposited it far away in the bush.

Mystery of a Fish.

In the economy of nature nothing is more remarkable than the metamorphosis of the flounder, which when young swims in an upright position, as do all other fish, but when maturity develops it becomes topheavy, falls over on its side and its existence is passed as a flat fish.

That nature moves in a mysterious way is here freely illustrated, for when the flounder falls on the two eyes, which originally were on either side of the head, are transposed to the upper side of the fish, where they always face the light.

The process by which this strange change is accomplished has never been discovered by scientists and is a marvelous instance of nature's operations, for while the fish usually rests upon bottom it can readily swim about in any depth of water.—New York Sun.

A Short Business Talk.

In a certain store the merchandise manager sent for the ready to wear and millinery buyers and said to them:

"You men are getting a bad accumulation of stock that is hard to move. Hereafter you will make a daily and weekly inventory and send the report to this office."

Both buyers declared this to be impossible, but the merchandise man told them to go and do it. Especially he wanted them to show the age of the goods in stock, the sizes and the colors.

After attempting to take some of these daily inventories the buyers decided that an easier way would be to get busy and sell the goods faster. This same plan has been used in many departments with fine results.

There is nothing like the spot light to engender selling activity in a store.—Philadelphia Record.

THE LOCAL NEWS

John Homme was a business caller at Plummer Tuesday.

Walter McAndress made a trip to Goodridge Tuesday, after a load of lumber.

Edward Klemmetson made a trip to Plummer Tuesday, with a load of scrap iron.

Pat McAndress of Thief River Falls is visiting his brother Walter McAndress this week.

Mrs. Martin Hyland, who has been visiting friends at Fertile, returned home on last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hyland of Erie, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hyland on Sunday last.

With favorable weather to-morrow the Sunbeam farm will land their first twenty-five tons of first class hay in the stack.

Corn is about two weeks late this year, but if we have as late a fall as we did spring, it may escape jack frost.

Quite a number of our farmers started haying this week, and haying will be in full blast next week.

Read the announcement of the Pennington County Fair published in another column, and take a day off and visit the fair this year.

Mr. and Mrs. K. Gjernes and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gjernes and family of Oklee, are visiting at the home of T. G. Rome's this week.

Hay is rather a light crop this year, but about all the low lands that were flooded last year can be cut this year, which will make more hay than was put up last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hyland have been assisting us haying this week. Henry is a first class pitcher and his wife comes very handy in the office just at this busy season.

While grain will be rather a light crop in this locality, if we have favorable weather for filling out the grain, there will be a fairly good crop this year. Flax is looking extra fine.

The potato bugs are on deck as usual this year, and the potatoes should be well dosed with paris green, for if the bugs are allowed to eat the tops off, the potatoes are not hardly worth digging.

The building of the new bridge at Highlanding will largely increase the patronage of the Highlanding creamery, from the south side of the river, as it has always been difficult to get across the river, with the present boat accommodations.

There was a large attendance at the basket social given at Mr S. L. Holm's last Saturday evening, and a little over $70.00 were collected, for the benefit of Lars Hyland to assist him to pay his hospital bill. There was also a dance at Mr. Giving's on the same evening north of Highlanding, which drew a large crowd.

Yesterday was a busy day at Highlanding, it being creamery day. The people from the south side of the river were having their usual troubles boating their cream across the river and lugging it from the river bank to the creamery. But they now begin to realize that this part of their difficulties will soon be of the past, as it will not be long before they can drive across the bridge and deliver their cream at the creamery door.

Mrs. Chas. R. Halgrim of Thief River Falls has been named county chairman of the National Council of Defense, an organization among the women of the country, for the purpose of conservation in the home. The appointment was made by Mrs. T. G. Winters of Minneapolis who is state chairman, acting under orders of the parent organization at Washington.

Within a few days Mrs. Halgrim will appoint the various chairman of the townships thruout the county, as it is proposed to have an organization in each town and township of the entire United States. Then each township will hold a meeting following a meeting in Thief River Falls of the various township chairmen.

These chairmen will be called upon by Mrs. Halgrim as rapidly as she can get around the county by auto, explaining to each one the work before them and the importance of a united action by the entire United States.

THE MILITARY AVIATOR.

He Must Be a Soldier, a Mechanic and Absolutely Fearless.

It takes nine months to make a military aviator. The profession makes the severest possible demand upon the resources of the individual. It requires a combination of physique, of courage, of nerve poise, to make the expert flier, while to do the work of an aviator in war involves technical skill that can hardly be characterized as short of scientific.

The military flier must be a soldier, a mechanic and a daredevil. Besides sailing his craft and fighting his enemies, he must be mathematician enough to make his observations, artist enough to take photographs, telegrapher enough to operate his wireless, navigator enough to pick his way by means of map and compass over unfamiliar landscapes and resourceful enough to contend with fog, with cloud and with the thousand and one contingencies which the hazards of the air involve. Furthermore, his most difficult technical duties must be performed while that element of the death constant with which he always rides is augmented by the nasty rattle of aerial machine guns around and above him and the yap of bursting anti-aircraft shells which pursue him from below. No man with the effects of dissipation vitiating his blood and unsettling his nerves can be trusted with the issues of the air.—Peter Clark Macfarlane in Collier's Weekly.

LIVING IN JAPAN.

Hard Work For the Middle Classes to Make Both Ends Meet.

Dr. Takata, Japanese minister of education, has recently published a book concerning economic conditions in Japan. The pinch comes harder upon the middle classes than upon the lower classes since the former must not only live, but must keep up a respectable appearance on salaries no greater than those that men who work at trades receive.

For example, according to Dr. Takata, a primary school teacher earns $15.50 a month, but his lowest budget for a family of four reaches $17.35. His wife must do work at home to earn the deficit. A magazine editor and writer who has a wife, two children and a maid spends $32.75 monthly on household sundries. His earnings are irregular, but always below his expenses. He has been compelled to borrow money from his wife's relatives, and her trousseau is not unknown to the pawnshops.

Washington Monument.

The cornerstone of the Washington monument was laid on its fine site, which overlooks Washington, Georgetown, Arlington and Mount Vernon, by President Polk July 4, 1848. Its marble shaft rises in all the dignity of unadorned simplicity to the height of 555 feet. The base of the shaft is fifty-five feet square, and it gradually tapers until at the 500 foot point it has diminished to less than thirty-five feet. This monument is said to contain 18,000 blocks of marble, each two feet thick. They were lifted on an elevator run by steam, suspended in an inner framework of iron, which was built up at intervals, thirty or forty feet at a time, in advance of the surrounding masonry. The aluminum capstone, nine inches high, was set in position Dec. 6, 1884, thirty-six years and a half after the cornerstone was laid.

From the hoofs of the horse, which, like the springs derived from them, are made from parallel plates. NEW ARMY QUOTA FOR EACH STATE IS MADE PUBLIC

WAR DEPARTMENT FIGURES SHOW HOW AMERICA'S TOLL OF MANHOOD WILL BE DISTRIBUTED.

NEW YORK TO GIVE 69,241; OREGON ASKED FOR LEAST

Figures Based on Initial Draft of 687,000 Men—Federal Census Population Estimates Used—Minnesota Required to Furnish Approximately Nine Regiments.

Washington, July 14.—The toll of manhood that each state must furnish to America's citizen army, is announced by the War Department.

The figures are based upon a total initial draft of 687,000 men. In assigning the quota that each state must yield, the War Department used the federal census population estimates.

New York High; Oregon Low.

New York leads all others with 69,241. Oregon is asked to yield the least—717.

Many of the Western states' quotas are unusually low because the registration was only 50 to 80 per cent of the first estimates of the census bureau. Other states in the Middle West—Ohio, Wisconsin, Illinois—ran over the estimates by 10 to 20 per cent.

The quotas were sent to the governors of each state and territory and the commissioners of the District of Columbia, who were directed to apportion the quotas through the local boards.

Each State's Quota Given.

The quota of men which the various states will be required to furnish follows:

Alabama	13,612	Nevada	1,051
Arizona	3,473	New Hampshire	1,204
Arkansas	10,267	New Jersey	20,665
California	23,060	New Mexico	2,292
Colorado	4,753	New York	69,241
Connecticut	10,977	North Carolina	15,974
Delaware	1,202	North Dakota	5,606
District of Columbia	929	Ohio	28,773
Florida	6,325	Oklahoma	15,564
Georgia	18,337	Oregon	717
Idaho	2,287	Pennsylvania	60,859
Illinois	51,653	Rhode Island	1,801
Indiana	17,510	South Carolina	10,081
Iowa	12,749	South Dakota	2,717
Kansas	6,439	Tennessee	14,528
Kentucky	14,236	Texas	30,545
Louisiana	13,532	Utah	2,370
Maine	11,531	Vermont	1,049
Maryland	7,096	Virginia	13,795
Massachusetts	20,586	Washington	7,296
Michigan	30,291	West Virginia	9,101
Minnesota	17,854	Wisconsin	12,876
Mississippi	10,801	Wyoming	810
Missouri	18,650	Alaska	696
Montana	7,872	Hawaii	none.
Nebraska	8,185	Porto Rico	12,833

Washington, July 16.—Assignments of national guard troops to training camps already selected have been announced by the War department as follows:

Thirteenth division, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska troops to Deming, N. M.

Nineteenth division, California, Utah, Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico and Nevada troops to Linda Vista, Cal.

Twentieth division, Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho and Wyoming troops to Palo Alto, Cal.

Eleventh division, Michigan and Wisconsin troops, Waco, Texas.

Twelfth division, Illinois troops to Houston, Texas.

I. W. W. EXILES ARE HELD IN CAMP AT COLUMBUS BY U. S.

Twelve Hundred Deported in Freight Trains From Hermanas by Troops From Douglas, Ariz.

Columbus, N. M., July 16.—Closely guarded by United States cavalry troops from Douglas, Ariz., the special freight train carrying the deported strikers and others from Hermanas, N. M., has arrived here. The deported men were placed in a detention camp prepared by United States cavalry.

Rations of canned salmon, bread and water were issued upon their arrival.

The transfer of the 1,200 exiles was carried out by Col. James J. Hornbrook, with a command of 192 officers and men, assisted by Sheriff Simpson of Luna county, New Mexico. The embarkation was orderly.

More Peace Propaganda in Russia.

Petrograd, July 14.—Germany is desperately pouring a new flood of propaganda into Russia in a superlative effort to dampen the popular war ardor. The directing point seems to be Stockholm. Some of the evidence of this tide of argument as gathered were German arguments against further Russian advances on the ground that the German minority Socialists had agreed to every point of the Russian peace aims, even including Alsace-Lorraine. Agitators are spreading these arguments.

GUARDS TO BE IN FRANCE OCT. 1

AMERICA MOBILIZES 125,000 STATE MILITIAMEN.

Program Worked Out by War College—Great Fleet of Transports to Be Ready on Appointed Dates.

Washington, July 17.—The government has taken the first step to mobilize an army of a million men. Approximately 125,000 national guardsmen were mobilized under an executive order in 11 state. They comprise the first increment of the militia to be drawn into the federal service.

They will be held at their state camps for several weeks and then will be sent to mobilization camps in the South. There they will be given a short period of intensive training and then sent to France.

To Be in France by Oct. 1.

Called out on July 15, it will not be later than October 1 before the majority oft he men ordered out will be in France. The War College has finished plans for the work which the men will be given. It has laid out a complete program for their use in the war. This program includes the exact time they will be held in mobilization camps and the dates on which they will be sent over seas.

LENDS AID TO HURRY PASSAGE OF FOOD BILL

President Would Control Scope to Foods, Fuel and Feed, But Makes No Mention of Prohibition.

Washington, July 16.—President Wilson has come to the support of the administration food control bill as originally submitted to Congress. In response to a request from Senate leaders for assistance in solving the difficulties standing in the way of action there, the President sent to Democratic Leader Martin a personal letter recommending the general purpose of the bill for the government control of foods, feeds and fuel only. He wrote that he believed unnecessary the extension of government control of steel, iron, copper, cotton, wool, leather and other products.

The substitute bill drawn by Senator Gore was opposed by the President as an emasculation of the administration legislation. He wrote that he considered prompt final disposition of the legislation imperative.

The President's letter, which was not made public, is understood not to have discussed prohibition in any form.

GERMANS DISCARD PEACE RESOLUTION WITH CHANCELLOR

NEW DEAL OF CARDS EXPECTED FROM MICHAELIS—NO INTIMATION OF POLICY YET GIVEN OUT.

BAVARIAN PREMIER GETS SELF IN BERLIN STRIFE

Uses Influence Against Parliamentary Ministry—Hindenburg and Ludendorff Brought to Capitol to Sidetrack Peace Program by Giving Encouraging Reports.

Copenhagen, July 17. — Germany's first commoner chancellor, Dr. George Michaelis, a bureaucrat without even a noble "von" before his name, has as yet given no indication of his policy regarding reform and peace. Neither the Conservatives nor the Liberals have ventured to call him their own.

The chancellor's first step was to receive representatives of the two different groups in the Reichstag and permit them to explain their respective standpoints.

New Deal of Cards Seen.

The appointment of Dr. Michaelis undoubtedly means a new deal of cards. Berlin papers which were published before the appointment of Dr. Michaelis was known show that the Emperor was confronted by the necessity of dropping the imperial chancellor or virtually the entire Prussian cabinet, the members of which submitted their resignations declaring that they could not remain if Von Bethmann-Hollweg was retained.

Opposed by Bavarian.

The Bavarian Premier, Count Von Hartling, who favored moderate peace proposals, but refused flatly to accept the idea of a parliamentary ministry, which would diminish Bavaria's special influence on the government, seems to have thrown himself into the struggle against Von Bethmann-Hollweg at the last minute. Bavarian Centrist members of the Reichstag started an anti-Von Bethmann-Hollweg revolt within the party, and the Crown Prince made valid his long standing objection to the imperial chancellor.

Peace Plan Sidetracked.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg and General Ludendorff were again summoned to Berlin to sidetrack the proposed peace resolution by giving encouraging reports of the military situation.

Date of Drawing Uncertain.

Washington, July 17. — When the drawing of lots under the selective conscription law will be carried out remains uncertain, but War department officials are hopeful that completion of local exemption machinery throughout the country on which the great lottery is now waiting will be accomplished by the end of the week. Most of the states have reported their organization complete and in the others only scattered sections remain to be heard from. The drawing will take place immediately afterwards.

WILSON MAKES PLEA

PRESIDENT ASKS MANUFACTURERS AND MINE OWNERS TO BACK U. S. IN WAR.

TOLD TO FORGET PRICES

President Declares Victory or Defeat Depends on Prices—Denounces Dollar Patriots—Everyone Must Make Sacrifices.

Washington.—President Wilson appealed to the country's business interests Wednesday to put aside every selfish consideration and to give their aid to the nation as freely as those who go to offer their lives on the battlefield.

In a statement addressed to the coal operators and manufacturers he gave assurance that just prices will be paid by the government and the public during the war, but warned that no attempt to extort unusual profits will be tolerated.

The president's statement follows:

"The government is about to attempt to determine the prices at which it will ask you henceforth to furnish various supplies which are necessary for the prosecution of the war, and various materials which will be needed in the industries by which the war must be sustained. We shall, of course, try to determine them justly and to the best advantage of the nation as a whole; but justice is easier to speak of than to arrive at, and there are some considerations which I hope we shall keep steadily in mind while this particular problem of justice is being worked out.

Promises Just Price.

"Therefore I take the liberty of stating very candidly my own view of the situation and of the principles which should guide both the government and the mine owners and manufacturers of the country in this difficult matter.

"A just price must, of course, be paid for everything the government buys. By a just price I mean a price which will sustain the industries concerned in a high state of efficiency, provide a living for those who conduct them, enable them to pay good wages, and make possible the expansions of their enterprises which will from time to time become necessary as the stupendous undertakings of this great war develop.

Must Face the Facts.

"We could not wisely or reasonably do less than pay such prices. They are necessary for the maintenance and development of industry, and the maintenance and development of industry are necessary for the great task we have in hand.

"But I trust that we shall not surround the matter with a mist of sentiment. Facts are our masters now. We ought not to put the acceptance of such prices on the ground of patriotism."

"Patriotism has nothing to do with profits in a case like this. Patriotism and profits ought never in the present circumstances be mentioned together.

"It is perfectly proper to discuss profits as a matter of business, with a view to maintaining the integrity of capital and the efficiency of labor in these tragical months, when the liberty of free men everywhere and of industry itself trembles in the balance; but it would be absurd to discuss them as a motive for helping to serve and save our country.

"Patriotism leaves profits out of the question. In these days of our supreme trial, when we are sending hundreds of thousands of our young men across the seas to serve a great cause, no true man who stays behind to work for them and sustain them by his labor will ask himself what he is personally going to make out of that labor.

"No true patriot will permit himself to take toll of their heroism in money or seek to grow rich by the shedding of their blood. He will give as freely and with as unstinted self-sacrifice as they. When they are giving their lives, will he not at least give his money?

Assails "Bribery."

"I hear it insisted that more than a just price, more than a price that will sustain our industries, must be paid; that it is necessary to pay very liberal and unusual profits in order to 'stimulate' production; that nothing but pecuniary rewards will do—rewards paid in money, not in the mere liberation of the world.

"I take it for granted that those who argue thus do not stop to think what that means.

"Do they mean that you must be paid, must be bribed, to make your contribution, a contribution that costs you neither a drop of blood nor a tear, when the whole world is in travail and men everywhere depend upon and call to you to bring them out of bondage and make the world a fit place to live in again, amidst peace and justice?

"Do they mean that you will exact a price, drive a bargain, with the men who are enduring the agony of this war, on the battlefields, in the trenches, amidst the lurking dangers of the sea, or with the bereaved women and pitiful children, before you will come forward to do your duty and give some part of your life, in easy, peaceful fashion, for the things we are fighting for, the things we have pledged our fortunes, our lives, our sacred honor to vindicate and defend—liberty and justice and fair dealing and the peace of nations?

"Of course you will not. It is inconceivable. Your patriotism is of the same self-denying stuff as the patriotism of the men dead or maimed on the fields of France, or else it is not patriotism at all.

Full Dollar's Worth.

"Let us never speak, then, of profits and of patriotism in the same sentence, but face facts and meet them. Let us do sound business, but not in the midst of a mist.

"Many a grievous burden of taxation will be laid on this nation, in this generation and in the next, to pay for this war; let us see to it that for every dollar that is taken from the people's pockets it shall be possible to obtain a dollar's worth of the sound stuff they need.

"Let me turn for a moment to the ship owners of the United States and the other ocean carriers whose example they have followed, and ask them if they realize what obstacles, what almost insuperable obstacles, they have been putting in the way of the successful prosecution of this war by the ocean freight rates they have been exacting.

Making War a Failure.

"They are doing everything that high freight charges can do to make the war a failure, to make it impossible.

"I do not say that they realize this or intend it. The thing has happened naturally enough because the commercial processes which we are content to see operate in ordinary times have without sufficient thought been continued into a period where they have no proper place.

"I am not questioning motives. I am merely stating a fact, and stating it in order that attention may be fixed upon it.

"The fact is that those who have fixed war freight rates have taken the most effective means in their power to defeat the armies engaged against Germany. When they realize this we may, I take it for granted, count upon them to reconsider the whole matter. It is high time. Their extra hazards are covered by war risk insurance.

Warning Is Sounded.

"I know, and you know, what response to this great challenge of duty and of opportunity the nation will expect of you; and I know what response you will make.

"Those who do not respond, who do not respond in the spirit of those who have gone to give their lives for us on bloody fields far away, may safely be left to be dealt with by opinion and the law—for the law must, of course, command those things.

"I am dealing with the matter thus publicly and frankly, not because I have any doubt or fear as to the result but only in order that in all our thinking and in all our dealings with one another we may move in a perfectly clear air of mutual understanding.

Must Have Same Prices.

"And there is something more that we must add to our thinking. The public is now as much a part of the government as are the army and navy themselves; the whole people in all their activities are now mobilized and in service for the accomplishment of the nation's task in this war; it is in such circumstances impossible justly to distinguish between industrial purchases made by the government and industrial purchases made by the managers of industries, and it is just as much our duty to sustain the industrials of the country with all the industries that contribute to its life as it is to sustain our forces in the field and on the sea.

Think Not of Self.

"We must make prices to the public the same as the prices to the government. Prices mean the same thing everywhere now. They mean the efficiency or the inefficiency of the nation, whether it is the government that pays them or not. They mean victory or defeat. They mean that America will win her place once for all among the foremost free nations of the world or that she will sink to defeat and become a second-rate power alike in thought and in action. This is a day of her reckoning and every man among us must personally face that reckoning along with her.

"The case needs no arguing. I assume that I am only expressing your own thoughts—what must be in the mind of every true man when he faces the tragedy and the solemn glory of the present war, for the emancipation of mankind.

"Why," said the first flea, "over on the lynx, of course."

Druggist's Experience With Kidney Medicine

I have handled and sold Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root for some time and have heard customers claim that it had produced very satisfactory results in different ailments of the kidneys, liver and bladder. I have nothing but favorable reports at hand and my personal opinion is that there is not anything on the market that will equal Swamp-Root for disease of the kidneys, liver and bladder and I know of a physician who is a very strong believer in the merits of Swamp-Root. Very truly yours,

On the Editor.

A magazine editor of New York prides himself on his knowledge of poetry and on his delicate critical sense of the same. His friends often joke him about this.

A noted illustrator laid on the editor's desk the other day a couplet that ran:

"Help us save free conscience from the paw
Of hireling wolves whose gospel is their maw."

The editor read the couplet, then laughed heartily.

"Did you write this?" he said. "By George, it sounds like you. Better stick to the pencil, boy. Look at that rhyme—paw and maw. Why, it sounds like the S. O. S. call of kids in distress. Paw and maw! Geewillikins!"

"I didn't write it," said the illustrator.

"Oh, you didn't eh? Who did, then?"

"A duffer named Milton," said the illustrator. "John Milton. Ever hear of him? He was the author of a little thing called 'Paradise Lost,' I believe, but these lines are cut out of a sonnet written to Cromwell in 1652. I—"

But the editor had fainted dead away.

MRS. KIESO SICK SEVEN MONTHS

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Aurora, Ill.—"For seven long months I suffered from a female trouble, with severe pains in my back and sides until I became so weak I could hardly walk from chair to chair, and got so nervous I would jump at the slightest noise. I was entirely unfit to do my housework, I was giving up hope of ever being well, when my sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles and today I am a healthy woman able to do my own housework. I wish every suffering woman would try Lydia E. SEEK SAFE HAVEN ON FARMS

Some Rich Men Are Said to Be Paying Landowners to "Employ" Their Sons to Escape Draft.

Government agents have been at work in Queens investigating the cases of several farmers in the Newtown, Flushing and Great Neck sections who are reported to have accepted money to keep sons of wealthy men on their payrolls so as to escape the draft, says the New York Herald. The agents have obtained the names of young men who registered as farmers, but who, it is said, have not been tilling the soil.

Government officials have been told that farmers have been well paid by wealthy parents to "employ" the youths. According to reports that have been openly discussed in these sections at least a dozen farmers have men on their payrolls who do not know a grubhook from a cultivator. These men, according to the story, are supposed to report daily to the farmers and to receive wages of $6 a week. Instead of working on the farm the young men are devoting their time to playing golf or driving about the island in their motor cars.

STATE MILITA IN FEDERAL SERVICE

NEARLY 4,150 MEMBERS OF MINNESOTA GUARD INCLUDED IN TRANSFER.

TO GO SOUTH TO TRAIN SOON

Second and Third Regiments, Hospital and Ambulance Corps Affected—List of Commanders and Staffs Announced.

Nearly 4,150 men, members of various branches of the Minnesota National guard, have just been mustered into Federal service as a result of President Wilson's proclamation of July 3.

The branches of service affected are the Second infantry, Third infantry, Hospital corps and Ambulance company. Capt. Walter F. Rhinow estimated 100 men are needed by each unit to bring it up to its war strength of 2,002 men.

The Hospital corps has a complement of 76 men and six officers, while the Ambulance company has 150 men and five officers. According to a telegram received by Captain Rhinow from the Central department in Chicago, each company, after assembling at its home camp, has the privilege of remaining there for 15 days or requesting removal to some other camp, possibly Fort Snelling. At the end of 15 days' time the entire Minnesota guard probably will go south for training.

Majority Opinion to Prevail.

Captain Rhinow did not announce whether the troops would all assemble at Fort Snelling to be equipped and receive clothing before going to their southern training camps.

The question of remaining at home or removal to another camp will be put to a vote of the various companies, Captain Rhinow said, and the majority opinion will prevail.

Colonel W. J. Murphy, commanding the Second Artillery, now being organized, said he was receiving encouraging reports from the six cities which have been given batteries. Battery A is stationed at Albert Lea, Battery B at Waseca, Battery C at St. James, Battery D at Marshall, Battery E at Fergus Falls and Battery F at Moorhead.

Albert Lea in Lead.

Albert Lea is in the lead, Colonel Murphy said. At war strength each battery is composed of 190 men and five officers. Colonel Murphy expressed the belief that all batteries will have enlisted 125 men, the minimum number shortly, and that the entire regiment would be ready for mustering in two weeks.

The field staff, commanding officers and the home camps of the various companies in the Second and Third infantry which were mustered:

State News in Brief

Doings of Last Few Days Throughout Minnesota Condensed for Hasty Perusal.

The Minnesota Epworth League institute has begun a ten days' session at Groveland, Lake Minnetonka. The meeting will be attended by delegates from all parts of Minnesota.

Crop reports from eighteen additional counties made public by F. D. Sherman, state commissioner of immigration, show that wheat and other grains are generally in good condition.

A blackbird alighting on the high tension wire of the power line between Coon Rapids and Anoka, put out all electric lights and caused the suspension of car service for two hours. The bird was electrocuted.

A resolution demanding that the Bureau of Indian affairs be abolished and charging that officials at the head of the bureau are incompetent was adopted at Bemidji at the council of Minnesota Chippewas.

Searching parties have recovered from the waters of Big Stone lake the last bodies of the seven persons who lost their lives when the excursion steamer Muskegon was swamped during a heavy storm on the lake.

Fort Snelling may yet be chosen for the second officers' training camp which opens August 27. This information has been received from Washington by Donald R. Cotton, head of the training camp association in St. Paul.

A series of freight shipments on the Mississippi river to demonstrate the economy and practicability of water transportation to and from Minneapolis has been inaugurated with the arrival of a big cargo of plows from Moline, Ill.

Minnesota, according to the official war department announcement, will be called upon to furnish 17,854 men by draft. Of these approximately 15,601 will go into the new national army, 1,495 into the regular army and the remainder into the national guard.

The consumer is at last coming into his own, in so far as potatoes go. Hundreds of growers over the north country who had been holding out for even higher prices than those recently paid, now find that they overstayed their market, according to commission house men.

After years of agitation for a bridge across the Red Lake river at one or more points between this city and the Red Lakes, the county commissioners of Pennington county have decided to bond the county in the sum of $15,000 for a substantial bridge to be located at High Landing.

E. P. Bertrand, 80, who came to St. Paul in 1856 and was a friend of the late James J. Hill and Archbishop John Ireland, acted the part of best man at the wedding of his son, L. J. Bertrand, and Miss Anna Schueller at Sleepy Eye. More than 1,500 persons attended the ceremony at St. Mary's church.

J. J. Lomen, 61 years old, for many years active in Minnesota politics, died at the St. Paul hospital of locomotor ataxia after an illness of six years.

The thirteenth annual encampment of the Minnesota veterans of the Spanish-American war has been held with almost 300 members attending.

The office of Captain H. S. Nelson, regimental adjutant of the Second Minnesota infantry, reports a gain in a week of more than 200 enlistments.

Poison beans, shipped into the United States either with intent to cause harm to consumers or sent by mistake, have been found in Minnesota.

Authority for the tri-state flood control agreement between Minnesota, North and South Dakota is given in the rivers and harbors bill in Congress.

Olga, 8-year-old daughter of John Pakiz, Chisholm, has been lost in the woods. Two hundred volunteer searchers, men and women, were out at last report.

The embargo placed by the United States government on the exportation of grain, effective July 15, is already beginning to affect sales of wheat in Minnesota.

Colonel Benjamin B. Herbert of Chicago, founder of the National Editorial association, who has taken suddenly ill, died at the University of Minnesota farm school hospital. Death was due to heart disease. Col. Herbert had been attending the editors' convention in Minneapolis.

Congressional action requiring the Federal Trade commission immediately to take over the operation of American paper mills for the benefit of the war and to import and distribute Canadian news print paper, was demanded in resolutions adopted by the National Editorial association in session in Minneapolis.

One hundred clubwomen from all parts of Minnesota gathered at the state capitol for a two-day convention, the like of which no group of clubwomen ever staged in Minnesota before. Each of the 86 counties in Minnesota had at least one delegate and all of the 10 congressional districts were represented.

Active preparation for mobilization of the Minnesota National Guard units not already in the Federal service began upon receipt of the expected orders calling them into the Federal service. The guard units affected are the Second and Third infantry regiments, hospital corps, Second artillery, now being organized, and the ambulance company, yet to be organized.

Less than half the states in the Central Western department have reached their quota in applications for the second officers' training camp to be held soon. Minnesota's quota is 381 and 135 have applied.

MINNESOTA CROPS IN GOOD CONDITION

TWENTY-TWO COUNTIES SEND OPTIMISTIC REPORTS TO STATE IMMIGRATION COMMISSIONER.

CALLS FOR FARM HELP SEEN

Many Localities Indicate Probable Need of Additional Labor Soon—Potatoes Flourish—Small Grains Normal.

St. Paul

Minnesota crops generally are in good condition and the yield will surpass that of last year, according to reports from twenty-two counties received by F. D. Sherman, state commissioner of immigration. The potato crop in particular, the reports indicate, is in excellent condition, while wheat and oats are about normal. Corn, however, is somewhat backward and will take several days of hot weather to bring it up to the yearly average.

Many of the reports contain statements that additional farm help will be required soon.

First and Second in U. S. Service.

Official copies of the orders calling into Federal service all units of the Minnesota national guard, except staff corps and departments, have been received by Captain W. F. Rhinow, military secretary to Governor Burnquist. Approximately 4,000 men of the Second and Third infantry regiments are affected, Captain Rhinow said.

Officers at Fort Snelling are making arrangements for the mobilization of the Second and Third Minnesota infantry regiments at this post about August 1. The camp sites have been selected. While the regiments were called into federal service July 15, they are expected to remain at their home stations until about the first of next month. It is expected they will remain at Fort Snelling 10 or 15 days before going south.

Lemons Beautify! Make Quarter Pint of Lotion, Cheap

Here is told how to prepare an inexpensive lemon lotion which can be used to bring back to any skin the sweet freshness, softness, whiteness and beauty.

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quarter pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands, and see for yourself. Adv.

Th em I. W. W. begin to be a public nuisance in America, and it will not be long before they will be termed as a band of organized outlaws instead of an organization of laboring men. It is proper enough for laboring men to organize for the betterment of their conditions, but this gang do propose to work at any price, always using the excuse that they want higher wages. Now that the North Dakota farmers have agreed to meet their demands of 40 cents an hour for harvest and thrashing work, and they as an organization have agreed to accept that amount, and it is now up to them to be either an organized band of laboring men, or of outlaws. If they now take hold and help the farmers save the crops and behave themselves their order had ought to be respected, but if they begin to start a strike at the time the farmers get into a pinch for labor, the whole bunch should be promptly rounded up, and put into a stockade and made to break rock for sixteen hours a day.

"America is a commercial, money-making nation, and the Germans do not believe it is actuated by the high motive of world democracy to keep up a long hard fight," said a German prisoner, an officer, the other day when told that America really is in the war.

Uudoubtedly that represents the belief of the German people as a whole. Whether it really represents the real belief of the blood-guilty leaders who make the German people believe whatever is necessary to keep them on the rack of sacrifice is another question. The important thing is that beyond doubt the German people believe as this officer believes.

Waving flags and passing resolutions have not awed Germany. Nothing but a real army, actually fighting as Americans know how to fight, will convince Germany that America is a nation that must be reckoned with when it starts out to impose its brutal will on the world by blood and terror.

In time, of course, Germany will learn better. The lesson will be costly both to Germany and to us. but it will be taught.—The Duluth Herald.

Speculative trading in grain practically has ended for the period of the war. The report pathetically adds that "there will be a lot of brokers' offices, blackboards and chalk for sale cheap." fixing the maximum for corn at $1.28 for December and May deliveries was the concluding act of the grain gamblers, pushing up the price in the face of conditions which should predicate a decline.

But this termination of grain gamblers is only for the period of the war. Why? Is there any good reason why purely speculative trading should not terminate forever? If it is held to be wise, safe and just to put a stop to the gambling while the war is on, why would it not be equally wise, safe and just to stop it entirely and for all time.—St. Paul Dispatch.

The old line Polliticians of North Dakota had better stop their organized opposition to the Nonpartisan League as it seems to only act as a fertilizer. The farmers are beginning to line up pretty solid for the support of their own organization, and Minnesota old liners may as well prepare to go way back and sit down next year. It wont do the old liners any good to sit up and howl about the farmers going into politics, and wasting $16.-for the louder they yelp the worse they are hurt. All kinds of stories was circulated in North Dakota, such as; Socialism, Anarchism, unpatriotic opposing the war, refusal to buy Liberty Bonds, after the grain gamblers had robbed them so bad they didn't have a cent to buy bonds with. But the farmers had their votes left, and they elected their first Congressman on July 10th, just for a starter.

Did it ever occur to you my gentle and appreciative reader that it takes money to run a Newspaper. Just scratch your head and consider how long it has been since you, we mean YOU have paid any subscription to your local paper. There are doubtless a large number of our readers who have not got the ready cash to pay at this time of the year, but we occasionally meet one who will pull out a well filled pocket book that is five or six years behind on his subscription, and never mention the fact that perhaps we are paying cash for our papers and might want a little assistance from him.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of One Hundred Fourteen ($114.00) Dollars interest, which became due May 25th, 1915, whereby under the terms of the Mortgage the whole principal sum and interest became and is hereby declared due and payable, to-wit:-the sum of Two Thousand Two Hundred Seventy-three, and 73-00ths ($2,273.73) Dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain Mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Hjalmar H. FIXING THE NATIONALITY.

Not long ago a gentleman who enjoys some prominence in the theatrical business was called as witness in a damage suit growing out of a collision between an automobile and a street car at the corner of Fiftieth street and Broadway. Having been sworn, he took the stand and in answer to questions from the counsel for the plaintiff described where he was standing when the smash came and what he saw and what was said and all the rest of it.

On cross examination the attorney for the other side undertook to tangle him up.

"Isn't it a fact," demanded the lawyer, "that you couldn't see what really did occur because there was a kiosk between you and the spot where the accident happened?"

"A which?" asked the witness.

"A kiosk—a subway kiosk."

"No, sir," stated the witness. "I didn't see any kiosk. There was only one fellow there that seemed to be working for the subway, and he was either an Italian or a Greek, I couldn't tell which."—Saturday Evening Post.

Kilted Troops.

The Greek kilted troops, the Evzones, bear a variant of a name which was given to troops in the days of ancient Greece. Euzonoi, meaning well girdled and so girt up for exercise as kilted men are, were light troops or even the heavily armed hoplital, but without their weighty shields. At first, however, the term, as in Homer, was used only regarding women, the "zone," being the lower girdle worn by them about the waist, but by an easy and natural transition this came to mean a man's belt. Then, as the belt supported the short skirts, kilted men were called well belted.

Use of Gas.

It is now a hundred years since gas was first used for illumination in this country, and this is supposed to be "the age of electricity," yet the amount of gas consumed is still increasing. There has indeed been a falling off in the amount used for lighting, but a great gain in the amount used for fuel. This is not only the age of electricity, but also the age of the gas burning cook stove.

Inertia of Bodies.

Lay a visiting card on the tip of the left forefinger and on it place a penny. A quick flick of the card with the right second finger will remove the card without disturbing the coin. Another trick which illustrates the inertia of bodies is to knock away the bottom of a pile of checkers without upsetting the pile. This is effected quite easily with the help of a flat ruler. The remaining checkers are removed successively by a number of smart blows.

A more spectacular and apparently risky trick consists of drawing a newspaper away from under a glass filled with water. Provided, however, that the table is smooth and the paper be pulled away smartly and horizontally there is no danger of the water being spilled.

VOL. XVII. SUNBEAM, PENNINGTON COUNTY, MINNESOTA, FRIDAY, JULY 27, 1917 NO. 20

SOCIETY

THE LOCAL NEWS

Henry Hyland sold his mule team to George Baird, of Erie this week.

The farmers are complaining that hay is not more than half a crop on the high lands, owing to the dry weather in May.

The early sown grain is now in blossom and there are some very fine fields of it, but there are also some pieces that do not look so good.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thoreson, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Hyland, Ed Hyland and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hyland visited at the home of Theodore Hyland's last Sunday.

There is plenty of inquiry being made now days to find out who has been drafted for the army. Never mind boys, don't be in a hurry, you will find out all right soon.

We understand that Singer Bros. are doing some talking about putting in a branch store at Goodridge, so as to get into a newer territory, where the people are not so well acquainted with them.

Those that are anxious to dodge the draft, begin to say, "Why didn't they raise the men by volunteers?" meaning of course, to let the other fellow go. But this draft deal is no respector of persons. All stand an equal chance.

A. B. Mandt, who formerly lived on his farm in Kratka township, but has been running an elevator at Georgetown, Minn. for the past two years, will arrive at Goodridge next week, and will run the Atlantic Elevator this fall.

County Commissioner Wold now claims that he is the man who introduced the resolution for a bridge at Highlanding. Yes, we suppose Kaiser Wilhelm will introduce a resolution to surrender when they get him cornered up in Berlin with a bomb ready to drop on him from an airship.

At the special Town Meeting held last Monday it was decided to purchase a new road grader, and exchange the old one in as part payment. The engine on the old grader was broken beyond repair, and a majority of those present decided that it would be best to get a new grader that runs by its own power.

We don't know why the proceedings of our County Commissioners are not published, as the law requires. But never mind you fellows from the east end will get some of them published from the official records next year, and it won't cost you a cent as tax payers to read them, if certain parties looms up for office.

G. B. Tveit of Mayfield passed by this way yesterday, and said that the farmers were well pleased with the fine quality of work being done on the State Road by Pat Roarak. Pat surely does understand making good roads, and it is fortunate for the people that will use this road, that a contractor got the job who understands the work.

We have not heard anything definite about what was done by the County Commissioners at their last meeting about the bridge at Highlanding. for be it known that we have two newspapers published at our County Seat, and there was not even a local mention of the County Commissioner's meeting in either of them. A good live newspaper would get rich at Thief River Falls, we mean one that would publish the news.

Remember the big Pennington County Fair, August 1,2, and 3. Next week. All are invited. Let's all go!

There is some complaint being made that the people did not know of the Town Meeting held last Monday. Of course we have a newspaper published here in Highlanding, but if the Township Notices to let public work was published in it, everybody would know it, so they write out a notice, and post it up where nobody will see it, and we guess that is the way they done with the Township meeting notice.

The Teacher's School Examination will be held at Thief River Falls July 30th and 31st. Our Superintendent of Schools did not think it was necessary to let readers of THE SUNBEAM know anything about it, or prehaps he got his instructions from P. C. Wold to not send any county publications to this paper for fear it might exist for another year, but we expect to exist all right.

TIME OF YEAR TO CONTROL MARKET.

The Government will make a big splurge about controlling the wheat market, so as to depress the price at about the time the farmers are ready to market their crops, and then they will forget all about it, and allow the wheat gamblers and food speculators to have an inning, until it is about time to market the next crop, which will make the farmers see the necessity of putting men in Congress, who will take a little interest in getting them fair mail service, and a square deal on the sale of the produce from their farms.

WEED THE GARDEN

After it is all over the fellow who can show that he helped to lick the kaiser will have a lot better standing with himself and others than the one who has to admit that he had a chance to help and dodged it.—Duluth Herald.

Then is the time to weed out the American garden, by deportation of slackers. America has got along without them since 1776, and they should not be allowed to stay in this country and raise families of the same breed as themselves, that would let a monarchy dictate terms to America, and not put up a fight.

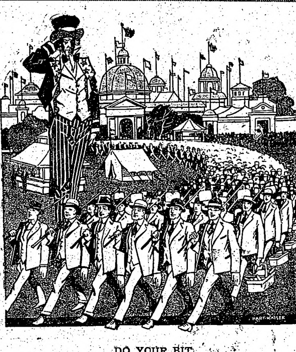
We especially urge every farmer residing in this community to exhibit in at least one department, for by so doing you will feel personal interest in the success of an organization established wholly for your benefit.



DO YOUR BIT.

Now more than ever is the importance emphasized of large crops. A shortage of crops in the United States would mean less chance for America and her allies to win the war for Humanity. Every man and boy who is unable to go to the trenches to fight for his country should do his bit by helping on the farm. The Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 3 to 8, is doing everything it can to encourage food prodution and conservation. You should not miss the big fair.

The magistrate of the department of Seine-et-Oise, in France, once gave a decision in a claim of cruelty to a horse which is remarkable as a legal subtlety. If it is not covered by the collar there is no cruelty. In either event the case must be discharged.

WAY OF DRAFT EXEMPTION NO EASY WAY

Provost Marshal General Makes Public Steps to Be Taken by All Registered Men—Claims for Exemption Must Be Made in Person.

Washington.—Persons subject to exemption, either because of physical disability or included in the president's proclamation of those who are automatically to be released from the draft, must themselves establish their claims. Some fine distinctions, too, are drawn in setting forth a valid claim.

The rules given out by the war department follow:

1. LOCAL BOARDS—In every county in the United States and for every city of over 30,000 there are one or more local exemption boards. Each of such boards is in charge of the registration cards of persons registered in the area, over which the board has jurisdiction, and has jurisdiction of all claims for exemption, except those based on industrial grounds. FIND OUT WHAT BOARD HAS YOUR CARD AND WHERE THE OFFICE OF THAT BOARD IS.

2. DISTRICT BOARDS—In every federal judicial district there are one or more district boards, having appellate jurisdiction over a number of local boards and having original jurisdiction of claims for exemption on industrial grounds. IF YOU INTEND TO MAKE A CLAIM ON INDUSTRIAL GROUNDS, INCLUDING AGRICULTURE, LEARN WHAT DISTRICT BOARD TO APPLY TO.

Meaning of Numbers.

3. RED INK SERIAL NUMBERS—Every board has numbered the cards in its jurisdiction with red ink in a series running from 1 to the number representing the total number of cards in its jurisdiction. Lists showing the names of persons in the jurisdiction of each board and the red ink number of each are open to inspection at the office of each board. INSPECT THE LIST AND INFORM YOURSELF OF YOUR RED INK SERIAL NUMBER.

4. ORDER OF LIABILITY—These red ink numbers are to be drawn by lot to determine the order in which registered persons are to be called by the various local boards. As soon as the drawing is complete lists showing the order in which these red ink numbers are drawn will be published in the press, and will be posted at the office of each local board. GO TO YOUR LOCAL BOARD AND FIND OUT THE ORDER IN WHICH YOU STAND FOR CALL.

5. As soon as quotas are assigned to each state and each board, each board will call upon persons whose cards are in its jurisdiction instructing them to present themselves for examination. This call will be posted at the office of the local board and the papers will be requested to print it. A notice will also be mailed to you, but the posting of the list at the office of the board will be deemed sufficient notice to charge you with the duty of presenting yourself. The law therefore makes it your duty to inform yourself when you are called.

6. Physical examination—you must report for physical examination on the day named in your call.

If you are found physically disqualified the board will give you a certificate which will explain to you what your further duties are.

If you are found physically qualified and file a claim for exemption within seven days after your call you will be given ten days after filing your claim of exemption to file proof in support of your claim of exemption. See (VII) below.

Watch for Your Name.

If you are found physically qualified and file no claim for exemption, or if you do not appear for physical examination, your name will be posted to the district board as one who was called for military service and was not exempted or discharged. On the eighth day after call, or within two days thereafter, copies of the list of persons so posted to the district boards will be given to the press with a request for publication, will be posted in a place at the office of the local board accessible to the public view, and notice will be mailed to you at the address on your registration card.

THEREFORE WATCH THE NOTICES POSTED IN THE OFFICE OF THE BOARD ABOUT TEN DAYS AFTER THE DAY YOU WERE CALLED AND MAKE ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE PROMPT RECEIPT OF MAIL.

7. EXEMPTION OR DISCHARGE.—No claim or discharge on account of the industry in which you are engaged can be decided by a local board. (See Par. XV, below.)

WHETHER YOU FILE A CLAIM OF EXEMPTION OR NOT, YOU MUST PRESENT YOURSELF FOR PHYSICAL EXAMINATION ON THE DAY NAMED IN THE NOTICE.

From the day notice that you are called is mailed and posted you have seven days in which you may file a claim of exemption or discharge. The form for filing this claim is simple. If you wish to file such a claim—

Go to the board and get Form 110 for exemption or Form 121 for discharge. If the board has not the printed forms ask to consult the form pamphlet and copy the form shown there.

Fill out the proper form and file it with the board.

Do this within seven days of the posting and mailing of notice to you to present yourself.

The following are the only grounds for exemption:

That you are an officer, legislative, executive or judicial of the United States, a state or territory, or the District of Columbia.

That you are a regular or duly ordained minister of religion.

That you were on May 18, 1917, a student preparing for the ministry in any recognized theological or divinity school.

That you are in the military or naval service of the United States.

That you are a subject of Germany, whether you have taken out papers or not.

That you are a resident alien who has not taken out first papers.

In addition to claims for exemption claims for discharge may be made on any of the following grounds, which are the only grounds for discharge by a local board:

That you are a county or municipal officer.

That you are a custom-house clerk.

That you are employed by the United States in the transmission of mails.

That you are an artificer or workman employed in an armory, arsenal or navy yard of the United States.

That you are employed in the service of the United States (under certain conditions). See paragraph (e) of section 20, Regulations.

That you are a licensed pilot regularly employed in the pursuit of your vocation.

That you are a mariner actually employed in the sea service of any citizen or merchant within the United States.

That you are a married man with a wife or child dependent on you for support.

That you have aged or infirm parents dependent upon your labor for support.

That you have a widowed mother dependent on your labor for support.

That you are the father of a motherless child under sixteen dependent upon your labor for support.

That you are a brother of an orphan child or children under sixteen dependent on your labor for support.

That you are a member of any well-recognized religious sect or organization organized and existent May 17, 1917, and whose then existing creed or principles forbade its members to participate in war in any form and whose religious convictions are against war or participation therein in accordance with the creed or principles of said religious organization.

These are the only grounds for exemption or discharge by a local board.

Another person can file a claim in your behalf, but must use different forms in filing the claim.

8. Proof of claims—Your claim of exemption or discharge must be filed within seven days of the day on which notice to you that you are called was posted and mailed. But after you have filed your claim for exemption or discharge you have ten days within which to file proof.

The method of proving claims is very simple, but it is rather exact. If you follow the rules given below you will have done what is required of you:

(a) Go to the local board and consult the regulations to find out the form number of the affidavits that you must submit for your particular claim.

(b) Ask the board for the blank affidavits that are necessary in presenting your proof; if the board has not the forms, ask to consult the pamphlet of forms.

(c) Have the affidavits properly accomplished and return them to the board within the time limit assigned you—ten days from the filing of your claim.

Remember:

(a) You must submit your proof in the prescribed form and the board has no authority to exempt or discharge you unless you submit all the affidavits required by regulations.

(b) There will be no argument before the board and no proof other than the prescribed affidavits, unless the board calls for other proof, which it will do in only a limited number of cases.

9. WHEN CLAIMS ARE DECIDED—Every claim for discharge or exemption will be decided by the local board within three days after your affidavits have been filed.

10. CERTIFICATES OF EXEMPTION OR DISCHARGE—If your claim is allowed, a certificate of exemption or discharge will be issued to you.

Remember:

(a) This certificate may be recalled at any time.

(b) If it is temporary or conditional it becomes of no effect when the time or the condition named is fulfilled.

(c) You have been drawn for military service and when the condition that has postponed your posting to the colors ceases you may be recalled at any time.

(d) Remember that your case may still be appealed to the district board by the government, and on this appeal your certificate may be withdrawn at once. When so withdrawn you stand precisely as though you had been selected for military service by the local board.

11. ADVERSE DECISIONS ON CLAIM—If your claim is disallowed by the local board your name will be certified and sent by the local board to the district board as one who has been called for military service and not exempted or discharged. Within two days thereafter, if practicable, a list of those so certified to the district board will be given to the press with a request for publication, will be posted in the offices of the local board accessible to the public view, and notice will be mailed to the address on the registration card.

Therefore, if you have filed a claim for exemption and proof in support thereof watch the notices in the office of the local board, beginning about five days after you have filed your proof, to see what disposition was made of your case and make arrangements for the prompt receipt of mail.

Carrying Up Appeals.

12. HOW TO CLAIM APPEALS TO DISTRICT BOARDS—Claims of appeal may be made by a person within ten days after the day when notice ha been posted and mailed that such person's name has been certified to the district board as one who has been called for service and not exempted or discharged.

Therefore if you desire to appeal—

(a) Go to the local board and get or copy form 153 or 154 for filing your claim of appeal.

(b) Get or copy also form 151 or 152 for notifying the district board of appeal.

(c) File your claim of appeal (153 or 154) with the local board.

(d) Send your notice of appeal (form 151 or 152) to the district board.

(e) Do this within ten days from the day when notice that your name was certified to the district board was posted and mailed.

Remember:

(a) You can only appeal the final order of the board exempting or discharging or refusing to exempt or discharge you. You cannot appeal other orders or actions of the local board.

13. PROVING YOUR APPEAL—You have five days after the district board receives your notice that you have filed a claim of appeal in which to file evidence additional to that filed by you in the local board, but all such evidence must consist of affidavits.

Reception of Decisions.

14. DECISIONS ON APPEAL—The decision on your appeal must be made within five days of the closing of proof, and you will be notified by mail of the action of the board on your appeal.

15. CLAIMS FOR DISCHARGE ON INDUSTRIAL GROUNDS—Only the district board can receive claims for discharge on the ground that they are engaged in industry, including agriculture, found to be necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment, the effective operation of the military forces, or the maintenance of national interest during the emergency.

If you desire to file such a claim:

(a) Get a copy at the local or district board of form 161 or 161a.

(b) Fill the form out properly.

(c) File it with the district board within five days after the mailing and posting of notice that your name has been certified from the local board to the district board. See section 44, regulations.

16. PROOF IN SUPPORT OF INDUSTRIAL CLAIM—Only affidavits can be used in filing proof before the industrial board of a claim for exemption on industrial grounds. All such affidavits must be filed within five days after the filing of the claim.

17. DECISIONS ON INDUSTRIAL CLAIM—Within five days after the closing of proof in any industrial claim the district board must decide the claim.

If the decision of the district board is in favor of the claim the board will issue a certificate of discharge. If the decision is against the claim the district boards will so notify you.

18. APPEALS TO THE PRESIDENT—Only decisions of district boards on industrial claims for discharge can be appealed.

If you desire to appeal the decision of the district boards to the president, you may do so within seven days of the date of mailing to you of the decision of the district board. To perfect your appeal:

(a) Get or copy from the district or local board Form 163.

(b) Fill out the form and file it with the district board.

(c) Do this within seven days after the mailing of notice to you of the decision of the district board in your case.

19. HOW YOU WILL BE NOTIFIED—As soon as your case is finally disposed of, the adjutant general of your state will notify you by mail that you have been selected for military service.

Your local boards will post a list of all persons selected for military service in a place at the office of the local boards accessible to public view.

Notice that you have been selected for military service will not necessarily order you into service.

The notice to report for military service will come when the government is ready to receive you.

WAGING WAR ON FIELD MICE

Australians Forced to Build Fences of Iron About Wheat Awaiting Shipment at Ports.

The wheat harvest in Australia for the present season of 1916-17 is the largest on record. One result of such favorable conditions is that the European field mice in this colony have increased to such an extent that they are doing enormous damage throughout the states of New South Wales, Victoria and South Australia, says the Scientific American. Their attacks upon the wheat lying stacked in bags awaiting shipment alone threaten loss to the extent of millions of dolars.

To save this wheat all the stacks are being surrounded with mouse-proof fences of galvanized iron with openings left every 16 feet, in which are placed kerosene tins, sunk in the ground with six inches of water in the bottom. The mice already in the stacks when this miniature fortification is put in place must go out for water, and when they try to do so they fall into the tins. At one country railroad station nearly 10,000 mice were caught in this way in a single night. The experiment of driving the pests out of a stack by using the fumes of carbon bisulfide has also been tried with some success. In some districts the mice are dying in large numbers from skin diseases.

Cleanliness may be next to godliness, but it takes a lot of advertising to sell soap, nevertheless.

FIRST MEN CALLED TO SERVE IN ARMY AND GUARD UNITS

PROVOST MARSHAL ANNOUNCES PLAN TO FILL UP ORGANIZED REGIMENTS—EXEMPTION MACHINERY COMPLETE.

THOSE SELECTED MAY ENLIST PRIOR TO CALL

Marine Corps Alone Now Barred to Recruits—States to Race for Honor of Completing Quota First—Muster Sheets and Instructions Mailed.

Washington, July 23.—Those selected for service under the draft will be permitted to enlist in the regular army or national guard at any time prior to their call for examination before the exemption boards, probably 10 days hence, Provost Marshal General Crowder announces. They will not be allowed, however, to join the marine corps.

First Men to Go With Regulars.

The first men actually drafted probably will be detailed to the regular army in order to bring that branch up to its full war strength of 300,000, if the 35,000 enlistments needed are not obtained before examinations begin. The rest will be put into the national guard.

Exemption Boards Ready.

Exemption machinery for virtually the entire country is complete. The provost marshal general's office said that the names of members of the appellate boards in the last of the states would be announced at once.

Draft in Hands of States.

Washington, July 23.—The draft is now in the hands of the states. The master lists have been mailed to the local boards, and operation of the law has practically passed out of the hands of the federal government. It will retain merely supervisions of exemptions.

The big question now is:

Which state will furnish its quota first?

"The race is to the swiftest," General Crowder reiterated. "The state first reporting its force ready will, of course, receive much honor."

Master Sheets Mailed.

In all 49,020 master sheets have been mailed, 11 to each of the 4,557 local boards. Ten of the local sheets contain 1,000 numbers each and the eleventh, 500 numbers, making the total 10,500 numbers drawn. Complete instructions to cover every contingency that may arise have been sent to the local boards. The rules for handling cards improperly or illegibly numbered, made public Saturday, were the final word.

U-BOAT TOLL EXCEEDS NEW TONNAGE BUILT

Figures in Possession of Government Show Losses to Be About Million Tons Monthly.

Washington, July 23.—Figures in the possession of the government based upon the best information within reach of the Allies make it appear that since the beginning of German ruthless submarine warfare the destruction of merchantmen hitherto available for Allied commerce has been at least four times the amount of tonnage built.

The figures show the losses to be averaging about 1,000,000 "dead weight" monthly, this including the weight of cargo, whereas the weekly statements from London are based upon registered tonnage.

GERMAN RAIDERS KILL TOTAL OF 3,416 BRITONS

Washington, July 23.—Here is the reason English mothers are demanding reprisals against the Germans, and the British government must take some drastic action to avoid serious trouble at home. A total of 3,416 persons—most of them women and children—have been killed or grievously wounded by German air raids over Great Britain.

Northwest Phone Men Enlist.

Minneapolis, July 23.—A complete wire company for the signal enlisted reserve corps, U. S. A., has been obtained from the employes of independent telephone companies of a district comprising Minnesota, Wisconsin and North and South Dakota, Lieut. Robinson, in charge of the work, announces. The officers, Capt. F. L. Shuman, Bismarck, N. D; Lieut. Robinson and a lieutenant from the regular army, have been ordered to report at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., for training. They will leave at once.

AVIATION MEASURE IS PASSED

PROVIDES $640,000,000 FOR U. S. AIR SERVICE.

Proposal to Build 22,000 'Planes Gets Solid Support—President Expected to Sign Measure at Once.

Washington, July 23.—The House bill appropriating $640,000,000 for the aviation services has been passed by the Senate without amendment or a record vote and with less than an hour's discussion. It now goes to the President.

The Senate's only dispute with many members expressing a desire to pass the bill immediately was over an amendment of Senator Hardwick of Georgia to strike out a clause authorizing drafting of men for the aerial service. The amendment was rejected after Senator La Follette and Gronna made brief speeches opposing the draft.

22,000 'Planes and 100,000 Men.

Details of plans for expending the huge sum approved has been withheld, but it is known that it provides for about 22,000 airplanes and nearly 1,000,000 men.

The President is expected to sign the bill at once and the work of building one of the greatest air fleets the world has seen will be pushed with vigor. During the first year officials hope to produce at least 3,500 with a great increase the next year. For the first few months virtually the entire attention will be centered on construction of student planes and there has been talk of bringing British and French aviation student officers to the United States for traning.

To Make Aliens Subject.

Senator Calder offered as an amendment the resolution of Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the Military committee, proposing to amend the army draft law to make aliens subject to conscription, excepting subjects of Germany or those exempted by treaty.

DECLARES FOR HOME RULE

Finland Defies Russia—Asserts Complete Independence.

Petrograd, July 23.—The "Ireland of Russia" has flung its final word of defiance at the Russian provisional government, and promptly translated it into action. The Finish diet passed a bill declaring Finland's absolute independence from Russia as a separate autonomous state. In taking this action the separatists openly admitted that they were taking advantage of Russia's plight.

Reports Sea Raider in Atlantic.

An Atlantic Port, July 23.—The presence of a strange vessel, believed to be a German raider, due west from the Spanish coast and two-thirds of the way across the Atlantic from Europe, was reported by a British freight steamship which escaped from the unidentified craft and arrived here.

A. F. of L. to Probe Draft Plots.

New York, July 23.—German anti-draft plotters have made such strenuous efforts to gain adherents among laboring men, especially on the east side here, that an investigation has been undertaken by the American Federal of Labor.

Villa Moving on Torreon, Report

Juarez, Mex., July 23.—Villa followers to the number of 6,000, under command of Francisco Villa and Cantuo Reyes, are reported moving on Torreon from the north and the south along the Mexican Central railroad. Jiminez, 131 miles north of Torreon, which was occupied by Villa a few days ago, has been evacuated by the rebels and Murguia has moved his headquarters there from Chihuahua City. The capture of Torreon by the rebels would isolate Northern Mexico from the northern capital.

Humor From British Tar.

An incident illustrative of the quiet honor of the British tar is thus described:

In Modros harbor, in the eastern Mediterranean, a coxswain of the navy ran his picket boat into a trawler, and, knowing his error, listened with disciplinary patience while the irate master expressed his views on royal naval picket boats in a wealth of invective. The silent coxswain pushed off, but, passing under the stern of the trawler, looked up at one of the crew and shouted:

"What do you feed your old man on? Acid drops?"—London Tit-Bits.

EFFECT OF INSECTS ON WAR

Relationship Is Closer Than Most People Realize, According to U. S. Bureau of Entomology.

Entomology, that branch of zoology which treats of insects, has a much closer relation to war problems than most people realize, and the bureau of entomology has asked that pamphlets, circulars, posters, leaflets, etc., pertaining to war phases of the field of science he sent to its office in Washington, so that they can be assembled and classified for future reference, says Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Among the questions that properly come under this head and have a bearing on the war are those pertaining to the attacks of insects on crops, the prevention of mosquitoes, insects in food and water, and so on. While many publications will not possess material of special scientific value, all will at least have a historic interest.

For Darkened London.

Suggestions for making ourselves visible "when the lights are low" are becoming rather alarming. We are advised, observes the London Chronicle, to wear "light clothes for dark streets." One humorist goes so far as to suggest a "coat of whitewash" for evening wear. White hats or gaiters would call for less expenditure than an extra light night suit which most of us would be obliged to add to our wardrobe. But perhaps the simplest device would be a white smock, with special musical box attachments; for one night wanderer says he makes a practice of singing as he walks to let other folks know he is coming.

A FRIEND'S ADVICE

Woman Saved From a Serious Surgical Operation.

Louisville, Ky.—"For four years I suffered from female troubles, headaches, and nervousness. I could not sleep, had no appetite and it hurt me to walk. If I tried to do any work, I would have to lie down before it was finished. The doctors said I would have to be operated on and I simply broke down. A friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the result is I feel like a new woman. I am well and strong, do all my own house work and have an eight pound baby girl. I know Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which every woman dreads."—Mrs. NELLIE FISHBACK, 1521 Christy Ave., Louisville, Ky.

Everyone naturally dreads the surgeon's knife. Sometimes nothing else will do, but many times Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved the patient and made an operation unnecessary.

Germany Great Potato Country.

Germany and Austria-Hungary have been producing more than twice as many potatoes as the United States, France, Belgium, England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales. In 1914 the United States produced 409,921,000 bushels, while Germany in the same year grew 1,674,377,000 bushels, or more than four times as many as we. Last year we produced only 285,437,000, or less than one-sixth the average potato yield of the kaiser's people for the three years beginning with 1912, while in one year—1913—they dug from the ground just a few thousand less than 2,000,000 bushels.

Doings of Last Few Days Throughout Minnesota Condensed for Hasty Perusal.

Two men and two women were drowned in the St. Louis river at Duluth near the Morgan Park hospital while trying to rescue a girl. She was saved by a boatman after the others sank.

The State High School Board has voted 3 to 2 to pay immediately the outstanding state high school and graded school aid deficits of 1914-15 and 1915-16, totaling $1,070,193, from available funds.

Dean William R. Appleby of the school of mines of the University of Minnesota is in Washington to try to obtain exemption for students in his school in order that they may complete the course.

Arrangements for the hearing in the boundary dispute between Minnesota and Wisconsin have been completed before Commissioner D. E. Roberts in the district court at Duluth and the taking of testimony has begun.

Representatives of state charitable institutions, city and county relief and correctional societies, and all other agencies interested in welfare work have met in St. Paul to form a Central Council of welfare workers.

Residents of East Rochester were terrorized when Mike Slis, an insane man, escaped from the state hospital and armed with a club smashed in several windows and attacked a number of citizens. He finally was overpowered.

The coal shortage situation in the Northwest is acute. Instead of 2,000,000 tons monthly, which experts agree is the minimum of receipts at Duluth that would be necessary to tide the trade over, receipts are running at less than half that tonnage.

Socialists lost after a bitter debate and the State Federation of Labor, in session at Faribault, voted 186 to 93, pledging support to the government in the conduct of the war with Germany.

An appeal for a deeper seriousness and realization of the meaning of citizenship has been made by President Marion R. Burton of the University of Minnesota in his maiden address before an all-university convocation at the university armory.

War department officials probably will be asked to authorize the use by the Minnesota home guards of the regulation army uniform, with the exception that the collar insignia will be made up of the letters "M. H. G." instead of "Minn.," as in the case of the national guard, or "U. S. A.," as in the regular army.

Dr. J. L. Byrnes has pronounced as a true case of aphasia the ailment of a well dressed man found wandering near the farm of Sebastian Taylor, near Wolf, Minn., with only "F. J. K." stamped on his grips to indicate his identity. "F. J. K." is 5 feet 9 inches tall, has light wavy hair and blue eyes and can only say that he must be lost.

One hundred and thirteen indictments have been returned by the Federal grand jury against men who failed to register June 5 and are now held in the St. Louis county jail or have been released on bonds.

C. L. Dooke, Socialist lecturer, has been arrested at an International Falls theater on complaint of Attorney F. J. M. Partlin, a Spanish war veteran, on a charge of delivering a lecture tending to discourage enlistment.

The Minnesota, formerly owned by the Hill railroad and steamship interests, the largest American freighter afloat, though a special lure for German submarines, has made its first trip across the Atlantic and back again successfully.

Dr. William J. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., one of the famous Mayo brothers and an officer in the medical reserve corps, has been called into active service by the War department, and is in Washington. He is serving as an adviser to Major General William C. Gorgas, surgeon general of the army.

Examinations of swine herds by County Agent W. V. Goussef in Merton and Medford townships has led to the discovery of several cases of hog cholera. Immediately steps were taken to prevent the further spread of the disease. Mr. Goussef declares it evidently is in no other part of the county.

STATE BOARD TO IMPROVE FARMS

COMMISSION IN CHARGE OF WORK UNDER AMENDMENT NO. 1 MAKES PLANS.

TO ATTRACT NEW SETTLERS

Experiments on Forty-Acre Tracts to Be Made Without Waiting for Purchasers to Appear—$100,000 Available August 1.

St. Paul.

The state commission in charge of the improvement and sale of state lands to settlers under Constitutional Amendment No. 1, adopted at the last election, will not wait for purchasers to appear before beginning the work of improvement. The plan of the commission is to get the work of settlement started early by making the places attractive to purchasers and enabling them to go on the land at once.

Desirable forty-acre tracts of land will be selected, and on each will be erected one small building. On one a house will be built, on another a barn, and on a third sleeping quarters.

It is also figured that larger first payments can be obtained in this way, and a larger sum kept in the revolving fund.

August 1, when the board meets to arrange for the experiment, a fund of $100,000 will be available.

Rains Insure Bumper Crops.

As a result of heavy rains in many counties of Minnesota, a bumper crop, including a heavy yield of alfalfa, hay and other grain is assured, according to reports received from seventeen counties. These indicate that the Gopher state is to help materially to meet the desire of the nation for a record crop.

A call for farm labor to help care for the yield has been received by Fred D. Sherman, state commissioner of immigration. Heavy enlisting in the farming communities is believed to be responsible for the shortage of men.

Prospects for a heavy yield of potatoes are held out by experts, who recently returned from a crop tour. Corn has been retarded by the rain and cool weather in certain counties of the state but the reports are optimistic for this product if the temperature rises.

Child Plague Victims Treated.

About 300 infantile paralysis victims have been treated by the clinic held under the auspices of the State Board of Health, according to Dr. Willard P. Greene of Minneapolis, in charge of the work. Many of the persons, all suffering from the effects of the disease, have come to St. Paul from widely separated parts of the state. No date has been set for the close of the clinic, and it is probable that it will remain in St. Paul for some time.

RUN AUTOS WITH COAL GAS

London Motorists Find It Cheaper Than Gasoline at Present High Price of Latter.

Great interest has been aroused by the reference made in the London Telegraph recently to the economic advantages of the utilization of coal gas as a substitute for petrol (gasoline), says that newspaper. It has been established by actual practice that 250 cubic feet of coal gas—the ordinary gas that is used for household illumination purposes—equals one gallon of petrol when applied to the work of driving a motor vehicle. If gas costs 72 cents 1,000 cubic feet it is equivalent to petrol at 18 cents a gallon, and at 96 cents 1,000 cubic feet is equivalent to its competitor at 24 cents a gallon.

As petrol cannot be bought today for commercial purposes at under 48 to 58 cents a gallon, it will be seen how great is the economy effected. So far as the alterations rendered necessary to the engine of a motor vehicle are concerned, the only additional expenditure is about $3.60, and the gas bag container for the storing of the vapor costs $75. Thus, for the expendture of $78.60, an ordinary petrol using motor vehicle of any description can be converted into a gas driven one, and the driving expenses reduced enormously.

Heroes of Canine World.

The Belgian police dogs, on account of their ability to detect and capture criminals, and the great St. Bernards, which were famous for their rescues of travelers lost in the alpine snows, was considered the greatest heroes of the canine world until the present war introduced the Red Cross dogs, whose deeds of valor in front of the trenches have saved the lives of thousands of sorely wounded.—National Geographic Magazine.

It's a man's nature to crave power, and if he can't bully another man or a dog he gets married.

It's Poor Economy to Endure a Bad Back

IN these days of rising prices, we need every ounce of strength and the ability to do a full day's work every day. The man or woman with weak kidneys is half crippled. Sore, aching kidneys; lame, stiff back, headache, dizzy spells, a dull, tired feeling and urinary disorders are daily sources of distress. You can't afford to neglect kidney weakness and make it easy for gravel, dropsy or Bright's disease to take you. Get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills today. They have helped thousands. They should help you:

Personal Reports of Real Cases

A MINNESOTA CASE.

Mrs. Henry Zumach, Hutchinson, Minn., says: "Sharp pains in my back came on me suddenly and kept getting worse until I could hardly do my housework. I grew weak and run down and nights my back was so bad I couldn't sleep. Doctors advised an operation but I used Doan's Kidney Pills instead. They soon helped me and I kept on taking them until all the troubles were removed. I am now in good health and feel stronger and more like myself. I have gained in weight, too. Doan's Kidney Pills have done all this for me and I am grateful.'"

A WISCONSIN CASE.

Charles Silberzahn, Seventh Ave., West Bend, Wis., says: "I began to suffer from kidney trouble some years ago, which started with a dull pain in my back that clung to me day and night. For weeks I was sore and stiff and I could hardly get up after sitting. The kidney secretions were scanty and burned in passage. I tried different remedies but got little relief until I took Doan's Kidney Pills. They gave me a permanent cure and I haven't suffered since."

Golf Lingo Made Clear.

Henry's father was a golf enthusiast; therefore Henry knew all about the game. One time he asked:

"Henry, why is it that men who play golf always yell 'fore' instead of 'look out' or some such thing?"

Henry thought for a second time before an inspiration came from looking at his young sister, who was diligently getting her arithmetic.

"You see," he replied, "it takes too long to yell 'toot-toot,' and that sounds so much like 'two-two' that they just add them together and yell 'four.'"—Everybody's Magazine.

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR
HARRIETT G. HUNT, PUB.

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 30 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn. under the Act of Congress of March 3,1879

Congressman Baer, elected by the Non-partisan League of North Dakota, will have only one vote NOW, but wait until next year! The farmers are telling John he will have lots of company soon.—Non-partisan Leader. You bet the farmers WILL send you down a lot of help to make hay next year, John.

There is lots of protests being filed with the post office department for denying Socialist papers circulation through the U.S. mail. Wait until the war is over is our advice to our socialist editors, and you will have the opportunity to air your views, but not as kaiser Wilhelm agencies in America, at the preasent time. Move your newspaper plants over to Berlin, where we have no doubt that your noble efforts will be highly appreciated.

There is not much prospect of men that are now being drafted ever getting near enough to the front to smell the powder from an enemies gun. But to hear some of them wail and tear their hair, you would think that they had been sentenced to face a firing squad, with their back to the wall. It is not to the credit of our foreign born citizens to lead in these demonstrations of treason and disloyalty at this time, as all of you came from foreign countries where you were compelled to give from three to five years service in the army in time of peace. Now when your adopted country is at war with a foreign power, do not stand on the street corner and stab them in the back, for America is going to win this war, and the dove of peace will again settle on our Nation. It is up to every true American to get into line and help to win, and any slacker at this time would have been a slacker in any war that this conutry has had.

STEENERSON GETS BUSY

Washington, July 19.—Congressman Steenerson of this district submitted to the Federal Trade commission his brief on grain exchanges. The brief is a review of the evidence lately submitted to congress and concludes that the Grain exchanges in Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago by reason of their rules, privileges and practices so dominate the trade that there is no longer a free and open public market for grain in those places.

The brief also says that the exclusion of farmers cooperative associations from membership in the exchanges is arbitrary and a violation of the principles laid down by the United States supreme court and the anti-trust laws laid down by congress.—Crookston Times.

It would seem by the above that Congressman Steenerson has woke up to the fact that the farmers are not getting a square deal in the marketing of their grain. We wonder if he begins to hear the distant sound of that Nonpartisan League that proposes to put men in Congress that will look after the interest of the farmers, part of the time. Halvor is an able man for the position that he occupies, and his long service in congress will make him a power to do good work for the farmers interest if he will only "get busy" before the Nonpartisan League has to hunt for a man like John Baer for their next Representative.

The Noble fight being made by The Oklee Herald against the Non-partisan League, is like a man trying to dip Red Lake dry with a table spoon. Better foget it Nels, as the Republican party will only be a side show in this state next year, while there will not be enough left of your party to make a good sized grease spot. Read the record from N. D. and get ready for your medicine next year, as the farmers are lining up and mean business from the word go!

There was certainly a big change in the vote from Democrat to Republican in the special Election held in the First Congressional Districts of North Dakota on July 10th. The Republican Candidate got 8.925 votes, to the Democrats 3,389, while the Non-partisan Leagues candidate got more than both of them, and then some. There was a heavy vote cast in the District which indicates that the city votes are changing back from Democratic to Republican, and that the farmers are getting disgusted with both of them.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of One Hundred Fourteen ($114.00) Dollars interest, which became due May 25th, 1916, whereby under the terms of the Mortgage the whole principal sum and interest became and is hereby declared due and payable, to-wit:-the sum of Two Thousand Two Hundred Seventy-three and 73-00ths ($2.273.73) Dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain Mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Hjalmar H. An Aged Gander.

The birds that live to a great age are comparatively few. Gulls have been known to reach forty years, parrots frequently live eighty years and swans nearly as long. Ravens and owls usually die somewhat younger, but there is good reason to believe that eagles and falcons sometimes live more than a hundred years. Of barnyard fowls ducks and geese live longest. D. MacLachlan of Islay, Scotland, writes to the Field that he has a gander that is now sixty-six years old. For forty-five years it belonged to the proprietor of a hotel at Bridgend, Scotland. Twenty-one years ago the father-in-law of the present owner bought it. Mr. MacLachlan says that the gander looks as well and as young and seems as active as it ever did. There is no doubt about its age.

Her Adopted Name.

They were discussing the peculiarities of names, and Blobton suddenly said:

"By the way, Cox, your wife's got a queer name, hasn't she—'Duty?' Where did she get that name Duty?"

"Oh, she adopted it," replied Mr. Cox. "She claims that every married woman's middle name is Duty, because she is either being done or neglected."—London Mail.

Explained.

"I know a man who is very successful in business, and yet all his customers know his talk about his goods is chiefly hot air."

"How does he manage to fool them, then?"

"He doesn't. He deals in furnaces."—Baltimore American.

Sheer Idolatry.

"Gadspur has a little white hen that lays an egg every day."

"I guess he's proud of that bird."

"Proud is not the name for it. Why, man, he has had a phonographic record made of her cackle."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Unkind Wit.

The desire to shine by delivering himself of a crushing repartee all too often leads the witty individual into excesses that seriously offend charity and not rarely justice as well.

A wit that is unkind is not a gift to be proud of. It usually belongs to a discontented and spiteful person who apart from these failings would be a very nice friend, but the biting wit on which he prides himself keeps everybody at a distance. While one dislikes the person who is ready to agree to anything one may say, it is rather better to have that than continual disagreement and stinging wit.—Exchange.

Fattening Snakes.

THE LOCAL NEWS

Ye Editor visited the County Fair yesterday at Thief River Falls.

That Pennington County Fair was certainly a hummer this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Lars Hyland and family visited with Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hyland of Erie, on last Sunday.

There is no rust on the grain this year, as it has been too dry and fair weather for rust to put in an appearance.

The weather has been ideal for haying the past two weeks, and the farmers have been improving it by putting up long ricks of hay.

Alvin Larson, a boy who has been working at Sunbeam since July 1st left for his home at Thief River Falls yesterday, as his parents will remove to Canada next week.

Carl G. Olson, of Deer Park township cut his first field of early oats on Monday. They are the Golden Yellow early variety and were sown early on high land, and are well filled with good heavy oats.

News from the Highlanding farmers, who went to Canada last spring, is to the effect that all crops had been frozen out where they were, which is a little worse deal than we ever had dished up to us in this locality.

The acreage of oats and barley is quite heavy in this locality this year, and our farmers will soon bid farewell to the feed stores that they have been patronizing heavily this summer, at a big expense to them.

Rye harvest will begin next week, and some pieces of early oats and Marquis wheat will be ready for harvest. All the early sown oats and barley is filling out fine, and the horses will certainly appreciate it this winter.

One of Henry Hylands horse came untied last Sunday night and walked out of the open door of the barn and kept walking until she reached the farm of Wm Rodman in Deer Park Township, where Henry found her after nearly a day spent looking for her.

Last Saturday was one of the hottest days of the season, as there was a genuine Oklahoma hot wind blowing from the south. Some of the farmers stopped work, and we hear that there was three horses died from the excessive heat, while being worked in the hayfields.

We notice that some farmers stack their ricks of hay running east and west. If they will notice the difference in the amount of hay wasted when they haul next winter from a rick of hay stacked east and west, compared to one stacked north and south, they will never build another rick of hay running east and west.

It seems funny that the consumers are paying war prices for beef in the cities, and the cattle buyers are offering the farmers the same old five or six years ago price of 5½ and 6 cents a pound. But we suppose they tell the city consumer that cattle have raised so in price that they have to charge 20 cents a pound.

SELLING AS AN ART.

The Road to Success, and the Reason Some Salesmen Fail.

In a story about a wonderful salesman a writer says in the American Magazine:

"Asked for his views on salesmanship and to give suggestions that would be helpful to others, he said: 'Any person can sell to any man who wants to buy, but it takes a salesman to sell to the man who doesn't want to buy. It took me five months in one case to work my way into the confidence of a wealthy man who hated life insurance agents, and we had been acquainted a month before he discovered that I was selling insurance. He later had me write him up for a $10,000 policy.

"'A salesman should know his goods forward and backward. Know human nature like he knows the alphabet and not lie. Self confidence, which is indispensable to success, results from exact knowledge of what you are offering to sell and knowledge of your prospect.

"'Salesmen sometimes fail because they have a set way of dealing with all kinds of people. That will never do. They should learn to adapt themselves to all sorts and conditions of men and women. Use an easy conversational tone. Be natural. Don't get excited or talk loud. Make strong, positive assertions about your goods. You must be absolutely certain that the article you are selling is the very best on earth. Then stop talking before you kill the sale by talking too much.'"

GRAVEDIGGER BEETLES.

These Queer Insects Have a Remarkable Sense of Smell.

When an animal dies in a garden or in the woods and decomposition begins carrion bugs come from far and near. A dead bird, a mouse or a harmless snake wantonly killed by some wanderer provides a banquet for hundreds of insects. Among these the "gravediggers" are found, embracing forty-three species, twelve of which are found in Europe, the rest in America.

You can identify these beetles, says the Popular Science Monthly, by the two jagged yellowish red or reddish transverse bands upon their black wing covers. Their scientific name, necrophorus, means no more than "buriers of the dead." As undertakers the insects have legs especially adapted for digging.

A gravedigger beetle has a most extraordinary sense of smell. He can detect the peculiar odor of decomposition a long distance away and flies to the dead thing as straight as an arrow. His remarkably keen nose is situated in his clublike feelers.

As a rule several gravediggers are found near a dead body. They crawl under it and scratch the supporting earth away, so that the body soon lies in a hollow. Gradually the body is lowered until it sinks below the surface. Then it is covered with earth. The female lays her eggs around the interred form, thus insuring for the newly hatched larvae a plentiful food supply.

Emeralds and Beryls.

There is no decline in the vogue of the emerald, using the word not in the generic sense of the trade, but for a beryl of the accepted green emerald hue. Fine specimens always cause a flutter in the auction room, for the very good reason that those are extremely rare. Perfect stones are as costly as fine rubies and, of course, much more so relatively than diamonds.

The Duke of Devonshire owns what is believed to be the largest and nearest faultlessness in existence, and it came from Nuzo, in Colombia, the main source of modern examples. The ancient emeralds of great magnitude we read of were probably not beryls at all, and, indeed, "oriental emerald" is the designation of the green corundum.—London Chronicle.

How to Begin the Day.

Begin the morning by saying to thyself: I shall meet this day with the busybody, the ungrateful, the arrogant, deceitful, envious, unsocial. All these things happen to them by reason of their ignorance of what is good and evil. But I, who have seen the nature of the good that it is beautiful and of the bad that it is ugly, cannot be injured by any of them.—Marcus Aurelius.

Doesn't Always Work.

LOSS FROM BAD ROADS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates that the farmers of the nation are annually losing $250,000,000 because of their inability to market their produce at certain times of the year. Counties which are rich in agricultural products are burdened with bad roads and it is of much concern to the farmers to see to the building of good roads. Good roads, 365-day roads, are insurance for continued community prosperity.

DIET AND DISEASE.

Rickets in Children Is Caused by the Wrong Kind of Foods.

"Beware of giving young children too much pasteurized milk, proprietary food or even cereals to the exclusion of brown bread and butter, stewed fruit or roasted apple and a little meat once a day," writes Dr. Beverley Robinson of New York in giving a warning note about rickets in the New York Medical Journal.

He adds that he is "considering especially children two or three years old who are healthy and vigorous unless rickets develops unawares by reason of faulty dietary." And he quotes the following from Osler:

"Like scurvy, rickets may be found in the families of the wealthy under perfect hygienic conditions. It is most common in children fed on condensed milk, the various proprietary foods, cow's milk and food rich in starches."

Rickets is the cause of knockknees and bowlegs. It is due to too little animal fat and protein in the dietary, together with too little lime salts.

Curious Choice of a Wife.

Some years ago an English curate surprised his parishioners by marrying a widow considerably older than himself. The astonishment was still greater when the cause was known. The curate had become engaged to a young girl whose frivolous conduct soon led him to regret the step. He offered a settlement for his release, but it was refused. He endeavored in every way to break the engagement, but without success.

"Is there nothing I can do to escape this?" he exclaimed one day in despair.

"Yes," remarked the girl's mother, who was present and who had been the prime mover in the marriage negotiations, "by marrying me."

The curate decided if he had to marry one of the two he preferred the mother and accepted her. The young girl married a wealthy stockbroker.

"BLOOD AND IRON" RULE AGAINST SLAV TROOPS IS POLICY

GERMAN AVIATORS REACH PARIS IN FIRST ATTEMPT, BUT ARE DRIVEN OFF WHEN MAKING SECOND ATTACK.

BOMBARDMENT DID NO DAMAGE, SAYS PRESS

Five or Six Bombs Dropped in Suburban Sections Slightly Injure Two Women—Germans Switch Air Attacks From London to Paris With Little Success.

London, July 31.—Having retreated approximately 100 miles, the Russian army in East Galicia is again on Russian soil on both sides of Husiatyn and is still being followed by the Teutonic armies.

Likewise, the armies to the north and south continue to retire before the enemy, at a few points only offering resistance, and then only for short time. Wherever faithful troops attempt to give battle they are harassed by numerically stronger enemy forces and compelled to give ground, receiving no assistance from their recalcitrant former brothers-in-arms, whose main effort continues to be to get out of striking distance of the enemy.

Russian Retirement Rapid.

So fast has been the Russian retirement and the advance of the enemy toward Bukowina that an arc-like formation has been thrown westward of Czernowitz, the capital, with the northern end resting on Woclawice, 25 miles distant, and the southern end east of Kuty, on the western border of the crown land.

"Blood and Iron" Policy.

Evidently the preparations for the "blood and iron" policy of the government against the disaffected troops shortly will be put into full force, for Minister of War Kerensky is on his way to the Russian headquarters, there to confer with the military leaders to formulate plans to stay the retreat and compel the troops to face the foe as the Russians in the southern Carpathian region are doing. Down along this latter front, the Russians, aided by the Roumanians, continue to compel the Teutonic forces to cede ground, especially in the upper Putna valley.

French Hit Germans Hard.

Again French troops in the Aisne region of France have turned in vicious counter attacks against the Germans, put down an offensive they had started between Hurtebise and La Bovelle and made good gains against them all along the line. Several attacks by the Germans in the Verdun sector, notably between the region of the Avocourt wood and Hill 304 also were repulsed.

Meanwhile the great artillery duel which has been in progress in Flanders for more than a week, continues unabated. The visitation of German shells on Nieuport is tremendous, and the British guns are replying almost shot for shot. Around Vimy Ridge and Lens and at Armetieres, the duel continues of greater proportions.

RAIN BRINGS RELIEF TO NORTHWEST CROPS

Parts of North Dakota and Minnesota Hit by Cyclone—Precipitation Ends Heat Wave.

Minneapolis, July 31.—Heavy rains, accompanied by cooling breezes, moved eastward over the Dakotas and entered Minnesota, bringing relief to crops that had been menaced by blasting winds and promising a cessation of the extreme heat that has prevailed over the Northwest for the past week. The reports of heavy precipitation followed closely the government's weather report forecasting cooler weather in Minnesota, the Dakotas, Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan.

At Lisbon, N. D., and Alexandria, Minn., the storm approached cyclonic proportions and buildings were damaged and some grain fields flattened. Interruption of wire communications interfered with supplementary reports but indications were that a large area had been drenched.

Carrollton, Ky., July 30. — George Thurman, a prominent citizen of this place, was arrested for having failed to register for the national army. He was given the choice of imprisonment or enlistment. He chose the latter, joining the regular army.

Finland Denies Power of Russia.

Helsingfors, Finland, July 30.—The Finnish Diet has adopted a resolution for presentation to the Russian government which points out that while the Russians ended the enslavement of the Finns by the government of the emperor the Diet nevertheless is of this opinion: "The introduction in Russia of a new political regime does not give the provisional government the right to [illegible] to Finland, for that would be equivalent to the restriction of Finland's constitution."

24,000 DOCTORS ARE NEEDED

ONE-HALF TO BE REQUIRED FOR ARMY BY OCTOBER 1.

Demand for Physicians Is Heaviest Made by War in Any Profession and Is Being Readily Met.

Washington, July 31. — Fully 24,000 physicians, or two out of every nine of military age in the country, will be needed by the new American armies, the War department announces, in addition to 120,000 enlisted men who must be secured for the medical corps.

Half of these physicians and enlisted men will be needed by October 1. They already are going into training camps to fit them for service at the rate of 200 a day. Three months' training is given the officers and men. About 18,500 officers and men are now under training at these camps.

Meeting Call Readily.

The demand for physicians is probably the heaviest made by the war of any profession, and the department says the medical men of the country are meeting it readily.

There are approximately 90,000 physicians of military age, 22 to 55 years, in the country. By a system of selection these will be mobilized and drawn from each community in proportion to the number available so as not to leave any community without adequate profession.

After three months' training a detachment of the medical officers for each regiment will be sent to each national army, national guard and regular army camp ahead of the troops to supervise preparations necessary for safeguarding health.

MOVEMENTS OF TROOPS TO BE SECRET HEREAFTER

Censorship Not to Be Used, However, in Hiding Names of Any Disasters to Soldiers.

Washington, July 31.—The movement of American troops to France will be carried on absolutely without publicity if the present policy of the War department remains unaltered. Secretary Baker and some of his military advisors believe that no word should be published of the arrival of troops abroad, under the voluntary censorship to which the press of the country has subjected itself.

Assurances have been given both by navy and army officials that disaster will not be hidden under the veil of this censorship, and presumably under the new regulation also the American people will be expected to understand that no news is good news in this respect.

MOTHER OF BOLLINGER BABY DIES; SHOCK CAUSE

Passes Away In Room Adjoining That In Which Deformed Infant Was Allowed to Die.

Chicago, July 30.—The death of Baby Bollinger, the hopelessly deformed infant whose life Dr. Harry J. Haiselden refused to save at the German-American hospital in November, 1916, is believed to have been directly responsible for the death of Mrs. Anna Bollinger, the baby's mother.

"After the baby's death," said Allen Bollinger, husband of the dead woman, a repair foreman in the Lincoln avenue car barns, "my wife fell into a settled melancholy and wasted away. The child died in a room in the hospital adjoining that in which its mother was confined."

Proud of Son Dead in France.

New York, July 28.—"I'm proud of my boy." These were the words of the first American mother to receive word that her son had been buried in France. She is Mrs. Agnes Reinhardt, whose son, Luis, was drowned when he fell overboard from an American warship in French waters. Mrs. Reinhardt has received a letter from the French government expressing the deepest sympathy for her loss. She requested that the body of her boy be returned home for burial, [illegible] will most likely be granted.

HOW AMERICA CAN WIN WAR TOLD BY CABINET MEMBERS

BAKER, DANIELS AND POLK SEE TOUGH NUT TO CRACK, BUT TRIUMPH IN END.

U. S. MUST RULE AIR AND CRUSH U-BOATS, OPINION

Failure of Russian Offensive Heavy Blow—Deadlock on Western Front Can Only Be Broken by Yankee Intervention, According to Officials.

Washington, July 28.—This is a summary of what the three Americans in closest touch with the war situation think of it:

The Western front is a nut so tough that it cannot be cracked with the present Allied tools.

The United States will have to do that.

The United States can do it.

The failure of the Russian offensive was far more disastrous than had been anticipated. It was an utter rout.

But the very disorganization of Russia is encouraging in the sense that Germany can make no advantageous peace with the newest republic.

The United States must raise the proportion of Allied to Teuton fighters on the Western front to something like three to one.

Or the flank of the Western front must be turned.

To do either of these things we must free the seas of submarines and dominate the air.

And:

The French and British can more than hold their own until we can bring our forces into play for these purposes.

View of Baker, Daniels and Polk.

This is the picture sketched by Secretary Baker of the War department; Secretary Daniels of the Navy department and Acting Secretary of State Frank L. Polk. It is a composite picture drawn after long talks with all these three men in which the whole situation was thoroughly discussed. It is not a pessimistic picture.

It reveals a great task. But it was the picture before America's eyes when war was declared. It has not grown worse as the details have been painted in by the experience of the last three months.

NEXT DRAFT OCTOBER FIRST

National Guard to Be in France Before January, Senator Says.

Chicago, July 28.—Senator J. Hamilton Lewis said that the next call for men for the new army would be made about Oct. 1 next. Lewis, as democrat whip, is credited with inside information. The national guard now under arms, Lewis said, would be in France before Jan. 1.

Canadian Guns Silence Foe.

Canadian Army Headquarters in France, July 30.—Our guns have at last definitely obtained the upper hand on the western part of the front. The artillery actions by which this has been done have been in progress for several days. With the object of challenging our ascendency in guns the enemy recently brought up a battery of artillery attached to a Prussian guard division. They were given practically unlimited supplies of ammunition which they used to bombard our heavy artillery position.

U. S. SHIP BOARD REORGANIZES

HURLEY AND CAPPS REPLACE GOETHALS AND DENMAN.

Chairman Says Supplies of Steel, Wood and Labor Offer Problems—May Divert Ships.

Washington, July 30.—Reorganization of the shipping board and the emergency fleet corporation has just been completed.

Edward N. Hurley of Chicago, who succeeded William Denman on the board, was elected chairman, and John A. Donald was elected vice chairman to succeed Theodore Brent, whose resignation was accepted late Thursday by President Wilson.

The members of the board as directors of the fleet corporation elected Rear Admiral W. L. Capps general manager, to succeed Major General George W. Goethals.

Three Problems Up.

Members of the board spent much of the afternoon conferring with Admiral Capps.

"We have three problems before us," Chairman Hurley said afterwards, "steel, wood and labor. The labor supply is in sight, and we are seeking steel and wood."

The board gave some time also to the question of diverting ships from the Pacific to the Atlantic, where the shortage of tonnage is more pronounced.

MORE U. S. TROOPS HAVE REACHED EUROPEAN PORT

Another Contingent Arrives Safely and Disembarks—Officials at Washington Make No Comment.

A European Port, July 30.—Another American contingent has safely arrived and disembarked.

The American troops arrived by the same steamer on which Kermit Roosevelt, his wife and child traveled. When tenders went alongside the vessel the men were in high spirits and frequently shouted:

"Are we downhearted?" which was answered with a roaring "No," given with great enthusiasm.

Representatives of the general staff watched the disembarkation. There was no civic demonstration. Only a few spectators knew of the landing. These cheered and the troops cheered back. The men entrained quickly and left for their new quarters. A signal company remained at the port for some hours and these were the only representatives of the contingent which the public saw.

May Deport Emma Goldman.

New York, July 28.—If Alexander Berkman and Emma Goldman, the anarchists now being brought here from federal prisons, are freed on their appeal from conviction on the charge of conspiracy to obstruct the selective draft law, steps will be taken to deport them, according to a statement made by United States Immigration Commissioner Howe. Efforts were being made by their attorney to get bail of $25,000 each for Berkman and Miss Goldman pending the hearing of their appeal which comes up soon.

CONGRESS ASKED TO VOTE WAR FUND OF $15,000,000,000

TOLD BY ADMINISTRATION THAT COST OF STRUGGLE FOR YEAR WILL BE $10,735,807,000 EXCLUSIVE OF LOANS.

HOW SUM WILL BE RAISED IS NOT YET DETERMINED

Sentiment in Favor of Offsetting Bulk of Expenditures by Bond Issues. Two Billion to Be Raised by Taxation, Leaders Predict.

Washington, July 30.—Estimating the cost of the war for the coming year at $10,735,807,000, exclusive of loans to the Allies, the administration has informed Congress that new revenues totaling $7,000,000,000 must be raised from taxation or issuance of securities.

If advancement of credit to the Allies is continued at the present rate, the year's total of war expenditures will pass $15,000,000,000 and the amount of additional revenue required will increase accordingly.

Bond Issues Favored.

How Congress will meet the enormous new revenue requirements remains to be determined, but there is a distinct sentiment in favor of offsetting most of the expenditures by bond issues.

Many leaders on both sides of the capitol predicted that not more than $2,000,000,000 of the $7,000,000,000 asked would be raised by taxation, and that the remainder might be met partially by bond sales and particularly by issuance of treasury certificates of indebtedness.

Equipment Requires Much.

Equipment and stores for the national army, particularly artillery, will require the lion's share of appropriations under the administration's estimates. Of the year's total of $10,735,807,000, the War department alone expects to spend $7,864,240,000, or $5,319,000,000 more than has been appropriated thus far for its expenses during the year.

The Navy expects to spend $1,200,000,000, of which $288,000,000 remains to be appointed.

The shipping board, whose shipbuilding projects place it third on the list, expects to spend $799,000,000 of which $350,000,000 remains to be appropriated.

These figures cover the cost of the war from July 1 last to June 30 next. They do not include the money spent prior to the first of this month.

Cover War to June Next.

Estimated receipts for the year were placed by Secretary McAdoo, in transmitting the estimate to the House ways and means and Senate finance committees, at $2,333,5000,000. The estimate of receipts did not include revenues to be raised under the pending war tax bill, estimated by administration leaders in Congress at $1,670,670,000. Revision of the bill will begin at once to embody whatever additional taxation it may be deemed best to impose as a result of the new estimates.

Tremendous as are the estimated expenses of the government for the year the appropriations actually sought by the various departments are placed above these totals in order to provide a margin of safety. Thus, the War department, expecting to spend $7,864,240,000, asks for appropriation of $8,673,368,000, and the Navy department, estimating its expenditures at $1,200,000,000, asks for $1,324,178,000.

Chicago, July 28.—Some "come-back" was awaited from Senator Lewis, whose name was hissed at a meeting of 14,000 persons, held in the Coliseum, in the interest of British recruiting. The demonstration occurred during a speech by Jacob M. Dickinson, former secretary of war, when he said: "In a speech recently made by the new German chancellor he pretended to offer some hope of peace, but no one outside of Germany has so interpreted it, unless it be Senator Lewis."

Intelligent Alarm Clock.

An alarm clock awakened a lady in Philadelphia just in time to allow her to escape from a burning building. She had set the clock as usual at five o'clock, but that morning it failed to ring. During the afternoon she lay down for a nap on the divan. At five o'clock the alarm clock started its racket twelve hours late. She awoke to find the house full of smoke and flames creeping up the stairway. She was aroused just in time to escape to the street. "That clock has been my pal for years," said she. "I never knew it to miss its regular morning alarm before. It must have known something."

"Any questions?" asked the instructor of the Second battery of the Ninth division, after the completion of a morning period which the men had spent on horseback at Ft. Harrison, says Indianapolis News.

"Captain," asked Ralph Lockwood of Indianapolis, "wouldn't it be possible to develop artillery horses that would start and stop like automobiles, and would guide with a steering wheel? This horse I have seems to be governed by impulses over which I have no control."

"There's a Reason"

GRAIN CROPS ARE PROMISING

Western Canada 1917 Crops in Good Shape.

While it is a little early to predict what the Western Canada grain crop will produce, there is every indication at the present writing that the 1917 crop will give an excellent return. Reports received from all portions of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta speak of good growing weather, a fairly advanced stage of all grains, with prospects as good as in the past two years. Should conditions continue as at present, it is safe to conclude that Western Canadian farmers, already free of debt, as a result of the splendid crops and prevailing high prices, expect from this season's returns to be in a position that will place them away beyond any fear of the future.

The acreage of Western Canada will be about the same as last year. Seeding was somewhat later than last year, but germination was quicker. The only possible drawback now would seem to be a scarcity of harvest hands, but it is felt by the authorities that the situation will be pretty well cared for by that time.

Land values are increasing, but there is room for a much greater increase than in the past, owing to the returns that farmed land will give when compared with its cost. In some districts land that could have been bought five years ago for $15 an acre is changing hands at $60 an acre, the seller satisfied that he is giving the purchaser good value for his money. And why not, when it is known that in a great many cases during the past two years crops have been grown on this land that have produced a profit of forty and fifty dollars per acre, over and above cost of production. These cases, while not general, were not exceptional.

In addition to the lands that are offered for sale by railway companies, land companies and private individuals, the homesteading areas offer great inducements for those who are willing to do a little pioneering for a year or two. By that time settlements would come into existence, and this means a condition similar to that enjoyed by many of the older settlements of today—schools, churches, railways. The land is of high-class quality, strong and vigorous, easily worked, and capable of producing the very best of crops.

The demand for all grains for some years will be great, and it will require all the resources of man, beast and soil to meet it. That the prices will be good goes without saying, but at the present time there is something more appealing than the lucrative prices that prevail. That is, the desire to assist in winning the world war. The man at the plow is doing his "bit," and the spirit of patriotism that prevails will lead him into a broader sphere of action. No matter where he may be he will look about him that he may find land to further develop the country's resources. It is possible that his own state may furnish the land, in which case he will be quick to take advantage of the offer. If land in his own state is not available, Canada (now our ally) will be glad to furnish it in unlimited quantity, as she is vitally interested in largely increasing the supply of foodstuff which is now as urgently needed and is as valuable as ammunition to the allied countries.

The appeal made by Mr. Hoover, United States controller of foods, and also by Hon. W. J. Hanna, Canadian controller, emphasizes the need of the allies, urges economy and the prevention of the waste in food, and bespeaks whole-hearted public co-operation. Speaking of Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium and their European allies, they say:

"For nearly three years their man power has been engaged in the direct work of war, and in some cases large areas of their most productive lands have been overrun by the enemy. Their food shortage and the food to supply the armies of Canada and the United States must be wholly provided from this side of the Atlantic. The supply must also be sufficient to cover losses at sea. Australia, New Zealand, the Argentine Republic and other countries are not now available to relieve the situation because of their remoteness and the shortage of tonnage.

"The crop of storeable foods grown in Canada and the United States suitable for shipment overseas threatens to be entirely inadequate to meet the demand unless the whole people determine by every means in their power to make up the shortage. Every individual is under a direct obligation to assist in rationing the allied forces. There must be national self-denial and national co-operation to provide the necessary supplies."—Advertisement.

"Do you board there?"

"I do."

"She has the reputation of not giving her people enough to eat."

"It's this way—I get enough. I have seen tables at which I could eat more, however."

Sugar Production Doubled.

The total world production of both beet and cane sugar nearly doubled during the years [illegible] to 1912-13, increasing from 11,000,000 to [illegible] tons.

GOVERNOR ORDERS CREATION OF NEW STATE GUARD UNIT

FOURTH MINNESOTA INFANTRY BECOMES REALITY—COMPANIES TO BE RECRUITED AT ONCE.

OFFICERS SELECTED; ROWLEY TO BE MAJOR

Service in New Body to Be Attractive from Standpoint of Pay—Minneapolis Guardsman to Receive Approximately $3.75 Per Day.

St. Paul, July 27.—The Fourth Minnesota infantry has come into existence. Governor Burnquist has issued the order for the creation of a fourth regiment, under the National Guard act of Congress, which provides that in time of war an additional regiment may be formed.

The organization of the Fourth Minnesota infantry will be under the direct supervision of Judge John F. McGee of the Minnesota Public Safety commission, who has been asked by Governor Burnquist to take full charge of the work.

Officers Selected.

Officers of the five companies, which will constitute the strength of the organization for the present, have been selected, and the work of recruiting men has been commenced at the Minneapolis armory.

Under the plan decided upon by Governor Burnquist, Minneapolis will have two companies, St. Paul one and two will be formed in St. Louis county and on the Iron range.

Rowley to Be Major.

Frank B. Rowley, with 20 years of service to his credit, will be major of the regiment. One of the captains will be J. C. Melville of Minneapolis, who saw service in the Philippines and in China, served with the New York guard, was an officer of the First Minnesota Field Artillery and was at one time a sergeant in the regular army. He will be captain of Company A. Names of the other captains have not yet been announced.

Attractive From Pay Standpoint.

Service in the new regiment will be made attractive from the pay standpoint. Under the federal law the members of the guard will be paid $2 per day and 75 cents per day for subsistence. For the Minneapolis companies patriotic citizens have subscribed to a fund which will add another $1 a day, giving the guardsmen a total of $3.75 a day for the duration of the war.

COUNTY CHAIRMEN FOR FOOD CAMPAIGN NAMED

Women Selected to Direct Conservation Activities Throughout Minnesota—Work With War Boards.

Every activity in Minnesota connected with the work of the Woman's auxiliary of the Minnesota Public Safety commission and the woman's committee of the Council of National Defense is in the charge of women who have been appointed chairmen in each county. The State In Brief

New Ulm's parade and mass meeting of protest against sending her drafted men abroad to fight did not develop into as sensational an affair as early indications presaged.

The Minnesota State Live Stock Breeders' association has held its annual convention at Grand Rapids. The Itasca County Development association met at the same time. There was a record-breaking crowd.

The outlook for a good crop never was better in Kanabec county than it is now for all small grains. Corn is somewhat behind, but will make rapid progress from this time on, and with a late fall may make a fair crop.

The city council of Thief River Falls tabled indefinitely the request of the State Public Safety Commission through Mayor F. H. Gambell for a vagrancy ordinance imposing a fine of not to exceed $100 and a jail sentence of not to exceed thirty days.

Al Palzer, well known prizefighter, was shot and perhaps fatally injured at Fergus Falls by his father when the latter attacked the fighter's mother. Palzer is now in a hospital. He was at one time a contender for the heavyweight championship.

With word that only three cargoes of commercial coal were arriving in Duluth daily, an average far below that of last year, business interests planned to redouble their efforts to get a sufficient supply into this territory before the lake shipping season ends.

Plans for the Patriotic, Soldiers' and Pioneers' day at the Minnesota State Fair, Thursday, September 6, were suddenly halted when a telegram was received from Ray P. Speer, now in Washington, asking that all arrangements for the patriotic demonstration be deferred.

Organization of rural guard companies throughout the state to supplement the protection expected from the home guards after the national guardsmen have left for training camp will be started at once, under plans approved by the Minnesota Public Safety Commission.

With speakers from North Dakota, the Pennington County Nonpartisan league has its first picnic at Thief River Falls. Governor Lynn J. Frazier, House Speaker Howard Wood and A. Bowen, chief clerk of the house, all of North Dakota, spoke. Bankers, flour "barons" and American "autocracy" were scored.

Following phone reports that the thirty members of the I. W. W. who were deported from Bemidji as being undesirable citizens were on their way back to "clean up" the city, officials swore in more than a score of extra police and set watches at various parts of the city to aid in quieting any disorders that might arise.

An anti-conscription meeting has been held in Cologne, Carver county. The meeting was organized by members of the Nonpartisan league.

Coal operators will have to pay 15 cents more a ton for shipping coal into Minnesota as a result of orders issued by the Interstate Commerce commission.

The summer session of the state teachers' train school, held at the University farm, came to a close Saturday, July 28. Examinations for common school certificates were held.

Governor Burnquist has announced that until draft business is finished he will take no action on demands by the state military board for the resignation or removal of Adj. Gen. Fred B. Wood.

Nine Wellesley college girls, visitors at the Bennet mine at Keewatin, who are studying Minnesota industries, donned overalls and oilskins before being taken through the underground workings and the open pit.

Warning has been issued to Southern Minnesota farmers through the farm labor committee of the Winona county board of the Minnesota Public Safety Commission against the operations of two men who say they are Federal agents.

Thomas H. Canfield, secretary of the Minnesota State Fair, has returned from a visit to the North Dakota state fair at Grand Forks. As a result of his visit Mr. Canfield's hopes for the most successful fair ever held by the State Agricultural society have been materially raised.

Robert Hulbert, chemist of the North Dakota Agricultural college, has announced that he could find no trace of common poison in the water taken from the tank of the Moorhead, Minn., water works, but that he would continue his analysis. A sample of the water was sent to the Minnesota State Board of Health.

The annual joint meeting of the National Association of Game and Fish Commissioners and the American Fisheries society will take place August 27 to 31, with headquarters at the Saint Paul hotel, Commissioner Carlos Avery of the State Game and Fish commission announces, and will attract about 200 delegates.

With a potato crop beginning to come out of the ground that experts said today may go over 30,000,000 bushels and equal or break former production records, farmers of Minnesota are preparing to smite the high cost of living, and at the same time bring themselves a record harvest of potato dollars.

Employers will face a strict enforcement of the Federal child labor law [illegible] September 1, [illegible] The law will be effective August 1, for it prohibits the shipment of goods made by [illegible] days of the state the law goes into [illegible]

AUTO RESERVE IS TO MAINTAIN LAW

CORPS WITH 100,000 MEMBERSHIP STARTED BY PUBLIC SAFETY COMMISSION.

COUNTY MARKETING BOARDS

Move Undertaken to Facilitate Disposal of Products and to Aid in Procuring Reasonable Prices and Storage Accommodations.

St. Paul.

Formation of a state automobile reserve corps with a membership of nearly 100,000 members was started by the action of the State Public Safety commission in accepting the offer of the Minneapolis Automobile Trade association to form such an organization for the purpose of assisting in maintaining law and order throughout the state.

Each county unit is to be composed of squads of 27 cars, which are to be in charge of two civilian sergeants and two civilian corporals, who in turn are responsible to the sheriff of the county. The sheriff in each county will be the head of the county unit.

Plans County Marketing Boards.

The Minnesota Public Safety Commission has adopted a resolution instructing county directors to appoint a marketing committee for each county to aid in marketing potatoes, beans, cabbages and like products and also to aid in procuring reasonable prices and storage facilities where needed.

Governor Burnquist was authorized to appoint a commission to investigate the saloon situation in Martin and Pipestone counties, where are the only wet sections in a great dry area. The inquiry board will be empowered to subpoena witnesses and obtain statements in the form of legal evidence, the Governor said. Appointments will be announced soon.

Commissions Are Issued.

Commissions to five officers of Battery A, Second Minnesota Field artillery, newly organized at Albert Lea, and six new commissions in the Second infantry of the Minnesota National guard have just been issued by Governor Burnquist.

The Albert Lea battery commissions were issued to Captain Oscar Subby, First Lieutenants Joseph P. Kilbride and Thomas Considine, and Second Lieutenants Magnus B. Fossum and Louis O. Isackson, all of Albert Lea.

Second infantry commissions were announced as follows: Capt. Herbert M. Hauck, Mankato, Vice Francis Magner, transferred to reserve; Capt. Joseph D. Burke, Winona; Vice Myron W. Hingsley, promoted; First Lieut. Cyril B. Spicer, Mankato; Vice Herbert M. Hauck, promoted; First Lieut. Francis A. Schmidt, Duluth; Vice Alphonse Weisgerber, transferred to reserve; Second Lieut. Victor E. Carlson, Mankato; Vice Cyril B. Spicer, promoted, Second Lieut. George A. Damm, Austin; Vice Henry I. Church, resigned.

Record Sum in Treasury.

Minnesota began business July 28 with $9,947,000 in cash in its treasury—the largest cash balance in the history of the state. State Treasurer Henry Rines predicted that new high records will be established next month. The previous high record was made Aug. 31, 1916, with a treasury balance of $7,812,000.

Calls for Bank Statements.

A call has been issued by F. E. Pearson, state superintendent of banks, for statements from state banks showing conditions at the close of business July 25. Superintendent Pearson did not issue a state bank call June 20 when the last national bank call was made by the federal controller of currency.

Horse for Each Four Men Sought.

Dr. Carl W. Gay, professor of animal husbandry at the University of Minnesota, has returned from Washington, where a conference had been called July 18 by Henry G. Sharpe, quartermaster general, to consider ways and means of purchasing horses and mules for the army. "The war's demand for horses is imperative," said Dr. Gay, "one horse for every four men being required. The War department wishes to procure 250,000 horses [illegible]

Splendid Medicine For Kidneys, Liver and Bladder

For the past twenty years I have been acquainted with your preparation, Swamp-Root; and all those who have had occasion to use such a medicine praise the merits of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root; specially has it been very useful in cases of catarrh or inflammation of the bladder. I firmly believe that it is a very valuable medicine and recommendable for what it is intended.

Very truly yours,

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. Canadian Farmers Profit From Wheat

The war's devastation of European crops has caused an unusual demand for grain from the American Continent. The people of the world must be fed and wheat near $2 a bushel offers great profits to the farmer. Canada's invitation is therefore especially attractive. She wants settlers to make money and happy, prosperous homes for themselves by helping her raise immense wheat crops.

You can get a Homestead of 160 acres FREE and other lands at remarkably low prices. During many years Canadian wheat fields have averaged 20 bushels to the acre many yields as high as 45 bushels to the acre. Wonderful crops also of Oats, Barley and Flax.

Mixed farming as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses full of nutrition are the only food required for beef or dairy purposes. Good schools, churches, markets convenient, climate excellent.

There is an extra demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for the war. The Government is urging farmers to put extra acreage into grain. Write for literature and particulars as to reduced railway rates to Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or King Edward's Little Needs.

Many interesting reminiscences of famous people are given by Mr. F. Townsend Martin in "Things I Remember."

Referring to the late King Edward the author says:

"Lady Burton once told me an amusing incident which occurred when the late King Edward stayed at Glenquoich.

"'I hope, sir, that you have found everything to your liking?' she said to the royal visitor.

"'Yes,' answered the king; 'but, if I may make a suggestion, one little thing would add greatly to the comfort of your guests.'

"'Oh, sir, what can that be?'

"'Well, Lady Burton,' said his majesty, 'the one thing needful is a hook on the bathroom door.'"

World's Sugar Production.

The New York Journal of Commerce is responsible for the following figures in regard to sugar production: The world's production of sugar in 1918 amounted to 37,193,000,000 pounds. The production in the United States, not including external possessions, was 2,026,000,000 pounds; imports from Hawaii amounted to 1,137,000,000 pounds, from the Philippines to 217,000,000 pounds, from Porto Rico to 850,000,000 pounds. From foreign sources 5,416,000,000 pounds were received. The consumption in the United States in 1916 was 7,960,000,000 pounds, or 73.13 pounds per capita. The United States exported 1,686,000,000 pounds.

Girls! Use Lemons! Make a Bleaching, Beautifying Cream

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quarter pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It naturally should help to soften, freshen, bleach and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It is simply marvelous to smoothen rough, red hands. Adv.

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR
HARRIETT G. HUNT, PUB.

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 30 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn. under the Act of Congress of March 3.1879

This is a critical year for the life or death of the Non-Partisan League, the great farmers organization. If they endorse America in the war, and confine themselves to organizing the farmers to protect themselves in the marketing of their produce and the bringing of the laboring men consumers and farmers into one organization for the betterment of their conditions, they will gain members hip rapidly and be a power to do good. But if they make any attempt to dictate to the present administration about how to conduct the present war, as an organization of farmers, they may as well speak for their tombstone, as the organization will soon be buried out of sight. We do not write this from a Democratic stand point but from the opinion of a Republican farmer, who is a member of the Non-Partisan League, but that will not be lead away from the best interests of America when they are at war with a foreign nation.

It seems to be an unfair deal for a city the size of Bemidji to deport an army of I. W. W. to a small way station on the Great Northern and drop them off there to annoy people of the locality. It seems that the time is coming if it is not already here, that the government and state must prepare to take care of this class of undesirable citizens. Why not send them to war? As soon as it is reported that any locality is being pestered by an organization of I. W. W., send out the State Militia and round up the entire bunch, old and young, cripples and all and load them on cars and ship them to a training camp, and put them right into the army. It would not be necessary to give them much of any training, but send them over to France and put them into the trenches, and the more of them that the Germans killed, the better off America would be. Why not make the war a source of profit as well as loss?

WAS IT WORTH WHILE, WILHELM?

Germany's war debt is now fifteen billion dollars—two hundred and fifteen dollars for every man, woman and child in the German empire—more than a thousand dollars for every German family.

A large part of each new loan issued by Germany goes to pay the interest on older loans.

German money is at a discount of nearly fifty per cent in neutral markets.

Germany has lost her colonies.

Germany has lost the great war she started with the confident aim of subjecting the world to her rule—or, rather, to the brutal rule of her militaristic autocracy.

Germany has lost the world's good will, which is so essential to trade; has lost it so thoroughly that, whether it is right or wrong, the label "made in Germany" will be a handicap for many years to come.

Germany has gained the world's suspicion and distrust.

Germany has succeeded in arraigning against he all that is best of civilization and culture in the world.

Germany has burdened its people with a frightful charge in blood and treasure, has sacrificed millions of its faithful people, has plunged its whole population into want and woe.

Was it worth while, Wilhelm? What do the reproachful wraiths that haunt your bedside each night say to you of that?—Duluth Herald.

INTEREST INCREASES IN FOOD CAMP

President Wilson And Food Administrator Hoover Back Movement To Utilize State Fairs And Expositions As Food Training Camps—People To Be Taught To Produce And Conserve.

The Food Training Camp to be conducted in connection with the Minnesota State Fair, Sept. 3 to 8, is expected to prove one of the strongest cards in the government's food conservation campaign in this section of the country.

The food training camp movement is gathering force every day; public interest is becoming aroused; practically every organization in this state taking part in the food conservation work is co-operating to make the camp a success; the government has endorsed and is now helping to direct the movement and the exhibitors at the fair are offering to do their share in making it a success.

Practically every department at the fair will take a part in the work of food training. Virtually all of the exhibitors will, in their displays, lay emphasis upon the necessity of conserving our food supplies. Lecturers and demonstrators will be on hand to explain the food problems which now confront the American people, the plan being, not only to impress upon all visitors to the fair the necessity of making an economical use of food, but to show specific ways in which every man, woman and child may do a share.

Government Enthusiastic.

The government, particularly, is enthusiastic over the possibilities the food training camp offers for teaching food efficiency. Not only Mr. Hoover, food administrator, but President Wilson, himself, and the Department of Agriculture have endorsed the camp. It is the plan of the government to make the most of the opportunities offered by sending out lecturers and demonstrators to speak at the fair, and by arranging a series of exhibits by the different government departments, including the Army, Navy, Agricultural and Mr. Hoover's food department.

The government sees in the food training camp, for one thing, the possibility of reaching, in a result-getting manner, the men and women of the rural districts and from the farm. This has been one of the government's big problems in its food conservation campaign.

The people of the cities it is not so difficult to reach because of the many clubs and other organizations which already exist and which have taken up the food conservation work. As a large part of the attendance at the Minnesota State Fair comes from the rural districts, the food training camp, the government believes, offers a good opportunity to reach them with a direct appeal.

For, it is necessary that they be reached if the fruits and other food products, grown in abundance, are to be saved and prevented from going to waste.

The livestock exhibits and the exhibits and demonstrations to be put on by the dairy department of the University Farm are other departments in which valuable food efficiency work will be done. The directors of the fair are urging a greater production of meat by working for large exhibits of livestock so that the farmer may study the different types and breeds and decide as to which is best for the purpose.

To Develop Herds.

Much of the effort of the University Farm will be directed to the development of more efficient dairy herds and to the utilization of all possible dairy products. Much milk, especially skim milk, goes to waste in this state every year, and the dairy exhibits will point out the way to make use of all this food which is now being wasted.

In order to make the food training camp the greatest possible success in order that both the government and the people may derive the maximum benefit from it, the Minnesota State Fair directors are endeavoring to make the exposition a record breaker in all departments this year.

As one way of encouraging attendance, plans have been outlined for materially increasing the exhibits, and a greater variety of amusement and entertainment features have been secured.

Auto races, aviation, vaudeville, and a number of big spectacles, including the "War of the Nations," a gigantic display in which the famous British tanks and the other great forces of modern warfare are seen in action, are some of the entertainment features.

How He Cleared Himself.

While passing along a busy street in Dublin a lady was relieved of her hand bag, and Sandy was arrested on suspicion of having snatched it. He was placed among a group of men, and the lady was asked to single out the culprit. She passed down the line till she came to Sandy.

"The lady's wrong, sir. I was wearing a different suit. Can I go now, sir?" said Sandy.

Mr. and Mrs Henry Quirk, were shopping at Highlanding yesterday, and made this office a pleasant call.

The horses will certainly get fat on this years crop of oats, as we never saw such a heavy filled crop as there is this year.

Miss Marie Causin who is employed at Thief River Falls, accompanied by Miss Jennie Jenson, visited with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Causin, Sunday and Monday.

Last year we had too wet a season, and this year it has been too dry, but we prefer the dry to the wet year, as it raises grain of number one quality and more of it than the wet year.

Mr. and Mrs. Knute Syvesrud, of Rhoda were shopping at Highlanding Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Syvesrud said he was harvesting an extra fine crop of grain this year.

Mail Route and Post office Inspector Roy LaForge, accompanied by Post Master Borgie, of Hazel was up this way yesterday looking over the proposed mail route from Hazel to Sunbeam.

Mr. Borgie, of Hazel informed us yesterday, that parties from North Dakota had offered $8.00 a ton for all the hay they could get in the stack anywhere the farmers choose to stack it.

If you have a few loads of hay for sale next winter you will not be troubled to raise the cash to buy flour. If you are of the opinion that the Editor of this paper is not practising what he preaches, visit The Sunbeam farm and take a look at our long ricks of fine hay.

The first actual results of the war was forcibly brought to the people the past week, when they read the sign in the stores, that flour was cash goods. This sign does not affect the farmers to a great extent especially one who is getting a good sized creamery check twice a week.

Hay will certainly bring a big price this winter, and any surplus hay that this part of the country may have will find a ready cash market in Dakota. Put up all the hay you possibly can. Do not let any good meadow land go to waste this year, if you need money, and about everybody in this country has use for all the cash they can get hold of.

THANK YOUR REPRESENTATIMES

The people who have got the new mail route from Hazel to Sunbeam Post office certainly owe a debt of gratitude to Senator Knute Nelson and Congressman Steenerson for their assistance to get this route established. When the matter was properly placed before them, they both took a personal interest in getting these people fair mail service. Both of them made personal calls on the 4th Assistant Post Master General and explained the conditions of these people's mail service to him, and when it was placed before them the Department acted fairly and established the route, and we doubt if there was another such an abuse of mail service ever brought to their attention, where ten miles of mail was stopped at a country post office for a three days lay over. It has been truly said that there is nothing too small for the prompt attention of Senator Nelson and Congressman Steenerson, and this case proves that they take an interest in looking after the rights of the common people when the facts are placed before them.

GIRLS WHO DISAPPEAR.

Tragedy of the Thousands That Sink Into Oblivion Yearly.

Police statistics of New York city show that at least two girls disappear from home every day in the year.

They vanish into oblivion. Soon they are forgotten but the heartache of the mother left behind is never stilled. It will ache on through the remaining [illegible]

And what becomes of the girls who disappear?

That is a problem that we will not attempt to solve. We only know that they are swept away by the great whirlpool of life.

The federal statistics furnished by the bureau of vital statistics show that 50,000 persons disappear each year. They vanish into oblivion. A greater proportion of these are young girls. The men who disappear turn up sooner or later in most cases, but the girls, as a rule, are forever lost. Having cut away from their social ties, having burned their bridges behind them, these disappearing girls abandon usually all thought or hope of returning and become isolated members of the social colony of which they once were members. They prefer to struggle on as best they can.

It is one of life's tragedies.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

THE BANK OF ENGLAND.

It Is a Private Company, but Acts as the Nation's Banker.

The Bank of England is not, as most people think, a government institution. It is a private company, but reaps a good profit by acting as the nation's banker. The remuneration paid to the Bank of England for the management of the national debt was fixed in 1906 as a yearly sum of the rate of £325 per million pounds and at the rate of £100 for every million pounds above this amount.

Before any of the government money that goes into the Bank of England can be spent a certain procedure has to be followed. First of all an order signed by the [illegible] and countersigned by two lords of the treasury has to be forwarded to the comptroller and auditor general of the exchequer and audit department. Then the comptroller hands an order to the treasury authorizing the Bank of England to debit the exchequer account and credit the account of the paymaster general, who makes all payments on behalf of the various departments.

Afterward the comptroller scrutinizes all the accounts paid to see that the money has been spent in accordance with the wishes of parliament.—Westminster Gazette.

Training Naval Gunners.

When England trains her gunners for the sea she sends them to Whale island in Portsmouth harbor. Here the entire island is given over to steel sheds which are built like gun turrets on a battleship. The great guns projecting from these sheds are dummies, though they are exact counterparts of those on a battleship. The prospective officers and men are made to go through the exercise of range finding, loading, aiming and firing these guns as rigidly as if they were in a real battle at sea. The heavy steel projectiles are hauled from the magazine by hydraulic and electric cranes, just as in an actual ship. A real breech mechanism locks the projectile and its powder charge in the gun, while an intricate swivel mounting of steel swings the gun into the firing position.—Popular Science Monthly.

Remarkable Luck.

In Gold Hill, Nev., in 1877, one of the mining bosses—Tole by name—had trouble with some of the laborers in his mine. One night three of them attacked him in a barroom. Two of them pinned him down, while a third stood over him with a revolver. The muzzle almost touched his stomach. Once, twice, thrice, a fourth and a fifth time the weapon snapped. Tole closed his eyes. Each moment he expected to be his last. The disgusted ruffian threw his disappointing weapon on the floor, with an oath and, joined by his aids, left the place. Tole wiped the cold sweat from his brow, mechanically picked up the discarded weapon, went to the door and fired off every charge, remarking that it was just his luck.

INSURE YOUR CORN

Don't Gamble With Your Corn Crop. Test Every Ear Before Planting. Every Weak or Dead Ear Means Dollars Less at Harvest.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

It is a known fact that the simple little act of testing all seed corn before planting will add many bushels to the corn crop and will pay the farmer about five times as much per hour for his labor as will any other farm labor.

There is nothing hard about it, all methods of testing seed corn are easy and inexpensive. You can test the kernels in blotters or "rag-doll" testers at home, making them yourself, or you can invest in a commercial tester that will last for years. Your agricultural college, county agent, or the U. S. Department of Agriculture at Washington will be glad to give you full particulars.

Seed testing will stop one of these leaks in farm practice that change gain into loss. Figure out for yourself how many hills the six or seven hundred kernels of corn from a dead or weak ear will plant, and figure out how your corn yield will drop if two or three, or a dozen, or maybe fifty such ears should get planted.

BY-PRODUCT STOCK FEEDS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

A lot of well-meaning folks think that just because certain materials are left-overs from the manufacture of food for humans, that it is "waste" and of no value for stock feed. Nothing is further from the truth. In very many cases, the so-called "offal" left after the manufacture of flour, malting, corn products, breakfast foods, etc., are the best of stock feeds, and can be bought economically and fed to bring a profit to the farmer. The man who turns up his nose at the thought of combining by-products with silage and other low-priced meat producing foods, is behind the times and usually fails to show even interest on his money at the end of the year. Feeding whole grain, whether it be corn, wheat, rye or oats, is wasteful and is robbing man of his rightful prerogative—that of taking that part of all grain adapted to his needs. It is easy to find out the protein content of any article, or mixture, of stock feedstuffs now on the market, and it is merely a

KERENSKY AGAIN SEIZES REINS IN RUSSIAN CRISIS

ACCLAIMED MAN OF HOUR, HE WITHDRAWS SECOND RESIGNATION AND DECIDES TO STAND BY SHIP.

COUNTRY FACES DEFEAT; CANNOT REFUSE BURDEN

Construes Task Before Him As Express Order From Country to Construct Strong Government to Carry Out Principles Already Laid Down.

Petrograd, Aug. 7.—Premier Kerensky has returned to Petrograd and withdrawn his second resignation. He attended a minsterial meeting and afterwards conferred with various political leaders.

M. Kerensky has issued a manifesto in which he declares that he considers it impossible when the country is threatened with defeat without and disintegration within to refuse the heavy task again entrusted to him, which he regards as an express order from the country to construct a strong revolutionary government to carry out the principles already laid down.

Memorable Conference Held.

The all-night political conference at the Winter Palace which was concluded by the passage of a resolution in which confidence in Premier Kerensky was expressed by each of the five parties represented and in which he was invited to form his own cabinet, was conducted in the strictest order, but with intense emotion. All the participants were obviously convinced that the decision which was to be reached meant Russia's regeneration of her ruin.

The ministers declared the conference to be the most momentous event in the history of the empire since 1613, when, during the troublous times of the Polish war and internal anarchy, the election of the first Romanoff by a similar conference at Moscow saved the country from dissolution.

Acclaimed Man of Hour.

The absent Kerensky was acclaimed the only man invested with the qualities necessary to restore order while preserving liberty. Foreign Minister Terestchenko declared that peace was inconceivable, that Russia must prepare to fight throughout the winter and that Premier Kerensky alone possessed the confidence of the nation.

Coalition Cabinet Urged.

Paul N. Milukoff leader of the Constitutional Democrats, stated that his party was still ready to attempt the formation of a coalition government with Kerensky as a chief. When debate was resumed Vice Premier Nekrasoc announced the demands that had been made by General Korniloff for assurances from Petrograd that he would have drastic powers, without which he would not take over the chief command of the Russian armies.

A counter revolution exists, added M. Nekrasoff, and is growing day by day. Therefore the restoration of a strong government, he declared, must be immediate.

St. Paul, Aug. 4.—Governor J. A. A. Burnquist has begun notifying men in every Minnesota draft jurisdiction of their appointment as draft board assistants, with the special duty of looking out for the government's interests. These men will have access to all data possessed by the boards and must appeal, on the government's behalf, all exemptions and discharges which have a flimsy ground. County attorneys are being asked to serve in many instances, Adjutant General Fred B. Wood declared.

NEW GREEK KING TAKES OATH

Alexander Inducted Into Office Amid Pomp.

Athens, Greece, Aug. 6.—King Alexander took the oath of office amid great pomp and ceremony. Preceded by a troop of soldiers the king in a carriage proceeded from the palace to the hall of the Chamber of Deputies through the streets lined with cheering citizens.

King Alexander read the speech from the throne on the future attitude of Greece toward the belligerent powers. He was cheered at the conclusion of his speech.

British Deserter Held as Spy.

Davenport, Iowa, Aug. 4.—Daniel H. Wallace, a lecturer, who according to his own admission deserted from the British army, Fred Vollmer, brother of Henry Vollmer, former Iowa congressman, and Earl C. Willis were indicted by the federal grand jury here investigating espionage cases. Wallace was charged in two counts with violating the espionage law and conspiracy. Willis and Vollmer, who are Davenport attorneys, with conspiracy. All pleaded not guilty. Bonds were fixed at $3,000 each.

RATIONS FOR NEUTRALS ONLY

U. S. TO HOLD EXPORTS TO BAREST NECESSITIES.

Object Is to Prevent Food Supplies From America Reaching Germany or Replace Neutrals' Exports.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Full information concerning food conditions in the northern European neutral countries has been asked of the neutrals by the United States in notes handed to their diplomatic representatives here.

The American government's plan for rationing the neutrals through its control of exports will be determined on after replies are received.

The intention of the United States is to hold food exports to the neutrals to the barest necessities to prevent the foodstuffs or feed they replace from reaching Germany. Only actual food deficiencies will be made up from America and assurances will be demanded that no American-produced food is re-exported or used to supplant food that is exported.

Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, head of the Norwegian mission, declared his country, facing starvation, was ready to release a million tons of shipping for the privilege of importing food. Norway, Dr. Nansen said, needs sugar, fats and grain and would guarantee that none of these things were sent into Germany.

The Dutch government, too, is willing to exchange ships for food, on condition that the ships were not sent into the danger zone. Mr. Van Rappard, the Dutch minister, said his government was ready to devote 80,000 tons to the transportation of relief of the Belgians if the United States will allow Holland to have foodstuffs for her own use.

CAPTURED GERMANS NOW FEAR THEY MAY LOSE WAR

Teuton Officers Discuss Situation As It Affects Fatherland Freely—Peace Without Annexations Indorsed.

British Headquarters in France and Belgium, Aug. 6.—German officers captured in the battle in Flanders have discussed quite freely both the military and political situation as it affects the Fatherland. Germany's loss in manpower they admit to be serious.

The whole trend of the statements made by these captive officers that they are beginning to fear they may lose the war. More depressing than anything else is the fear that there may be another winter campaign. Peace without annexation or indemnity is indorsed by all the officers who have discussed the question.

SHIP BOARD TO SEIZE CRAFT AND FIX RATES

U. S. Plans For Taking Over All Ocean Going American Merchantmen to Be Announced Soon.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Plans for taking over for operation all American oceangoing merchant ships soon will be announced by the shipping board.

Charters will be requisitioned under the recent act of congress authorizing the president to commandeer the tonnage for government uses.

The program is preliminary to putting into operation an agreement between the American and British governments for joint control of the world's shipping.

BRITISH REGAIN GROUND LOST IN RECENT FIGHTING

Drive Enemy From Positions On Arras Front—French Make Further Progress in Belgium.

London, Aug. 6.—All the positions east of Monchy Le Preux on the Arras battle front in France which were captured by the Germans have been retaken by the British, according to an official statement issued by the British war office.

On the Belgian front, where the French and British launched an offensive, French troops made further progress east of the Korteker and Cabaret.

ROOT MISSION REACHES SEAPORT ON PACIFIC

Delegation to Russia Lands on Home Soil En Route to National Capital —Absent Since May.

A Pacific Port, Aug. 6.—The American mission to Russia, headed by Elihu Root, has reached here en route to Washington.

The mission has been away from the United States since May.

Newspaper Man Dies.

New York, Aug. 6.—Dante Barton vice chairman of the Industrial Relations commission and widely known in newspaper circles in the West, died of typhoid fever at his home in this city. He was for many years chief editorial writer on the Kansas City Star.

Building Program of Shipping Board.

Washington, Aug. 4.—The new shipping board has announced its first real step toward a merchant marine since its reorganization. One hundred wooden cargo vessels within a year was the output promised by the Southern Pine industry, after a meeting with the shipping board. Admiral Capps began work on plans laid down by General Goethals for fabricating steel ships and assembling them at new government yards. He will confer with steel men soon and they will name prices [illegible] results from the [illegible] workers

FINAL INCREMENT IS CALLED

350,000 STATE TROOPS ONE STEP NEARER TO FRANCE.

Entire National Guard Is Now In Federal Service and State Guard Ceases to Exist.

Washington, Aug. 7.—The final increment of the National Guard has been called out. Practically 350,000 state troops came one step nearer to France. The entire National Guard is now in federal service. Within two or three weeks they will be mobilized in Southern training camps.

There about 100,000 drafted men to be added to the units, bringing the guard up to its full war strength of 435,000 men.

The third increment called out numbers about 75,745 men. With the formal drafting into service the entire guard will practically cease to exist as such. New regimental numbers will be assigned, brigades reorganized and all form a coherent part of the new United States army.

Only Efficient Men.

With rapidly approaching trench service in mind, the regiments will be overhauled all the way down the line. Any inefficient officers found will have to go. Only men who can stand the test will retain their positions.

It is possible that the new divisional organization plan will be acted on by the time the guard reaches camp. If so, there will be still more of a shakeup.

Troops called out today are from California, Utah, Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana, Kentucky, Indiana, Kansas, Missouri, Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

LITTLE FUNERAL AT BUTTE

Comrades Carry Body Four Miles to Cemetery.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 6. — With the entire police force on duty, scores of special deputy sheriffs on guard and 400 members of the federalized state guard in readiness for instant call, Frank H. Little, member of the general executive board of the I. W. W., lynched by vigilantes, was buried here. Approximately 3,000 persons took part in an orderly funeral procession from a private undertaking establishment to Mountain View cemetery, four miles away, where simple services, consisting of addresses and protests against the illegal execution of Little, were held.

U. S. Ships Many Apples to Britain.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Figures compiled for the department of agriculture show that during the biggest apple season, that of 1914 and 1915, this country forwarded 2,667,873 barrels and 1,423,132 boxes of fresh apples to foreign countries. The following years the shipments decreased considerably on account of the war. New York exported the largeset number of barrels and boxes, and Liverpool received the largest number at her piers. London was the next largest consignee and after that city came Glasgow.

Gompers Not to Meet With Socialists.

London, Aug. 4.—The cable message from Samuel Gompers to M. Jouhaux, of the general federation of labor, and W. A. Appleton, of the trade unions, refusing to participate in the International Socialist conference, is welcomed by the Post. The Post describes Mr. Gompers' message as admirable in sense and delivered with admirable emphasis, adding: "Our people [illegible] the Allies have to thank America for timely lead. While our ministers haven't the courage to act on their conviction, Gompers has [illegible]

SENDS KAISER ULTIMATUM

ARGENTINA IS READY FOR BRUSH WITH GERMANY.

Negative Reply On Question of Protection From U-Boats Means Severance of Diplomatic Relations.

Buenos Aires, Aug. 7.—Dissatisfied with the progress of negotiations with Germany growing out of the sinking of the Argentine steamer Toro, the Argentine government has sent a final, categorical note to Berlin requiring a clear and final reply to the Argentine demands within a reasonable time.

The reply is expected within eight days. During this time it will be decided whether relations with Germany shall be broken if the response is a negative one.

The foreign minister and the German minister here had been discussing for the last few days the question. Argentina had been led to believe that Germany was disposed to agree to the demands of Argentina not to sink any more Argentine vessels even in the war zone. When it come to a discussion of the details of the conditions, however, it began to appear that Germany was not willing to pledge herself to respect Argentine vessels in the future.

NEARLY SCORE STILL ENTOMBED IN MINE

Known Death List From Kentucky Explosion Already Reaches Total of Thirty-one.

Clay, Ky., Aug. 6.—The death list from the explosion here in No. 7 mine of the West Kentucky Coal company, has mounted to 31, according to information supplied by Charles S. Richardson, vice president and general manager.

Twenty-four bodies were removed from the mine the first day, according to Mr. Richardson and 1 later. Six of the 25 injured men recovered, he said, bringing the death list to its present total. A majority of those killed in the explosion were negroes.

From 15 to 20 men are still in the workings, Mr. Richardson said. Little hope is entertained that any of them will be found alive. He does not believe it will be possible to get to them for a day or two.

KAISER THREATENS HOLLAND

Notifies Neutrals Closing of Frontier Will Be Held War Act.

Rome, Aug. 6.—Germany is informing neutrals who are considering closing their frontiers against the Teutonic empire that such an act will be considered cause for war, it is reported here. The German threat, it was said, had been directed especially against Holland.

German Fliers Interned.

Amsterdam, Aug. 6.—A German airplane landed on the island of Ameland on account of motor trouble. The occupants of the machine were interned.

Germans Fire Belgian City.

Amsterdam, Aug. 6.—According to the Echo De Belge, the city of Liege has been fined 500,000 francs for disobeying an order given by the German authorities to demolish buildings damaged by fire on Quai des Pecheurs. Liege, the capital of the Walloon district, is the Belgian city which offered determined resistance to the Germans at the outbreak of the war when they invaded Belgium so as to avoid French forts from Verdun to Belfort and to outflank the French northern and eastern armies.

DRAFT RESISTERS IN BITTER BATTLE WITH POSSEMEN

OBJECTOR KILLED AND POSSEMAN WOUNDED, WHO IS CARRIED OFF AFTER FIGHT IN OKLAHOMA.

BIG BAND OF PURSUERS IS NOW AFTER CAPTORS

Battle Is Waged With Fifty Resisters Who Had Been Arming and Congregating for Week—Two Large Posses After Armed Bands in Central Oklahoma.

Holdenville, Okla., Aug. 7. — J. F. Moose, Okemaho was shot and killed a mile north of here while driving a car toward town when he disregarded the order of a guard line around the city to halt.

Objector Is Killed.

Holdenville, Okla., Aug. 7.—Ed Elaock, a draft objector was killed and a posseman, Jack Paige, was wounded and later carried off by the outlaws in a fight between objectors to the selective draft and officers, 12 miles southeast of here. Henry Johnson, another posseman, was wounded in the head. A large posse has gone to Paige's rescue.

The fight according to meagre reports, occurred about three miles north of Calvin at the cross roads school. About fifty objectors have been congregating in the woods near here for the last week, posse members declared and it was with members of this organization that the battle was waged.

Two of the registers' band were said also to have been wounded, but it had not been determined whether they were captured. The country where the brush took place is especially wild. Previous to the clash nine objectors were captured in the hills after they had been surrounded in a deserted cabin.

Posses After Bands.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 6.—With but two large posses in the field last night after armed bands of objectors to the selective draft, the day in the counties in central Oklahoma which for the last three days have been the scene of their activities, passed almost without incident.

Capture of the men members of the so-called "working class union," the "Jones family" and other organizations of kindred beliefs, have numbered almost 200. Of this number 30 were taken in one day, the large part of them sending word that they were ready to surrender. But one death has resulted from the man hunt, that of Wallace M. Cargill, an alleged leader.

Aid Sent Officials.

United States District Attorney W. P. McGinnis at Muskogee informed Sheriff Al Nichols at Wewoka, in Seminole county, that representatives of the federal marshal's office and of the federal district attorney's office would arrive there to aid in capturing the malcontents.

Interest centered in what reception the posses after the two supposedly remaining strong bands would receive. A band of 26 was supposed to be camped on Salt creek, eight miles northwest of here, and another smaller one was reported about 10 miles east.

NINE MEN TO BLAME FOR COAL SHORTAGE

McGee, In East In Behalf of Northwest Says Operators Are Figuring Contracts and Sell Output For Cash.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 7.—James F. McGee of Minneapolis, who faces the task here of clearing the way for resumming coal shipments to Minnesota and the Northwest, is to confer with coal operators, railroad and lake steamship men here, with a view to devising some way in which the country he represents may escape a coal famine this winter.

"The situation in Minnesota is terrible," he said, "and if the interrupted coal shipments from the mines to the Northwest are not resumed there is going to be considerable hardship there this winter. I have found that the mines are getting out more coal than ever before, but that the operators are ignoring their contracts and are selling their coal for cash at the mines.

"One of the reasons given me here for the coal shortage is that sufficient cars cannot be found to transport coal from the mines. I expect to take this feature up with railroad men at a conference, which I hope will result in much good for the people of Minnesota."

Steamship Noordam Again Hit by Mine.

London, Aug. 6.—The Holland American liner Noordam struck a mine or was torpedoed off the island of Texel. The ship did not sink. This is the second time the Noordam has been in difficulty during the war. Her former experience was in October, 1914, when she struck a mine in the English channel. The explosion injured seven persons. The ship was able to reach an English port. The Noordam is 550 feet long and of 12,531 gross tons. She was built in Belfast, Ireland, in 1902, and put in usage soon after.

Was Laid Up In Bed

Doan's, However, Restored Mrs. Vogt to Health and Strength. Hasn't Suffered Since.

"I had one of the worst cases of kidney complaint imaginable," says Mrs. Wm. Vogt, 6815 Audrey Ave., Wellston, Mo., "and I was laid up in bed for days at a time.

"My bladder was inflamed and the kidney secretions caused terrible pain. My back was in such bad shape that when I moved the pains were like a knife-thrust. I got so dizzy I couldn't stoop and my head just throbbed with pain. Beads of perspiration would stand on my temples, then I would become cold and numb.

"My heart action was affected and I felt as if I couldn't take another breath. I got so nervous and run down, I felt life wasn't worth living and often wished that I might die so my suffering would be ended. Medicine failed to help me and I was discouraged.

"Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I could tell I was being helped after the first few doses. I kept getting better every day, and continued use cured me. My health improved in every way and best of all, the cure has been permanent. I feel that Doan's saved my life."

ITALY TO LIMIT DOMINATION

Can Gain No Advantage by Undue Expansion on Eastern Shores of Adriatic, Declares Writer.

It is, of course, evident that Italy has no advantage to gain from an undue expansion of her territorial holdings on the eastern shores of the Adriatic, Guglielmo Ferrero writes in the Atlantic. Here the Italian population lives only on the coast, or near it, and for this reason Italy cannot spread her domination far into the interior without incurring the risk of coming into serious and severe conflict with the subject Slavic population, or with those Slavic states which will be in a position to intervene in their defense.

Italian mastery of the eastern coast would therefore be limited to a thin littoral strip of land, and one need not be a great strategist to understand what a disadvantage it would be for Italy to have to defend a long line of frontier a few dozen kilometers from the coast, behind which would lie a vast hinterland occupied by people seething with discontent at being cut off from the sea.

If Italy, then, does not wish to become involved in long and arduous wars for the conquest of this hinterland, her purposes will be best served by reducing to a minimum her territorial annexation on the further shore of the Adriatic.

Lemons Whiten the Skin Beautifully! Make Cheap Lotion

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quarter pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to whiten, soften, freshen, and bring out the hidden roses and beauty of any skin. It is wonderful for rough, red hands.

Your druggist will sell three ounces of orchard white at little cost, and any grocer will supply the lemons. Adv.

The Crux.

He'd never really been keen on soldiering.

He'd only gone into the army because he couldn't very well avoid it.

But hitherto he had gone through with it without making a conspicuous ass of himself.

Now, however, that the moment was at hand, the moment that would really test him, he knew himself for a coward.

He felt a worm, a jelly-fish, no man—he felt, in fact, a conglomeration of all the emotions that analytical novelists, depicting their heroes in blue funk, had described at length in the days before there was a paper shortage.

And the earth refused to open and swallow him.

And even the opportunity of running away was denied him, for the brutal sergeant—he'd always disliked that particular sergeant—had set him in front of the first rank inside the hollow square and was huskily whispering in his ear: "Now, me lad, if yer will be a blinkin' hero, go up and take yer medicine."

"Corporal Smith," called an officer, reading from a paper.

And Corporal Smith guiltily crawled forward to receive from the hands of the general the decoration he had earned in France.—London Opinion.

The State In Brief

On the basis that it is unpatriotic not to work during the vacation period in war times, Winona business men and their employes are enlisting to work on farms through the Minnesota Safety Commission's farm labor bureau in Winona.

The Federal Trade Commission will begin in a few days a flour milling investigation as a part of its general food inquiry. A corps of investigators under Dr. E. O. Merchant of the commission will come to Minneapolis within a few days from Washington for the purpose.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Minnesota Commission of Public Safety, of which Mrs. T. G. Winter is director, offers a prize of $15 for the best patriotic poster made by a pupil in the public schools of the state, and $5 for the second prize.

Another advance of 10 cents a ton in the price of coal has gone into effect at Duluth. Consumers are paying the highest prices in the history of the trade there. Quotations in anthracite coal are now $1.10 higher than at this time last year. Dealers do not hold out hope of lower prices.

The threat made by Industrial Workers of the World agitators in Gogebic county, Michigan, that the Mesaba range miners would walk out in sympathy with the Wolverine strike, was branded falsehood by miners themselves at Hibbing, who are satisfied with conditions and wages.

At least 75 per cent of the men examined so far by Minneapolis ward boards have signified intention of claiming exemptions, according to announcements from those boards which have begun their tasks. The chief reason given for exemption claims is that of dependent families or other relatives.

The First Minnesota infantry will be continued on property guard service in Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth until August 15, and possibly until August 31, depending on the organization of the new Fourth infantry, according to a telegram received by Governor Burnquist, from General Barry at Chicago.

A new form of patriotism has developed in Winona. Notaries public have come forth prepared to do their "bit" in the war. Notices have been sent local young men who will report for physical examinations for the new selective army. Those who ask exemption will require affidavits. These the notaries public will furnish free.

A near riot occurred at Hutchinson when J. O. Bentall, a socialist speaker, accused Postmaster Sam G. Anderson of holding up mail for him containing anti-draft literature. The postmaster jumped on the platform and offered to thrash the speaker. Fully 5,000 persons, mostly German farmers, witnessed the affair. Bentall later apologized and escaped from the town before a mob, made up of draft supporters, could reach him.

With a prospect of dozens of crates of berries going to waste because of the labor shortage, fruit growers in the vicinity of Minneapolis are sending out urgent S. O. S.—or rather, "Save Our Berries"—calls for amateur pickers. A hurry call for pickers came to the Minnesota Public Safety commission's free employment bureau. Some of the farmers, rather than allow the berries to rot on the bushes, are offering 50 per cent for the picking.

Students at the Fort Snelling officers' training camp who fail to qualify for commissions and the students who already have been dismissed from camp are to have an opportunity to enlist in the infantry service of the national army with the understanding that they are to be assigned as noncommissioned officers and that they may be promoted to commissioned grades. This information was received by Brig. Gen. William H. Sage, camp commandant at Fort Snelling, in a telegram from the Central department.

Conrad Hernlem, 55 years old, a well known Goodhue county farmer, was killed near Red Wing when struck by lightning.

W. H. Sherman, 60 years old, of Winnipeg, formerly wholesale liquor dealer, died at Detroit from potomaine poisoning.

Forest fires which threatened early Sunday to become serious in the Bemidji neighborhood are reported under control by rangers at Brush, Shevlin, Leonard, Lengby, Ebro and Witched Forest.

Winona hotels will not join in the meatless day proposals unless all hotels in the state agree upon definite days upon which to refrain from using meat, according to C. A. Hine, manager of Hotel Winona.

Establishment of public markets in Minnesota cities and suspension of license regulations hindering food products sales are recommended to city councils in a resolution adopted by the State Public Safety Commission in executive session at the Capitol.

Instructions have been issued to department commanders to withdraw no national guard troops from their states without first consulting the governor of the state to which the units belong. In case of a disagreement between any governor and commander, the proposal must be submitted to Washington. This is according to word received by Governor Burnquist from Washington.

After his mother warned him to stay away from the river, Clifford Maness, 13 years old, of St. Cloud, went in bathing Saturday and was drowned.

GOOD ROADS WORK TO BEGIN SHORTLY

STATE AND FEDERAL GOVERNMENT TO SHARE IN COST OF IMPROVING HIGHWAYS.

TO HELP MARKET NEW CROPS

Eleven Are Named by State Food Commission to Assist in Fighting Waste in Selling Products.

St. Paul.

Minnesota good roads work toward which the federal government will contribute $142,000 this year, will begin within the next few weeks, George C. Scales, assistant manager of the Minneapolis office of the United States department of public roads, announces.

The first project to which the government will contribute will be a $110,000 road in Chisago county. Other road work in which the government will join includes a $46,000 project in Freeborn county, and a $160,000 expenditure in Pine county; Crow Wing county, $60,000; Mille Lacs county, $100,000; Winona county, $24,000, and Washington county, $20,000.

The markets division of the state food production and conservation commission perfected plans to educate the farmers and gardeners in every county of the state through a personal service campaign to advantageously market their surplus products without waste to themselves or the consumers.

The plan is intended mainly to aid the producer in finding markets for crops he has grown for the first time.

A corps of eleven representative men will scatter over the state to cover every county and assist the local committees already proposed by the State Public Safety Commission to work out various market problems.

Special attention will be given to arranging for storage for perishable crops on the farms and in towns.

The movement will extend also to distribution of the coal supply, deliveries of necessary machinery and machine repairs and to handling crops.

Other Appointments.

Other appointments announced by Gov. Burnquist are:

Carrie Rankeillour of Minneapolis, member of the State Board of Examiners of Nurses, vice Harriet B. Leach of Minneapolis, resigned.

Mrs. Margaret Huntington of Northfield, member of State Library Commission, re-appointed.

W. M. Taber of Park Rapids, member of State Forestry Board, vice H. Oldenburg of Carlton, who declined reappointment.

J. F. Ingersoll of Crookston, member of State Board of Grain Appeals re-appointed.

W. H. Rubins of Minneapolis, member of Governing Board of State Art Society, vice Edwin H. Hewitt of Minneapolis, whose term expired, and Mrs. Andreas Ueland of Minneapolis and Thomas C. Holyoke of St. Paul, re-appointed.

State Food Quiz Program.

Beginning with the "staff of life," the state investigation committee charged by the Minnesota Public Safety Commission with the duty of ascertaining the cost of living and notably any exorbitant prices of the necessities of life decided at a meeting at the Capitol to inquire first into the cost of flour.

"Ham and bacon and other meats will be taken up next," the chairman, Colonel C. H. March, said, "but the flour prices will be dealt with first of all. Then in order will be considered the prices of wheat and next the prices of pork and beef and other meats as staple food products."

Will Not Remove Sheriff.

Sheriff Joseph J. Urness of Mahnomen county will not be removed from office on the evidence on which the State Public Safety commission recommended his summary removal by Governor Burnquist under the authority of the 1917 law creating the commission, according to a statement made last night by the governor. The sheriff denied the charges on which the state commission recommended his removal and the governor was advised that removal at this time would be ill advised.

"What's that?"

"It wouldn't make any difference to him if he wasn't blind."

"Why not?"

"Well, I was watchin' him all the evening, and he never looks at the piano, anyhow."

"Filing" an Affidavit.

During the hearing of a case in the city court not long ago a rasping voice coming from an adjoining room disturbed the judge.

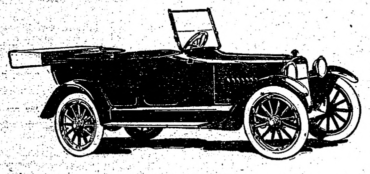
SAXON "SIX"
A BIG TOURING CAR FOR FIVE PEOPLE



25.9 Miles Per Gal. of Gas

234 stock model Saxon "Sixes" travel 70,200 miles July 18 and set grand average of 25.9 miles per gal. of gas

To give a national demonstration of the remarkable gasoline economy of Saxon "Six", 234 Saxon dealers joined in a 300 mile drive July 18.

A grand average of 25.9 miles per gallon of gasoline was registered for the 70,200 miles of travel.

Consider that this run took place in 234 different parts of the country, under 234 different sets of conditions, over 234 different kinds of roads.

Consider that these 234 cars were stock model Saxon "Sixes", not "tuned up" special cars, not cars with "doped" gasoline.

That proves that this 25.9 miles per gallon of gasoline is the ordinary, the average performance of 234 Saxon "Sixes" taken right out of stock.

And it proves as nothing else would prove, the gasoline economy your Saxon "Six" will give you. No other car in its class can match this record.

Furthermore, these 234 Saxon "Sixes" averaged 175 miles per quart of oil.

And not a single instance of mechanical trouble occurred throughout the entire 70,200 miles.

There is the proof that Saxon "Six" is your kind of a car. Price f. o. b. Detroit, $935.

"I say, old chap," said Smith to Tomlins, "what's that piece of string round your finger for?"

"Thank you for mentioning it," was the reply. "I put it there as a reminder to ask you for that five dollars I lent you a year ago."

True.

"There's one sure way of keeping out of debt."

"What is it?"

As He Heard It.

Little Raymond returned home from Sunday school in a very joyous mood.

"Oh, mother," he exclaimed, as he entered the house, "the superintendent said something awfully nice about me in his prayer this morning!"

"Isn't that lovely! What did he say, pet?" questioned his mother.

"He said, 'Oh, Lord, we thank thee for food and Raymond.'"—Harper's Magazine.

Fitting Task.

"This is a raw deal," remarked the speeding motorist as he was conducted to the inner circle of the Inferno.

"Never mind," said the demon soothingly, who was escorting him. "We'll put you where you can soon be scorching."

Today you are having the fun you'll probably be longing for ten years from now.

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR
HARRIETT G. HUNT, PUB.

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 30 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn. under the Act of Congress of March 3.1879

Some of the city papers are suggesting that the city Pool hall idlers be sent out onto farms. The farmers have no use for them, but they should be gathered up and sent to war, instead of taking our young men from the farms, when the farmers are so short of help to increase the wars demands for every available acre to be cultivated. Go down to the Pool halls and pick up the idlers them are the ones to send into the army, where they will be of some use to America. Don't send out the idle rich class from the cities to bother the farmers to train them to pitch hay, to get out of going to war, but send them down to the training camps and learn them the tactics of war. This is America's war, let every one do his share. Tax up the rich for the cash for the expenses, and let their gentlemen of leisure sons do the fighting, and the farmers and their sons will raise the grain to feed them.

Some people that are claiming they would not be opposed to being called for Military service if there was an invasion of this country, would make the excuse that they wanted to wait until Pennington county was invaded, if an army of invasion was on the Northern line of Minnesota. And when the army reached the county line, they would want to wait until it reached the Township line and then until it reached their home, and then they would crawl under the bed.

The Thief Falls papers should not publish the date of the men called for examination on the selective draft, if they can't give the correct date that they are to appear before the examining Board. For example we know of one instance where the young man was notified to appear August 8th by the clerk of the Board. And The Times has it that he is to appear Aug 9th. Correct your proof you fellows, or don't publish anything about it.

Anyone reading the daily papers now days would be led to the conclusion that a member of the I. W. W. would not work for any price. They wanted $4 a day for harvest, and as soon as they see that there was danger that the farmers were likely to meet their demand they promptly demand $5, a day, any excuse to not work.

The lynching of the I. W. W. at Butte Montana, had ought to convince their crowd that there is a limit to the patience of the people. While the act was unlawful, it seemed to be the only way to get rid of this great leader of the I wont work society.

Them southern states that voted so solidly for President Wilson should now stand by their colors, instead of arming themselves to resist the draft.

The dry season seems to have hit some parts of Dakota worse than it has Minnesota, and there is likely to be a shortage of hay that will compel the shipment of hay from Minnesota this year.

There is not likely to be any great scarcity of labor in this locality for taking care of the harvest, if the fair weather continues, as the farms are all small and the farmers can exchange help to get their threshing done.

New Mail Route

Advertisements have been sent out for bids, by the Post Office Department, for carrying of Daily Mail from Hazel to Sunbeam Post Office. The Mail is to leave Hazel at 7 o'clock daily driving from Hazel, by way of Malone P.O, to Sunbeam Post Office. Returning is to drive through southern Kratka Township so as to give mail service to the people living on the south side of Red Lake River. Bids for the carrying of this Mail can be put in at Hazel or Sunbeam Post Offices, and must be submitted to the 4th Assistant Post Master General, on or before August 28th. There are good graded roads over nearly the entire distance of this route, that will always be kept in good passable condition. The Contractor, is also to deliver the mail to mail boxes along the route. This mail route is something that has long been needed by the people living on the south side of Red Lake River in Eastern Pennington County and they now will have as good mail service as the people living on the north side of the river, and as good connections with their County seat and the outside world. The people of the former Malone Post Office can then get their daily papers on Saturday morning, that are printed at St Paul or Minneapolis on Friday evening, instead of having them lay in the Sunbeam Post office until the next week Tuesday, and then brought out to them. Justice and right, will prevail, when it is arrayed against, private greed and trickery, and the Post office Department have shown that they will give the people justice, when the truth and the facts are placed before them.

PICKING MEN FOR WAR.

The Selective Draft Was Known In the Time of Moses.

Registration for a selective draft was known thousands of years ago. The first chapter of Numbers tells how Moses in the second year after the exodus from Egypt was commanded to choose from among the various tribes men to tabulate the names of the males over the age of twenty who were able to go to war. The passage, in part, follows:

"Take ye the sum of all the congregation of the children of Israel by their families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of the names, every male by their polls; from twenty years of age and upward, all that are able to go forth to war, thou and Aaron shall number them by their hosts. And with you there shall be a man of every tribe. (Here are mentioned the men who are to assist in the registration.)

"And Moses and Aaron took these men that are mentioned, and they assembled all the congregation together on the first day of the second month, and they declared their pedigrees after their families by their fathers' houses, according to the number of the names from twenty years old and upward."—Chicago Tribune.

LIVE STOCK SHOW WILL BE BIG ONE

Minnesota State Fair To Co-operate With Government Officials In Campaign To Save The Fast Diminishing Producing Herds—Stock Exchange To Be Held To Bring Buyer and Seller Together.

One of the most important features of the Minnesota State Fair, which this year is to be held September 3 to 8, and which is to be conducted as a government "Food Training Camp," will be the livestock exhibits.

These exhibits have always been an important part of the State Fair, but they are made doubly important this year because of the fact that the great world war has for several years been draining the supply, especially in America, which has been obliged to feed the world almost from the very start of the struggle for humanity.

Realizing the great necessity of producing and conserving food, the government officials at Washington have joined the movement recently started to make the fairs and expositions throughout the country centers where the people can be taught these things.

Especially are the government officials eager to stimulate the raising of sheep, swine, horses, cattle and poultry and they will leave no stone unturned in the effort to produce greater efficiency.

To this end the State Fair management has offered inducements in the way of attractive premiums for the best in the various branches in the livestock department.

A Livestock Exchange.

Among the various features which will interest those who are interested in the raising of stock and also those who attend the wonderful shows held each year at the fair, will be the cattle exchange, which is to be located near the livestock pavilion. This exchange will serve a double purpose; it will bring together men who have high grade cattle to sell and men who wish to buy such cattle.

The idea of instituting a cattle exchange was originated by Prof. H. H. Kildes, head of the dairy husbandry department of the Minnesota College of Agriculture, who is recognized as one of the best authorities in the country on the dairy industry, and who has long realized that stringent measures must be adopted if the producing herds of the country are to be saved. He is authority for the statement that the dairying industry of the United States is being seriously threatened by the rapidity with which the herds are being killed off and that something must be done at once to impress upon the people that they must do their share or there will be a disastrous shortage of food from those sources.

The wonderful opportunity afforded the government to spread the doctrine of production and conservation of food through the big state fairs and expositions will doubtless do more than anything else to remedy the situation which exists at present and which each year has been getting more serious.

First Training Camp.

At the Minnesota State Fair, which is to be the model "Food Training Camp" for the country and which will be copied by the other big fairs and expositions, thousands of people from all sections of the Northwest will gather and to these persons will be given the urgent message of President Woodrow Wilson—that each and every individual in the country must realize the importance of and must do his share in producing and conserving food if America and her allies are to win the titanic struggle for democracy and humanity.

Farmers and stock growers all over the West will doubtless take advantage of the opportunity to show their stock this season. The State Fair officials are of the opinion that the livestock show this year will far surpass any yet held, despite the war conditions, and that the campaign already started by the government to encourage production and conservation will have its effect.

Secretary Thomas Canfield of the Minnesota State Fair is optimistic over the prospects of the big annual show and believes that, with the government behind it to the extent of sending several exhibits and also speakers the 1917 State Fair will be the best ever.

"We are doing everything in our power," said Mr. Canfield, "to encourage the raising and showing of livestock of all kinds. We want to cooperate with the government so as to stimulate activity, especially in the raising of stock. No efforts will be spared this year to make the displays in the different departments of the livestock section the best we have ever had. We have experts who this year will give their co-operation in every possible way and, I believe, the results of the fair will be evident in the next two or three years."

POWERFUL ORGAN.

Famous Instrument In St. Paul's Cathedral, London.

The organ of St. Paul's cathedral in London is the most powerful in the world. There is a weight of three tons on the bellows, and some of its giant pipes disappear from view in the recesses of the enormous dome. Some of the smaller pipes are up by the altar, and the rest are either hidden away behind the long row of choir stalls or are seen towering on either side of the choir gates. But all are controlled from a little organ loft in which is scarcely room for anyone beside the organist seated at the keyboard.

There are five rows of keys and two tiers of over 100 ivory handle stops. The organist showed how, by pressing with his thumb one of a row of buttons as he played, whole combinations of stops were pushed out or pushed in. He demonstrated, too, how with the slightest pressure he could transform the sound of the organ from the softest and sweetest of tones to a volume which rolled and seemed to shake the entire building.

The organ is a very ancient one. It was built between the years 1624 and 1700 by one Bernard Schmidt, a celebrated German organ maker, and cost over £2,000. Schmidt was merely responsible for the inside work, the case being supplied by a joiner for just over £330, while the carving on the case cost nearly £110. The organ has since undergone entire reconstruction, but all Schmidt's pipes have been retained and are now doing as good service as when they were made.—London Mail.

Surprising the Bullock.

In times of crisis and worry a kind word has been known to have surprisingly good results. The unexpectedness of such a word is perhaps the secret of its force. A book, "On the Wool Track," backs the moral with an anecdote.

A team was working on the Broken Hill road, and a bullock—the Beelzebub of the team—had gone obstinate, and the coach was passing. The whip was swinging, and some apt remarks were just forming on the back of the teamster's tongue when he caught sight of a clerical hat on the front seat and just in time thought better of it. He coughed politely.

"Ahem—Strawberry," he said, "proceed!"

To his obvious astonishment Strawberry proceeded.

Proof Positive.

Mr. X., the subeditor, was asked to write an article on superstition and imbecility. When the article was printed the opening sentence was found to be as follows:

THE LOCAL NEWS

Grain seems to be ripening rather slowly, but it is filling out fine

The Contract has been let for the building of the Highlanding bridge across Red Lake River and the bridge is to be completed by Dec 1st.

Harvest is in full blast and the threshing machine will soon be busy thrashing out the finest quality of grain that this locality ever produced.

Pat Roark has taken the contract to grade the approaches to the Highlanding bridge, which will assure the people of having a first class job done.

What would be your opinion of a man who was holding a position of trust, that would report to his superiors that the Red Lake River could be safely forded, on the section line south of Kratka.

Pat Roark last week took the contract to complete the western part of the Hazel state road, to connect with the part that he is just finishing upon this end. The whole road will now be put into first class passable condition.

As soon as the new mail route is established from Hazel to Sunbeam post office, the people living on the north side of the Red Lake River will get their weekly SUNBEAM on Saturday, instead of the next week on Monday.

ANOTHER LAW SUIT WANTED

Stephen Singer managed to fix a kind of a case against THE SUNBEA, so as to gratify his ambition to get into court. The case will not come up for trial before the January term of court, when we will have the time to give them another opportunity to let people know what kind of ducks they are. They have the advantage of us in the summer, as they have automobiles that they have made by farming the farmers since they came up to this country, while we only have our overworked underfed farm horses to drive but we will be ready for them next winter, and if it is law they want we will give them enough so they will let us alone in the future in peace. We did think that they got enough last winter so they would let us alone, but as Stephen has dug up the old dead cat, by starting another law suit, you bet we will make the old lady stink. They will now be called up to explain their connections with the famous post office robber gang of Swan Johnson, Lenard and the famous Curley, that belonged to the famous Dr. Dumas gang of "yeggy men" and post office robbers, that the post office department were offering rewards for their capture, and how bitterly Edward Singer wept in relating how the "poor Swan" was shot by an officer and killed north of Bemidji, for robbing the Puposky post office, and how fortunate "Mr. Lenard" was to make his escape. We have the positive evidenc that members of this gang made Singers their head quaters for two winters, and was chumming with Edward and Stephen Singer. Now that they are four to one and have started in to bankrupt us by frivolous law suits against us to put us to the expense of defending, we propose to publish enough facts of past records to convince the people that every article we ever published about the Singers was justified by facts. They wanted another lawsuit and now they will get all the trouble that they have been looking for. Come on you hounds you have found the trouble you have been looking for.

Read America's cause for war, written by our President, published in another column, which is so plain that any true American can understand it.

We ask the indulgence of our readers during this busy harvest and haying season, for the small amount of local news and Editorial matter, as all of our time is taken up on the farm, sowing our crops, and putting up hay.

The North and south part of Pennington County will be connected by a good substantial bridge across the Red Lake River at Highlanding December 1st. Let us of the eastern end celebrate the opening of traffic across this bridge.

People should be careful to not allow any fires to be set out on the moskag meadows, as it will burn holes four or five feet deep and it is impossible to put it out. There is now a fire burning in the meadows on the Joe LaCounte farm in Mayfield township that has been burning for nearly two weeks, and spreading all the time.

ROMANCE OF COAL.

Some of the Products This Complex Material Yields to Man.

Coal seems to be rather an uninteresting thing. Who would imagine that the great, ugly black lumps could afford any one a subject worthy of study? And yet this same coal has given civilization many of its greatest possessions. The beautiful pink scarfs worn by women are colored with dyes that come from coal. The gas used to illuminate and to heat our homes is a product of the distillation of coal. Valuable chemicals, such as benzine, naphthalene and toluene, are coal products.

The tar used in paving streets and protecting roofs from rain is also a byproduct of the commercial treatment of coal, and finally aniline, the basis of aniline dyes and coloring materials, is one of the valuable chemicals contained in coal.

Coal is indeed one of the most complex materials to be found in all nature. To learn what it is we must go back to the dim, geological ages. The luxuriant vegetation of these past times, untrammeled by human feet and uncut by human hands, year after year grew, bloomed, faded and decayed, forming deep beds of rotted, woody fiber.

By degrees certain gases, such as hydrogen and oxygen, were partly lost from the mass of vegetable material. Pressure and heat converted this material into what we know as coal.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

MOUNTAIN CLIMBING.

Joys That Come In Reaching the Peak and Getting Back to Camp.

A great deal has been written by mountaineers about the joys of climbing, says Walter Prichard Eaton in Harper's Magazine. The joys of climbing are often a good deal like those of heavy dumbbell exercises. In Glacier park you want to sing the joys of coming back to camp in the afternoon and loafing on a bed of balsam boughs, with your tent flap open wide to the view of lupines and violets in the meadow and distant snow capped peaks beyond. You want to sing the joys of fragrant food and steaming tea, of twilight slowly gathering as though so fair a day were reluctant to depart.

To ascend a peak, to see the tumbled world at its wildest, to sit again in camp tired and warmed with food, to hear, with one ear the camp cook telling bear stories, with the other the birdlike calls of the ground squirrels, to smell the resinous wood smoke and the balsams, to catch now and then the tinkle of little ice water brooks from the snowfields, to watch the sunset blush on Heaven's peak and the stars come slowly out above the battlements of the divide—well, that is, I fear, to spoil you for any other life.

The little ice water brooks sing a siren song in the uplands starred with violets, and woe to him whose ears have heard! He can never be quite happy again east of the Great Divide.

WAR SERVICE FOR CHILDREN.

The children as well as the grown-ups must do their bit for their country. The Minnesota State Fair Food Training Camp, Sept. 3 to 8, will devote an entire department to stimulating interest in children's work and to pointing out ways in which the children may best serve their country.

Remarkable Luck.

In Gold Hill, Nev., in 1877, one of the mining bosses—Tole by name—had trouble with some of the laborers in his mine. One night three of them attacked him in a barroom. Two of them pinned him down, while a third stood over him with a revolver. The muzzle almost touched his stomach. Once, twice, thrice, a fourth and a fifth time the weapon snapped. Tole closed his eyes. Each moment he expected to be his last. The disgusted ruffian threw his disappointing weapon on the floor with an oath and, joined by his aids, left the place. Tole wiped the cold sweat from his brow, mechanically picked up the discarded weapon, went to the door and fired off every charge, remarking that it was just his luck.

Easy Jail Methods.

The greatest leniency is shown to criminals in New Zealand. Thus in one jail at the end of the South island a prisoner may keep a race horse and is permitted to transact business concerning it. In the same jail well behaved prisoners are allowed an afternoon out occasionally.

Prison authorities in New Zealand are believers in the moral effects of open air. In one of their institutions the newly arrived misdemeanant is allowed the choice of living in jail or outside it, tents being erected at the back. This system of sending people to jail by letting them live outside has, however, its disadvantages. In one case the "prisoners," resenting harsh treatment in the way of a "lockout," lifted up the "jail" and deposited it far away in the bush.

PICKING MEN FOR WAR.

The Selective Draft Was Known In the Time of Moses.

Registration for a selective draft was known thousands of years ago. The first chapter of Numbers tells how Moses in the second year after the exodus from Egypt was commanded to choose from among the various tribes men to tabulate the names of the males over the age of twenty who were able to go to war. The passage, in part, follows:

"Take ye the sum of all the congregation of the children of Israel by their families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of the names, every male by their polls; from twenty years of age and upward, all that are able to go forth to war, thou and Aaron shall number them by their hosts. And with you there shall be a man of every tribe. (Here are mentioned the men who are to assist in the registration.)

"And Moses and Aaron took these men that are mentioned, and they assembled all the congregation together on the first day of the second month, and they declared their pedigrees after their families by their fathers' houses, according to the number of the names from twenty years old and upward."—Chicago Tribune.

SOLD SHOTGUN FOR TEN DOLLARS

And Filed on Western Canada Land. Now Worth $50,000.

Lawrence Bros. of Vera, Saskatchewan, are looked upon as being amongst the most progressive farmers in Western Canada. They have had their "ups-and-downs," and know what it is to be in tight pinches. They persevered, and are now in an excellent financial position. Their story is an interesting one. Coming in from the states they traveled overland from Calgary across the Battle river, the Red Deer river, through the Eagle Hills and on to Battleford. On the way their horses were stolen, but this did not dishearten them. They had some money, with which they bought more horses, and some provisions. When they reached Battleford they had only money enough to pay their ferriage over the Saskatchewan river, and this they had to borrow. It was in 1906 that they filed on homesteads, having to sell a shotgun for ten dollars in order to get sufficient money to do so. Frank Lawrence says:

"Since that time we have acquired altogether a section and a half of land, in addition to renting another three quarters of a section. If we had to sell out now we could probably realize about $50,000, and have made all this since we came here. We get crops in this district of from 30 to 35 bushels of wheat to the acre and oats from 40 to 80 bushels to the acre. Stock here pays well. We have 1,700 sheep, 70 cattle and 60 horses, of which a number are registered Clydes."

Similar successes might be given of the experiences of hundreds of farmers throughout Western Canada, who have done comparatively as well. Why should they not dress well, live well, have comfortable homes, with all modern equipments, electric light, steam heat, pure ventilation, and automobiles. Speaking of automobiles it will be a revelation to the reader to learn that during the first half of 1917, 16,000 automobile licenses were issued in Alberta, twice as many as in the whole of 1916. In Saskatchewan, 21,000 licenses were issued up to the first of May, 1917. In its monthly bulletin for June the Canadian Bank of Commerce makes special reference to this phase and to the general prosperity of the West in the following:

"Generally speaking the western farmer is, in many respects, in a much better position than hitherto to increase his production. Two years of high prices for his products have enabled him, even with a normal crop, to liquidate a substantial proportion of his liabilities and at the same time to buy improved farm machinery. His prosperity is reflected in the demand for building materials motor cars and other equipment. It is no doubt true that some extravagance is evidenced by the astonishing demand for motor cars, but it must be remembered that many of these cars will make for efficiency on the farm and economize both time and labor."—Advertisement.

GERMAN AIR RAID ON BRITISH COAST; 23 KILLED, 50 HURT

NINE WOMEN AND SIX CHILDREN INCLUDED IN THOSE WHO LOSE LIVES WHEN TEUTONS ATTACK SOUTHEND.

FRENCH BOMB FRANKFORT IN RETALIATION ATTACK

Raid Comes as Reprisal for German Attack in Region of Paris Recently—Russia Says Teuton Offensive Is Slackening—Roumanians Yielding Ground.

London, Aug. 14.—Twenty-three persons, including nine women and six children, were killed and 50 persons were injured at Southend, in Essex, 40 miles east of London, by bombs dropped from German raiders, says an official statement.

French Bomb Frankfort.

Paris, Aug. 14.—Two French aviators dropped bombs on Frankfort-on-the-Main, one of the most important cities of the German empire, having a population of more than 300,000. A French official statement announcing the raid says:

"In reprisal for the German bombardments of Nancy and the region of Paris, two of our machines dropped bombs on Frankfort-on-the-Main. Both machines returned undamaged.

"It is confirmed that a German aviator was brought down August 9 on the Belgian front. A German machine was shot down by machine gun fire northeast of Vaumaillon."

Teuton Offensive Lacking.

Petrograd, Aug. 14.—In consequence of the heavy loses inflicted on the Austro-German forces and the desperate resistance of the Russians, says a telegram received here from Odessa, the Teuton offensive on the Roumanian front is diminishing in intensity.

Roumanians Driven Back.

Unfavorable weather again is hampering major operations in Flanders, but in southern Moldavia the Desperate fighting between the Russo-Roumanians and the Teutons continues with increasing ferocity.

NATIONAL HOLIDAY SEEN WHEN FIRST DRAFT MEN GO

Regarded As Probable By Provost Marshal General's Office, That Sept. 3 May Be Fixed.

Washington, Aug. 11.—A national holiday may be declared on September 3 in celebration of the departure of draft levies for training cantonments. No step to this end has been made as yet, but officials at the provost marshal general's office regard it as probable.

Conferences were in progress with railway officials on details of the mobilization. Transportation lines face the problem of collecting the first 230,000 men from 4,570 districts, providing them with sleeping car accommodations where necessary and providing stops at points where the soldiers can be fed.

CONFERENCES RESUMED IN EFFORT TO STOP STRIKE

Mediators Fear That Walkout of Carpenters Employed On Cantonments May Affect 400,000.

New York, Aug. 11.—Labor leaders and representatives of the war and navy departments resumed conferences in an effort to avert the strike of 2,500 carpenters employed on the construction of cantonment camps in New York City and vicinity.

The strike has been held in abeyance pending the conference.

Although only 2,500 men are directly affected by the strike order the entire Brotherhood of Carpenters with almost 400,000 members it is said, might be drawn into a general walkout.

Colby Confirmed for Shipping Board.

Washington, Aug. 11.—The Senate confirmed the nomination of Bainbridge Colby of New York to be a member of the government shipping board by a vote of 34 to 16, after a spirited executive session. The opposition was led by Senators Wadsworth and Calder of New York. Senator Johnson of California, Republican, and Senators Lewis and Fletcher, Democrats, spoke for confirmation. Colby will succeed Captain John B. White, who resigned with William Denman and Major General Goethals.

U. S. OIL VESSEL TORPEDOED

FOUR AMERICAN TARS BELIEVED PRISONERS ON U-BOAT.

Navy Department Makes Announcement of Sinking of Standard Oil Tanker.

Washington, Aug. 14. — Sinking of the American steamer Campania, a Standard Oil tanker, with the probable capture of her captain and four members of the naval guard, by the attacking German submarine, is announced by the Navy department.

The department issued this statement:

"The Standard Oil tanker Campania, American steamer, was sunk by a submarine on the morning of August 6, about 143 miles west of Ile De Re. Forty-seven survivors reached land in safety. It is believed that the captain of the steamer and four of the armed guards are prisoners on board the German submarine."

British Steamer Sinks U-Boat.

An Atlantic Port, Aug. 13.—Another German submarine has been sunk by the guns of a merchantman, if the gunners of a British freighter which has just arrived here are correct in their assumption that three shots which struck an undersea boat off Brest, France, sent her to the bottom. The Britisher encountered the submarine on her last outward trip from this port. One shot destroyed the periscope. The second and third were followed by an explosion and the submarine disappeared.

MICHAELIS FORECASTS PEACE WITH VICTORY

New German Chancellor Says Empire's Existence Is Guaranteed By Splendid Military Situation.

Copenhagen, Aug. 11.—Dr. Michaelis, the German imperial chancellor, like Field Marshal von Hindenburg, has taken to answering messages from the pan-German league, which is conducting a mass meeting and telegram campaign to crystallize peace conditions.

Replying to the latest pronouncement from a pan-German mass meeting in Hesse, Dr. Michaelis telegraphed:

"I am firmly convinced that the splendid military situation will help us to a peace which will guarantee permanently the German empire's condition of existence on the continent and overseas."

TWENTY-ONE ILLINOIS COAL MINES TO BE CLOSED DOWN

Strike of Nine Thousand Miners To Result In Shutting of Mines with 100,000 Ton Output.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Twenty-one Illinois coal mines will be closed down as a result of a strike of 9,000 miners, according to announcement by a representative of the Illinois Coal Operators association. The mines affected have a combined output of 100,000 tons a day. The official, who refused to allow his name to be used in connection with the announcement, said the men were striking for $1 a day additional wages "because of the unfounded publicity given alleged enormous profits by operators."

WILSON UTTERANCE LIKELY

War Aims and Peace Plans To Be Given Public.

Washington, Aug. 13.—President Wilson may make an announcement to the American people soon on our war aims and peace plans.

There was a three-hour session of the cabinet, and it is reported most of it was spent discussing the prospective proclamation. It probably will be in the form of a letter.

Such a letter naturally would be addressed to Senator W. J. Stone, chairman of the foreign relations committee, but as Senator Stone has announced he will make a speech on peace and as his views are not in accord with those of the president, some other senator will receive the White House utterance.

WOULD CORNER TOMATO CROP

Trade Board Accuses the California Companies.

Washington, Aug. 11.—Evidence of a conspiracy among large packing interests to corner the entire tomato output of the Pacific coast has been discovered, it was said at the offices of the federal trade commission.

The commission's investigators in California reported that three large canning concerns are involved—Armour & Co., Morris & Co., and Libby, McNeil & Libby.

These companies, they declared, have attempted to purchase the entire California tomato crop from local canners and prices consequently are jumping.

U. S. Repair Shop.

Washington, Aug. 13.—An enormous repair shop is planned by the government to fix faulty teeth and eyes of drafted men. There is no chance for a conscript evading service because he has bad teeth. Ten thousand volunteer dentists stand ready to repair them, without charge. These doctors comprise the Dental Preparedness league, of which Dr. J. W. Beach, Buffalo, N. Y., is president. If drafted men will not go to a local dentist he is sent to the cantonment camp just the same.

LUMBER FOR ARMY AND MERCHANT MARINE

The West is supplying most of the lumber for the building of the merchant fleet and the great cantonments for the new draft army. This huge raft of Oregon pine logs, 600 feet long and 52 feet wide, is towed 1,000 miles from an interior point on the Columbia river in Oregon, via the Pacific ocean to San Diego, Cal., where it is converted into lumber for the use of the United States army and for shipbuilding purposes. The lumber is distributed throughout the Southwest.

RICH TO BEAR WAR BURDEN

WAR TAX TO FALL ON BIG CORPORATIONS, SAYS SIMMONS.

Asserts That Proposed Bill Plans Tax Where It Belongs Without Injustice to Anyone.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Chairman Simmons, explaining to the Senate the finance committee's purposes in redrafting the war tax bill, declared the charges made will greatly increase the tax burden to be borne by big corporations who have profited from the war.

In a detailed statement opening debate on the measure, Senator Simmons said the bill as now presented would place the tax where it belonged without working injustice to anyone.

Without mentioning him by name, the North Carolina Senator replied at length to Chairman Kitchin of the House ways and means committee, who recently charged that the Senate committee had written the House bill in such a way as to favor prosperous concerns and individuals.

Reaped Harvest of Gold.

On the contrary, the senator insisted the Senate revision would tax the prosperous much more heavily than had the House bill. The House, he said, had been far too lenient with those who had "reaped this harvest of gold."

"Certain corporations in this country are going to be made to disgorge a very considerable proportion of their income in order to pay the expenses of this war," said Senator Simmons.

MUNITION PLANT BURNED; TWO EMPLOYES ARE HELD

Incendiarism Suspected in Destruction of $500,000 Plant for Making Gun Cotton in Indiana.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 13.—Fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin, destroyed about half the million dollar plant of the Aetna Explosive company near here. Two employees named Holt and Cholsse were arrested.

The plant was working on government contracts, it is said. It had a capacity of 46,000 pounds of gun cotton a day. It was estimated that it will take 60 days to put the plant in working order again.

The fire originated in the dry cotton warehouse and spread through covered passageways to other buildings. There were no explosions.

The loss is estimated at $500,000.

ALLOWED NO REMITTANCES

Americans in Germany Cannot Receive Money.

Zurich, Aug. 13.—The German federal council has approved the recent proclamation forbidding payments to American citizens residing in Germany. A recent cable dispatch stated the German government had taken steps to prevent Americans in Germany from receiving money remittances. It was said this was done for the purpose of compelling Americans to leave the empire.

Pope Names Prime Minister.

New York, Aug. 13.—A cable message from Paris received by the official French bureau of information in this city indicates that Mgr. Frederico Tedeschini, who has been undersecretary of state of the Vatican, has succeeded Cardinal Gasparri as Pope Benedict's prime minister.

Insane Prisoner Fights Sheriff.

Dickinson, N. D., Aug. 13.—Mike Chumak, held there for trial in connection with the death of James Caldwell and his wife, who gained national notoriety when the famous "J. C. R." brought action in court to prove that he was a long-lost son, became violently insane in jail and attacked Sheriff Hartung when he entered the room. When rescued, the clothing had been stripped from Hartung's body and three deputies were required to subdue the man. Prison attaches did not think he was dangerous.

DROPS FROM BRITISH CABINET

ARTHUR HENDERSON, LABOR MEMBER, RESIGNS.

Has Advocated Participation in Stockholm Socialist Conference—Plans For Which May Fall Through.

London, Aug. 13.—Arthur Henderson's resignation from the cabinet has been accepted, it is announced officially. Henderson is the labor member of the ministry, who has been active in advocating participation of British labor in the Stockholm socialist conference.

Efforts to induce American, Belgium and other Allied labor to participate in the Socialist conference at Stockholm, and seeking of a clear ruling on the British law regarding such sessions at which representatives of the enemy may be present, will be next step of British workers.

Following the overwhelming vote of the conference in favor of sending delegates to Stockholm, it was admitted much is yet to be done. When British delegates planned to leave England on a similar mission recently, British sailors refused to man the ship on which they were to sail.

With reports from Italy and Belgium that labor delegates from these countries would not go to Stockholm, and America holding aloof, authorities are inclined to believe the conference may fail from lack of weight.

$6,000,000,000 BOND ISSUE

New Offering to Be Asked of Congress By McAdoo.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Secretary of the Treasury W. G. McAdoo is planning to ask congress in the near future for authorization of a new bond issue of $6,000,000 at this session of congress.

If the proposal is granted, it will bring the total amount of revenue authorized to be raised during the first year of the war to $15,000,000,000, exclusive of ordinary government income.

This issue probably will be offered and subscriptions closed by Nov. 15, the date on which present outstanding treasury certificates are to be taken up.

CLOSE TO GERMAN TRENCHES

American Officers Creep Within Ten Yards of Enemy.

American Field Headquarters in France, Aug. 13.—American officers dressed as Poilus crept upon their hands and knees within 10 yards of the German trenches to the farthest point yet reached. Returning to camp from the French line they related exciting incidents.

As they spied on a Teuton trench, the Germans were playing cards, napping or laughing, entirely ignorant of the Americans who were watching them.

469 MEN FOR SECOND CAMP

Instructed to Present Themselves For Training At Snelling.

Minneapolis, Aug. 13.—Official notification to 469 men registering from Minnesota to present themselves as accepted candidates for the second officers' reserve training camp at Fort Snelling, beginning August 27, have been mailed by Captain T. C. Musgrave, who has had charge of the work of enrolling the Minnesota volunteers for this line of military activity.

Central Control of World's Tonnage.

Washington, Aug. 12.—Central control of the world's tonnage with sharp reductions in ocean freight rates were discussed at a conference between the shipping board and Thomas Royden of the British mission. The British propose, it is understood, that the American government enter the inter-Allied chartering conference, and that neutral tonnage be forced in by operation of a joint Allied bunkering arrangement and by exercise of the Allies' control over their exports. This would add to the present tonnage.

FORTUNES MADE IN COTTON

Imperial Valley of California, a Desert Fifteen Years Ago, Is Now Great Field of White.

In the Imperial valley of California they are making fortunes raising cotton this year—sudden dramatic fortunes. Everything about the Imperial valley seems to have the dramatic quality; its story would make a good moving picture. In 1900 it was a blistering desert where a buzzard could scarcely live. And then the government harnessed the Colorado river and the desert was veined with irrigating canals, and plowed and planted, and for the first time since the primordial floods subsided, a tint of green and growing things spread over the valley.

Cotton arrived in 1906. It came in the shape of a box of seed under the seat of a farm wagon driven by a Texas homesteader. He asked why they didn't raise cotton thereabouts, and they said because it wouldn't grow. And so, being from Texas, which is something like Missouri, he planted his little store of cottonseed, and it came up and opened its snowy bolls to the wonderment of all beholders. Furthermore, the next year it came up and bore again without another planting.

The Texan's little cotton field spread like a drop of butter on a hot pan. It clothed the barrenness of the desert in its fleece. And it brought to the men who owned the land more hard iron dollars than ever they had seen before. There are 50,000 acres of cotton in the Imperial valley this year and there are going to be many more next year. And even better than the cotton crop is the human crop, which this desert has borne; for it is peopled by men who own their own farms and are prosperous.

The Truth Will Out.

A darky in Louisville who had gone broke in a crap game turned to a friend and requested the temporary accommodation of a small loan.

"Gus," said the person thus importuned, "I'd lak mightily to let you have some money, but I'm out of luck my ownse'f. Dis yere dollar I'se about to shoot is de last dollar I got in de world."

He shot and lost, while Gus looked forlornly on. He reached into his vest pocket and hauled out a crumpled bill.

"W'y, sho 'nuff, yere is another dollar!" he said in tones of astonishment.

Again he shot—and lost. Still holding fast to the dice, he unearthed a third bill from the sweatband of his hat.

"Now dis yere is absolutely de last dollar I owns on dis earth!" he stated for the benefit of the company at large and his chum Gus in particular. "W'en hit's gone I'se through."

He risked it and lost it. As he slid his free hand toward an inner recess in the waistband of his trousers the bankrupt Gus spoke up.

"Keep on shootin' nigger!" bade Gus. "Jes' keep on shootin'. Dem bones'll mek you tell de trufe yit."—Saturday Evening Post.

PATRIOTS CALLED TO HELP SUPPRESS ANTI-DRAFT ACTS

MINNESOTA PUBLIC SAFETY COMMISSION ISSUES APPEAL TO CITIZENS TO STIFLE SEDITIOUS SENTIMENT.

PEACE OFFICERS CHARGED TO CURB ALL OVERT ACTS

Assistance In Suppressing Anti-Draft Utterances and Law Violations In Many Localities Is Asked by Board—Enforcement of Law Insisted Upon.

St. Paul.—The Minnesota Public Safety commission has issued the following appeal to loyal citizens of the state:

"Be it remembered:

"Law enforcement stands upon the same basis on which it has rested from time immemorial among a free people.

"Enforcement of law as it has ever been is the duty of the proper authorities—the United States marshal, the sheriff, the police.

"It is the duty of every citizen, as it has always been, to aid and sustain the officers who should enforce the law.

"The state cannot and ought not to interfere in any community until the resources of its own people are exhausted, and their best efforts have proved futile.

"The duty of the Public Safety commission begins only where the laws fail—because citizenship is feeble; or local officials are wrong, whether from wilfulness or weakness; or because the enemies of public order are stronger than its supporters; or because new conditions are created out of military exigency.

"Let civic sense and official fidelity see to enforcement of the law; there remains for the commission its proper task of meeting new conditions created by the war—a task that calls for the people's utmost strength,

Many Request Intervention.

"Many reports have come to the commission in the last few days of movements and meetings that threaten public order. Requests have come to the commission almost every hour for its intervention. These reports and requests relate to meetings where sedition is uttered, or which give birth to seditious sentiment.

"For actual sedition there is a plain remedy in the law. Wherever any man violates the law of Minnesota which forbids discouragement of enlistment, or the federal law which forbids obstruction of the new United States army—he should be arrested forthwith and held to answer to the proper court for his unlawful acts.

"The federal authorities are prepared to act vigorously. It is recognized, however, that the Department of Justice has not men enough under the present stress of business to meet all demands instantly. In many instances the sheriff will be called upon to deal with these offenders under the state law.

"Meetings which may result in disorder or breach of peace fall under the laws relating to unlawful assembly. The sheriff and the police officers are required to inform themselves of such meetings and take such measures as may be necessary to avert breach of the peace.

"The Public Safety commission looks to the county director in each county to co-operate with the authorities and to keep the commission informed of the course of events. The county directors will have the support of the organization under him and of all loyal citizens in sustaining the authorities.

Loyalty Meetings Urged.

"Right public sentiment must also be organized. Citizens who uphold the government must not permit dissent to run away with public opinion. Loyalty meetings must smother assemblies of discontent. Through the newspapers—loyal with very few exceptions—the cause of the nation must be set forth.

"Violation of the law, obstruction of the government, hindrance to enlistment and to federal duty cannot be tolerated.

"It is recognized by the commission that hard situations are not to be smoothed away by a few easy words. To bring all the people to a sense of their obligations entails duty and sacrifice in every community. This duty must be shouldered by patriotic men and women everywhere and the sacrifice must be made.

"The American people have not lightly entered in this war and they cannot lightly go through it."

Complete Plans for Taking Over Ships.

Washington, Aug. 8.—The shipping board is completing plans for taking over all large merchant vessels flying the American flag. It was officially learned the government will soon requisition space on these vessels for food and troop shipments to Europe, leaving operations of the ships in their present owners' hands. Charters, freight rates, cargoes and movements will be under government control. The board is now completing legal details for establishing a bureau to handle the added tonnage.

A score of patrons of the Dan Patch Electric line, many of them stockholders, were in Federal court in Minneapolis to fight the petition of the bondholders, now before Judge Wilbur F. Booth, to have the road dismantled and sold for junk. Harlan P. Roberts, representing the patrons of the road, told the court the road could be operated with profit.

In the western section of Minnesota, in the Red River valley region, a good crop is being harvested. This is true particularly of Clay, Wilkin and Norman counties. The grain crop is better than earlier reports indicated. Rain has been of material benefit to the potato and corn crops. The great potato acreage in Clay county now bids fair to yield well.

MINNESOTA WHEAT CROP TO BE 61,332,000 BUSHELS

Minnesota's wheat crop this year will be 61,332,000 bushels, or approximately 34,000,000 bushels more than last year, according to the United States Department of Agriculture estimates for Aug. 1.

Prospects are for 15,000,000 bushels more corn; 33,000,000 bushels more oats; 11,000,000 bushels more rye and approximately 19,000,000 bushels more potatoes than in 1916.

The crop summary, as prepared by the Department of Agriculture, follows:

	This year. Bushels.	Last year. Bushels.
Corn	99,800,000	84,420,000
Win. wheat	1,332,000	910,000
Spr. wheat	60,000,000	26,645,000
Oats	121,300,000	88,112,000
Barley	37,800,000	26,125,000
Rye	16,440,000	5,025,000
Flaxseed	2,680,000	2,338,000
Potatoes	35,400,000	16,800,000
All hay, tons	5,740,000	6,384,000
Apples, bbls. of 3 bu.	473,000	422,000

COST TO STATE OF FOURTH INFANTRY

EXPENSE AMOUNTS TO HALF MILLION DOLLARS A YEAR FOR ONLY FIVE COMPANIES.

NO CHANGE IN FOOD PLANS

State Dairy Commissioner Gives Opinions on Distribution Following Conference He Attended at Washington.

St. Paul.

A war bill for Minnesota taxpayers will be increased at the rate of an additional $500,000 a year for maintenance of the new Fourth infantry of the Minnesota national guard which is being organized to remain at home and relieve the First Minnesota infantry and other forces now guarding industries and other property. Capt. W. F. Rhinow, military secretary to the governor, announced that the new regiment would be maintained from the general revenue fund of the state under legal provision.

Announcement of the plans for organization of the new regiment caused much speculation as to how it would be financed. Guardsmen in state service receive $2 a day and 75 cents additional for subsistence, and a military statistician estimated that maintenance of a full regiment would cost the state approximately $1,000,000 a year. Then it was explained that only five companies are to be recruited and the expense probably would not exceed $500,000 a year.

Subsequent reports were that the regular national guard funds of about $116,000 for the current year and a balance of approximately $500,000 in the $1,000,000 appropriation of the Public Safety commission would not warrant such an expenditure. The announcement by Captain Rhinow yesterday that the general revenue funds of the state may be drawn upon for the maintenance of the new regiment ended speculation on the subject of finances.

No Change in Food Distribution.

Continuation of food distribution through the usual channels without important changes in methods during the war was predicted by Commissioner J. J. Farrell of the State Dairy and Food commission. He has just returned from a brief conference in Washington, D. C., with Herbert C. Hoover, federal food controller, and the annual meeting at Atlantic City of the American Association of Dairy, Food and Drug Officials, of which he was president.

"Food distribution will go on through the regular established channels, in my opinion," said Mr. Farrell, "and the most important wartime regulation will be toward preventing waste and speculation.

"Government officials may be expected to keep in close touch with available supplies to guard against unnecessary shortages. The federal control will be primarily to conserve foodstuffs.

"The merchants 'in transit,' those who keep food surpluses in cars on track and pay demurrage and still make big profits, will be eliminated to a great extent, I believe."

To Charge for State Patients.

Secretary Downer and E. W. Allen, an agent of the State Board of Control, have gone to Columbus, Ohio, to inspect a system by which that state collects $10 a month for the care of patients in state hospitals and asylums for the insane. A similar system is to be established in Minnesota under a 1917 law and may be copied after the Ohio plan. Investigation, to determine which patients are financially able or who have relatives who can partly reimburse the state for their care, was begun several weeks ago by the board of control. The board of control members are in St. Cloud today for a quarterly conference with superintendents of state institutions on new laws relating to child welfare.

Anti-Draft Talk Wide.

Anti-draft sentiment has infected large areas in scattered sections of Minnesota and is fast spreading, Secretary John S. Pardee of the Public Safety Commission said, following receipt of reports of new outbreaks in various districts and in advance of a conference of safety commissioners to further discuss the existing conditions.

The state war board has given much consideration to the prevalence of un-American sentiment in various localities of the state, but has yet to make public any moves to counteract it other than to instruct local authorities of their sworn duty to prevent disorder and to enforce the laws, notably that relating to unlawful assembly.

Hearing of Officials Postponed.

Postponement for a few days of the conference with New Ulm officials who took part in the recent anti-draft meeting there was announced today by the Public Safety Commission because of lack of a quorum. The officials previously were cited to appear before the board late today.

The members said that postponement of the meeting with New Ulm and Brown county officials for a full quorum did not indicate that any drastic action was contemplated.

Advertising in the Street.

That the ingenuity of people in the Orient sometimes finds expression through thoroughly modern channels, says the August Popular Mechanics Magazine, is demonstrated by a sprinkler, employed in Osaka, Japan, which writes advertisements in water on the roadway, as it is drawn along by man power. Solidly mounted on the axles of a two-wheel cart is a perforated drum, filled with water, which revolves with the wheels and, as it does so, traces Oriental characters along the thoroughfare.

An Ideal Resort.

Duck—Come on, Bill! there is a restaurant down the street where they have flies in the stew.

When a man gets the last word in an argument the chances are that it is because she throws it at him.

Two Great Men.

Enrico Caruso, the world-famous tenor, says he has found out that "no man is as great as he thinks he is."

"While I was out motoring one day," he continues, "my automobile broke down, and I sought refuge in a farmhouse while the car was being repaired. I became friendly with the farmer, who asked me my name, and I told him it was Caruso.

"The farmer leaped to his feet and seized me by the hand. 'Little did I think I would see a man like you in this here humble kitchen, sir!' he exclaimed. 'Caruso! he great traveler, Robinson Caruso!'"

Lots of people wait in vain for their ships to come in because they neglected to launch them.

A man seldom forgives an injury until after he has got even.

THIS is a topic we all hear now-a-days because so many people are inclined to exaggerate. Yet has any physician told you that we claimed unreasonable remedial properties for Fletcher's Castoria? Just ask them. We won't answer it ourselves, we know what the answer will be.

That it has all the virtues to-day that was claimed for it in its early days is to be found in its increased use, the recommendation by prominent physicians, and our assurance that its standard will be maintained.

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

Canada extends to you a hearty invitation to settle on her FREE Homestead lands of 160 acres each or secure some of the low priced lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. This year wheat is higher but Canadian land just as cheap, so the opportunity is more attractive than ever. Canada wants you to help feed the world by tilling some of her fertile soil—land similar to that which during many years has averaged 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Think of the money you can make with wheat around $2 a bushel and land so easy to get. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed farming in Western Canada is as profitable an industry as grain growing.

The Government this year is asking farmers to put increased acreage into grain. There is a great demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for service. Goat Flesh Sold as Mutton.

Goat flesh is sold as mutton among the poorer classes in Liverpool. With the sheep brought from Iceland there is always a certain proportion of goats, and these carcasses now are sold on the wholesale markets without distinction from those of the sheep and lambs. According to the health authorities, there is no particular objection to this practice, as in the matter of taste and nutritive quality there is said to be very little difference between the two animals.

GIRLS! MAKE A BEAUTY LOTION WITH LEMONS

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quarter pint of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to whiten, soften, freshen and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It is truly marvelous to smoothen rough, red hands. Adv.

THEY WON'T CONQUER AMERICA

„As sure as the sunrises tomorrow, if this war ends with the triumph of Germany, our people will be a subject nation of the German ruling classes," So warned Elihu Root, head of the American commission to Russia, in his first public address in the United States since his return to America before a gathering of several thousand persons last Saturday. Root's tremendous appeal for „sacrificing patriotism" roused the audience. He says „A great military autocracy has thrown down the gauntlet to civilization and liberty. Germany repudiates, the rule of morality of nations. The principles of good and evil, liberty and slavery, humanity and cruelty, have locked her in a conflict. Ideals of this republic must go down before the German moloch or those loyal to these ideals must throw their manhood to its support. We are none too soon in beginning our preparation for preservation."—Norman County Index.

America will fight to the last man before they will bow the knee to a foreign monarch. But the people do not yet fully understand the situation, although they begin to realize the fact the we either must conquer the kaiser, or become the subjects of the German empire.

„Let them go to work or go to war" said Representative R. C. Johnson of South Dakota, introducing a bill in the house late Saturday authorizing the president to draft all able bodied males between 25 and 50 years old not engaged in a useful occupation.„The law would make every man go to war or go to work. The regiments will consist of the idle sons of wealthy men, I. W. W. and all other brands of slackers. We can draft several regiments of loafers right in Washington, and get at least a division of the I. W. W." says Johnson.

Gen Crowder's ruling that there should be no substitutes for men drafted for military service, is a move in the right direction. Do not allow America to start that old civil war deal of putting gold against blood. Let every man stand his chance, rich and poor alike, not allow a rich man's son to hire some alien substitute, and the poor man's son go to war. Give the people to understand that this is not a rich man's war and the poor man's fight, but a war for the rights of America.

The Government should now promptly attend to the control of the Cattle market, for the abuse of middle men are worse in that market than in the wheat market. The producers are not getting any better prices for steek than they got three years ago, and the Consumers can tell you of the difference in the prices that they are paying. If the government does not step in and protect the beef cattle producers, America is sure to run short of meat, in a very few years.

AMERICA'S CAUSE FOR WAR.

„The military masters of Germany denied us the right to be neutral. They filled our communities with vicious spies and conspirators. They sought to corrupt our citizens. They sought by violence to destroy our industries and arrest our commerce. They tried to incite Mexico to take up arms against us and to draw Japan into hostile alliance with her. They impudently denied us the use of the high seas and repeatedly executed their threat that they would send to their death any of our people who ventured to approach the coasts of Europe.

„This flag under which we serve would have been dishonoured had we withheld our hand."—Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States.

It will be a pretty difficult matter for any foreign born person to obtain U.S. citizen papers after this, owing to the fact that so many of them is fighting America at home when they are at war with a foreign nation.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN IMPORTANT

Extra Efforts To Be Made To Have Exhibits At State Fair Bigger And Better Than Ever—Style Show To Eclipse Anything Yet Held—Children's Contests To Interest Many.

Women and children will take a most important part in the Minnesota State Fair, which is to be held September 3 to 8 and which, this year, is to be conducted as a Food Training Camp in the voluntary service of the government.

For years past the women and children have done their share to make the Minnesota State Fair the success it has been, but this year, possibly due to war conditions, they will be called upon, as has everybody else, to put forth extra efforts to make conditions as near normal as possible.

Because of a shortage of materials for the manufacture of high grade clothing it has become necessary for manufacturers to turn their attention to other materials besides pure woolens and other fabrics, which, before the war, were easily obtainable.

Big Style Show.

For some time past the women who will have charge of the exhibits in the women's department have been busily engaged planning the affairs and, while definite plans have not been announced as yet it is certain that among other things to be seen in the women's building will be a style show, which will eclipse anything of the kind yet attempted at the Minnesota State Fair. Living models will be used to display the very latest styles.

Plain sewing will be given special attention this year. This feature is particularly important because the war has brought about conditions that have necessitated doing away with frills and fancy things and has replaced them with the simpler and plainer wearables.

Demonstrations will be held along the line of how to do plain sewing and how to utilize different materials which will come into more common use as time goes on.

Boys' and Girls' Camps.

In the children's department there will be many features of interest. Among these will be the camp for farm boys and also one for girls. Winners in last year's contests for farm boys in raising pigs, corn and potatoes will contest for honors at the fair. They will make up the farm boys' camp and during the week will live right on the fair grounds. Great rivalry is said to exist this year and it is expected the judges will have more difficulty in selecting the winners than for some time.

The girls, who will contest in breadmaking and canning, will also have their share of attention. These girls have already been selected in the various counties, where they have won prizes and this year, with government officials present, they will doubtless outdo themselves to produce the best possible results. The girls will be quartered at the State Agricultural School near the Fair Grounds.

Besides these contests there will also be the annual spelling contest open to both boys and girls, by which the champion speller of the state will be determined. This contest, too, has always attracted lots of attention and this year will be no exception.

The Actor's Indifference.

It is probable that the height of indifference is reached in the veteran actor. I saw one at the Press club recently who confirms this suspicion thoroughly.

He is in a good show, but has a small part, appearing only in the first act.

"How is the show?" I asked him.

"Pretty fair, I'm told," he answered.

"What's it about?"

"Can't say."

"How does it end?"

"Don't know."

"For goodness' sake," I asked, "haven't you ever seen the play? You are in it yourself?"

"No," he answered, with a look of being bored. "Several times I have thought of going around front to see what it was all about; but, my dear old chap, I have never seemed to get around to it."—Washington Star.

Well Done.

"Well," said the doctor, "you're cured at last. How do you feel?"

"I feel," said the patient, looking at his wallet sadly—"I feel as if I could start life all over again."—Lehigh Burr.

A Nation With No Language.

The Swiss alone, of all the peoples of the world, may in a sense be said to possess no language, a fact that is the more surprising when we consider that there is no people showing a more intense patriotism.

The official languages of the little republic are French and German. The public documents are published in these tongues, both of which are spoken by many Swiss. Roughly speaking, however, about 75 per cent of the population speak German, while the remainder divide four other languages among them, mainly French and Italian. These tongues vary, as a rule, according to the proximity of the people to the country whose language they speak. In the Swiss parliament members deliver their speeches either in French or German, for nearly all the members understand both tongues.

MOST POWERFUL ORGAN.

Famous Old Instrument in St. Paul's Cathedral, London.

The organ of St. Paul's cathedral in London is the most powerful in the world. There is a weight of three tons on the bellows, and some of its giant pipes disappear from view in the recesses of the enormous dome. Some of the smaller pipes are up by the altar, and the rest are either hidden away behind the long row of choir stalls or are seen towering on either side of the choir gates. But all are controlled from a little organ loft in which is scarcely room for anyone beside the organist seated at the keyboard.

There are five rows of keys and two tiers of over 100 ivory handle stops. The organist showed how, by pressing with his thumb one of a row of buttons as he played, whole combinations of stops were pushed out or pushed in. He demonstrated, too, how with the slightest pressure he could transform the sound of the organ from the softest and sweetest of tones to a volume which rolled and seemed to shake the entire building.

The organ is a very ancient one. It was built between the years 1624 and 1700 by one Bernard Schmidt, a celebrated German organ maker, and cost over £2,000. Schmidt was merely responsible for the inside work, the case being supplied by a joiner for just over £330, while the carving on the case cost nearly £116. The organ has since undergone entire reconstruction, but all Schmidt's pipes have been retained and are now doing as good service as when they were made.—London Mail.

Surprising the Bullock.

In times of crisis and worry a kind word has been known to have surprisingly good results. The unexpectedness of such a word is perhaps the secret of its force. A book, "On the Wool Track," backs the moral with an anecdote.

A team was working on the Broken Hill road, and a bullock—the Beelzebub of the team—had gone obstinate, and the coach was passing. The whip was swinging, and some apt remarks were just forming on the back of the teamster's tongue, when he caught sight of a clerical hat on the front seat and just in time thought better of it. He coughed politely.

"Ahem—Strawberry," he said, "proceed!"

To his obvious astonishment Strawberry proceeded.

BARLEY YIELDS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

"Regarding the best yields of barley, we will say that this is rather a difficult thing to give because the yield sometimes depends more upon the threshing record. However, the average yield of pedigreed barley of members of the Wisconsin Experiment Association was in 1913, 31 bushels, 1914, 33.3 bushels, 1915, 37.5 bushels. The yield for 1915 is the average from over 250 members reporting. Some of the highest ones are as follows: 60, 57, 65, 55, 53 and 55 bushels.

"It is impossible to state what has been the highest yield in Wisconsin, but I think some of these yields for last year, which was a very good barley season, are quite reasonable, but do not doubt but that there may be larger yields than these, but I have no knowledge of them."—[illegible] Garland.

THE LOCAL NEWS

High winds have prevailed nearly all of this week.

The Minnesota state fair, will be bigger and better than ever before this year.

The Thief River Falls will celebrate the 1st of September, in honor of the troops who are soon to leave from Pennington County for the training camps.

There is to be a hay baling outfit put in at Goodridge and the farmers will have a cash market for any surplus hay they may have for sale.

It will pay farmers to stack their grain this year. It is easy for any one to stack grain so it will keep. Keep the middle of your stack the highest, and tread the grain down solid and lay the two outside rows loose, and your stacks will keep dry through any storms.

Mr. and Mrs William Rutherford of Wykoff Minn. and Mr. and Mrs. Martin McAndress and Miss Lurene O'Hara of Thief River Falls were visiting at Walter McAndress last Monday

Ole Olson has bought a new Nichlos and Shepard threshing separator, and will thrash for the farmers on the north side of Red Lake river. Lars Hyland and Harris Hegestune hauled it out from Thief River Falls Tuesday.

The Dakota farmers are asking for $3,00 a bushel for wheat. We hope the farmers will not want more than the government standard price, as $2.00 a bushel looks like a pretty fair price to us, if the farmers are sure to get that much for this and next years crop, for we ought to have a little consideration for the consumer.

We expect to hear Stephen and Edward Singer fully explain their past connections with the Lenard Post Office robber gang at the next winters term of court. We are willing to give either Edward or Stephen free space in The Sunbeam to explain some of their transactions with this gang, also what was to have been their share out of the Puposky Post Office hold up, if their Pals Swan Johnson, and Dear Mr. Lenard had not got caught, and "Poor Swan" shot by an officer.

The Highlanding bridge is to be completed across Red Lake River by December 1st. There has been no start made to build it yet, and there will not be extension of time granted on this deal, until the bonds come due, as there was on some of the ditches. The people of this locality have suffered long enough for the want of a bridge at this point, and will not stand for any extensions of time, for the building of this bridge, and any official who mentions giving them any extension, is pretty likely to get his political head snapped off.

We are going to introduce as evidence on the part of the Defense in the Stephen Singer v.s. Hunt case to be tried at the next term of court copies of indictments brought against Stephen Singer in Polk County for law violations. His case against us is for damage for injuring his reputation, and we propose to show up enough of his past reputation to convince a jury that it would be an impossibility for an obscure publication like THE SUNBEAM, to injure it. He posed as an angel last winter, and we remained silent and allowed him to pose, but if he wants another lawsuit to further persecute us we will give them all the law they want the next trip.

Largest Electric Motor.

What is said to be the largest electric motor yet built has recently been completed by a leading American electrical manufacturer, for use in driving a two-high 35-inch reversing blooming mill, which reverses for every pass; that is, every time metal goes through the rolls. Reversals can be made from full speed to full speed in about two seconds, and in regular work 19 or 20 passes are made in two minutes. The motor has a rating of 15,000, and complete it weighs more than 250 tons. It is 20 feet high and the shaft is over two feet in diameter.

HOOVER TELLS AMERICAN PEOPLE OF THE FOOD PROBLEM AND ITS SOLUTION

Shows Absolute Necessity of Increased Production and Elimination of Waste, Backing Up His Statements With Facts and Figures of the Supply and Demand.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Food Administrator Hoover tells the American people, in a lengthy statement issued today, just what is the food situation of the world, what are to be the needs of the nations allied against the central powers, and what must be done to supply those needs and to feed the population of our own land.

The normal imports of wheat and other cereals by France, Italy, the United Kingdom and Belgium, and the estimates of the 1917 crop in those countries compared to the normal production are given by Mr. Hoover in tabulated form, and the conclusion is drawn that in order to provide normal consumption it will be necessary for them to import in the next 12 months 577,000,000 bushels of wheat and 674,000,000 bushels of other cereals. If the crops of the United States and Canada all mature safely, North America will have an apparent surplus of 208,000,000 bushels of wheat and 950,000,000 bushels of other cereals. The allies, therefore, must use other cereals than wheat for mixing in their war bread, and the people of America must reduce their consumption of wheat flour from five to four pounds per week per person.

Decrease in Food Animals.

A careful estimate of the world's food animal position shows a total net decrease of 115,005,000, and this will be greater as the war goes on. As the increase of herds and flocks takes years, we must reduce the consumption, eliminate waste and carefully control meat exports.

Our home dairy products supplies are decreasing, while our population is increasing, and we must ship increasing amounts of such products to our allies. Consequently this industry must be stimulated, and home users must save the wastes in milk and butter. Much the same may be said in the case of sugar.

Mr. Hoover urges a greater consumption of fish and sea foods, in which our coasts and lakes are enormously rich. The products of the land, he reminds us, are conserved by the eating of those of the sea.

Our Duty.

In conclusion the food administrator says:

I have endeavored to show in previous articles that the world is short of food; that Europe is confronted with the grim specter of starvation unless from our abundance and our waste we keep the wolf from the door. Not only must we have a proper use of our food supply in order that we may furnish our allies with the sinews with which they may fight our battles, but it is an act of humanity towards fellow men, women and children.

By the diversion of millions of men from production to war, by the occupation of land by armies, by the isolation of markets, by belligerent lines, and by the destruction of shipping by submarines, not only has the home production of our allies fallen by over 500,000,000 bushels of grain, but they are thrown upon us for a much larger proportion of their normal imports formerly obtained from other markets.

They have reduced consumption at every point, but men in the trenches, men in the shops, and the millions of women placed at physical labor require more food than during peace times, and the incidence of their saving and any shortage which they may suffer, falls first upon women and children. If this privation becomes too great, their peoples cannot be maintained constant in the war, and we will be left alone to fight the battle of democracy with Germany.

The problem of food conservation is one of many complexions. We cannot, and we do not wish, with our free institutions and our large resources of food, to imitate Europe in its policed rationing, but we must voluntarily and intelligently assume the responsibility before us as one in which everyone has a direct and inescapable interest. We must increase our export of foods to the allies, and in the circumstances of our shipping situation, these exports must be of the most concentrated foods. These are wheat, flour, beef, pork and dairy products. We have other foods in great abundance which we can use instead of these commodities, and we can prevent wastes in a thousand directions. We must guard the drainage of exports from the United States, that we retain a proper supply for our own country, and we must adopt such measures as will ameliorate, so far as may be, the price conditions of our less fortunate. We might so drain the supplies from the country to Europe as by the high prices that would follow to force our people to shorten their consumption. This operation of "normal economic forces" would starve that element of the community to whom we owe the most protection. We must try to impose the burden equally upon all.

Action Must Be Voluntary.

There is no royal road to food conservation. We can only accomplish this by the voluntary action of our whole people, each element in proportion to its means. It is a matter of equality of burden; a matter of minute saving and substitution at every point in the 20,000,000 kitchens, on the 20,000,000 dinner tables and in the 2,000,000 manufacturing, wholesale and retail establishments of the country. The task is thus in its essence the daily individual service of all the people. Every group can substitute and even the great majority of thrifty people can save a little—and the more luxurious elements of the population can by reduction to simple living save much. The final result of substituting other products and saving one pound of wheat flour, two ounces of fats, seven ounces of sugar and seven ounces of meat weekly, by each person, will, when we have multiplied this by one hundred million, have increased our exports to the amounts absolutely required by our allies. This means no more than that we should eat plenty, but eat wisely and without waste.

Food conservation has other aspects of utmost importance. Wars must be paid for by savings. We must save in the consumption in commodities and the consumption of unproductive labor in order that we may divert our manhood to the army and to the shops.

The whole of Europe has been engaged ever since the war began in the elimination of waste, the simplification of life, and the increase of its industrial capacity. When the war is over the consuming power of the world will be reduced by the loss of prosperity and man power, and we shall enter a period of competition without parallel in ferocity. After the war, we must maintain our foreign markets if our working people are to be employed.

The impact of the food shortage of Europe has knocked at every door of the United States during the past three years. The prices of foodstuffs have nearly doubled, and the reverberations of Europe's increasing shortage would have thundered twice as loudly during the coming year even had we not entered the war, and it can now only be mitigated if we can exert a strong control and this in many directions.

We are today in an era of high prices. We must maintain prices at such a level as will stimulate production, for we are faced by a starving world and the value of a commodity to the hungry is greater than its price.

As a result of the world shortage of supplies, our consumers have suffered from speculation and extortion. While wages for some kinds of labor have increased with the rise in food prices, in others, it has been difficult to maintain our high standard of nutrition.

By the elimination of waste in all classes, by the reduction in the consumption of foodstuffs by the more fortunate, we shall increase our supplies not only for export but for home, and by increased supplies we can help in the amelioration of prices.

For Better Distribution.

Beyond this the duty has been laid upon the food administration to co-operate with the patriotic men in trades and commerce, that we may eliminate the evils which have grown into our system of distribution, that the burden may fall equitably upon all by restoration, so far as may be, of the normal course of trade. It is the purpose of the food administration to use its utmost power, and the utmost ability that patriotism can assemble to ameliorate this situation to such a degree as may be possible.

The food administration is assembling the best expert advice in the country on home economics, on food utilization, on trade practices and trade wastes, and on the conduct of public eating places, and we shall outline from time to time detailed suggestions, which if honestly carried out by such individuals in the country, we believe will effect the result which we must attain. We are asking every home, every public eating place and many trades, to sign a pledge card to accept these directions, so far as their circumstances permit, and we are organizing various instrumentalities to ameliorate speculation. We are asking the men of the country who are not actually engaged in the handling of food to sign similar pledges that they shall see to it, so far as they are able, that these directions are followed.

Peculiarities of Sleep.

A person absolutely without sleep for nine days will die. Sufferers from insomnia sometimes maintain that they have gone for weeks without sleep, but it has been proved that they actually sleep without being aware of it. At a certain point sleep is inevitable, no matter what the bodily condition, the alternative being death. A method of taming wild elephants is said to be that of depriving the animals of sleep when first caught. In a few days they become practically spiritless and harmless. The brain of the elephant is held to be more highly developed than that of any other wild animal; but, of course, as compared with a human brain, can be easily fatigued by new impressions, and so made dependent on sleep.

Allies Hold New Ground and Make Further Advances Near Ypres—Russians Make Firm Stand Near Vilna and Put a Stop to Teuton Advance.

London, Aug. 21.—Although for the most part the British and French forces in Flanders and in the vicinity of Lens engaged in consolidating positions won last week from Crown Prince Rupprecht, the British near Ypres have made a further advance on a mile front to a depth of about 500 yards and also in the Somme region have renewed their attacks with advantage. In the latter maneuver Field Marshal Haig's men succeeded in taking positions near Epehvy and inflicting heavy losses on the Germans.

The Germans have been feeling out the strength of the French lines in the Vosges mountain region, where, after heavy bombardments, they delivered unsuccessful attacks against the French around Badonviller and north of Excelles-Sur-Plane.

Active Air Fighting.

The airmen of the Allies are working havoc with the German fliers and on German positions far behind the lines. In flights in the air the French airmen accounted for 17 German aircraft and the British fliers seven, which were completely destroyed or forced to land inside the Teutonic lines, badly battered from machine gun fire. Eight British machines failed to return to their base.

In aerial raids behind the lines Allied machines have bombed numerous towns, railway stations and cantonments, the raids extending as far as Sel Zaete, near the Dutch border, American aviators belonging to the La Fayette squadron took a prominent part in the French raids.

Russians Stiffen Line.

There has been a considerable stiffening on the front in Roumania and also in Russia in the region of Vilna. South of Grozechti, southern Moldavia, the Russians have made a stand against attacks of the Teutonic allies and repulsed them, and in the Slanic sector also have beaten off attempts by the invaders to take further ground. In the Lake Naroc district of the Vilna front the Germans endeavered to win Russian trenches, but their attack broke down under the Russian barrage fire.

BIG INCREASE IN CANNING

Housewives Preserve 300 Per Cent More Food Than Last Year.

Washington, Aug. 20. — Three hundred per cent more canned and dried foods were put up in 33 states of the Union this year than in 1916, according to preliminary reports to the Department of Agriculture. Unofficial reports coming from the 15 remaining states indicate similar increases.

"This is record-breaking year in food conservation," said a statement from the department.

STATES MAY FIX COAL PRICES

Legislatures Ready to Act if Congress Delays.

Minneapolis, Aug. 18.—Legislatures of the middle west coal producing states will be called in special session and asked to fix coal prices unless the federal government at once takes the coal situation in hand, according to Judge John F. McGee, one of a committee of six named at the Chicago conference to draft resolutions. Judge McGee has just returned to Minneapolis.

Called for Service in France.

Washington, Aug. 20. — Thirty-two major generals assigned to command divisions of the new army and national guard have received instructions to report for duty not later than August 25. All the regular departmental commanders are now called upon for duty in the field in France. Included in the order of designation of the divisions is by no means indicative of the order in which they will be sent to the front. A warning is added that shifts may be expected for as yet no definite plan has been worked out.

4 PER CENT FOR NEW LOAN

McADOO SUBMITS PLANS FOR NEW ISSUE.

First Issue of Liberty Loan Bonds to Be Retired and Subscribers to Have Benefit of Higher Rate.

Washington, Aug. 20. — The United States will pay 4 per cent interest on its next war loan, it was indicated, when Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo submitted plans to the House for a new issue of $7,538,945,000.

The bonds will be subject only to income supertaxes, war profits and excess profits taxes and will provide $4,000,000,000 for further Allied loans and $3,000,000,000 to retire the nontaxable 3½ per cent issue now authorized to cover loans to the Allies.

May Be Opposition.

Receipt of the suggestions caused immediate activity among both Democrats and Republicans of the House Ways and Means committee, many of whom are opposed to details of the Secretary's plan.

The 4 per cent interest proposed probably will be accepted by the committee.

One of the principal arguments advanced for the plan is that it would protect the small investor. Sur-taxes would not apply under the revenue bill now before the Senate on incomes of less than $5,000.

VACATION BY OCTOBER 1 IS PROGRAM OF CONGRESS

Legislative Program Assumes Definite Form With Five Big Measures Yet to Be Disposed of.

Washington, Aug. 20.—The legislative program retained for the extra session of Congress has assumed such definite form that leaders express hope for a vacation about September 15, or not later than October 1.

Included in the program for disposal within the next three or four weeks are:

The $2,006,000,000 war tax bill.

A new war budget authorizing about $7,500,000,000 in bonds, probably at 4 per cent, for further loans to the Allies, and to retire the $3,000,000,000 of 3½ per cent bonds already authorized, and providing for $2,000,000,000 worth of certificates of indebtedness and a like amount of small denomination war savings certificates.

A deficiency appropriation measure aggregating between $6,000,000,000 and $7,000,000,000, now being prepared by the House appropriations committee.

The administration trading with the enemy bill, which passed the House July 11.

The administration measure for insurance of soldiers and sailors.

The Webb export trade bill, peace resolutions, in the Senate, extension of the espionage act and several minor measures.

BENTALL HEEDS WARNING; SOCIALIST SPEAKER JAILED

Later Taken in Meeker County for Alleged Sedition at Lake Manuella Meeting.

Litchfield, Minn., Aug. 20.—Allen S. Broms, 2095 Lincoln avenue, St. Paul, is in the Meeker county jail here, following his arrest for alleged seditious utterances. He was arrested at an anti-draft meeting at Lake Manuella, nine miles southeast of here. The meeting was attended by more than 4,000 persons.

Broms was arrested by Michael Konslak, sheriff of Meeker county, after he had attacked the government for passing the draft law.

J. A. Bentall was the first speaker. Before he began, Sheriff Konslak told him that he would be permitted to speak providing that he confined himself to remarks which could not be interpreted as an attack on the government or the laws of the country. Although he preached Socialistic doctrines, Bentall was careful not to overstep the bounds set by an order of Governor Burnquist.

Wilburton, Okla., Aug. 19.—Norris Paxon, a full blood Cherokee Indian, charged with being a deserter from the United States army, was shot to death by a posse headed by Sheriff John Riddel, near Talihiaa. It is not known from what regiment Paxon was supposed to have deserted.

Would Spare Medical Students.

New York, Aug. 18.—A plan to be laid before the President whereby medical students accepted under the draft law for military service would be detailed by this order, as commander in chief, to their colleges so as not to be taken away from their studies, was outlined at a meeting of members of the nine district exemption boards of appeal of this state held here. The students would not be exempted but would be subject to call whenever needed but would not be called until that time.

FOOD PRODUCTION MACHINERY SHOW

RECORD DISPLAY AT STATE FAIR ANTICIPATED AS RESULT OF U. S. APPEAL.

ALL SPACE TO BE OCCUPIED

"Machinery Hill" to Be Busy Place—Tractor Demonstrations, Auto Exhibits and Electrical Show to Be Thronged—Labor-Saving Devices to Be Shown.

As a direct result of the appeal of the authorities at Washington for the production of more food in order that America and her allies may win the world war, there has been a material increase of interest in the manufacture of modern machinery, which is essential in the production of food. At the Minnesota state fair, Sept. 3 to 8, the largest display of machinery of all kinds is anticipated by those in charge of the department.

"Machinery Hill," as the knoll in the northeastern part of the fair grounds is known, has always been one of the most busy sections of the grounds during the annual state fair. The exhibits and demonstrations by machinery manufacturers have attracted thousands of persons, but this year's show, it is stated by those in authority, will far surpass those of previous years both in respect to the number of exhibitors and also in regard to the greater diversity of improved types of modern implements.

All Space to Be Occupied.

Every foot of space on the big hill will be occupied by some kind of an exhibit during fair week, according to both Curtis M. Johnson, superintendent of the department, and Raymond A. Lee, his assistant, who have both been laboring hard during the past month preparing for the displays.

Not only is it expected that every inch of available ground will be taken for the open air exhibits, but space in the buildings used for exhibits has been at a premium also. Here will be shown machinery and implements of all descriptions that do not require actual demonstrations.

One of the busiest sections of the machinery hill district and one which is expected to be crowded from morning till night by visitors from the rural districts is that section which is to be devoted to the tractor demonstrations, which this year promise to be bigger and more interesting than ever.

Tractors to Give Demonstrations.

Because of the added interest in tractor work the board of managers of the state fair were obliged to seek more ground for demonstration work. Although land in the vicinity of the fair grounds has been at a premium for many years, a ten-acre plot, practically a part of the fair grounds itself, has been provided and here the big tractors will have plenty of chance for demonstration purposes.

Last year great interest was manifested in this branch of the machinery show and there were a large number of tractors demonstrated. This year, however, the number has been increased and Aug. 1 fully forty entries had been received, indicating one of the biggest and best demonstrations ever held in the Northwest.

Other Mechanical Attractions.

All the machinery exhibits at the fair will not be found on "Machinery Hill," however, for there are two other exhibits which will be fully as interesting. These are the big automobile show, which will again be found in the grandstand building, and a brand new feature, a complete electrical show, which will be housed in a separate building by itself.

Since the first automobile show was held at the fair a number of years ago there has been increased interest annually, until at the present time the state fair automobile show is regarded as one of the most important in the Northwest. That this year's show will surpass that of 1916 seems assured, not only because of the larger number of exhibitors secured, but also because of the added space provided for show rooms.

All Types of Cars Shown.

This year at the automobile show there will be an unusually attractive display of pleasure cars, as well as the latest models of trucks, trailers and other vehicles driven by power.

The new electrical show, too, will doubtless prove attractive to visitors from both city and country. Here will be found the very latest modern appliances of all kinds. Conveniences which tend to lighten the laborious duties of the housewife will be demonstrated as will things which will make life worth living on the farm. Those in charge of the arrangements declare that it will be the most comprehensive electrical show this section of the country has seen.

ENTRY LISTS LARGE

Indications Point to Live Stock Show That Will Equal Past Years.

Entries for the horse and cattle shows at the Minnesota state fair, Sept. 3 to 8, closed Thursday, Aug. 9, with record-breaking lists of exhibitors.

Close to 900 horses and 1,100 head of cattle, aggregating in value close to three-quarters of a million dollars, many of them blue bloods in the horse and cattle world, have been entered and will be on exhibition at the fair.

IN BED FOR WEEKS
Mr. Smith Was in a Bad Way, But Doan's Restored Him to the Best of Health.

In April, 1916, Louis Smith, 90 New St., Hackensack, N. J., said: "Words fail to describe the misery I endured from kidney complaint. In my work I have to do a lot of heavy lifting and this weakened my kidneys. At first I only suffered from a slight backache, but almost before I knew it, I was all bent over like a man a hundred years old.

Mr. Smith.

"I began to grow worse as the days passed and finally I had to take to my bed where I remained for weeks. My head pained terribly and my back just throbbed. I was always dizzy and it seemed as if everything was whirling. Little black specks came before my eyes and I also suffered from painful and scanty passages of the kidney secretions. Everything seemed dark and dreary.

"Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured me and I am enjoying the best of health now."

"Sworn to before me."
E. M. Johnson, Justice Peace.

On March 19, 1917, Mr. Smith added: "I will never forget what Doan's have done for me. Whenever I catch cold on my kidneys, I can depend on Doan's to fix me up all right."

RECOGNIZE WOMAN AS EQUAL

Heads of Industrial Plants Say She Can Do Any Work Consistent With Strength Better Than Men.

Once man pretended to place woman on a pedestal and worship her. Now, according to Donald Wilhelm, who reports "The Confessions of a Munition-Maker" in the Century, he is forced to recognize her as an equal, and respect her. The quotation below states the opinion of a hardheaded factory foreman, on the importance of women in the world of labor:

"Welch, one can see, isn't emotional. One can trust his judgment of women.

"That is why I was glad he was present in the officers' room of the company eating quarters when the report was made in detail of the strike scheduled to take place the following Monday morning. He made a speech, saying:

"'Gentlemen, we've all known women practically all our lives—ever since we were born, practically. Most of us get to thinking that a woman can't do mechanical work because they're always willing to let a man use the hammer, that being something he thinks he can do. But a woman can do it. A woman can do anything that a man can do, and most things better, but men can't do anything near what women can do. Now, maybe you can imagine what women can do in mechanics, and I know what they can do. Leaving out big girls, I say women can do any kind of mechanical work that's consistent with their strength better than men.'

"Another superintendent, a new man, said he had thrown out a hundred men in his plant 'back in Ohio' and put girls in their places, and he had found them better all around."

His Costly Mistake.

"What ruined your business?"

"Advertising."

"How?"

"I let it all be done by my competitors."

What He Heard.

Lemon Juice For Freckles

Girls! Make beauty lotion at home for a few cents. Try it!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless. Two young Irishmen in a Canadian regiment were going into the trenches for the first time, and their captain promised them five shillings each for every German they killed.

Pat lay down to rest, while Mick performed the duty of watching. Pat had not lain long when he was awakened by Mick shouting:

"They're comin'! They're comin'!"

"Who's comin'?" shouts Pat.

"The Germans," replies Mick.

"How many are there?"

"About fifty thousand."

"Begorra," shouts Pat, jumping up and grabbing his rifle, "our fortune's made!"—London Opinion.

A Sad Memory.

Availing herself of her ecclesiastical privileges, the clergyman's wife asked questions which, coming from anybody else, would have been thought impertinent.

"I presume you carry a memento of some kind in that locket you wear?" she said.

"Yes, ma'am," said the parishioner; "it is a lock of my husband's hair."

"But your husband is still alive," the lady exclaimed.

"Yes, ma'am, but his hair is gone."

Now She's Angry.

He—I wonder what the meaning of that picture is? The youth and the maiden are in a tender attitude.

She—Oh, don't you see? He has just asked her to marry him, and she is accepting him. How sweet! What does the artist call the picture?

He (looking about)—Oh, I see. It's written on a card at the bottom—"Sold."

The sophomore and junior classes have presented the Pine City high school with a new 6 by 10-foot flag.

H. L. Buck, postmaster of Winona for four years, has been re-appointed by President Wilson. The appointment has been confirmed by the Senate.

John Clausen of Germantown says he counted eighty straws from one kernel of rye in his rye field. The yield in that section, he stated, is going to run quite heavy

Annie Tettkowske, 20 years old, a domestic, is being held at St. Cloud on a charge of slaying her baby girl at the home where she was employed yesterday. The girl had tied a bandage tightly around the baby's throat. The child's head also was cut.

Morgan Keaton was exceedingly busy winning his commission at the reserve officers' training camp at Fort Snelling—he's Lieutenant Keaton now—but he found time to slip away to Red Wing with his fiancee, Miss Jessie Helen Brown, July 14, where they were married, unknown to their friends and relatives.

Burr Buswell of Winona beat the draft by a single day. He enlisted at Minneapolis Monday, and Tuesday his name was posted here as one of a group of registrants called to the colors. He enlisted in the quartermasters' reserve corps and will take the six months' course in baking at Dunwoody institute.

L. C. Brown was declared elected to the school board in the decision of Judge Rosser in district court filed in the office of the clerk of court at St. Cloud. Twelve ballots, considered doubtful by the election judges, were given to Brown. He had contested the election of W. W. Smith, president of the board. The vote on the court decision stood; Brown, 338; Smith, 222.

The actual fusion of the Evangelical Lutheran synods of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan and Nebraska is expected to be accomplished in St. Paul, delegates to the fourteenth biennial convention of the joint synods of these and other states predicted on their arrival there.

Favorable action by a local draft board on a claim for discharge is not in all cases to assure the claimant that he's "off." The government assistant to each local board, the "intervenor" for the government, is to be on the job and, if his investigation seems to justify it, he will ask the district board to overrule the lower one.

Mrs. Herbert Flansburg, wife of a county commissioner near Brainerd, broke her right leg near the ankle when a log fell from an old barn which had previously been badly damaged by a wind storm, as she passed by while putting the sheep in the lot. She was thrown to the ground by the log which rolled from the building without warning.

A jury has been completed at Brainerd for the trial of George A. Elder, Duluth bond broker, charged with offering $50 to a Koochiching county official to influence official action. The case was transferred to Crow Wing county on the plea of the defendant for a change of venue. Eighty talesmen were called before the jury was selected.

The offer of A. G. Whitney, St. Cloud, of $2,000 or more for an acre of ground in the State Normal school site in that city, adjoining his residence property, was presented to the state normal school board in session at the Capitol. It was said that the committee to which the matter was referred would report unfavorably and that the proposal would be rejected.

An anti-draft meeting, widely advertised by word of mouth in the vicinity of Hanover, lost its standing as such and was changed into a patriotic demonstration. At its close more than 300 persons, assembled to protest against sending American troops to Europe, stood with bared heads in a salute to the American flag and lustily sang "The Star Spangled Banner." Previous to this they had cheered the men who delivered the patriotic speeches and had made verbal pledges of fealty to the American government.

State Auditor Preus has accepted an invitation from Van H. Manning of the Federal department of mines to assist in drafting regulations to enforce the proposed new Federal law governing the manufacture, distribution and handling of explosives in time of war. Robert W. Hargadine, former state fire marshal, also will assist and both Minnesota men plan to go to Washington for an early conference with Mr. Manning.

J. O. Bentall, candidate for governor on the Socialist ticket, who was arrested on charges of interfering with enlistments and with the draft, has been unable to obtain bond of $5,000 and is still in the Hennepin county jail. When arraigned before United States Commissioner Abbott, Bentall asserted that he was sure the Socialist party would furnish the bond set by the commissioner.

Of the 650 men called for service in District No. 1, Stearns county, 338 have claimed exemption, the list shows. A large majority of the men claim exemption on account of marriage, while many of the others seek to be excused because of the fact that they are employed on farms or are conducting them.

THREE ROADS SHOW LOWER EARNINGS

DECREASE FOR FIRST HALF YEAR —OTHER ROADS ENJOY INCREASE IN REVENUES.

SHERIFFS PLEDGE LOYALTY

Renew Allegiance at Conference Held With State Public Safety Commission at State Capitol.

St. Paul.

Three railroads operating in Minnesota report marked decreases in gross earnings for the first half of 1917, compared with the corresponding 1916 period, and two smaller roads show increases in returns filed late yesterday in the offices of the State Tax Commission, pursuant to the 5 per cent gross earnings tax law.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway reports $6,879,198 for 1917, against $7,230,230 for 1916; the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway, $4,111,419, against $4,636,623, and the Minneapolis & St. Paul Suburban railroad $178,512, against $180,477.

Increases were reported by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway to $1,017,048 from $879,384, and by the Minneapolis, Anoka & Cuyuna Range railway to $40,631 from $30,099.

The state tax is computed at $611,341 on the above Minnesota earnings.

The Railway Transfer company of Minneapolis made a return of $163,748 against $119,851 and the Minnesota Transfer Railway company of $12,853 against $6,967 for the respective first half periods of 1917 and 1916.

Decreases were shown by the report of the Soo line to $4,482,764 from $5,065,725 and that of the Minneapolis & St. Louis road to $1,706,485 from $1,844,789.

Increases were shown by three other reports, as follows: The Burlington road, $375,209 against $335,198; the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, $2,853 against $2,389, and the Dubuque & Sioux City, $61,639 against $59,296.

Sheriffs Renew Allegiance.

Minnesota sheriffs are today under a voluntary pledge to Uncle Sam to perform any duties that may be assigned to them by the federal authorities, without compensation. A resolution by Sheriff Peter Bonde of Kandiyohi county was adopted at the meeting of sheriffs from all over the state. The sheriffs conferred with the Minnesota Public Safety commission at the state capitol:

The resolution follows:

Whereas, the sheriffs of the state of Minnesota have been appointed to assist the government of the United States in the registration, exemption and selection of our conscriptive army pursuant to act of congress;

Now, therefore, be it resolved, that we, the sheriffs of Minnesota assembled at the state capitol of Minnesota this 15th day of August, A. D. 1917, do hereby renew our pledge of allegiance to our beloved country and cheerfully consent to perform the duties so required of us during such time as may please the president and those acting under his authority, and be it further resolved that we cheerfully tender such services without compensation or emoluments.

Another resolution, offered by Sheriff N. Nicholson of Mower county, pledges the sheriffs to do not only their official duties, but any other service that the United States may ask of them.

The sheriffs had an "experience meeting," and were advised by Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith how to handle problems of vagrancy, liquor law enforcement and sedition.

The sheriffs were advised that when a man is found with a supply of seditious literature he should be arrested on the presumption that he has it for distribution and is not "carrying it around for ballast."

Phone Valuation Crews Start.

In three new automobiles of popular make, field crews in the telephone valuation work undertaken by the State Railroad and Warehouse Commission, left the Capitol for Winona, where a practical school of instruction will be conducted. The physical valuation of all telephone properties in the state will be taken to serve as a basis for telephone rates and regulations.

D. F. Jurgenson, chief engineer for the commission, and two assistant engineers, F. F. Post and W. T. Donaldson, were in charge of the three crews. The crews are made up of a chief, one assistant and a chauffeur.

The pole counting and wire measuring crews will be increased to ten as the necessary help can be secured, Engineer Jurgenson announced.

Home guard commanders throughout of the state have been notified that home guard uniforms will consist of khaki or olive drab coats, pants and shirts, canvas leggings and campaigns, but that no insignia will be worn on the coat collar and no cords on the hat. Distribution of 2,523 rifles among the home guard companies has been begun. Major Oscar Seebach said that additional companies cannot be organized because of lack of rifles, the present number being sufficient to equip only three-fourths of the members of each company so far organized.

GIRL OF 14 SOLDIER'S WIFE

While Her Husband Fights in France Young Bride Will Go to School in This Country.

A fourteen-year-old schoolgirl became a soldier's wife in Brooklyn recently, thus following the example of her mother, who became the bride of one of Uncle Sam's men in khaki 14 months ago.

Mattie Lee Hudsbeth of Douglas, Ariz., was the latest bride, says the Brooklyn Eagle. The soldier boy who became her husband is David Eugene Henry of Spring, Tex. The bridegroom is only twenty-two, and a member of the Twenty-second infantry, now stationed at Fort Hamilton.

The girl's stepfather went abroad with General Pershing, and is now "somewhere in France." His wife planned to join him and come East. While waiting passports here her daughter met Henry, with whom she became acquainted in Arizona, two years ago.

While the bride's mother is absent in France her daughter will remain here and attend school.

What Ailed Smith.

A plainly dressed man, who introduced himself as Mr. John Smith, walked into a doctor's office in a Texas town, and, having explained his symptoms, asked the doctor how long it would take to cure him. The doctor, who had treated the visitor with every possible courtesy, replied:

"You will require careful treatment under my personal supervision for about two months before you are able to resume your labors in the bank."

"Doctor, you are fooling yourself. I am not Smith the banker, but Smith, the street car driver."

"Is that so? Well, my good fellow, I don't see what you came to see me for."

One-Sided Recognition.

They passed on the street without speaking, but their eyes had mutual recognition and challenge. She was accompanied by a female friend, and he had a male companion. When they had passed the girl said:

"That was poor Jack Jurgens. He didn't speak, but you noticed his look, didn't you? Poor boy, it hurts me to think how he has never got over my refusal to marry him. Of course he was all broken up at the time, but I thought he would soon get over it. He's thinner, isn't he? I do hope that he hasn't plunged into dissipation. He couldn't trust himself to speak, could he? Oh, dear!"

And the man was saying:

"Did you see how that dame gave me the eye? I suppose I should have spoken to her, because I can't help thinking I've met her somewhere—her face is familiar, but I can't place her."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Same Old Lectures.

On a certain occasion Professor Brander Matthews of Columbia university, speaking jokingly of his age, said he trusted that he was not so old that the students could play on him the trick he once saw tried on a senior professor in his own college days.

"Professor Blank," he said, "was our most venerable instructor, and he could be just a little irritable at times. Once, noticing that a member of his class who sat right under his eye never took any notes or paid the slightest attention to his lectures, he stopped abruptly and demanded:

"'See here, young man, what do you mean by coming into my classroom day after day and never taking notes?'

"'I have my father's,' was the student's complacent reply."—Youth's Companion.

Once Was Enough.

"My wife never rouses me up to cut the grass before breakfast."

"Is that so?"

"Yes; she tried it once, and I was so sleepy that I ran the lawn mower all over her flower beds."

Knew Father's Weakness.

Johnny B——, who has seen eight summers go by, not very long ago developed a fondness for playing "hookey" from school. After two or three offenses of this kind he was taken to task by his teacher.

"Johnny," she said, "the next time you are absent I want you to bring me an excuse from your father telling me why you were not here."

"I don't want to bring any excuse from father," protested the boy.

"Why not?" asked the teacher, her suspicion plain.

"'Cause father isn't any good at making excuses. Mother finds him out every time."—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

DANGEROUS GROUND

We as a member of the Non-Partisan League, who believe in the Organization of the farmers for self protection, wish at this time to sound a note of warning to the Non-Partisan Leader. Do not oppose the sale of Liberty loan bonds. Do not do anything that can possible be construed to hamper America's war with Germany. If you do your party, and OUR reform movement, for the benefit of the farmers is dead, and we may as well speak for its tombstone. Why is it that the Socialist party, who have so many good ideas for the benefit of the people, always make such fatal errors, when they get a little power? Some years ago the socialist party gained enough power in the City of Crookston, Polk County to elect a Mayor. The next year that city celebrated July 4th, and instead of the stars and stripes at the head of the parade, there was a red flag displayed. The socialists died in Crookston, and they have been dead ever since. Minneapolis elected a socialist Mayor at their last election, and he has already made breaks enough, so that if you live to be 120 years old you will never hear that the big City of Minneapolis has elected another Socialist Mayor. We notify you at this time, as a member of the Non-Partisan League, whose money has been freely contributed for the good of the cause of farmers, that we won't help build up an organization in America to oppose this Nation, when they are at war with a foreign monarchy, and you can put that in your pipe and smoke it.

Go take our $16.00, you are welcome to it, but you cannot get us to do one act that could in any way be construed in opposition to the administration of America's affairs, in this war, and we are sure that there are thousands of Non-partisan member that feel the same as we do about the League putting themselves on record, as being opposed to anything done by the adminirtration at this time.

The action of the administration in refusing passports to American socialists to attend the Stockholm peace conference, certainly meets with the approval of the American people. WE MEAN THE AMERICAN PEOPLE. We love President Wilson for the true American "back bone" that he has shown in this Amirican crisis. We opposed the Re-election of President Wilson for the reason that we thought he would not fight when American rights were assailed. But now Old Woodrow has got his coat off, and is just getting ready to fight, and he don't propose to have any peace commissions go from America to propose peace to Kaiser Wilhelm. We guess not! Clear the decks for action, as America means action at this time. The Country is solid behind President Wilson and any opposition will be swept aside, like Chaff before a Kansas cyclone.

How to Treat a Wife.

An ancient Egyptian moralist, writing to his son, said: "If thou takest a wife try to make her happier than any of her women friends. She will be doubly bound to thee if the tie is sweet to her. Accord her what pleases her. She will appreciate the effort."

Like the Bee.

Hokus—Why do you liken Hardupps to the busy bee? He isn't particularly industrious, is he? Pokus—Oh, no! It isn't that! But nearly every one he touches gets stung.—Town Topics.

A BIG CELEBRATION

Saturday, September I, has been officially designated as "Dedication Day," a day to be devoted to the honoring of all the men conscripted in the first draft.

Pennington county will on that occasion pay its respects to the brave men who go to represent this county in the European war. There are to be 89 of them, and they come from all parts of the county as well as from the cities. They are "honored" men, indeed.

This is to be a celebration in which every citizen should take part, and the committees named by the Commercial Club having the matter in hand ask that everyone do their share in making the day one that will be remembered fof years to come. It should be the biggest day this county has ever known

Speakers of reputation thruout the state and elsewhere are now being sought for the occasion. The celebration will be staged at Squaw Point, just across the river from Thief River Falls. The spot was chosen as being about the most central in the county, and easy of access to every inhabitant There is plenty of room for everyone.

The program of the day will include a big parade from down town to the grounds. A basket picnic at the grounds with a special banquet table for the guests and speakers, will follow the arrival of the people at Squaw Point. Then will come speeches and a general farewell reception to the departing men by all present.

GIRLS WHO DISAPPEAR.

Tragedy of the Thousands That Sink Into Oblivion Yearly.

Police statistics of New York city show that at least two girls disappear from home every day in the year.

They vanish into oblivion. Soon they are forgotten, but the heartache of the mother left behind is never stilled. It will ache on through the remaining days of her life.

And what becomes of the girls who disappear?

That is a problem that we will not attempt to solve. We only know that they are swept away by the great whirlpool of life.

The federal statistics furnished by the bureau of vital statistics show that 50,000 persons disappear each year. They vanish into oblivion. A greater proportion of these are young girls. The men who disappear turn up sooner or later in most cases, but the girls, as a rule, are forever lost. Having cut away from their social ties, having burned their bridges behind them, these disappearing girls abandon usually all thought or hope of returning and become isolated members of the social colony of which they once were members. They prefer to struggle on as best they can.

It is one of life's tragedies.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

THE BANK OF ENGLAND.

It Is a Private Company, but Acts as the Nation's Banker.

The Bank of England is not, as most people think, a government institution. It is a private company, but reaps a good profit by acting as the nation's banker. The remuneration paid to the Bank of England for the management of the national debt was fixed in 1906 as a yearly sum of the rate of £325 per million pounds and at the rate of £100 for every million pounds above this amount.

Before any of the government money that goes into the Bank of England can be spent a certain procedure has to be followed. First of all an order, signed by the king and countersigned by two lords of the treasury has to be forwarded to the comptroller and auditor general of the exchequer and audit department. Then the comptroller hands an order to the treasury authorizing the Bank of England to debit the exchequer account and credit the account of the paymaster general, who makes all payments on behalf of the various departments.

Afterward the comptroller scrutinizes all the accounts paid to see that the money has been spent in accordance with the wishes of parliament.—Westminster Gazette.

Training Naval Gunners.

When England trains her gunners for the sea she sends them to Whale island in Portsmouth harbor. Here the entire island is given over to steel sheds which are built like gun turrets on a battleship. The great guns projecting from these sheds are dummies, though they are exact counterparts of those on a battleship. The prospective officers and men are made to go through the exercise of range finding, loading, aiming and "firing" these guns as rigidly as if

ROTATION LEASES.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

There is nothing which endangers America so much today as our very much abused farm tenant system. We ought to have something in every lease which will protect land and protect the people as well as posterity. Year to year tenants who scratch a little and move away, should be compelled to settle down and landlords should be be compelled to make a time rotation lease. It is easy to talk about compelling this and compelling that, but we mostly are a very sloppy people whose motto is "the easiest way is the best."

If we let our soil run down, our whole structure will fall. In order to obtain a larger yield of grain, this soil must be fed. The colleges and experiment stations beyond the Mississippi river are entirely too timid about preaching soil conservation. In fact, all of us are rather prone to tell our audience what we think they would rather hear.

KILL THE WEEDS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

"Spring plowing, or disking, as soon as the weed seeds have germinated, is usually a profitable practice. Where small grain is to be sown, the sowing should be done soon after plowing; but where corn, potatoes, or the sorghums are to be grown, there is often a period of several weeks between the time of the germination of the weed seeds and the time when the season is sufficiently advanced to plant the crop. This period should be utilized as far as possible for the destruction of weeds before the crop is planted. Much labor in keeping the crop free from weeds during its growing period can thus be saved."—E. C. Chilcott, agriculturist in charge, Washington, D. C.

MOST POWERFUL ORGAN.

Famous Old Instrument in St. Paul's Cathedral, London.

The organ of St. Paul's cathedral in London is the most powerful in the world. There is a weight of three tons on the bellows, and some of its giant pipes disappear from view in the recesses of the enormous dome. Some of the smaller pipes are up by the altar, and the rest are either hidden away behind the long row of choir stalls or are seen towering on either side of the choir gates. But all are controlled from a little organ loft in which is scarcely room for anyone beside the organist seated at the keyboard.

There are five rows of keys and two tiers of over 100 ivory handle stops. The organist showed how, by pressing with his thumb one of a row of buttons as he played, whole combinations of stops were pushed out or pushed in. He demonstrated, too, how with the slightest pressure he could transform the sound of the organ from the softest and sweetest of tones to a volume which rolled and seemed to shake the entire building.

The organ is a very ancient one. It was built between the years 1624 and 1700 by one Bernard Schmidt, a celebrated German organ maker, and cost over £2,000. Schmidt was merely responsible for the inside work, the case being supplied by a joiner for just over £339, while the carving on the case cost nearly £116. The organ has since undergone entire reconstruction, but all Schmidt's pipes have been retained and are now doing as good service as when they were made.—London Mail.

Surprising the Bullock.

In times of crisis and worry a kind word has been known to have surprisingly good results. The unexpectedness of such a word is perhaps the secret of its force. A book, "On the Wool Track," backs the moral with an anecdote.

A team was working on the Broken Hill road, and a bullock—the Beelzebub of the team—had gone obstinate, and the coach was passing. The whip was swinging, and some apt remarks were just forming on the back of the teamster's tongue when he caught sight of a clerical hat on the front seat and just in time thought better of it. He coughed politely.

"Ahem—Strawberry," he said, "proceed!"

To his obvious astonishment Strawberry proceeded.

Proof Positive.

Mr. X., the subeditor, was asked to write an article on superstition and imbecility. When the article was printed the opening sentence was found to be as follows:

"That imbecility is not on the wane perusal of the following lines will amply demonstrate."—London Telegraph

Washington Monument.

The cornerstone of the Washington monument was laid on its fine site, which overlooks Washington, Georgetown, Arlington and Mount Vernon, by President Polk July 4, 1848. Its marble shaft rises in all the dignity of unadorned simplicity to the height of 555 feet. The base of the shaft is fifty-five feet square, and it gradually tapers until at the 500 foot point it has diminished to less than thirty-five feet. This monument is said to contain 18,000 blocks of marble, each two feet thick. They were lifted on an elevator run by steam, suspended in an inner framework of iron, which was built up at intervals, thirty or forty feet at a time, in advance of the surrounding masonry. The aluminum capstone, nine inches high, was set in position Dec. 6, 1884, thirty-six years and a half after the cornerstone was laid.

THE LOCAL NEWS

We are using our best endeavors to help win the war by saving the crops.

Ole Olson, is to start shock threshing on the North side of Red Lake River tomorrow.

We had our first visit of Jack frost Tuesday evening which did considerable damage to garden truck, and injured some of the late sown flax.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter McAndress, and sons Lenard and Earl autoed down to St Hilaire Sunday for a visit with Mike McAndress and family.

John and Henry Quirk and Walter McAndress threshed their rye crop out of the shock this week, which turned out to be a good crop.

Mrs. Alice M. Dellage, a neice of ye Editor left for her home at Osage Iowa today after a two weeks visit, at Sunbeam, with her two children.

We see by the last weeks issue of the Plummer Pioneer, that our friend Thom Norby has joined the army of benedicts. Congratulations Tom, for a long and prosperous wedded life.

There is one certainty and that is that the lands on the south side of Red Lake River can stand lots of dry weather, as we have not had rain enough in this locality too hardly lay the dust since the first of July.

The Minneapolist Socialist Mayor Van Lears son claimed exemptions, on account of being a socialist and not believing in war: but he was promptly put into the ranks; and will fight with the four sons of Roosevelt, who don't believe in letting Kaiser Wilhelm, run this country, and tendered their servises as Volunteers.

Would Raise Deer.

A movement, based on commercial considerations, is being initiated for the wider rearing of deer in order to make venison more popular as a diet. It is pointed out that elk and deer may be raised to advantage in forests and on rough, brushy ground unfitted for either agriculture or stock-raising thus utilizing for profit much land that is now waste. One of the added advantages is that the business is well adapted to landowners of small means.

Hawaii Has 240,000 People.

Hawaii was annexed by the United States in 1898. The islands cover 6,740 square miles. The last United States census of the islands gave a population of about 192,000, and it is believed to be now somewhere in the neighborhood of 240,000. This country imports more than $50,000,000 worth of sugar annually from Hawaii. Powerful wireless stations link up the United States and Japan. Pearl Harbor is one of our most important naval stations.

The Secretary Bird.

The secretary bird gets its name from the tufts of feathers which grow on either side of its head, and look exactly like a bunch of pens stuck behind a clerk's ear. The bird has long legs and large wings, with which it can ascend to a great height. It builds a strong nest in a tree, and lives in it year after year, subsisting on small animals and tiny snakes.

No Need to Worry.

A lady of nice consideration said: "Manda, I'm not going to send you my wash to do this week because my children have scarlet fever, and I don't want your children to get it, so I'll have the clothes fumigated." Replied the colored woman: "You don't need to worry about that, ma'am; my children had the scarlet fever three weeks ago."

Man's Aspirations.

The more a man knows the clearer becomes his consciousness of ignorance. The greater his virtues the more keenly sensible is he of his defects. The nearer he approaches to perfection the more strongly does he feel that his aspirations can only be fully realized in the great hereafter.—Exchange.

in this connection any more!
There are more patriotic men than I, I will admit, and ALSO I'm no deacon—not so's you could notice it! But your wise implication that "All with His Name in vain and vile profanity, inclines my fist to double up, and stirs my heart

bled and died that you and I might live as men should live—in Peace and Love to multiply.
So kindly step aside, dear sir;
I AM the quiet sort and much

Staff as Symbol of Authority.

The use of a staff as a symbol of authority was not confined to kings. It might be used by any leader as instanced in Judges 5:14, where for "pen of the writer" as in the authorized version we should read "scepter of the leader."

Bored Children.

Strange as it may seem, children do get bored by uninteresting things, such as stupid auditorium exercises in which they have to sit still for an hour, and do get wearied by an excessive amount of time given over to directed play.—William H. Maxwell.

A Cure-All 400 Years Old.

The Indian "swallow stick" is 400 years old. In Indian ceremonies it was customary for the priest to thrust the stick down his throat, causing the reaction, thought by the natives to purge him of all impurities.

Billions for Automobiles.

It has been estimated that by midsummer there were close to 4,000,000 automobiles on the road in this country alone, and that $3,080,000,000 will be spent during the year in sustaining them.

Archaeological Discovery.

A most important archaeological discovery was made recently in Gonnol, near the Vale of Temple in Thessaly. The Archaeological society unearthed what is plainly a sanctuary to the goddess Artemia, and among the articles found on the spot are some of the most remarkable votive offerings yet discovered in the history of research.

Their Ambitions.

In the city the toiler had just been advanced in salary. "Now," he chuckled, "I can begin saving to buy a farm." In the country the agriculturist looked at the check received for his season's wheat. "Another crop or two like this," he mused, "and I can move into the city."

Artificial Leather.

A recent American patent relates to the production of artificial leather, and consists in applying to a fabric base a coating containing nitrated cotton and a vegetable oil and a super-imposed baked coating of a leather-japanning composition.

Tried Another Tone.

Little Grace was told to stay in until it stopped raining, so she kneeled down and said: "Oh, Lord, please make it stop raining." With implicit faith that her prayer would be answered, she put on her hat and coat, but found it still raining, and said in a much louder voice: "Say, Lord, shut the water off up there."

Chemistry of Human Body.

The average human body, besides the carbon, hydrogen, oxygen and nitrogen of which it is chiefly composed, contains 3¾ pounds of lime, 1 pound 11 ounces of phosphorus, 2 2-3 ounces of potash, 2½ ounces of sodium, 1 3-5 ounce each of magnesium sulphur and silica and about one-sixth of an ounce of iron.

Don't Go Into Particulars.

A Cincinnati defendant in a divorce suit says he can appear at the gates of heaven and say: "I have never told my wife a lie in my life." Perhaps he can, but our advice is that all men avoid particulars and take their chances on: "God be merciful to me, a sinner."—Houston Post.

Art in America.

The first school of painting to establish itself on American soil was that of Spain, following in the train of viceroys and prelates after the Indian commonwealths had been subjected and Spanish towns had been built. To the present day there exists in the city of Mexico the oldest academy of the fine arts in the western world—the Academy of San Carlos. It is nearly as old as the Royal Academy, London.

Origin of Jazz Music.

The fascination of jazz music lies in its wild barbarity. Jazz was first given to the world by five negro musicians who were playing in a carbaret resort in a Southern city. They played with entire abandon, and the effects they obtained were so strange that they attracted wide attention. Later they toured the country on a vaudeville circuit.

Hadn't Kissed the Kittens.

Jean, aged three, was visiting at her grandfather's farm. She tired of the new kittens and puppies and went in search of her mother. When that lady was found she held up her face for the usual kiss. "I'd kiss you if I thought you hadn't been kissing those kitties," mother said. "I haven't," Jean said. And when she had the kiss she smiled adorably and said: "But I's been kissin' those little puppies."

The Perfect Bull Terrier.

The modern bull terrier is the result of very careful and intensive breeding. It is now a well-defined type and has lost almost all the characteristics of its ancestor, the bulldog. It must be pure white, except for the nose and eyes, which must be black. Any other marks, while they do not disqualify in the show ring, are considered undesirable.

PLANS ARE READY FOR MOBILIZATION OF DRAFTED ARMY

FIVE PER CENT OF QUOTAS OF CITIZEN MANHOOD IN WAR TO BE ON WAY TO CANTONMENTS BY SEPTEMBER 5.

MEN CANNOT TAKE ANY BAGGAGE WITH THEM

First Men Called to Be Selected Because of Special Qualifications Through Previous Experience or Ability to Cook—Details All Arranged.

Washington, Aug. 28.—America's first mobilization of her citizen manhood for war will begin within 10 days. War department officials have detailed at length each step of the vast process which will bring 687,000 men to the colors before it is complete.

The first move will be made early this week. Each of the approximately 4,500 local boards will notify 5 per cent of thir quota to present themselves Monday, September 3, or Tuesday, September 4, for military service. The men thus called will be selected from among the quota called in the first draft because of their special qualifications through previous military service or their ability to cook.

In accordance with instructions, they will present themselves at the office of the local board of their district. There they will be given instructions when and where to appear for entrainment to the mobilization camp to which men from their locality are assigned. In addition they will be handed railroad tickets and meal tickets.

To Travel in Day Coaches.

They will travel in day coaches, as the mobilization camps are so located that there will be few long hauls, except in the West and Southwest.

Army officials have estimated fully 90 per cent of the men passed for service as physically fit by the local boards would be accepted after examination at the mobilization camps by army surgeons. This means that approximately 68,700 men will be sent home from the mobilization camps. Local boards will be ordered to call up new men immediately to fill each such vacancy in their jurisidiction.

No Baggage to Take.

All the boards will have to do is to instruct the men what train to take and give them their tickets. A representative of the board will be at the station to see that the men ordered out report and are entrained. If a man fails to show up a military guard will be sent after him and he will be arrested as a deserter.

The men will be permitted to take with them these things:

Extra underwear, toothbrush, tooth paste, comb and brush, fresh handkerchiefs. They will not be allowed to have any more baggage; they may bring no food with them.

September 5 the movement will be on.

Second Movement September 19.

This process will continue for five days—September 5 to 9 inclusive. At the end of that time 5 per cent of the quota of each local board will have been forwarded to the camps.

BULGARIA WOULD NAME ITS OWN PEACE TERMS

Premier Says Allies Had Better Accept Peace or They Will Rue the Day and Soon Seek Mediator.

Copenhagen, Aug. 27.—Annexation of large amounts of territory will be insisted upon by Bulgaria, according to an interview with Premier Radoslavoff, as published in a Budapest newspaper. The premier also is quoted as saying that the formation of a great imperial federation of middle Europe might soon be expected.

Premier Radoslavoff intimates Bulgaria will demand the acquisition of Macedonia, the Dobrujda and the Aegean littoral, saying that this is in accord with the proposal for settlement of the Balkan problem on the basis of right and justice as made by the Pope. The Central Powers, the premier declared, are the victors. The Entente will rue the day, he says, if it does not accept peace, and will soon be seeking a mediator.

Italian Fleet Pounds Enemy.

London, Aug. 27.—The Italian fleet is continuing to play an important part in the offensive. Naval guns from a powerful squadron of monitors are playing a constant stream of fire upon the southwestern approaches of the Hermada ridge. The military works close to Trieste are also continually bombarded and already have been for the greater part reduced to ruins.

Hunt Woman Drug Smuggler.

Winnipeg, Aug. 27.—Three members of what the police believe to be an international drug ring, operating between the Twin Cities and Winnipeg, said in police court here that an unidentified woman was the brains of the gang. The police are searching for her. She is thought to be the missing link in the chain of drug thieves, carriers and peddlers, who since the operation of the Harrison anti-drug act have earned a living by smuggling drugs. The men were charged with stealing habit forming drugs.

BROTHERS DIVIDED BY THE WAR

These are two sons of Mme. Schumann-Heink, the prima donna, who are fighting against each other in the war. August, on the right, is serving in the German navy, and Henry, on the left, has enlisted in the naval forces of the United States.

PAY TRIBUTE TO WASHINGTON

MEMORY HONORED BY JAPANESE MISSION.

Roses and Chrysanthemums Placed on Tomb by Viscount Who Reaffirms Devotion to Allies' Cause.

Washington, Aug. 28. — Viscount Ishii, the special embassador from Japan, placing a wreath of roses and chrysanthemums on the tomb of George Washington at Mount Vernon, claimed the right for Japan to honor Washington's memory and reaffirmed her devotion to the Allies' cause and the principles for which they waged battle.

The members of the Japanese mission with Secretary and Mrs. Daniels as hosts sailed down the Potomac on the President's yacht, Mayflower. Accompanying them were Ambassador Sato, Secretaries Lansing, Redfield and Baker, Postmaster General Burleson, Speaker Clark, members of the Senate and House and high officials of the army, navy and marine corps, members of the missions of other European countries and many prominent people in diplomatic and official life.

Offers Simple Tribute.

Viscount Ishii paid a remarkable tribute to the memory of the only man who alike has been honored and is honored by the nations warring for democracy.

"In the name of my gracious sovereign, the Emperor of Japan, and representing all the liberty loving people who own his sway, I stand today in this sacred presence—not to eulogize the name of Washington—for that were presumption—but to offer the simple tribute of a peoples' reverence and love," he said.

NO PLANS UNDER WAY TO FIX BEEF OR PORK PRICE

Hoover States Emphatically no Foundation for Report of Intention to Make Prices on Beef or Pork.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Herbert C. Hoover has issued the following official statement after meeting the packers and editors of farm papers.

"Mr. Hoover wishes to state emphatically that there is no foundation for any statement that the food administration has any intention to fix prices of beef or pork products. The administration hopes to develop by discussion with representative committees of the hog producers, the cattle producers, the commission men and the packers greater stabilization of the industry during the war and in such a way as to encourage production, to eliminate speculative profits and risks so far as may be and by so doing to protect the consumer."

34 NEGRO SOLDIERS ARE UNDER CHARGE OF MURDER

First Move of State to Punish Colored Troops as Result of Riot at Houston, Texas.

Houston, Texas, Aug. 27. — Blanket charges of murder have been filed by District Attorney John Crocker against 34 negro soldiers of the Twenty-fourth infantry held in the county jail as result of the trouble which ended with the death of 17 persons, four of them city police officers. This was the first move indicative of an attempt by the state to retain custody of the soldiers rather than to turn them over to the army for punishment.

Springs Phoney Wife on Board.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 27. — Charles Lueht, Jenny Ikler, alias Jenny Seubert and Conrad J. Seubert have been arrested at Spencer, Wis., on a charge of conspiracy against the government in an attempt to evade the draft law. Seubert, after being passed by examining officials, claimed exemption on the ground that he had a dependent wife, alleging in his affidavit that he was married to Mrs. Jenny Ikler, in October, 1915. Investigation by federal authorities revealed the fact that Seubert is not married.

SAYS CROCKERLAND IS MYTH

EXPLORER MacMILLAN ASSERTS PLACE DOES NOT EXIST.

Returning Home From Years' Stay in Polar Regions Contends that Mirage Deceived Peary's Party.

Sydney, N. S., Aug. 28.—Donald MacMillan's Arctic exploration expedition has arrived on the relief steamer Neptune after four years spent in the polar regions. He was one of Rear Admiral Peary's lieutenants on his successful dash for the North pole.

MacMillan confirmed previous dispatches from him that there was no Crockerland such as had been reported by Peary. Peary's mistake was due to a mirage so real that the MacMillan party had been deceived by it for four days, he said.

Prolific Source of Dispute.

The first objective of the MacMillan expedition, which was organized under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History and the American Geographical society, with the co-operation of the University of Illinois, was to prove or disprove the existence of Peary's Crockerland, which has been a prolific source of dispute among geographers and scientists. The next purpose of the expedition was to conduct a survey of the Greenland ice cap.

HOOVER IS NOT URGING $1.65 AS PRICE OF WHEAT

Food Administrator Denies Reports That He Is in Any Way Trying to Influence Price-Fixing Committee.

Washington, Aug. 27.—The food administration denied reports that Herbert Hoover is attempting to influence the price-fixing committee headed by Dr. H. A. Garfield to put a price of $1.65 on the 1917 crop of wheat and gave out copies of a telegram sent by Mr. Hoover to a North Dakota newspaper which declared the food administrator was offering no suggestions as to prices.

Mr. Hoover's telegram was in reply to one from Representative Young of North Dakota, which concluded: "Anything we get above $1.65 a bushel will be on account of clenched fists shaken in the faces of Garfield and Hoover."

MONTANA FOREST FIRES ARE FANNED TO NEW FURY

Jump Recently Completed Lines and Lick Up Camp of Firefighters—Two New Blazes Reported.

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 27.—Fanned to a sudden fury by strong winds, a forest fire near Salmon lake in the Blackfoot valley, north of Missoula, jumped across recently completed fire lines, licked up the camps of 50 firefighters and gave the men barely time enough to get away alive. The fire threatens to jump the Clearwater river, beyond which lies a wide expanse of dry, trackless forest in which it would be almost uncontrollable.

Senate Delays War Tax Debate.

Washington, Aug. 26.—After a brief session Saturday the senate recessed until Monday without action or debate on the war tax bill. Absence of senators, conferences by both factions in the contest over raising income and war profits tax rates, and reluctance to spend the day in perfunctory speech making induced leaders to agree to the recess.

Northwest Guard to Charlotte.

Washington, Aug. 25.—The Forty-first National guard division, comprising troops from Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho and Wyoming, has been ordered trained at Camp Greene, Charlotte, N. C. Camp Fremont, at Palo Alto, Cal., has been abandoned because the California state health authorities have decided that a latrine sewage system such as the War department proposed would be injurious to the health of the community. Secretary Baker said the government could not build a new sewer.

Bemidji—D company, Tenth battalion: First lieutenant, Roy W. Leibsle; second lieutenant, Verner A. Stewart.

Major Seebach will enter the second training camp for officers at Fort Snelling and will be succeeded as Home Guard organizer by Captain W. F. Rhinow, military secretary to Governor Burnquist.

Uniforms for Guard.

Uniforms for privates in the Home Guard will consist of overcoats, blouse and breeches of drab wool suiting, canvas leggings and campaign hats. They will be ready within the next two weeks.

Country Faces Gasoline Shortage.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Danger that the country's increasing military and industrial demands for gasoline and other petroleum products may not be filled because of lack of equipment for drilling new wells has been brought to the attention of the Council of National Defense by the bureau of mines. Director Manning of the bureau said he was hopeful that arrangements would be made by the council whereby materials from the steel industry and other supplies would be speedily furnished oil producers.

The State In Brief

At a meeting of the members of the Clay County Fair association it was decided to hold the fair at Barnesville, Oct. 17, 18 and 19.

Herbert Conner, son of John B. Conner, president of the Thief River Falls Commercial club, was attacked by a bull on his farm and was seriously injured.

The Kingfisher, the cruising yacht of E. L. King, wealthy medicine manufacturer and banker of Winona, has left here for its first trip up the Mississippi to the head of navigation.

At a special election held in the village of Albany the citizens voted 56 to 2, to sell the municipal electric light and power plant to the Union Light & Power company of St. Cloud for $12,000.

Andrew E. Reardon of Mora, who received injuries of the spine and concussion of the brain by a fall in the dropping of the elevator at the new school building is rapidly regaining his health.

The Purchase, an excursion steamer on the Mississippi river that was caught on the rocks near Wabasha, is now practically a total loss. The boat was one of the finest excursion steamers that ply the river.

The Minnesota Guernsey Breeders' association has assured Secretary Charles F. Schroeder of the Beltrami County Fair association that it has a silver cup to be awarded at the Beltrami county fair this year.

Henry Zaender a German farmer living at Albert Lea, was arrested on complaint of Capt. Oscar Suby of the local Battery A, charged with insulting the American flag. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to jail.

Former State Auditor Sam Iverson has received a commission as first lieutenant in the adjutant general's department of the national army and has reported to Fort Snelling. His first military experience was with Company C, Minnesota National Guard.

Miss Laura Kvernstoen of Dalton is the champion breadmaker in Ottertail county. The committee was unanimous in awarding to the Dalton young woman a trip to the Minnesota state fair, where she will compete with other county winners for the state championship.

County Surveyor John M. Greene of Walker has received his official notice requiring him to report at Fort Snelling for training in the officers' camp.

Carl Ilertson of Eagle Bend is the first Todd county boy to die in France. He was shot some time in February last, dying a few days later.

J. A. Anderegg, for the past several years a practicing attorney at Sauk Rapids, has been elected to a position in the legal department of the Federal Farm Loan bank located at St. Paul. Mr. Anderegg will be the fourth attorney employed in this department for the consideration of mortgages and loans.

Mrs. Axel Stark of St. James died of injuries received when the automobile in which she and her two daughters were riding overturned. The woman was pinned beneath the car.

Twenty women are now employed at the Northern Pacific railway shops at Brainerd, some in the car shops, some in the airbrake department, storeroom and other sections. Mrs. Pete Larson is the lady boss in charge of the women.

The body of Chris Erickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arne Erickson of Slayton, the first of General Pershing's force in France to lose his life, arrived here and was buried. He enlisted in the infantry at Mankato April 27, and died of diphtheria.

Five automobiles which have been confiscated by Indian agents as the property of alleged blindpiggers were sold at public auction here. The bunch consisted of a seven-passenger Kissel, five-passenger Oakland, a Ford, a Velie and an Overland roadster.

Reports from farmers who have begun threshing about Long Prairie indicate that the rye crop will average about twenty-five bushels to the acre. The quality is exceptionally good. It is estimated that the wheat crop will overreach last year's by fully 50 per cent.

The Chisago county safety committee representing all towns in the county, met at Wyoming and appointed a subcommittee to arrange for the dedication day services September 1 at North Branch. A program was prepared and all the bands of the county will be invited to give a patriotic send-off to the boys who are called to the colors.

Allen S. Broms of St. Paul, is in the Meeker county jail at Litchfield, following his arrest for alleged seditious utterances. He was arrested while speaking at an anti-draft meeting at Lake Manuella, nine miles southeast of Litchfield. The meeting was attended by more than 4,000 persons. Broms was arrested after he had attacked the government for passing the draft law.

Enlistments from Becker county total 186 men, which, together with the draft, will make a total of 354 men who will represent the county in the war. The city of Detroit has furnished 117 volunteers. Word has been received that a former resident of this city, Harold Tuve, who enlisted with the Canadian forces, was killed on the battlefield.

Fireman James Larkin, 28, of St. Paul, had both of his legs crushed in a freight train wreck at Barrows. The engine and four cars were derailed when they went through an open switch.

GOVERNOR SLATED FOR 2 ADDRESSES

WILL SPEAK TO CROWDS AT DULUTH AND KIRKHOVEN ON DEDICATION DAY.

3 NEW ULM OFFICIALS OUSTED

Mayor, City Attorney and Auditor Suspended by Governor for Participating in Anti-Draft Meeting—Must Face Hearings.

St. Paul.

Governor Burnquist has accepted two speaking engagements at patriotic demonstrations.

On Dedication day, September 1, when all Minnesota is to entertain for the drafted soldiers, Duluth proposes to have a big celebration and Governor Burnquist will deliver the principal patriotic address.

Kirkhoven will give Labor day a loyalty demonstration and Governor Burnquist again will make the principal speech, urging loyalty to the government.

Ray P. Chase of the Loyalty lyceum, organized to furnish speakers for patriotic meetings, said the numerous requests are being received from all parts of the state.

New Ulm Officials Suspended.

Three public officials of New Ulm who participated in the anti-draft meeting at that place July 25, have been suspended from public office by Governor J. A. A. Burnquist, on recommendation of the Minnesota Public Safety commission, and face possible removal after due hearings.

Mayor L. A. Fritsche, City Attorney Albert Pfaender, and County Auditor Louis G. Vogel of Brown county are the officials to feel the weight of the executive action. Their conduct is reviewed in scathing fashion in a statement issued by the Public Safety commission.

The boycott of loyal business men in New Ulm was referred to in the commission's statement. "It is an appalling situation," said the commission, "when loyal merchants and bankers can be boycotted in Minnesota because they are loyal, as the commission is advised is the case; when a county auditor, who is clerk of the local exemption board, encourages and even leads a procession of draft malcontents, and when the mayor and the city attorney of one of the most prosperous cities of the Minnesota valley openly promote a pro-German propaganda."

Mayor Thomas Van Lear of Minneapolis is billed as principal speaker at an anti-war meeting in Lester Prarie.

Governor Burnquist, commenting on this information, said:

"Any public official who makes anti-American speeches or statements is subject to the same action that has been taken with regard to the New Ulm officials."

Potato Bread at State Fair.

Plans for making only potato bread at the bread making contest at the state fair have been changed. That the contestants might become a part of the save-the-wheat campaign, arrangements were made whereby only potato breads might be made in the contests. This has been found inadvisable. The contestants have given their year of preparation for the state fair contest in the making of the white bread. In fairness it seemed more advisable to conduct the contests on the white bread as heretofore and bestow the prizes for this contest. In addition, however, the same groups of bread makers will contest in the making of potato bread—a contest which will amount to a demonstration in that no prizes will be offered. In this fashion it is felt that every state fair contestant will be doing "her bit" and at the same time conform to the contest plans.

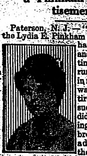
Suicide of a patient in the Rochester State Hospital for Insane, and an accident in which an elderly woman patient at the state insane hospital at Fergus Falls suffered a broken leg have been reported to the State Board of Control.

Carl Foemmel, a non-resident, committed from Minneapolis, last Tuesday hanged himself to his bed before he had been in the Rochester institution twenty-four hours.

Mrs. C. Taylor, an old and feeble patient at the Fergus Falls hospital, is suffering from a broken leg.

WOMAN NOW IN PERFECT HEALTH

What Came From Reading a Pinkham Advertisement.



Paterson, N. J.—"I thank you for the Lydia E. Pinkham remedies as they have made me well and healthy. Sometime ago I felt so run down, had pains in my back and side, was very irregular, tired, nervous, had such bad dreams, did not feel like eating and had short breath. I read your advertisement in the newspapers and decided to try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It worked from the first bottle, so I took a second and a third, also a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifier, and now I am just as well as any other woman. I advise every woman, single or married, who is troubled with any of the aforesaid ailments, to try your wonderful Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier and I am sure they will help her to get rid of her troubles as they did me."—Mrs. Elsie J. LIMBS MADE OF CARDBOARD Artificial leg, Invented by Danish Doctor, Enables Wearer to Walk Soon After Amputation.

A Danish doctor at a hospital in Paris has invented a cardboard leg which enables the wearer to go about without crutches two days after his limb has been amputated.

The materials used are two sheets of cardboard about three-sixteenth of an inch thick, and bandages soaked in a starch solution. After careful measurements have been taken the cardboard is cut into what looks like two peg-tops, which after being soaked in the bath fold round each other and are secured with bandages.

The principle is that of an egg in a cup, and the patient can wear the leg long before the wound is completely healed. He can thus get air and exercise, which it is usually impossible to obtain at this phase of his convalescence; also he has to suffer none of the inconvenience of crutches, a stick sufficing for his needs. The leg, properly treated, lasts from six months to a year, by which time a permanent artificial limb is ready to be fitted.

Horse Chestnuts for Food.

An effort is being made to adapt the horse chestnuts to the human dietary. The nuts are more than half starch and sugar, with some protein and fat, and are nutritious. Their value chiefly depends on the elimination of the bitter elements and the irritating saponilike glucosides.

Feed the Fighters! Win the War!!

Harvest the Crops—Save the Yields

On the battle fields of France and Flanders, the United States boys and the Canadian boys are fighting side by side to win for the World the freedom that Prussianism would destroy. While doing this they must be fed and every ounce of muscle that can be requisitioned must go into use to save this year's crop. A short harvest period requires the combined forces of the two countries in team work, such as the soldier boys in France and Flanders are demonstrating.

The Combined Fighters in France and Flanders and the Combined Harvesters in America WILL Bring the Allied Victory Nearer.

A reciprocal arrangement for the use of farm workers has been perfected between the Department of the Interior of Canada and the Departments of Labor and Agriculture of the United States, under which it is proposed to permit the harvesters that are now engaged in the wheat fields of Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Wisconsin to move over into Canada, with the privilege of later returning to the United States, when the crops in the United States have been conserved, and help to save the enormous crops in Canada which by that time will be ready for harvesting.

Lemons Whiten and Beautify the Skin! Make Cheap Lotion

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quarter pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to whiten, soften, freshen and bring out the hidden roses and beauty of any skin. It is wonderful for rough, red hands.

Your druggist will sell three ounces of orchard white at little cost, and any grocer will supply the lemons. Adv.

HOW INSANITY HAS GAINED

Increase in United States Revealed by Census Taken by National Committee for Mental Hygiene.

Insanity in the United States is decidedly on the increase. This fact is revealed by reason of a census taken of the insane, feebleminded, epileptics, inebriates and drug addicts by the National Committee for Mental Hygiene. Analysis of this census is found in the Mental Hygiene. It was compiled by Horatio M. Pollack, statistician of the New York State Hospital commission, and Edith M. Furbush, statistician of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene.

The federal census bureau estimates that the increase of population from April 15, 1910, to January 1, 1917, was 11.80 per cent. The same government agency found in 1910 that the number of insane in institutions was 187,791. The census taken in the present year revealed 234,055 insane persons in institutions. Thus the increase in the insane in institutions during the corresponding period was 24.64 per cent, a growth more than double that of the general population.

Moreover, the rate of increase of the insane in institutions was relatively greater than that of the general population in every state except Arizona, Kansas, Mississippi, Nevada and South Carolina. Illinois is one of the states in which the disparity between growth of population and increase in insanity has been greatest. In this state the population increase was 9.84 per cent, as compared with a percentage of increase of insane in institutions of 27.38. The neighboring state of Indiana shows an even greater disparity, with percentages of 4.04 and 27.44 respectively.

The Foiling of Aunt Ada

By George Haskell

(Copyright, 1917, by W. G. Chapman.)

"Hellun! Hellun! Do hurry!"

The voice had a querulous ring that quite matched the face of the old lady who stood at the foot of the stairs calling.

"Yes, in a minute," answered a young, cheerful voice from the second floor.

"Well, yer uncle wants me to fix his shirt, and that stuff on the stove'll burn if you don't get down here right away!"

"Yes, aunty! I'm coming."

Helen Baxter ran down the stairs, broom in hand, and rushed to the kitchen, only to find that nothing was in danger of immediate incineration, and she could with perfect safety return to her unfinished work upstairs. She did not grumble at this, for she reasoned that Aunt Susan and Uncle Melvin were quite capable of doing enough grumbling for a whole family, and it was up to her to supply the good humor of the household. So Helen tried to make the rough places smooth, and plodded along with the housework till at twenty-two she looked years older, and her eyes had a tired look, and her mouth a pathetic droop at the corners when it was not smiling. Still it was easy to see how the thin little face might bloom into a kind of beauty under more favorable circumstances, since it already had taken on the charm of a kindly soul.

The two young girls, Helen and Maizie, had come, orphans to the home of Melvin, when his brother died, leaving them nothing. Helen was fourteen, and the sister two years younger. When the two old people became semi-invalids, about all the work had fallen upon Helen. Maizie made an abortive bluff at helping, but being an exceedingly popular young person, with the desire of youth for having a good time, she thoughtlessly took advantage of the unselfishness of the elder sister, who found it necessary to remain at home, and so became almost shut out from the society of the little town.

Maizie married at eighteen, and went to another place to live. At the quiet little wedding, Helen had met a friend in the groom, Walter Otis, the young but very enterprising real estate agent of the town. It was about the first time in her quiet life that the girl had found the memory of a face and voice lingering in her mind. True, she had had dreams, as every young girl has, of someone who will be her fairy prince, no matter how commonplace he may seem to others. Walter Otis may have somehow gotten mixed up with her dream; but it never seemed to get any further, as it was two years now since the meeting at Maizie's marriage, and there had never followed anything more than a bowing acquaintance.

Aunt Ada Baxter, some years younger than her brother, well-to-do, well-dressed, and something of a society woman in the large city about fifty miles away, suddenly pricked with a qualm of conscience that she had so long ignored the poorer brother and the orphans for whom she might have done something had she so chosen. Aunt Ada descended one fine day on the modest household. She seemed surprised at everything there. She had not expected the two old people to look so old and so feeble. She had not expected to find them in such limited circumstances. She had not expected to find Helen doing all the work, nor she had not expected to find in her such undeveloped possibilities of prettiness. The more she saw of Helen the more she became attracted to her, and she set about to find some way of taking her from the drudgery she was undergoing. Her aim was to take Helen back with her to the city, but how she was to manage with the old people she did not yet know.

"My dear," she said one day to Helen, "I can't see you wasting your life this way. I want you to come back with me. You must meet the right sort of people; you must have some advantages. Why, this is simply criminal, the way you are buried out of sight here!"

Helen looked at her with wide-open eyes of surprise.

"But what about Aunt Susan and Uncle Melvin? It looks to me 'criminal' to leave them."

"Of course, they would have to be looked after. But here's this great, big rambling house. They could rent it, and go into a little cottage, that's all they need, and the extra rent would pay a servant to do the work. Or the place could be sold, and the money would put them into a home for the aged."

"Oh!" exclaimed Helen, in undisguised horror. "They wouldn't consent to that, and if they would, they wouldn't be happy. I must stay and take care of them. There's no other way. They took me in and gave me a home. I owe it to them to stay with them."

Aunt Ada could not but feel the thrust at her own indifference, but she determined all the more to make amends.

"Yes, they did do that," she said, "but that does not call for the sacrifice of your whole life. I should feel guilty if I let this go on."

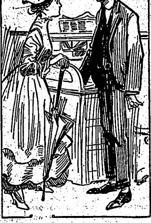
"I'm not doing the martyr act, and I'm not worried over my future," laughed the girl. "Besides, there's nothing that can be done."

Aunt Ada by no means accepted this ultimatum. She started out the next day and was gone for hours, evidently on some scheme of her own. When she returned she said to Helen: "I've been to a real estate man, and he thinks he can rent or sell this place to good advantage. Now, I'm going to talk with Melvin and Susan, and tell them how much better it would be for them to do as I say."

Helen begged her not to go any further, but Aunt Ada was a masterful person, and had her way. The old people both objected stoutly, then Melvin began to bow to the inevitable, but Susan went about in a tearful rebellion. Both were plainly miserable. Helen found that the man Aunt Ada had consulted was Walter Otis, and she determined to take the matter in her own hands. She went to him and laid the case before him.

"Please don't take any steps to rent or sell the place," she said. "There is no use going against Aunt Ada; but as long as there are no offers, nothing can be done. No one will come there to annoy them, and when Aunt Ada is gone, I will tell them. I will not leave them, and they must not be made unhappy by thinking so."

Otis agreed to her request, but compromised by asking if he might not come up and look over the place, just to satisfy Mrs. Ada Baxter. Helen was almost ashamed at the eagerness with which she complied with this request. He came, and Aunt Ada took him to one side, and told him how Helen was simply sacrificing herself to the old people, and it was plainly his duty to do something with the property as quickly as possible. So Walter Otis found himself between two fires.



"Please Don't Take Any Steps to Rent or Sell the Place."

After coming around several times, in an apparent effort to solve the problem, he said to Helen: "If you are determined to stick here, will you let me come and live with you, because—"

"Because?" she asked.

"Because I love you."

So Aunt Ada's plans, after all, went to smash. But a few years after, when she came back for a visit, and a handsome car met her at the station, and drew up at the beautiful grounds and elegantly remodeled old home, while Helen looked wonderfully pretty and happily welcomed her, she was forced to admit that sacrifice sometimes meant blessedness.

"How" and "Why" of Lubrication.

Oil is a peacemaker and serves its purpose by interjecting itself between the two warring elements of a bearing surface which would soon find themselves in the midst of a hot and disastrous argument, were it not for the good offices of this conciliatory medium. Therefore, it is an actual film of oil which is forced into the bearings or under the cylinder walls and over which adjoining bearing surfaces slide. It is because the actual film of oil must exist between the smooth surfaces of a bearing that it is found necessary for oil to be of a certain thickness or viscosity. It, therefore, becomes evident why oil, to be satisfactory for use in a gasoline engine, should be of a quality not easily broken down or thinned by the temperatures reached in the oil-circulating system of the average automobile power plant.—H. W. Slauson, in Leslie's Weekly.

Find Petrified Bird's Nest.

Petrified bird's eggs have been found on several occasions, but as far as can be ascertained, it remained for a Washington state man to find both a group of petrified eggs and the petrified nest in which the eggs were originally laid. The nest was imbedded in a rock formation in a cliff of the Grand Canyon, 500 feet above the base, says Popular Science Monthly.

It must have been the nest of some birds about the size of a robin, and only one side of it—what is now the darker side—must have been exposed to the air. It is impossible to estimate how long ago the eggs were laid.

Typewriter Service in Rural Communities

The typewriter is coming into more extended use in rural communities because of the assistance it renders to all classes of people. Here are a few examples:

Think of the possibilities of selling produce by the means of typewritten letters sent out to customers? Typewritten letters give the sender a business standing with the people who receive them and also enable the keeping of carbon copies of the correspondence, which many times does away with misunderstandings and lawsuits.

The boy or girl who is intending to follow a business career can secure no better start than a knowledge of typewriter operating. Children who learn to use the typewriter learn spelling at the same time. The housewife finds it a great convenience in writing recipes and for general correspondence.

YES! MAGICALLY! CORNS LIFT OUT WITH FINGERS

You say to the drug store man, "Give me a small bottle of freezone." This will cost very little but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet.

A few drops of this new ether compound applied directly upon a tender, aching corn relieves the soreness instantly, and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, dries up and can be lifted off with the fingers.

This new way to rid one's feet of corns was introduced by a Cincinnati man, who says that freezone dries in a moment, and simply shrivels up the corn or callus without irritating the surrounding skin.

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County. Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August, 25 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn under the Act of Congress of March 3.1879

The wheat gambler were not able to drive all the American wheat raisers into Canada, so the government has taken a hand at the plow, to weed them out. The Canadian farmer is to get $2 40 a bushel for his wheat, while our government steps in and sets our price at $1.65 a bushel. The government never interfered with the price of wheat when the supply and demand ruled the price in former years, but now they are not to allow Mr. farmer to get the benefit of supply and demand, but propose to reduce the price paid to him by law. Why not ship our wheat to Canada where we can get $2.40 a bushel, or all go to Canada and raise wheat?

It is getting to be about time to order them kind of newspapers to pack up their "Tussicks" and get for Berlin, as they have no more right to be published in America at this time, than the Duluth Herald would have to be published in Berlin.

PACIFISTS HURTING SOCIALIST PARTY

Washington, Aug. 18.—Aroused by the pacifist meeting in the Capitol, Charles Edward Russell, former Socialist and now member of the returned commission to Russia, denounced all persons proposing peace at this time or failing in unswerving support of the administration. Mr. Russell declared that as a result of peace activities in the United States Socialists have ruined their party.

He said the party now consists of little more than an alien pro-German element. The men who were in it for such uplift as they could bring to the working people, he said, must seek elsewhere for political affiliation.

"One peace resolution offered in the United States congress today is a greater asset to the kaiser than a thousand men on the firing line," Mr. Russell said. "Any Socialist who does not understand that this is the final, decisive struggle between autocracy and democracy is to blind or too dull to understand anything about socialism. Loyalty to every ideal of improvement to which we have subscribed and a lack of support is treason to every creed or reform."—Norman County Index.

The Lapps.

The Lapps, who have been settled for centuries past in the northern parts of the Scandinavian peninsula and Russia, were originally nomads subsisting on their reindeer herds, but they are now settling among the inhabitants of the country and becoming "solid citizens."

History the Teacher.

History is the great teacher of men. As some one has truly said, the fool will not learn at all. The average man learns from his own experience. The wise man learns from the experience of others. So with the wise nation. The experience of other nations is the theme of history.

THE LIBEBTY BOND.

By Knute Nelson, U.S. Senator from Minnesota.

Our Country is now an active participant in a great war in which we must be victorious. Large funds are needed to carry on this war successfully. Such funds must be secured partly by direct taxation and partly by the issuance of bonds. To undertake to carry on the war entirely with direct taxes would place too heavy a burden upon the present generation, hence it is proper that a part of the burden, in the form of bonds, should be cast upon those to come after us, especially as they will not contribute their young manhood to the war, as we do.

The Liberty Bonds are the obligations of our Government, the best security in the world and when it is remembered that in addition to their interest, they are free from taxation, they are equivalent to a taxable bond drawing at least from 5½ to 6 per cent interest.

The proceeds from these bonds will not be sent abroad but will be expended among our own people to pay for the supplies our Allies purchase in this country, the allies reimbursing our Government for these advances by the issuance of their own ponds, payable to the United States. The funds thus obtained from the sale of these bonds will not only prove of great assistance to our Allies in carrying on the war successfully, but will serve to stimulate and extend the markets for the products of the farms and factories of this country.

These bonds are issued in such such small denominations, that a large share of our people can easily subscribe for same, and there can be no better token of our loyalty and devotion to the cause of our country in this great war than to subscribe for these bonds.

It Is Deceiving.

"A good deal of de sympathy you gits in dis world," said Uncle Eben, "sounds a heap like sarcasm."

ROTATION LEASES.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

There is nothing which endangers America so much today as our very much abused farm tenant system. We ought to have something in every lease which will protect land and protect the people as well as posterity. Year to year tenants who scratch a little and move away, should be compelled to settle down and landlords should be be compelled to make a time rotation lease. It is easy to talk about compelling this and compelling that, but we mostly are a very sloppy people whose motto is "the easiest way is the best."

If we let our soil run down, our whole structure will fall. In order to obtain a larger yield of grain, this soil must be fed. The colleges and experiment stations beyond the Mississippi river are entirely too timid about preaching soil conservation. In fact, all of us are rather prone to tell our audience what we think they would rather hear.

KILL THE WEEDS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

"Spring plowing, or disking, as soon as the weed seeds have germinated, is usually a profitable practice. Where small grain is to be sown, the sowing should be done soon after plowing; but where corn, potatoes, or the sorghums are to be grown, there is often a period of several weeks between the time of the germination of the weed seeds and the time when the season is sufficiently advanced to plant the crop. This period should be utilized as far as possible for the destruction of weeds before the crop is planted. Much labor in keeping the crop free from weeds during its growing period can thus be saved."—E. C. Chilcott, agriculturist in charge, Washington, D. C.

ROMANCE OF COAL.

Some of the Products This Complex Material Yields to Man.

Coal seems to be rather an uninteresting thing. Who would imagine that the great, ugly black lumps could afford any one a subject worthy of study? And yet this same coal has given civilization many of its greatest possessions. The beautiful pink scarfs worn by women are colored with dyes that come from coal. The gas used to illuminate and to heat our homes is a product of the distillation of coal. Valuable chemicals, such as benzine, naphthalene and toluene, are coal products.

The tar used in paving streets and protecting roofs from rain is also a byproduct of the commercial treatment of coal, and finally aniline, the basis of aniline dyes and coloring materials, is one of the valuable chemicals contained in coal.

Coal is indeed one of the most complex materials to be found in all nature. To learn what it is we must go back to the dim, geological ages. The luxuriant vegetation of these past times, untrammeled by human feet and uncut by human hands, year after year grew, bloomed, faded and decayed, forming deep beds of rotted, woody fiber.

By degrees certain gases, such as hydrogen and oxygen, were partly lost from the mass of vegetable material. Pressure and heat converted this material into what we know as coal.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

MOST POWERFUL ORGAN.

Famous Old Instrument in St. Paul's Cathedral, London.

The organ of St. Paul's cathedral in London is the most powerful in the world. There is a weight of three tons on the bellows, and some of its giant pipes disappear from view in the recesses of the enormous dome. Some of the smaller pipes are up by the altar, and the rest are either hidden away behind the long row of choir stalls or are seen towering on either side of the choir gates. But all are controlled from a little organ loft in which is scarcely room for anyone beside the organist seated at the keyboard.

There are five rows of keys and two tiers of over 100 ivory handle stops. The organist showed how, by pressing with his thumb one of a row of buttons as he played, whole combinations of stops were pushed out or pushed in. He demonstrated, too, how with the slightest pressure he could transform the sound of the organ from the softest and sweetest of tones to a volume which rolled and seemed to shake the entire building.

The organ is a very ancient one. It was built between the years 1624 and 1700 by one Bernard Schmidt, a celebrated German organ maker, and cost over £2,000. Schmidt was merely responsible for the inside work, the case being supplied by a joiner for just over £330, while the carving on the case cost nearly £116. The organ has since undergone entire reconstruction, but all Schmidt's pipes have been retained, and are now doing as good service as when they were made.—London Mail.

Surprising the Bullock.

In times of crisis and worry a kind word has been known to have surprisingly good results. The unexpectedness of such a word is perhaps the secret of its force. A book, "On the Wool Track," backs the moral with an anecdote.

A team was working on the Broken Hill road, and a bullock—the Beelzebub of the team—had gone obstinate, and the coach was passing. The whip was swinging, and some apt remarks were just forming on the back of the teamster's tongue when he caught sight of a clerical hat on the front seat and just in time thought better of it. He coughed politely.

"Ahem—Strawberry," he said, "proceed!"

To his obvious astonishment Strawberry proceeded.

Washington Monument.

The cornerstone of the Washington monument was laid on its fine site, which overlooks Washington, Georgetown, Arlington and Mount Vernon, by President Polk July 4, 1848. Its marble shaft rises in all the dignity of unadorned simplicity to the height of 555 feet. The base of the shaft is fifty-five feet square, and it gradually tapers until at the 500 foot point it has diminished to less than thirty-five feet. This monument is said to contain 18,000 blocks of marble, each two feet thick. They were lifted on an elevator run by steam, suspended in an inner framework of iron, which was built up at intervals, thirty or forty feet at a time, in advance of the surrounding masonry. The aluminum capstone, nine inches high, was set in position Dec. 6, 1884, thirty-six years and a half after the cornerstone was laid.

Improving One's Good Points.

The art of posing lies in one's ability to acquire it without appearing affected. To make those with whom one comes in contact weary with unnecessary affectation is of course a thing to be deplored. If the individual, however, realizes the importance of helping nature's endowments, she will appear perfectly natural in always striving to look her very best. Learn to know your own good points and take the trouble to cultivate them. You will find that it will pay.—Exchange.

Just Wanted One Look.

Dorothy went to spend a few days with her little cousin, but got homesick before night. Her aunt's house, though really only in the next block, seemed a good way off to Dorothy. She had a good time playing with her little cousin for awhile, then she said to her aunt: "Aunt Mary, if you'll please take me home and let me look at mamma for a minute I'll come right back with you."

Youthful Philosophy.

"My mother is much prettier than your mother," proudly declared Hazel. "No she isn't; she isn't half as pretty as my mamma. I've got the prettiest mother in the whole world!" proclaimed Nellie. Hazel was staggered for a moment and then complacently remarked: "Well, it isn't so much what we has as what we thinks we has that counts, I s'pose."

Camphor Trees Profitable.

The camphor tree is one of the many plant importations from China that promise much in the United States. The trees grow well in hedges 15 feet apart in the South and the average of eight tons of clippings per acre yields on distillation about 200 pounds of camphor. This means a present profit of more than $150.

See Only Good in People.

It is a mistake to grow tired of people or their efforts to please. The vast majority of us are trying to do our best. True, some of our number make a brilliant showing, while others do not cause a ripple of comment. But if we are going to get any real satisfaction out of life we cannot stop to weigh people's capabilities or attainments; but should, on the other hand, be grateful for whatever consideration they show us, and only see in them all that is splendid and good.—Exchange.

BIG CROPS IN WESTERN CANADA

Good Yields of Wheat, Splendid Production of Pork, Beef, Mutton and Wool.

The latest reports give an assurance of good grain crops throughout most of Western Canada, where the wheat, oats and barley are now being harvested, about ten days earlier than last year. Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are all "doing their bit" in a noble way towards furnishing food for the allies.

While the total yield of wheat will not be as heavy as in 1915, there are indications that it will be an average crop in most of the districts. A letter received at the St. Paul office of the Canadian Government, from a farmer near Delia, Alberta, says harvest in that district is one month earlier than last year. His wheat crop is estimated at 35 bushels per acre, while some of his neighbors will have more. The average in the district will be about 30 bushels per acre. Now, with the price of wheat in the neighborhood of $2 per bushel, it is safe to say that there will be very few farmers but will be able to bank from forty to fifty dollars per acre after paying all expenses of seeding, harvesting and threshing, as well as taxes. The price of land in this district is from $25 to $30 per acre. What may be said of this district will apply to almost any other in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Many farmers have gone to Western Canada from the United States in the past three or four years, who having purchased lands, had the pleasure of completing the payments before they were due. They have made the money out of their crops during the past couple of years, and if they are as successful in the future as in the past they will have put themselves and their families beyond all possibility of lack of money for the rest of their lives. It is not only in wheat that the farmers of Western Canada are making money. Their hogs have brought them wealth, and hogs are easy to raise there—barley is plentiful and grass abundant, and the climate just the kind that hogs glory in. The price is good and likely to remain so for a long time.

A few days since a farmer from Daysland, Alberta, shipped a carload of hogs to the St. Paul market, and got a higher price than was ever before paid on that market. Two million three hundred and seventy-seven thousand two hundred and fifty dollars was received at Winnipeg for Western hogs during the first six months of this year. 181,575 hogs were sold at an average price of $15 per cwt., and had an average weight of 200 pounds each. The raising of hogs is a profitable and continually growing industry of Western Canada, and this class of stock is raised as economically here as anywhere on the North American continent. There is practically no hog disease, and immense quantities of food can be produced cheaply.

It has been told for years that the grasses of Western Canada supply to both beef and milk producers the nutritive properties that go to the development of both branches. The stories that are now being published by dairymen and beef cattle men verify all the predictions that have ever been made regarding the country's importance in the raising of both beef and dairy cattle. The sheep industry is developing rapidly. At a sale at Calgary 151,453 pounds of wool were disposed of at sixty cents a pound. At a sale at Edmonton 60,000 pounds were sold at even better prices than those paid at Calgary. The total clip this season will probably approximate two million pounds. Many reports are to hand showing from six to eight pounds per fleece. 35 carloads were sent to the Toronto market alone.—Advertisement.

WILSON REJECTS PEACE PROPOSALS OFFERED BY POPE

WILL NOT DEAL WITH RULERS RESPONSIBLE FOR BLOOD OF INNOCENT WOMEN AND CHILDREN AS WELL AS SOLDIERS.

PEACE MUST BE BASED ON FAITH OF ALL PEOPLES

Cannot Take Word of German Rulers as Guarantee of Anything That Is to Endure Without Evidence of Will and Purpose of German People.

Washington, Aug. 30. — President Wilson has rejected the Pope's peace proposals. In a note dispatched and made public here the President says that every heart not blinded and hardened by the terrible war must be touched by the moving appeal of His Holiness, it would be folly to take the path of peace he points out if it does not in fact lead to the goal he proposes.

To deal with such a power as the present ruler of Germany upon Pope Benedict's plan, declares the President, would involve a recuperation of the strength and renewal of the world domination of that power, now balked but not defeated after sweeping a continent with blood of innocent women and children and the helpless poor as well as of soldiers.

Permanent peace must be based upon the faith of all the peoples and upon justice and fairness and the common rights of mankind, he adds.

Complete Text of Note.

The complete text of the not follows:

"To His Holiness, Benedictus XV, Pope:

"In acknowledgement of the communication of Your Holiness to the belligerent peoples, dated August 1, 1917, the President of the United States requests me to transmit the following reply:

"Every heart that has not been blinded and hardened by this terrible war must be touched by this moving appeal of His Holiness, the Pope, must feel the dignity and force of the humane and generous motives which prompted it, and must fervently wish that we might take the path of peace he so persuasively points out. But it would be folly to take it, if it does not in fact lead to the goal he proposes. Our response must be based upon the stern facts and upon nothing else. It is not a mere cessation of arms he desires; it is a stable and enduring peace. This agony must not be gone through with again, and it must be a matter of very sober judgment that will insure us against it.

"His Holiness in substance proposes that we return to the status quo ante bellum and that then there be a general condonation, disarmament, and a concert of nations based upon an acceptance of the principle of arbitration; that by a similar concert freedom of the seas be established; and that the territorial claims of France and Italy, the perplexing problems of the Balkan states, and the restitution of Poland be left to such conciliatory adjustments as may be possible in the new temper of such a peace, due regard being paid to the aspirations of the peoples whose political fortunes and affiliations will be involved.

Free Peoples Menaced.

"It is manifest that no part of this program can be successfully carried out unless the restitution of the status quo ante bellum furnishes a firm and satisfactory basis for it. The object of this war is to deliver the free peoples of the world from the menace and the actual power of a vast military establishment controlled by an irresponsible government, which, having secretly planned to dominate the world, proceeded to carry the plan out without regard either to the sacred obligations of treaty or the long established practices and long cherished principles of international action and honor; which chose its own time for the war; delivered its blow fiercely and suddenly; stopped at no barrier, either law or mercy; swept a whole continent within the tide of blood—not the blood of soldiers only, but the blood of innocent women and children also, and of the helpless poor; and now stands balked, but not defeated, the enemy of four-fifths of the world. This power is not the German people. It is the ruthless master of the German people. It is no business of ours how that great people came under its control or submitted with temporary zest to the domination of its purpose; but it is our business to see to it that the history of the rest of the world is no longer left to its handling.

No Peace on Status Quo.

"To deal with such a power by way of peace upon the plan proposed by His Holiness, the Pope, would, so far as we can see, involve a recuperation of its strength and a renewal of its policy; would make it necessary to create a permanent hostile combination of nations against the German people, who are its instruments; and would result in abandoning the new-born Russia to the intrigue, the manifold subtle interference, and the certain counter-resolution which would be attempted by all the malign influences to which the German government has of late accustomed the world. Can peace be based upon a restitution of its power or upon any word of honor it could pledge in a treaty of settlement and accommodation?

"Responsible statesmen must now everywhere see, if they never saw before, that no peace can rest securely upon political or economic restrictions meant to benefit some nations and cripple or embarrass others, upon vindicative action of any sort, or any kind of revenge or deliberate injury.

"The American people have suffered intolerable wrongs at the hands of the Imperial German government, but they desire no reprisal upon the German people, who have themselves suffered all things in this war, which they did not choose. They believe that peace should rest upon the rights of peoples, not the rights of governments—the rights of peoples great or small, weak or powerful—their equal right to freedom and security and self-government and to a participation upon fair terms in the economic opportunities of the world—the German people of course included, if they will accept equality and not seek domination.

"The test, therefore, in every plan of peace is this: Is it based upon the faith of all peoples involved or merely upon the word of an ambitious and intriguing government, on the one hand, and of a group of free peoples on the other? This is a test which goes to the root of the matter; and it is the test which must be applied.

U. S. Aims Known to World.

"The purposes of the United States in this war are known to the whole world—to every people to whom the truth has been permitted to come. They do not need to be stated again. We seek no material advantage of any kind. We believe that the intolerable wrongs done in this war by the furious and brutal power of the Imperial German government ought to be repaired, but not at the expense of the sovereignty of any people—rather a vindication of the sovereignty both of those that are weak and of those that are strong. Punitive damages, the dismemberment of empires, the establishment of selfish and exclusive economic leagues we deem expedient and in the end worse than futile, no proper basis for a peace of any kind, least of all for an enduring peace. That must be based upon justice and fairness and the common rights of mankind.

"We cannot take the word of the present rulers of Germany as a guarantee of anything that is to endure, unless explicitly supported by such conclusive evidence of the will and purpose of the German people themselves as the other peoples of the world would be justified in accepting. Without such guarantees treaties of settlement, agreements for disarmament, covenants to set up arbitration in the place of force, territorial adjustments, reconstitutions of small nations, if made with the German government, no man, no nation could now depend on. We must wait some new evidence of the purposes of the great peoples of the Central Powers. God grant it may be given soon and in a way to restore the confidence of all peoples everywhere in the faith of nations and the possibility of a covenanted peace.

(Signed) "ROBERT LANSING,
"Secretary of State of the United States of America."

DECIDE ON PRICE FOR STEEL

Cost-Plus-Profit Basis Is Plan to Be Used.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Steel prices will be fixed by the War Industries board on a cost-plus-profit basis, it is learned. President Wilson has been given the figures prepared by the Federal Trade commission and has turned them over to the war board for use in fixing contract prices.

While the war boards does not have final legal jurisdiction in fixing prices for the government, it was learned that the President had communicated to the Secretaries of War and Navy his wish that whatever figure the board may agree upon shall be binding upon those executives.

17 Villistas To Prison For Raid.

Deming, N. M., Aug. 30.—Seventeen Villistas captured by the Pershing punitive expedition in Mexico, were to be confined to the state penitentiary at Santa Fe today to serve sentences ranging from 17 to 80 years. The Mexicans, who were accused of participation in the Villa raid on Columbus, N. M., a year and a half ago, pleaded guilty to second degree murder before District Judge Raymond R. Ryan. Guadelupe Chavez, another member of the band, pleaded not guilty and will be tried before the fall term of court.

Canadian Wheat Safe From Frost.

Calgary, Aug. 30.—Seventy-five percent of the wheat around Medicine Hat, Bassano, Bow Island, Lomond, Lethbridge, Nobleford, Raymond, Magrath and Carmangay is in stack and by the end of the present week the whole crop south of the main line of the Canadian Pacific railway to the international boundary will be safe from any serious damage by frost. This is more than two weeks earlier than last year. Threshing will be in full swing by September 10.

Veterans Give War Ambulance.

New York, Aug. 30.—Veterans of the Foreign Wars of the United States, at their eighteenth annual convention here, presented a fully equipped ambulance to the government. At the session it was announced that 7,200 members had been added to the roll during the year, and that the organization had been divided into 93 posts. A resolution making eligible for membership American sailors and foreign soldiers the moment they land on foreign soil went over.

GOVERNMENT SETS $2.20 PER BUSHEL PRICE FOR WHEAT

PRESIDENT NAMES FIGURES AS APPLYING TO 1917 CROP ON RECOMMENDATION OF PRICE COMMITTEE.

14-OUNCE LOAF OF BREAD FOR 5 CENTS PREDICTED

Basis of Price to Be No. 1 Northern Spring Wheat Delivered at Chicago —Board Comes to Agreement by Compromise After Long Deadlock.

Washington, Sept. 1.—A price of $2.20 a bushel has been fixed for the 1917 crop of wheat by President Wilson last night on the recommendation of the wheat price committee headed by Dr. H. A. Garfield. The basis will be No. 1 Northern spring wheat delivered at Chicago.

The committee finally agreed after several days of voting. At one time it looked as if it would be unable to come to a conclusion, but a compromise was reached and the last vote was unanimous.

Representatives of the producers began by voting for a price of $2.50 and labor's representatives for $1.84. The two extremes eventually narrowed down until the votes were only a few cents apart and most of the voting showed only a slight difference. Both factions appeared uncompromising at the start.

Differentials Announced.

On the basis of $2.20 at Chicago the food administration worked out differentials for the various grades and classes and for the several terminals.

In a statement accompanying the announcement of the price, President Wilson declares it is the hope of the food administration, and his own as well, that the fixing of a price will stabilize the market and keep prices within moderate bounds for all transactions during the current year.

Prices to Be Kept Down.

The prices of flour and bread, too, the President declares, will be kept down.

The committee in its report to the President gave as its three chief considerations that entered into its deliberations the following:

The fact that the United States is at war, the need of encouraging the producer and the necessity of reducing the cost of living to the consumer.

All members agreed in their discussions that the price fixed will permit of a 14-ounce loaf of bread for 5 cents, allowing a fair profit both to the flour manufacturers and the baker.

Price Differentials.

The price differentials worked out by the food administration are:

No. 1 dark hard winter, $2.24.
No. 1 hard winter basic, $2.20
No. 1 red winter basic, $2.20.
No. 1 yellow hard winter, $2.16.
No. 1 soft red winter, $2.18.
No. 1 dark northern spring, $2.24.
No. 1 red spring, $2.18.
No. 1 humpback, $2.10.
No. 1 amber Durum, $2.24.
No. 1 Durum basic, $2.20.
No. 1 Red Durum, $2.13.
No. 1 red Walla, $2.13.
No. 1 hard white basic, $2.20.
No. 1 soft white, $2.18.
No. 1 white club, $2.16.

Relative market basis:

Chicago, Galveston, New Orleans, basic; Kansas City and Omaha, 5 cents less than basic; Duluth and Minneapolis, 3 cents less; St. Louis, 2 cents less; New York, 10 cents more than basic; Baltimore and Philadelpia, 9 cents more; Buffalo, 5 cents more.

FARMERS HELD NOT EXEMPT

No Class of Workers to Be Excused from Draft, Wilson Says.

Washington, Aug. 31.—There will be no exemption of farmers as a class from the draft, President Wilson has just stated emphatically, in replying to a letter addressed to him by Representative Jouetts House of Kansas.

"I feel that a class exemption would lead to many difficulties and to many heartburnings, much as I should personally like to see all genuine farmers left at their indispensable labors," the president states.

Surplus of Spuds in South Dakota.

Pierre, S. D., Sept. 1.—Reports being gathered by the state market commissioner from the managers of farmers elevators over the state indicate that South Dakota will have a good surplus of potatoes for shipment this fall. The estimates vary with localities, with an occasional report of shortage, but the surplus will be many thousands of bushels.

Great Airplane Comes From Italy.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The largest and most powerful airplane in the world is the description of the Caproni machine sent from Italy to this country with the Italian aviation mission, which has just arrived in Washington. The great airplane reached Washington ahead of the mission and has been set up at Langley field, Newport News, Va., where it will be demonstrated for American experts. It is probable that duplicates later will be manufactured in this country for use by the Allied nations against Germany.

GERMAN WOMEN MAY REVOLT

LIKELY TO HAVE MUCH TO DO WITH BANISHMENT OF KAISER.

Suffering Has Made Them Begin to Sulk at Continuance of War—Coming Winter to Be Worst of All.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Germany's women are likely to have much to do in remolding Teuton peace opinion. Suffering from short rations, torn with sorrow over their losses, they are beginning to sulk at continuance of the war. This spirit, coupled with a general war weariness and a stirring desire for governmental liberalism, are elements upon which authorities here count largely in beliefs that peace is not far distant.

State department advices indicate that the coming winter will be the worst Germany has experienced since the great struggle started. Some crops are short. Fats are scarce. Smaller rations are in force.

Kaiser Expecting Trouble.

The kaiser himself begins to see the signs of trouble, for he has ordered the newspapers not to print his name so much. Hence the German people are no longer fed on fulsome praise of a leader whose authority is being assailed.

One evidence of food shortage is that prisoners, always scantily fed, are now on even lower rations. Turnips and beet soups, sometimes flavored nettles, with now and then a potato, constitute the bulk of their diet. To make their lot worse, Germany is forcing them to work on the west front, frequently in direct line of fire.

All this is found in official reports showing that a revolution may be nearer than surface indications show.

AIRPLANES TO SPREAD WILSON NOTE TO TEUTONS

President's Reply to Pope's Proposal to Reach German People by Allied Airships.

Washington, Sept. 1. —President Wilson's reply to the Pope will be spread over Germany by aeroplanes, if there is any tendency on the part of the German press to change its meaning.

The President is determined on this. He wants his message to reach the German people. He wants them to read and know for themselves that the United States is warring not upon them but upon imperialism. He will not have it presented in garbled form.

Airplanes have raided West Phalia. They have approached close to Berlin. It is now considered practical that the President's note may be showered on the Wilhelmstrasse itself and in every large center of German population. More important than all, it can be scattered among the agrarians who so far have been the most fertile soil of German discontent.

FRICTION SEEN BETWEEN TEUTON HIGH COMMANDS

Von Hindenburg Refuses Austrian Request for Troops to Aid in Stopping Italian Advance.

Rome, Sept. 1.—Friction has arisen between the German and Austrian high commands, according to the Idea Nazionale. The newspaper says that the Vienna government urgently requested immediate German re-enforcement to fill the gaps in the Austrian lines and stem the Italian advance on Trieste and northward from the Bainsizza plateau, but that Field Marshal von Hindenburg replied he could not spare troops for this purpose. It is reported that a lively controversy between the two high commands ensued.

NEXT LIBERTY LOAN OCT. 1

Amount and Other Details to Be Announced Soon.

Washington, Sept. 1.—The opening of the next Liberty Loan campaign has been set tentatively for October 1. Subscription books will close November 1 unless the program is altered. The amount, interest rate, denominations and other details will be announced after Congress disposes of the pending bond bill.

Indications are that the next offering will approximate $3,000,000,000. Whether it will be advertised by the government through paid newspaper space is under consideration.

AIRPLANE TIMBER BURNING

Forest Fires In Northwest Held Due to Incendiarism.

Washington, Aug. 30.—With forest fires, reported due to incendiarism, threatening valuable timber in the Pacific Northwest, intended to furnish airplane stock for the fighting forces of the United States and its allies, the forest service has suspended some of its operations to concentrate all available forces in fighting the flames.

Montana Lands at $2 Per Acre.

Billings, Mont., Aug. 31.—A number of farms, some of them slightly cultivated, are to be offered at prices ranging from $2 upwards, at a government land sale of tracts in the former Crow Indian reservation, to be held here Sept. 4. About 40,000 acres is to be offered and some of it is among the best agricultural land in the state. Mineral rights will be reserved to the United States, but all surface rights will go to the purchaser. All lands will be disposed of by public auction and no bids by mail are to be accepted.

Woman Thought She Would Die. Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ogdensburg, Wis.—"I suffered from female troubles which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles have entirely cured me. All women who have female trouble of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. ETTA DORION, Ogdensburg, Wis.

Physicians undoubtedly did their best, battled with this case steadily and could do no more, but often the most scientific treatment is surpassed by the medicinal properties of the good old fashioned roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

TOO MUCH FOR LION TAMER

When It Came to the Question of Was He Afraid He Was Willing to Admit That He Was.

The proprietor of a wild beast show traveling the eastern counties of England recently made an offer of a silver medal to any local barber with sufficient courage to shave the tamer in the lion's den.

A knight of the razor, yearning for fame and glory, accepted the challenge and amid a chorus of cheers from the crowd entered the cage.

Although the lion betrayed very little interest in the proceedings, the barber was obviously nervous, and, having lathered his man, made several nervous dabs at one cheek with the razor, keeping a weather eye on the wild beast.

"Hold hard!" yelled the tamer at last, as he felt a fearful gash. "It's too risky!"

"I—I—I ain't afraid!" stammered the shaking tonsorial artist. "There ain't a lion living can scare me."

"Course you ain't afraid!" bellowed the tamer, as he wiped his wounded face. "Anybody can see you ain't. It's me who's afraid! I—I—I'm afraid of the barber!"

The German Way.

"The Germans, with their talk about exacting a war indemnity from their French and Belgian aggressors, reminds me of Smythe."

The speaker was Maj. Spender Clay, the son-in-law of Baron William Waldorf Astor, who recently spent some time in New York as a member of the English mission. Maj. Spender Clay continued:

"Smythe, you know, had a cow that was a great nuisance. One day the cow got into Jones' garden and ate all his grass. Jones asked Smythe what he was going to do about it. And what do you suppose Smythe did?"

Maj. Spender Clay laughed grimly.

"He sent Jones a bill," he said, "for using his cow as a lawn mower."

WOMEN! IT'S CHEAP! USE LEMON JUICE TO MAKE BEAUTY LOTION

In all weathers the skin and complexion can be kept wonderfully clear soft and white by the use of this inexpensive lemon lotion which any girl or woman can easily prepare.

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quarter pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion. It naturally should help to soften, freshen, bleach and bring out the roses and hidden beauty of any skin. Those who will make it a habit to gently massage this lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands once or twice daily may be repaid with a skin that is flexible and young looking and a peach-like complexion. Rough Going.

A youth who had accomplished considerable glory in football but little in his studies, was dropped from one preparatory school and immediately invited to another. He had been there about a week when he was approached by a member of the faculty.

"Well," said the professor, "how do you find it here?"

"Pretty fair," answered the boy.

"That's good. Find it smooth going, eh?"

The youth meditated a moment. "Well, I shouldn't like to say that, exactly," he replied. "The field's sort of rough yet in places, sir."—Exchange.

YES! LIFT A CORN OFF WITHOUT PAIN!

Cincinnati man tells how to dry up a corn or callus so it lifts off with fingers.

You corn-pestered men and women need suffer no longer. Wear the shoes that nearly killed you before, says this Cincinnati authority, because a few drops of freezone applied directly on a tender, aching corn or callus, stops soreness at once and soon the corn or hardened callus loosens so it can be lifted off, root and all, without pain.

A small bottle of freezone costs very little at any drug store, but will positively take off every hard or soft corn or callus. This should be tried, as it is inexpensive and is said not to irritate the surrounding skin.

If your druggist hasn't any freezone tell him to get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.—adv.

Then in a dreamy voice the medium began to ring up the Beyond.

"I am in touch with the person you want," he said at last. "He tells me that he has made a lot of friends. Already he has met Cromwell, Shakespeare, Queen Elizabeth, Henry Irving, Mark Twain, Balzac, and a score of others."

LOW BREAD COST IS NOT PROBABLE; TEN CENT LOAF IS SEEN

HOPE FOR DROP IN PRICE VANISHES WHEN HOOVER ANNOUNCES 16-OUNCE LOAF FOR 10 CENTS.

PRICE OF FAMILY FLOUR SHOULD SEE REDUCTION

Present Price of Wheat Should Mean Flour at Least Two or Three Dollars Per Barrel Cheaper—May Be Month Before Price Program Is Ready.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Prospects of an early and radical drop in bread prices apparently vanished when Herbert Hoover, the food administrator, announced that the best the public may expect is a 16-ounce loaf for ten cents or possibly eight cents. The 16-ounce loaf is possible, Mr. Hoover said, only if the bakers, retailers and consumers unite to eliminate wasteful distribution methods and co-operate to obtain a standardized loaf.

Flour Price Should be Reduced.

The price of family flour, he said, should be reduced at the present price of wheat two or three dollars a barrel, at least. Bakers' flour, however, will sell little cheaper than at present.

C. I. Corby, who is serving for the bakers of the country as a voluntary aid to Mr. Hoover, said that a 16-ounce loaf for 10 cents would represent a slight reduction in present prices. Standardization, he said, would be hard to bring about, since varying costs in ingredients that go into bread have made it necessary to increase or reduce the size of the loaf.

Price Reduction Delayed.

No move will be made toward price reduction, Mr. Corby said, until the food administration has announced its plans for dealing with the baking industry. It may be a month before the program is ready, it was learned.

"The bakers have been and are holding themselves in readiness," said Mr. Corby, "to effect the conservation of wheat. They have been co-operating with Mr. Hoover and have supplied data and facts to assist the food administration in perfecting its plans relative to bread.

"The bakers respectfully request the public to disregard the many ridiculous statements about bread, emanating from unreliable sources, and ask that they await the announcement of the President relative to the nation's plans for bread production."

PLANS ARE REVIVED FOR CREATION OF WAR BOARD

Republican Members of House Expect to Renew Fight for Expenditures Committee.

Washington, Sept. 3.—Coincident with the voting of a favorable report by the ways and means committee on the $11,538,945,460 war bond and certificate bill in about the form Secretary McAdoo wrote it, Republican leaders in the House announced they would renew their fight for the creation of a congressional war expenditures committee.

An effort had been made in drafting the amendment to meet the objection of President Wilson that a similar provision proposed during the food control bill debate would embarrass him in the conduct of the war.

ADJUTANT GENERAL QUITS

Capt. Rhinow Succeeds Fred B. Wood in Position.

St. Paul, Sept. 3.—The resignation of Adjutant General Fred B. Wood and the appointment of Capt. Walter F. Rhinow, to the office, both announced late yesterday by Governor Burnquist, are expected to result in clearing up conditions in that state department which has been involved for several months.

Although the resignation of General Wood was attributed to heavy demands made upon him by organization of the state draft machinery, now declared to be operating satisfactorily, it followed a long series of entanglements.

Shipyards Strike Is Called.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 1.—A strike of more than 12,000 workers in Seattle shipyards and plants engaged in fabricating shipbuilding material to enforce demands for a general increase in wages was set for next Wednesday by officers of the 15 affiliated unions of the Seattle Metal Trades Council executive session.

Nine Locomotives Is Daily Output.

Philadelphia, Sept. 1.—Nine locomotives a day is the new record of manufacture achieved by the Baldwin Locomotive works. The company is devoting the entire capacity of its engine building plants to turning out locomotives of the larger type, most of them for war use. Twenty-five thousand men are employed. All locomotive building records have been broken by the achievements of the past few weeks. Only two years ago the concern pointed with pride to its record of 30 locomotives a month.

The State In Brief

Three thousand people gathered in Le Sueur in a loyalty meeting that was held in Stewart park. Daniel M. Lawler of St. Paul was the principal speaker on the program.

G. M. Ganzet, with two deputy nursery inspectors employed by the government, were in Deerwood and looked over all the white pine in the state for white pine blister rust. This disease has attacked the forests in the eastern part of the state, and an effort will be made to check it.

Recommendation that the hearing, before the Ethics committee of the Minnesota Bar association, of Albert Pfaender, city attorney of New Ulm, suspended by the State Public Safety commission for his participation in the anti-war meeting there, be a public hearing, is contained in a resolution passed by the bar association board of governors.

Head of the lakes grain elevators are "down to bin bottoms." Only a little more than 1 per cent of their storage space is occupied, and unless receipts hurry, with the dribbling shipments made recently, the whole supply will be wiped out. This is the first season, it is said, that the great elevator stocks have been so low at this date.

A campaign against the sale of bad eggs in Minnesota recently inaugurated by the State Dairy and Food department was made public following the first arrest under the state law prohibiting sales of decomposed eggs. Sam Olander, a merchant at Triumph, arraigned on that charge, paid $50 fine in justice court, according to a report to the department.

The farmers of the town of Frohn have started a plan to solve the stock feed problem this winter. In a few days they will have a meeting to discuss pooling interests in the purchase of feed. Each farmer will report how much he will need for the winter, and feed for each farmer will be purchased in bulk and apportioned.

Delegates to the National Association of State Game and Fish Commissioners in convention at St. Paul, had an off day during their convention. They left at 1 p. m. in chartered cars, as the guests of the Minnesota Game Protective league, for a trip to Minneapolis, Lake Minnetonka and the State Game farm, ending the trip at the LaFayette club, where dinner was served.

With a shortage of farm labor in the vicinity of Ada, a number of business men of that city have pledged themselves to go out and work in the fields if necessary.

The Second Minnesota field artillery and the Fourth Minnesota infantry, the state's two new military units recently recruited, will be inspected within the next few days to determine whether they are to be accepted into Federal service, according to advices received from the Militia bureau at Washington.

Doren, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Johnstone, Joliet, Ill., is confined to his room at the home of an aunt, Mrs. J. A. Fairburn, near Sartell. The young lad accidentally shot himself in the leg with a rifle. An X-ray examination showed that several bones were broken.

Orders from the War department designating Colonel Joseph D. Leitch, former lieutenant colonel of the Fortieth infantry, as commanding officer of the second reserve officers' training camp at Fort Snelling have been received, according to General William H. Sage.

Minnesota Knights of Pythias, under the direction of the Pythian War Relief council, have begun the raising of approximately $8,000, from the nearly 8,000 members of the order, on the basis of $1 a member, as this state's apportionment of the $500,000 war relief fund to be given by Pythians. The Minnesota fund, it is hoped, will be raised within sixty days.

VISITING STATE-OWNED PROPERTY TO SEE THAT PROPER REVENUES ARE DERIVED.

PREUS RECEIVES MUCH MAIL

Auditor's Office Overwhelmed With Inquiries Regarding State Land at $5 Per Acre Advertised in Southern Papers.

St. Paul.

James R. Finlay, an engineer in the Federal bureau of mines, arrived in St. Paul to confer witht State Auditor Preus regarding an investigation of state-owned mines to determine whether they are being properly operated and maximum royalties are being paid the state for ore removed. He left soon afterward with F. A. Wildes, state superintendent of mines, for Bemidji to begin the inquiry.

Swamped With Mail.

An erroneous announcement in many Eastern and Southern newspapers that Minnesota is offering state lands, partially cleared and improved, with a modest cabin on each 40-acre tract at $5 an acre under a 15-year deferred payment plan to attract settlers, late yesterday threatened to make the mail received at the office of State Auditor Preus heavier than that from the famous Minneapolis silk skirt chain letter fraud exposed recently by postoffice authorities.

Inquiries came from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Texas and other distant states and the majority contained the clipping from some newspaper of the erroneous announcement under a Minneapolis date line that Minnesota had adopted the extremely liberal offer to quickly settle its 40-acre tracts of fine farm land. J. F. Gould, superintendent of the land sales bureau, and a force of stenographers began an attempt to answer the replies to the free advertising, although the latter came faster.

"Unfortunately," said Auditor Preus, "these correspondents must be disappointed. The Legislature in providing for the administration of Amendment No. 1, providing for a limited amount of clearing on state land in advance of settlement, did not authorize the erection of the cabins which seem to appeal to the imagination of so many people."

The auditor explained also that $5 an acre is the minimum price for Minnesota land and there is little for sale at that figure.

Heavy Sales of Bottled Goods.

Heavy sales of "bottled goods"—liquor sold and carried away after nightfall—at the few saloons in the otherwise dry region covering many miles in Southern Minnesota and the employment of eight bartenders in one of the saloons which pays $8,000 license fee, were outstanding findings in a report received by the Minnesota Public Safety Commission from the special commission which investigated conditions in Martin and Pipestone counties after complaints were made by citizens in that section.

The report was placed on file, but probably will claim the commission's attention later.

The investigating commission was made up of Judge T. D. O'Brien of St. Paul, E. G. Hall of the State Federation of Labor and Senator E. P. Peterson of Litchfield, who recently conducted a similar inquiry at International Falls at the direction of the war board.

The saloonkeepers of this territory insist that they are complying with the laws and that they are not to blame for the increased sales due to other territories being dry, the investigators reported.

Patrick J. Ryan and Ambrose Tighe, St. Paul attorneys, will represent the state in getting evidence before the commissioner to be appointed to hear testimony on charges of disloyalty which resulted in the recent suspension from office of Mayor A. L. Fritsche, City Attorney Albert Pfaender, both of New Ulm, and Auditor Louis Vogel of Brown county, following their participation in the New Ulm protest meeting. Governor Burnquist made the announcement and indicated that the commissioner will be appointed soon.

Feed the Fighters! Win the War!!

Harvest the Crops—Save the Yields

On the battle fields of France and Flanders, the United States boys and the Canadian boys are fighting side by side to win for the World the freedom that Prussianism would destroy. While doing this they must be fed and every ounce of muscle that can be requisitioned must go into use to save this year's crop. A short harvest period requires the combined forces of the two countries in team work, such as the soldier boys in France and Flanders are demonstrating.

The Combined Fighters in France and Flanders and the Combined Harvesters in America WILL Bring the Allied Victory Nearer.

A reciprocal arrangement for the use of farm workers has been perfected between the Department of the Interior of Canada and the Departments of Labor and Agriculture of the United States, under which it is proposed to permit the harvesters that are now engaged in the wheat fields of Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Wisconsin to move over into Canada, with the privilege of later returning to the United States, when the crops in the United States have been conserved, and help to save the enormous crops in Canada which by that time will be ready for harvesting.

CHARGED TRACE UP TO PAT

Finnegan Probably Right When He Put Forward Thompson as Meanest of All Mean Men.

This one was told to Sam Bowers, the art salesman, by John Finnegan, train caller at the Union station at Sioux City, Ia.:

"Talkin' about mean men," said Finnegan, "one time I knew a man by the name of Pat O'Toole, who worked for a farmer, a few miles out from here, by the name of Thompson.

"Well, one night O'Toole wint out to the barn an' he found the farmer hangin' by the neck from a beam by a buggy trace an' he cut him down an' run four miles for a doctor, an' the doctor come an' the farmer got well, an' he said he'd never do it again.

"Well, at the end of the month, after the farmer had paid O'Toole his wages, Pat discovered that he was $3 short, an' he wint back to the farmer, an' ses, ses he, 'How's this? Me money is short to the extent of $3?' An' the farmer ses, ses he, 'Why, that's the price of that fine new buggy trace of mine that you spoiled by cuttin' a couple of weeks back.'"

JUST MATTER OF PRECAUTION

Patrolman's Tip to Sergeant Given in the Most Friendly Manner, and No Offense Meant.

Sergeant Sullivan and Patrolman Flaharty were on the warpath. It had been reported at headquarters that the soldiers at Smallville had been supplied with drink while on duty. The police officers had been sent forth to investigate the matter.

"Now, you wait outside," commanded the sergeant, "while I go in an' make inquiries. I sha'n't be a minute."

But he was several minutes. At last he appeared, a dazed expression on his face.

"Well?" queried Flaharty.

"No foundation whatever for the charge," replied the sergeant. "Don't believe the landlord of that inn could be guilty of such a crime."

"H'm!" grunted Flaharty, "that sounds all right, but if you take my tip, sergeant, you'll just put this peppermint lozenge in yer mouth before you tell it to the chief."

President Wilson, will not consider any peace offers from the Kaiser of Germany, but is willing to grant peace to the german people at any time. There is no more use to talk peace to that outlaw than there would be to talk peace to any pirate that ever sailed the seas. America is going after the scalp of Kaiser Wilhelm and they are going to get it, and the more german people that stand in their way the more of them will be killed, for Woodrow Wilson means business from the word go, and the American people have full confidence in him, and are solid behind him.

The Nonpartisan Leader says we should state our peace terms to Germany. It seems funny that anyone does not know that President Wilson stated peace terms to Germany for two years before the Declaration of war, and all the terms of peace He asked was for them to please stop murdering our American Citizens on the seas. They would not accept them terms and now President Wilson proposes to make them ask for our terms of Peace, as America is not in a peaceful mode at the present time.

The Leader has done good work by organizing the farmers, but it is not yet big enough to dictate to the United States what actions to take in their war with Germany Any man or Newspaper that would favor this government offering PEACE TERMS to Germany at this time, is a traitor, and should be suppressed America is just getting ready to fight, and they will fight until Germany asks for peace.

That People's Council of America, that were not allowed to hold meetings in the state of Minnesota, went to Wisconsin, but instead of finding the People; "a La-Follette," they were chased out of Hudson Wis, with brick bats, one of which smashed the glass front of a german sympathizers store. Had they offered any resistance, to the people who chased them out, they would have been given a ride on a rail out of the City. Who says Hudson Wisconsin is not O.K.?

Congressman Steenerson, is making a big fight to have no discrimination in the price of wheat between the Canadians and the American farmers. We may be an allie of the Canadians, but we are not allie's enough to take one cent a bushel less for our American wheat than the Canadians get for theirs.

W.J. Bryan and Henry Ford are now for war to a finish with Germany. The longer the war continues the better the American people understand the real issue and cluster behind the President.

Judging from the talk of wheat raising farmers, there is likely to to be a big falling off in wheat production next year, if the government steps in and compels the American farmer to sell his wheat for a less price than the Canadian farmer gets. The farmers are already talking that the government may compel them to sell their next years crop for 80 cents a bushel and they don't propose to raise it for sale at that price.

America is only just getting ready to fight, but the enemy is in our very midst working day and night to thwart every move of our national preparation. This traitorous activity will continue to increase until many of those now active shall have faced the firing squad. War involves shooting the enemy, and right here is the place and right now the time to begin.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Thats the stuff, from Minnesotas leading Republican newspaper, that opposed the re-election of Wilson, because we thought he would not fight, when American rights were assailed. But now, we are solid in line behind him, and old kaiser Wilhelm wants to sit up and take notice of that fact.

County Attorney H.O. Kjomme has left his desk and law practice and volunteered his life and services to his country in their war with Germany. Former county Attorney E. M. Stanton will look after the interest of the county during his absence. Stanton, O'Neill and Hunts hair have got grey in America, and our ancestors have freely shed their blood in the battles from Ticonderoga to Gettysburg and Murfreesboro. We fought, for the privileges which you now enjoy. Their bones are now peacefully sleeping on the battle fields of America. If you don't want to fight for America at this time, get out of here! This is no rich man's war, and a poor man's fight, get into line, and fight for America.

More than 200,000 war Volunteers have enlisted in the regular army since April 1st. This is about 17,000 more than was needed to fill up the regular army to full war strength.

THE LIBERTY BOND.

By Knute Nelson, U.S. Senator from Minnesota.

Our Country is now an active participant in a great war in which we must be victorious. Large funds are needed to carry on this war successfully. Such funds must be secured partly by direct taxation and partly by the issuance of bonds. To undertake to carry on the war entirely with direct taxes would place too heavy a burden upon the present generation, hence it is proper that a part of the burden, in the form of bonds, should be cast upon those to come after us, especially as they will not contribute their young manhood to the war, as we do.

The Liberty Bonds are the obligations of our Government, the best security in the world and when it is remembered that in addition to their interest, they are free from taxation, they are equivalent to a taxable bond drawing at least from 5½ to 6 per cent interest.

The proceeds from these bonds will not be sent abroad but will be expended among our own people to pay for the supplies our Allies purchase in this country, the allies reimbursing our Government for these advances by the issuance of their own bonds, payable to the United States. The funds thus obtained from the sale of these bonds will not only prove of great assistance to our Allies in carrying on the war successfully, but will serve to stimulate and extend the markets for the products of the farms and factories of this country.

These bonds are issued in such such small denominations, that a large share of our people can easily subscribe for same, and there can be no better token of our loyalty and devotion to the cause of our country in this great war than to subscribe for these bonds.

We cannot all be in the fighting line, but all of us, the high and low, the young and old, the men of moderate means as well as the wealthy, from city or country can and ought to subscribe to these bonds.

In our former wars, especially during the Civil War, our Government was compelled to issue bonds in large quantities, but these bonds were taken mostly by the banks and not by the people at large. This great Liberty Loan ought not to be left in the hands of the banks, but rather in the hands of the great mass of our people, those who are the mainstay of the Republic in peace and in war.

It is the duty of all patriotic and loyal citizens, according to their means to subscribe for "The Second Liberty Loan of 1917", which will soon be announced by Secretary McAdoo. It is a duty which, to my mind, comes next to the duty of enlistment in the ranks of the army. We who are not in a condition to contribute our lives to the struggle certainly ought to be willing to contribute our means to aid in the successful prosecution of the war.

EPIGRHYMES:

I never saw the sense of golf; I couldn't get the HANG of "follow-through," nor understand their complex golfing slang. Why, SORROW plunged my friends in woe when they turned in "high score," was quite beyond me, and their talk became an awful bore. But once, last month, when things went wrong, I tried, one night, to read; Ben Jonson was the author I had picked to meet my need; and thoughts were there that startled me—next day I met a friend; "CARE'LL KILL you yet, you misanthrope," he said, "I recommend A game of golf!" I tried it out—"approach," and "putt" and "drive;" quite as a CAT plays with a mouse and leaves him still alive, I nurse that little ball of white, but, more than golf I've learned—the value to one's mental works of training often spurned. And then one has to concentrate right on that tiny ball or else one's club will punch the air and won't hit it at all. So let us concentrate on War, today, and "follow through!" Let every "drive" we make be for the Red, the White, the Blue!

What Shell Fire Is Like.

I have read many attempts to describe shell fire in a battle, but not one to equal the easy description of this young officer, who does not pretend to be a stylist. Listen:

"You hear a boom miles away, hardly audible in the distance. Then a faint sigh, gradually rising to a scream as the shell whizzes toward you. Then a flash, an immense crash and the air is filled with thousands of bullets and jagged lumps of iron, each making a different sort of shrieking noise. Then phit-phit-phit everywhere as they hit the ground.

"This is shrapnel."—London Sketch.

A REALISTIC ANSWER.

The Sentry Didn't Have to Go Into Details With the Officer.

During one of Haig's attacks on the Hindenburg line a "Minnie" had come over and knocked all the stuffing out of a sentry. He staggered to his feet—except for the tremendous shaking, practically unhurt—fighting for breath, which he could not get back for some minutes. While he was so standing a young officer, newly out, turned the corner of the trench. There was a heavy bombardment on. The unexperienced young officer, not knowing what had happened and seeing the sentry rifleless (his rifle had been blown many yards away), knees bent, body limp, eyes half out of his head and mouth (half full of dust) gaping open like a loosened sack head, inquired, "Well, what's the matter with you?"

The man tried to answer, but had no breath to do so, and, knocked silly as he was by the shock, gaped helplessly and idiotically at the officer, who said again, this time more sharply, "What's the matter with you?"

At that moment over came another "Minnie," falling sufficiently near the officer to serve him exactly as the previous one had served the sentry. As half blinded, wholly smothered and three-quarters stunned the officer stumbled to his feet the sentry ran forward to help him up. Then, standing the regulation two paces away, the sentry came smartly to attention and, ceremoniously saluting, said, "Beg pardon, sir; I couldn't answer before, but that's what was the matter with me."—London Chronicle.

Surprising the Bullock.

In times of crisis and worry a kind word has been known to have surprisingly good results. The unexpectedness of such a word is perhaps the secret of its force. A book, "On the Wool Track," backs the moral with an anecdote.

A team was working on the Broken Hill road, and a bullock—the Beelzebub of the team—had gone obstinate, and the coach was passing. The whip was swinging, and some apt remarks were just forming on the back of the teamster's tongue when he caught sight of a clerical hat on the front seat and just in time thought better of it. He coughed politely.

"Ahem—Strawberry," he said, "proceed!"

To his obvious astonishment Strawberry proceeded.

Why Milk Sours.

We are told by those who study the ways and ravages of the mischievous microbe that he is very fond of sugar and that he delights to gratify this liking by turning the supply in milk into an acid which sours the milk. These microbes are constantly in the air, alive though invisible, and ready to drop into the milk when they can. If it were possible to keep the milk from the air after the cow is milked it would not turn sour. Warm milk is particularly inviting to the microbe and favorable to its operations. He does not get along well under chilling conditions, and that is why the sweetness of milk can be preserved if it is kept cold. Boiling fresh milk changes the sugar in such a way that the microbe cannot feed upon it.—Baltimore American.

THE LOCAL NEWS

The weather has been very unfavorable this week for flax harvest owing to light showers.

We are getting out our paper, under difficulties this week owing to the change of Mail service, but we are glad of the change.

Our subscribers on the north side of Red Lake river will now get their SUNBEAM on Saturday, instead the next week Monday, as we now have U.S., instead of Singer mail service.

Prairie chickens were never so scarce as they are this year, in fact it is seldom you see one. The farmers should promtly order the automobile hunters off of their farms and not allow them to kill what few chickens are left, with their trained dogs and automatic guns.

Born: To Mr. and Mrs Henry Hyland September 10th, a fine 7½ pound baby boy. Baby and Mother are doing fine and Henry is wearing a broader smile than usual. Mrs Asp, of Mayfield was in attendance, while Mr. Mrs. W. G. Hunt has been so busy nursing that we came pretty near having to start keeping bachelors hall. The little fellow put up his fist and hollered Hurrah for America and made a noise that sounded like Woodrow here is another good American behind you.

OUR NEW MAIL ROUTE

The U.S. mail route from Hazel to Sunbeam being established one week early than was expected with a complete change of service has caused a rush along the line to get ready for the change. But the mail carrier can not put your mail in your mail box, if you have none. The carrier Mr. Hesby will do his best to get your mail deliverd to you until the people get their mail boxes put up. We know where all the patrons of the route live in Mayfield township and are doing our very best to get your mail to you promptly. But it is pretty hard for us to do when we tell him where you live, for him to reply that there is no mail box thare. He is now putting some of your mail in your neighbors mail box until you get yours ready. All take hold and get your mail boxes put up and you shall have as good U. S. daily mail service as anyone in the state of Minnesota.

LIVING IN JAPAN.

Hard Work For the Middle Classes to Make Both Ends Meet.

Dr. Takata, Japanese minister of education, has recently published a book concerning economic conditions in Japan. The pinch comes harder upon the middle classes than upon the lower classes since the former must not only live, but must keep up a respectable appearance on salaries no greater than those that men who work at trades receive.

For example, according to Dr. Takata, a primary school teacher earns $15.50 a month, but his lowest budget for a family of four reaches $17.33. His wife must do work at home to earn the deficit. A magazine editor and writer who has a wife, two children and a maid spends $32.75 monthly on household sundries. His earnings are irregular, but always below his expenses. He has been compelled to borrow money from his wife's relatives, and her trousseau is not unknown to the pawnshops.

HIS FINISH.

A lady's hand a man doth ccccccc.
His fiery heart doth blaaaaaaa.
He crouches near her on his nceeeeee
And poureth forth his praaaaaaa.

He wooes her with a seeming eeeeeeee
And looks into her iiiiiii.
Says she: "Go 'way, you little ttttttt.
You can't fool me. I'm yyyyyyy."
—Puck.

So She Could.

"Do you ever prescribe by telephone, doctor?" asked the female.

"No, I couldn't see your tongue by telephone, you know."

"But I could give you a sample of it."—Yonkers Statesman.

A cripple in both limbs was he; his body, strong, alert—pathetic incongruity—'twas hopelessness that hurt. He sought an eddy in the crowd upon the busy way; "PUT down YOUR Country's foes, you men," he heard the speaker say;
"Your BEST is none too good

The cripple shuffled up the street; three men, new uniformed, just glanced at him, their pity that of Strength for the deformed.
That night, grown morbid,
this man saw in his sad plight, disgrace; then, in the morning sunlight flashed a Congreve thought! His face beamed radiance; and FOREMOST of that day's new

DIET AND DISEASE.

Rickets In Children Is Caused by the Wrong Kind of Foods.

"Beware of giving young children too much pasteurized milk, proprietary food or even cereals to the exclusion of brown bread and butter, stewed fruit or roasted apple and a little meat once a day," writes Dr. Beverley Robinson of New York in giving a warning note about rickets in the New York Medical Journal.

He adds that he is "considering especially children two or three years old who are healthy and vigorous unless rickets develops unawares by reason of faulty dietary." And he quotes the following from Osler:

"Like scurvy, rickets may be found in the families of the wealthy under perfect hygienic conditions. It is most common in children fed on condensed milk, the various proprietary foods, cow's milk and food rich in starches."

Rickets is the cause of knockknees and bowlegs. It is due to too little animal fat and protein in the dietary, together with too little lime salts.

Curious Choice of a Wife.

Some years ago an English curate surprised his parishioners by marrying a widow considerably older than himself. The astonishment was still greater when the cause was known. The curate had become engaged to a young girl whose frivolous conduct soon led him to regret the step. He offered a settlement for his release, but it was refused. He endeavored in every way to break the engagement, but without success.

"Is there nothing I can do to escape this?" he exclaimed one day in despair.

"Yes," remarked the girl's mother, who was present and who had been the prime mover in the marriage negotiations, "by marrying me."

The curate decided if he had to marry one of the two he preferred the mother and accepted her. The young girl married a wealthy stockbroker.

THE MILITARY AVIATOR.

He Must Be a Soldier, a Mechanic and Absolutely Fearless.

It takes nine months to make a military aviator. The profession makes the severest possible demand upon the resources of the individual. It requires a combination of physique, of courage, of nerve poise, to make the expert flier, while to do the work of an aviator in war involves technical skill that can hardly be characterized as short of scientific.

The military flier must be a soldier, a mechanic and a daredevil. Besides sailing his craft and fighting his enemies, he must be mathematician enough to make his observations, artist enough to take photographs, telegrapher enough to operate his wireless, navigator enough to pick his way by means of map and compass over unfamiliar landscapes and resourceful enough to contend with fog, with cloud and with the thousand and one contingencies which the hazards of the air involve. Furthermore, his most difficult technical duties must be performed while that element of the death constant with which he always rides is augmented by the nasty rattle of aerial machine guns around and above him and the yap of bursting anti-aircraft shells which pursue him from below. No man with the effects of dissipation vitiating his blood and unsettling his nerves can be trusted with the issues of the air.—Peter Clark Macfarlane in Collier's Weekly.

Diplomatic.

Knicker—Did they name the baby for a wealthy relative so he would leave something?

Bocker—No; they named it for the cook so she wouldn't leave.

Her Curves.

The female pitcher is a theme
That always serves,
And every jokesmith does a wheeze
About her curves.
—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Doubtful Affection.

"Does your teacher like you, Tommy?" inquired the friend of the family.

"I guess so," replied the young hopeful. "She used to quarrel with me because I didn't know my lessons, but she says now that, for all she cares, I can stay in her class for the rest of her life."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

An Art Aphorism.

Here is an art aphorism from Jean Francois Millet: "I have been reproached for not observing detail; I see it, but I prefer to construct the synthesis which as an artistic effort is higher and more robust. You reproach me with insensibility to charm; why, I open your eyes to that which you do not perceive, but which is none the less real—the dramatic."

Wedding Custom From France.

The custom of wearing orange blossoms at weddings is of comparatively recent date in this country. It came to us, like most other fashions in dress, from the French, who in their turn derived it from Spain. In the latter country it had long obtained, and is said to have been of Moorish origin.

The Good Fight Not for Today.

A good fight is never for its day alone—it is for many days; and it is not alone for him who bears its utmost stress. No man can live his own life bravely and quietly and not be an energy of social good, virtue proceeding from him to heat some brother's wounded heart.—Exchange.

Think Before You Speak.

When we are tempted to do a mean act, to speak the unkind word, to be grasping and selfish, let us set our imaginations to work and picture next year, next decade. How will our act look then? What shall we think then and wish we had done?—Exchange.

The Flour Beetle.

The so-called weevil is the early form for a species of beetle that breeds in flour or meal, often rendering it unfit for food. It is sometimes called the flour beetle. The only way to keep it out of flour is to keep the flour carefully closed and protected.

What One Most Needs.

If we find but one to whom we can speak out our heart freely, with whom we can walk in love and simplicity without dissimulation, we have no ground to quarrel with the world or God.—R. L. Stevenson.

Brush the Teeth With Apple.

An apple eaten in the evening will cleanse the teeth mechanically and chemically, says the Popular Science Monthly, and if followed by vigorous brushing will protect them from bacteria during the night.

Very New.

A little girl out walking with her mother saw a dog with a license tag on his collar and exclaimed: "Oh, mother, there's a new dog that they haven't taken the tag off of yet."

Happiness.

"When you think you'd be happy if you was let alone," said Uncle Eben, "remember dat even then you'd mebbe be so lonesome you couldn't be happy."

No Hurry.

Bess—"Oh, yes, I know that he is a perfect angel, but there will be plenty of time to mix with them after one gets to heaven."

Not a Good Seller.

"Is this a free translation of Homer you have made?" "Guess it is," gloomily responded the author thereof. "I can't seem to sell it to anybody."

Man's Wealth.

The wealth of a man is the number of things he loves and blesses, which he is loved and blessed by.—Thomas Carlyle.

The Second Stage.

"Sold your car yet?" "No," replied the melancholy motorist. "I passed that stage long ago." "Indeed." "Yes. I'm trying to give it away now."

See Only Good in People.

It is a mistake to grow tired of people or their efforts to please. The vast majority of us are trying to do our best. True, some of our number make a brilliant showing, while others do not cause a ripple of comment. But if we are going to get any real satisfaction out of life we cannot stop to weigh people's capabilities or attainments, but should, on the other hand, be grateful for whatever consideration they show us, and only see in them all that is splendid and good.—Exchange.

"Burning Bush" Remarkable Plant.

The "Burning Bush," which is known to botanists as the Dictamnus fraxinella, is regarded as one of the most wonderful plants in the world. This plant is native to western Asia, though it is now found in some gardens of the temperate zone. In connection with the Dictamnus it is rather remarkable that the species is common where the incident of Moses and the Burning Bush is said to have occurred.

Daily Thought.

God is love. Therefore love. Without distinction, without calculation, without procrastination, love. Lavish it upon the poor, where it is very easy; especially upon the rich, who often need it most; most of all upon our equals, where it is very difficult, and for whom perhaps we do least of all.—H. Drummond.

Our Difficult Language.

Apropos of the difficulties that our foreign-born friends experience in learning "United States," a subscriber writes: "A boy born a Dane and raised in a German family came to me and said: 'Will you borrow me your wheelbarrow?' and when he saw me smile he said, 'I mean, can I lend it from you?'"—Outlook.

Kieff Is Picturesque.

The most beautiful city in Russia is said to be, not Petrograd or Moscow, which lack perspective, the one lying flat on the level of the Neva, and the other situated on an insignificant stream, but Kieff, the ancient capital of the Cossacks, which lies on the heights overlooking the rolling Dnieper.

Hopeful.

"Cheer up," says a Georgia philosopher. "High prices are sure to come down some time or other, if only to see the place where you buried what they didn't get."—Atlanta Constitution.

Never to Be Forgotten.

A man may forget home, kindred, friends and almost everything else, but he never forgets the first time he went into a barber shop to get a shave.

Most men are loved merely because they are men and not because of any unusual charm.—Atchison Globe.

Use of Classics Declining.

The use of Greek, Latin and mathematics in the higher education of America is declining. In a few years it will be as rare for a student to know Greek as today it is for him to know Hebrew; and it will not take more than a generation or two for Latin to follow the same course. How long the higher reaches of mathematics—those noble and inviting reaches in which philosophy, poetry and imagination combine to play with the intricacies of space and the notations of time—will continue to find extensive educational use is also a question.—The Youth's Companion.

Beginning Early.

Dorothy, who is seven, must have heard some elder lamenting the lost days of youth. IMMENSE YIELDS PROMISED ON MOST OF SEASON'S CROPS

CORN TO SURPASS ALL PREVIOUS YEARS WITH FEW WEEKS' FREEDOM FROM FROST TO ALLOW MATURING.

WHEAT WILL EXCEED LAST YEAR'S HARVEST

Spring Wheat Yields Turning Out Better Than Expected—Year's Yield to Be 28,000,000 Bushels Greater Than Last Year, But Below Record—Oats Make Record.

Washington, Sept. 10. — Corn, the country's greatest crop, needs only a few weeks' freedom from frost to mature into the largest production ever known in the history of the nation. The government's September crop report forecasts a production of 3,248,000,000 bushels, which is 124,000,000 bushels more than produced in the record year 1912.

Corn prospects improved to the extent of 53,000,000 bushels as a result of good weather during August, the Kansas crop showing improvement to the extent of almost 40,000,000 bushels, and Missouri 23,000,000 bushels. Declines were recorded in other states.

Wheat Better Than Expected.

Spring wheat yields are turning out better than expected and the September forecast showed an increase of 14,000,000 bushels over the production forecast in August with a total of 250,000,000 bushels. Adding the winter wheat production, a total yield of 668,000,000 bushels of wheat this year was announced. That is 28,000,000 bushels more than last year's harvest, but 138,000,000 bushels less than the average of the crops for the five years, 1911-1915.

Record Oats Crop Assured.

Besides the record crop of corn, larger production than ever before will be harvested in oats with 1,533,000,000 bushels; rye with 56,000,000 bushels, potatoes with 462,000,000 bushels, sweet potatoes with 88,200,000 bushels, tobacco with 1,221,000,000 pounds, and hay with 91,700,000 tons.

Oats prospects increased 79,000,000 bushels during August, but tobacco lost 49,000,000 pounds.

In a summary of crop conditions, the crop reporting board said:

"The great corn crop of 3,250,000,000 bushels promised on September 1, which is 123,000,000 bushels above any previous year, will be realized fully in the form of sound corn only provided frost holds off unusually late. A good big crop of sound corn is promised if killing frost in the main belt does not come earlier than usual. The indicated outcome results from a big acreage.

GERMAN PEOPLE WANT PEACE BY CONCILIATION

Chancellor Urged to Discredit Present Pan-German Maneuvers for "A Hindenburg Peace."

Amsterdam, Sept. 10. — The overwhelming majority of the German people are for a peace by conciliation, according to an article by Phillip Scheidemann published in the Vorwaerts. The article urges the imperial chancellor to discredit the present pan-German maneuvers for "a Hindenburg peace."

The Socialist leader says no one in Germany wants peace at any price, but that those who live with the people know the real feelings of the army and navy. They know Germany will defend herself to the last drop of blood and at the same time, they know also that Germany is ready today to sign a conciliatory peace. Therefore, Herr Scheidemann considers that the propaganda for conquest now being preached reaches the limit of consciencelessness.

KAISER INTRIGUING FOR ROUMANIA AS AN ALLY

Russian Tells Countrymen Every Means Must Be Used to Foil Teuton Diplomatic Plan.

Petrograd, Sept. 10.—Germany is intriguing to turn Roumania into an ally and member of the bloc of nations that are to constitute "Mittel Europa." Her diplomatic feelers at the court of King Ferdinand are accompanied by preparations for a big drive to conquer what is still left to the Roumanians of their country if the offer of separate peace is turned down. Field Marshal von Mackensen's huge army which threatens to overrun Moldavia at any moment is held as a club over the head of the Roumanian ruler.

Italy Takes 30,000 Prisoners.

Udine, Italy, Sept. 10.—About 30,000 prisoners have been taken to date by the Italians in their present offensive, while the total losses of the Austrians are estimated at 120,000. The Austrian plan now seems to be to remain on the defensive along the eastern ridge of the Bainsizza plateau, where their positions, about 1,000 feet high, dominate those occupied by the Italians by several hundred feet, at the same time centering the efforts of their best troops on the Carso in the hope of checking the march on Trieste.

BEGIN DRIVE ON SEDITION

COMMITTEE LED BY ROOSEVELT SENDS OUT CALL.

To Further Campaign to Destroy All Disloyalty in the United States—Peace Through Victory.

New York, Sept. 11.—A call to all citizens, irrespective of race or creed, to join in a movement to crush disloyalty within the United States, and to labor for the assimilation of aliens on an exclusive American standard has been issued here by a committee of native and foreign-born Americans headed by Theodore Roosevelt.

The appeal is entitled, "The true test of loyal Americanism today is effective service against Germany."

All Are Americans.

"Of us who sign," the statement concluded, "some are Protestants, some are Catholics, some are Jews. Most of us were born in this country of parents born in various countries of the Old World; some of us were born abroad. All of us are Americans, and nothing but Americans."

Among the signers are Oscar B. Straus, Henry L. Slobdin, Michael I. Pupin, Anthony Fiala, Henry Reuterdahl, Julius Kahn, George von L. Meyer, William Loeb, Jr., and Karl H. Behr.

Peace By Victory.

Declaring that "it would be an act of baseness and infamy, an act of unworthy cowardice and a betrayal of this country and of mankind to accept any peace except the peace of overwhelming victory, a peace based on the complete overthrow of the Prussianized Germany of the Hohenzollerns," the committee urges all loyal citizens to communicate with the vigilantes of New York to further the campaign to destroy sedition and disloyalty in the United States.

PATRIOTS BREAK UP BIG SOCIALIST MEET AT DALE

Anti-War Band Is Routed and Their Fiasco Is Turned Into Huge Loyalty Rally.

Dale, Minn., Sept. 10.—A crowd of approximately three thousand loyal Americans, including 500 armed Home Guards, charged a band of Minnesota Socialists who were holding a meeting here, and turned the Socialistic fiasco into a monster patriotic rally.

This drastic action was prompted by the suspicion that the Socialists intended to spread seditious propaganda, as posters advertising the meeting indicated that a vigorous protest would be made against sending American soldiers to European battlefields and that a branch of the so-called People's Council, recently barred from holding a convention in Minnesota, would be organized.

Headed by representatives of the State Public Safety commission the invaders took possession of the hall and ejected three scheduled speakers, including W. R. Reynolds, editor of the Labor Leader, Duluth.

The general sentiment of the crowd was that if the Socialists or any member of the People's Council attempted to stage any more meetings here, that there would be no hesitancy in dealing harshly with them.

ENEMY IS NOT TO DRIVE ON PETROGRAD THIS YEAR

"Important Personality" Quoted—Kaiser Celebrates at Riga—Gives Decorations — Names Governor.

Amsterdam, Sept. 10.—The Germans "are unlikely to continue their offensive toward Petrograd this year," according to "an important personality" quoted by the Berlin correspondent of the Poliken.

Emperor William has arrived at Riga, a Berlin dispatch reports. He reviewed the troops and distributed decorations on the battlefield.

He also announced appointment of General von Alten as governor of the city.

ALL SOCIALISTS URGED TO BACK GOVERNMENT

Delegates to American Alliance For Labor and Democracy Issue Statement.

New York, Sept. 10.—All Socialists in the United States, organized and unorganized, were urged to "put all their energy, strength, ardor and enthusiasm at the disposal of the government so that the war may be carried to a rapid and victorious conclusion," in a statement issued by Socialist delegates to the Minneapolis conference of the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy on their return here.

Incendiary Bullet Kills U. S. Flier.

Paris, Sept. 10.—Corporal Everett Buckley of the Lafayette escadrille has been killed in an attack with two fellow American flyers against five German planes, according to word received here. Buckley fell with his machine, which had been ignited by an incendiary bullet. Buckley was one of the most popular members of the American flying squadron. He was 24 years old. Edwin Parsons of Springfield, Mass., a member of the Lafayette escadrille, has brought down his first German airplane.

Julius Schmahl, secretary of state, will deliver an address at Aitkin at the county fair Thursday afternoon, Sept. 27. A baby show will be among the attractions and a prize of $3 will be awarded the prettiest baby and $2 as a second prize. A "bowery" will be erected inside the fair grounds and dancing will be one of the amusements.

Threshing is now going on in full blast all over the country around Hallock. The wheat yield is quite satisfactory, running from 10 to 40 bushels per acre, according to local conditions during the growing season, which either assisted or retarded its growth. The average is given by those who have made careful estimates at about twenty bushels per acre.

It is estimated that over 4,000 persons from Polk and Norman counties witnessed the parade of drafted men and took part in the exercises that were held at the East Side park at Ada. The Ada and Spring Valley bands were in the parade. Addresses were delivered by State Auditor Preus, Judge Hallam and Judge Grindeland of Warren and Rev. Mr. Beck of Ada.

Definite action toward securing a new charter for Bemidji was taken by the city council when the appointment of a committee of two members to act with the city attorney in making arrangements to have the district judges appoint a new charter commission at the regular fall term of court was authorized. Members of the council believe that the present charter does not fill the needs of the city and that a new one is needed.

The hunting season for small game will open September 16, despite the recent ruling of the attorney general that hunting on that day would be in violation of the Sunday law, and consequently game could not be taken legally on that day, according to unofficial reports at the Capitol. Protests that enforcement of the Sunday law would operate simply to the advantage of sportsmen who can spare time to go hunting on business days gave rise to a report that state game wardens will not arrest violators of the Sunday law.

Twenty boats, carrying approximately 160,000 tons of anthracite and bituminous coal, arrived in the Duluth harbor in one day, registering one of the largest days of the present season in coal receipts at the Duluth-Superior docks. The coal situation is slowly improving, it is said, and as the effects of the priority order are expected to show up this week, a great gain in tonnage up the lake is looked for.

The Winona authorities are investigating to learn a motive for the circulation of a report in a foreign-speaking section of the city that the government proposes to seize all canned goods except ten cans, the allotment allowed for any family.

ACTION TO HOLD UP FUND FOR SCHOOLS

TAXPAYER WOULD STOP PAYING DEFICIT OUT OF CURRENT FUNDS.

2,058 MEN GIVEN POSITIONS

State Public Safety Commission's Employment Bureau Also Assigns 961 Women to Places During Month of August.

St. Paul.

Injunction proceedings have been started by J. F. Mussel, a taxpayer of Foley, Benton county, to restrain state officials from paying out of current state school aid funds, the deficits in 1915-1916 state aid to high and graded schools as ordered by the state high school board after Governor Burnquist vetoed the $1,070,193 speciol deficit appropriation voted by the last legislature.

In the action to test the legality of the high school board order, District Judge Haupt of Ramsey county, on application by the complainant's attorney, signed an order to show cause returnable next Saturday and addressed to C. G. Schulz, state superintendent of education; Henry Rines, state treasurer, and J. A. O. Preus, state auditor.

Mr. Mussel alleges that the payment of the deficit from current bonds as proposed is unauthorized and contrary to law and that it will deplete current school aid funds, increase his individual taxes as a property owner at Foley and cause him irreparable damage. He contends further that the 1917 state school aid appropriation of $2,637,545 for 1917 and $2,400,000 for 1918 will be needed during those years and that payment of the existing deficits from either amount would simply create new deficits.

Many Are Given Employment.

The special employment bureau opened by the Minnesota Public Safety commission in Minnesota to give state-wide war time service, furnished jobs to 2,058 men and 961 women during August, the report of Assistant Superintendent H. J. Beckerle to the commission shows.

While 3,899 application for help were received, 3,175 men applied for places and 2,058 reported that they obtained work. That there is a shortage in harvest help is shown by a special statement revealing that 1,023 applications for work and 996 for help were received and that 951 places were filled. The report showed that 1,134 women applied for places and that 1,195 applications for help were listed. Nine hundred and sixty-one women were hired, including three on agricultural work.

Sizing Up Draft Timber.

Capt. M. R. Nyman was in the Twin Cities from Camp Dodge, Des Moines, conferring with local draft boards regarding the quality of men to be furnished to the camp in the first contingents. He is executive officer of ammunition trains and has been detailed to line up the trained timber in the first delivery to the draft army for special work in various services, supply, sanitary, engineering and the like.

As the local boards have based their groups of men to be sent first to camp according to occupation as well as previous military experience, Captain Nyman is getting a line on the number of skilled men, such as chauffeurs, bakers, cooks, carpenters, blacksmiths, wagon makers, and so on, to be expected from Minneapolis.

Two Officials Face Disloyalty Charges.

Two inspectors in the state dairy and food commission are facing disloyalty charges. A. J. Anderson, Lindstrom, inspector of canneries, is accused of using abusive language toward Governor Burnquist in a recent conversation with W. W. Rich, doorkeeper at the capitol, and was summoned to appear before Commissioner James Sorenson to explain. Affidavits from citizens at Barnum received alleged that John E. Lindberg a creamery inspector, said he was ashamed of the American flag, as recently reported. Commissioner Sorenson said the Lindberg case will be investigated by the civil service board and similar action taken against Anderson if the charges are pressed.

To Handle War Exhibit.

H. E. Wright, former assistant publicity agent for the Minnesota State Fair, has been appointed by the government to take charge of the organization of a war exhibit for the members of the American Association of Fairs and Expositions, whose fairs are held late in the fall. Mr. Wright has been in New York for several days. He severed connections with the Minnesota Fair to assume his new work. The first fair at which this exhibit will be shown is the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, Mass.

CRISIS OF WOMAN'S LIFE

Change Safely Passed by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wagoner, Okla.—"I never get tired of praising Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because during Change of Life I was in bed two years and had two operations, but all the doctors and operations did me no good, and I would have been in my grave today had it not been for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which brought me out of it all right, so I am now well and do all my housework, besides working in my garden. Several of my neighbors have got well by taking Lydia E. SAW HIS ERROR TOO LATE Misfortune Convinced Tommy He Had Used Salt Water on Wrong Portion of His Anatomy.

Tommy Tonkins was keen on baseball and particularly ambitious to make his mark as a catcher. Any hint, however, small, was welcomed if it helped on his advance in this department of the game. When he began to have trouble with his hands, and somebody suggested soaking them in salt water to harden the skin, he quickly followed the advice. Alas! a few days later Tommy had a misfortune. A hit at the bottom of the garden sent the ball crashing through a neighbor's sitting-room window. It was the third Tommy had broken since the season began.

Mrs. Torkins nearly wept in anger when Tommy broke the news.

"Yer father 'll skin yer when he comes home tonight!" she said.

Poor Tommp went outside trembling to reflect. His thoughts traveled to the punitive strap hanging in the kitchen and he eyed his hands ruefully.

"Ah!" he murmured, with a sigh. "I made a big mistake. I ought to have sat in that salt and water."

Juice of Lemons! How to Make Skin White and Beautiful

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quarter pint of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as sallowness, freckles and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It naturally should help to soften, freshen, bleach and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It is wonderful to smoothen rough, red hands. Adv.

Feed the Fighters! Win the War!!

Harvest the Crops — Save the Yields

On the battle fields of France and Flanders, the United States boys and the Canadian boys are fighting side by side to win for the World the freedom that Prussianism would destroy. While doing this they must be fed and every ounce of muscle that can be requisitioned must go into use to save this year's crop. A short harvest period requires the combined forces of the two countries in team work, such as the soldier boys in France and Flanders are demonstrating.

The Combined Fighters in France and Flanders and the Combined Harvesters in America WILL Bring the Allied Victory Nearer.

A reciprocal arrangement for the use of farm workers has been perfected between the Department of the Interior of Canada and the Departments of Labor and Agriculture of the United States, under which it is proposed to permit the harvesters that are now engaged in the wheat fields of Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Wisconsin to move over into Canada, with the privilege of later returning to the United States, when the crops in the United States have been conserved, and help to save the enormous crops in Canada which by that time will be ready for harvesting.

IMPRESSIVE IN HIS SPEECH

Old Soldier Endeavored to Make Vocabulary Fit the Responsibilities of His Position.

An old soldier was for a long time curator of a certain public educational institution. In accordance with the duties of his responsible position it sometimes fell to his lot to remind the students of forgotten regulations.

"Gentlemen," he shouted, on one occasion, when a game of leapfrog was going on in a somewhat shaky gallery, "why this violent disturbance?"

"Well," was the reply, "what business is it of yours?"

"Gentlemen," he responded, indignantly, displaying his full height, "do you know that I am placed here by the governors of this college to conserve this building?"

At another time the prank was played upon him of being simultaneously summoned by two students from different ends of the corridor.

"Gentlemen," he cried out, "I really cannot be uniquitous!"

On another occasion, after heavy rains, there was dire disaster of malodorous flood in the cellars.

"Sir," reported Thomas, to the principal, "the rain has permeated the soil and has resuscitated all the drains to overflowing!"

WOMEN! IT IS MAGIC! LIFT OUT ANY CORN

Apply a few drops then lift corns or calluses off with fingers—no pain.

Just think! You can lift off any corn or callus without pain or soreness.

A Cincinnati man discovered this ether compound and named it freezone. Any druggist will sell a tiny bottle of freezone, like here shown, for very little cost. You apply a few drops directly upon a tender corn or callus. Instantly the soreness disappears, then shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it right off.

Freezone is wonderful. It dries instantly. It doesn't eat away the corn or callus, but shrivels it up without even irritating the surrounding skin.

Hard, soft or corns between the toes, as well as painful calluses, lift right off. There is no pain before or afterwards. If your druggist hasn't freezone, tell him to order a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.—adv.

AMERICA EXPECTS SWEDEN TO PURGE HERSELF OF STAIN

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS OF OPINION DISAVOWAL OF ANY PARTICIPATION IN GERMAN INTRIGUE MUST COME.

SWEDES MUST TAKE STEPS TO SHOW THEIR GOOD FAITH

Any Attempt to Color Incident As Forecasting Diplomatic Break Between United States and Sweden Is Deplored at Capitol.

Washington, Sept. 11.—State department officials continue their policy of absolute silence regarding the government's exposure of how Sweden's legation in Argentina acted as a secret channel of communication for Count Luxburg, German charge in Buenos Aires, and the Berlin foreign office, but it is plain they deplore any attempt to color the incident as forecasting a diplomatic break between the United States and Sweden.

No such development is even thought of at this juncture. At the present stage it is wholly a matter between Argentina, Sweden and Germany, with the United States, her Allies, and the rest of the world interested onlookers, eager to know how the most remarkable train of events will be explained or dealt with by the three governments.

Germany's Probable Action.

Germany's probable action is more or less discounted. Anxious to retain the friendship of the few nations which have not gone to war with her, it is expected that amends will be offered to Argentina for the German charge's references to the foreign minister as a "notorious ass" and his recommendations that Argentine ships be destroyed "without leaving any trace." This might take the form of Luxburg's recall and a repudiation of his action.

Conjecture on Argentina.

How Argentina will receive the insult, coming close on her "diplomatic victory" with Germany is the subject of a good deal of conjecture. Undoubtedly public opinion in Argentina will go far toward determining that point.

To Sweden, however, the United States, and its Allies as well, looks for action which will purge the Swedish government and the Stockholm foreign office of the stigma of knowingly having been Germany's tool in her newest intrigue. American officials would like to believe that Sweden officially discountenances any such encroachments on her neutrality and that Sweden's legation was imposed upon by Luxburg.

May Not Have Known.

Officials and diplomats entertain the possibility that it may have transmitted Luxburg's dispatches without knowing their exact contents, taking the German charge's word that they were no breach of Sweden's obligations to Argentina. They also entertain the possibility that Luxburg, with a diplomacy of which the world has learned more since German secrets began to leak out, may have told the Swedish legation one thing and written another in his dispatches.

Whatever becomes the accepted explanation, officials and diplomats here are unanimous in their belief that Sweden must disavow any participation or responsibility, and take appropriate steps to show her good faith.

PEOPLE'S COUNCIL HAS SELECTED SIOUX FALLS

Plans to Hold Convention in That City But Governor States He Will Not Allow It.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Sept. 11. — The People's Council of America, which was not permitted to meet in Minneapolis, Minnesota or Wisconsin, has selected Sioux Falls as the place for holding its national convention in September, according to printed announcements of the meeting received here.

It is doubtful whether the convention will be held. Governor Peter Norbeck has announced that he would prohibit the organization from meeting in the state.

Miss Anna Maley, a stenographer in the office of Mayor Van Lear of Minneapolis, will address the Sioux Falls meeting, the announcement states. Seymor Stedman of Chicago is another speaker.

Mayor Burnside said he would not allow the meeting to be held in any building that is owned or maintained by the city.

Contortionist Fools Draft Doctors.

Mansfield, Ohio, Sept. 10.—Draft board examining physicians were puzzled when Stephen T. Dalton of Shelby came up for examination. "His hip is dislocated," said one doctor. "No his hips are all right, but his left shoulder's out of joint," insisted the second examiner. The third found an elbow in bad condition, but the hip and shoulder all right. Dalton is a contortionist who at will can throw bones out of joint and appear badly crippled. After first puzzling the physicians he then passed the examination.

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

Canadian Farmers Profit From Wheat

The war's devastation of European crops has caused an unusual demand for grain from the American Continent. The people of the world must be fed and wheat near $2 a bushel offers great profits to the farmer. Canada's invitation is therefore especially attractive. She wants settlers to make money and happy, prosperous homes for themselves by helping her raise immense wheat crops.

You can get a Homestead of 160 acres FREE and other lands at remarkably low prices. During many years Canadian wheat fields have averaged 20 bushels to the acre many yields as high as 45 bushels to the acre. Wonderful crops also of Oats, Barley and Flax.

Mixed farming as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses full of nutrition are the only food required for beef or dairy purposes. Good schools, churches, markets convenient, climate excellent.

There is an extra demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for the war. The Government is urging farmers to put extra acreage into grain. Write for literature and particulars as to reduced railway rates to Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR
HARRIETT G. HUNT, PUB.

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 30 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn. under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879

Our young men of America begin to show the world, that they are no slackers. The trouble was that the common people did not understand the true situation until it had been explained to them. In a few months more it will not be necessary to have any drafting for service, to defend this country as our boys of today are just as good and true patriots as have ever lived in America. All they have asked for is to be told what they were fighting for, and they are being told now by a patriotic American press and a patriotic American People.

Would Raise Deer.

A movement, based on commercial considerations, is being initiated for the wider rearing of deer in order to make venison more popular as a diet. It is pointed out that elk and deer may be raised to advantage in forests and on rough, brushy ground unfitted for either agriculture or stock-raising thus utilizing for profit much land that is now waste. One of the added advantages is that the business is well adapted to landowners of small means.

Hawaii Has 240,000 People.

Hawaii was annexed by the United States in 1898. The islands cover 6,740 square miles. The last United States census of the islands gave a population of about 192,000, and it is believed to be now somewhere in the neighborhood of 240,000. This country imports more than $50,000,000 worth of sugar annually from Hawaii. Powerful wireless stations link up the United States and Japan. Pearl Harbor is one of our most important naval stations.

The Secretary Bird.

The secretary bird gets its name from the tufts of feathers which grow on either side of its head, and look exactly like a bunch of pens stuck behind a clerk's ear. The bird has long legs and large wings, with which it can ascend to a great height. It builds a strong nest in a tree, and lives in it year after year, subsisting on small animals and tiny snakes.

No Need to Worry.

A lady of nice consideration said: "Manda, I'm not going to send you my wash to do this week because my children have scarlet fever, and I don't want your children to get it, so I'll have the clothes fumigated." Replied the colored woman: "You don't need to worry about that, ma'am; my children had the scarlet fever three weeks ago."

Man's Aspirations.

The more a man knows the clearer becomes his consciousness of ignorance. The greater his virtues the more keenly sensible is he of his defects. The nearer he approaches to perfection the more strongly does he feel that his aspirations can only be fully realized in the great hereafter.—Exchange.

EPIGRHYMES:

I guess I'm full of sentiment; and sentiment, they say, is but a synonym for
"rot"—a thing that "does not pay." But COULD I look the image of Abe Lincoln in the face; or would my LOVE
bring aught to Her save insult and disgrace; or would
I LESS than coward be if I SHOULD smile, today, and chirp: "This patriotic 'Love of Country' doesn't pay?"
'Tis not "To BE much HAPPIER" that you and I enlist—though happiness that's sweet and strong, for cowards, can't exist—it is because, deep in our souls, lives this subconscious vow: "Some day
I'll prove that I'm a man!"
That day has come—right NOW.
And when the war is over, when we whisper Love's Sweet Song she'll cherish, infinitely more, the tender love that's strong. And if the physical—the flesh—before the end shall die, and she shall know the body lies beneath some foreign sky, she'll know that Bailey's words are dead—that some day, in some cloud her arms will find the man she loves, who, dying, made her proud!

—Robert Russell.

THE LIBERTY BOND.

By Knute Nelson, U.S. Senator from Minnesota.

Our Country is now an active participant in a great war in which we must be victorious. Large funds are needed to carry on this war successfully. Such funds must be secured partly by direct taxation and partly by the issuance of bonds. To undertake to carry on the war entirely with direct taxes would place too heavy a burden upon the present generation, hence it is proper that a part of the burden, in the form of bonds, should be cast upon those to come after us, especially as they will not contribute their young manhood to the war, as we do.

The Liberty Bonds are the obligations of our Government, the best security in the world and when it is remembered that in addition to their interest, they are free from taxation, they are equivalent to a taxable bond drawing at least from 5½ to 6 per cent interest.

The proceeds from these bonds will not be sent abroad but will be expended among our own people to pay for the supplies our Allies purchase in this country, the allies reimbursing our Government for these advances by the issuance of their own bonds, payable to the United States. The funds thus obtained from the sale of these bonds will not only prove of great assistance to our Allies in carrying on the war successfully, but will serve to stimulate and extend the markets for the products of the farms and factories of this country.

These bonds are issued in such such small denominations, that a large share of our people can easily subscribe for same, and there can be no better token of our loyalty and devotion to the cause of our country in this great war than to subscribe for these bonds.

We cannot all be in the fighting line, but all of us, the high and low, the young and old, the men of moderate means as well as the wealthy, from city or country can and ought to subscribe to these bonds.

In our former wars, especially during the Civil War, our Government was compelled to issue bonds in large quantities, but these bonds were taken mostly by the banks and not by the people at large. This great Liberty Loan ought not to be left in the hands of the banks, but rather in the hands of the great mass of our people, those who are the mainstay of the Republic in peace and in war.

It is the duty of all patriotic and loyal citizens, according to their means to subscribe for "The Second Liberty Loan of 1917", which will soon be announced by Secretary McAdoo. It is a duty which, to my mind, comes next to the duty of enlistment in the ranks of the army. We who are not in a condition to contribute our lives to the struggle certainly ought to be willing to contribute our means to aid in the successful prosecution of the war.

Making Tin.

The tin of trade is not pure, but has in it a little iron, lead or arsenic. Tin is a metal of chemistry. Its principal ore is called tin stone or tin oxide and is made up of tin and oxygen. To obtain the tin the ore is heated in furnaces with charcoal. The carbon of the charcoal unites with the oxygen of the ore, forming carbonic acid gas, which passes off into the air, leaving the tin, which melts and is drawn off and cooled in iron molds. This is called block tin. Tin ore is chiefly found in Cornwall, England; Banca, in Dutch East Indies; Malacca and Queensland and New South Wales, in Australia. Tin was used by the ancients. The Phoenicians obtained most of their tin from the British isles. When the Romans conquered Britain they worked the tin mines in Cornwall by means of slaves.

GRAVEDIGGER BEETLES.

These Queer Insects Have a Remarkable Sense of Smell.

When an animal dies in a garden or in the woods and decomposition begins carrion bugs come from far and near. A dead bird, a mouse or a harmless snake wantonly killed by some wanderer provides a banquet for hundreds of insects. Among these the "gravediggers" are found, embracing forty-three species, twelve of which are found in Europe, the rest in America.

You can identify these beetles, says the Popular Science Monthly, by the two jagged yellowish red or reddish transverse bands upon their black wing covers. Their scientific name, necrophorus, means no more than "buriers of the dead." As undertakers the insects have legs especially adapted for digging.

A gravedigger beetle has a most extraordinary sense of smell. He can detect the peculiar odor of decomposition a long distance away and flies to the dead thing as straight as an arrow. His remarkably keen nose is situated in his clublike feelers.

As a rule several gravediggers are found near a dead body. They crawl under it and scratch the supporting earth away, so that the body soon lies in a hollow. Gradually the body is lowered until it sinks below the surface. Then it is covered with earth. The female lays her eggs around the interred form, thus insuring for the newly hatched larvae a plentiful food supply.

Emeralds and Beryls.

There is no decline in the vogue of the emerald, using the word not in the generic sense of the trade, but for a beryl of the accepted green emerald hue. Fine specimens always cause a flutter in the auction room, for the very good reason that those are extremely rare. Perfect stones are as costly as fine rubies and, of course, much more so relatively than diamonds.

The Duke of Devonshire owns what is believed to be the largest and nearest faultlessness in existence, and it came from Muzo, in Colombia, the main source of modern examples. The ancient emeralds of great magnitude we read of were probably not beryls at all, and, indeed, "oriental emerald" is the designation of the green corundum.—London Chronicle.

How to Begin the Day.

Begin the morning by saying to thyself: I shall meet this day with the busybody, the ungrateful, the arrogant, deceitful, envious, unsocial. All these things happen to them by reason of their ignorance of what is good and evil. But I, who have seen the nature of the good that it is beautiful and of the bad that it is ugly, cannot be injured by any of them.—Marcus Aurelius.

Washington Monument.

The cornerstone of the Washington monument was laid on its fine site, which overlooks Washington, Georgetown, Arlington and Mount Vernon, by President Polk July 4, 1848. Its marble shaft rises in all the dignity of unadorned simplicity to the height of 555 feet. The base of the shaft is fifty-five feet square, and it gradually tapers until at the 500 foot point it has diminished to less than thirty-five feet. This monument is said to contain 18,000 blocks of marble, each two feet thick. They were lifted on an elevator run by steam, suspended in an inner framework of iron, which was built up in intervals, thirty or forty feet at a time in advance of the surrounding masonry. The aluminum capstone, nine inches high, was set in position Dec. 6, 1884, thirty-six years and a half after the cornerstone was laid.

Anyone having business with the County Attorney's office should call at the office of E.M. Stanton, located in the same block who is looking after the County Attorney's office, since County Attorney Kjemme went to war.

Since the change in our mail route all articles for publication should be sent us so as to reach this office by Wednesday noon, to insure publication the same week. Legal notices reaching us by the Thursday mail will be published on Friday.

County Treasurer Theo H. Liden accompanied by his wife was up this way on a hunting trip last Sunday. He has been in active training in the home guards at Thief River Falls for the past few months, which has given him the appearance of a U. S. soldier, more than a County official.

Post Master Ellingson, of Highlanding informs us that the people living on the north side of Red Lake River, are to soon have a daily mail service, between Kratka and Highlanding. The mail to leave Goodridge in the morning going to Erie, from there to Kratka, by way of Highlanding returning to Goodridge on the north road. This route would certainly make a big improvement on the mail service of that territory.

The people of north eastern Deer Park and the northwestern part of Hickory townships are going to petition the post office department for an extension of the Rudell mail route, to connect with the Sunbeam p.o. daily mail route at noon. Coming from Rudell farther east than the present route, and returning to Rudell by way of Rhoda Post office. This would give mail service to large numbers of people living on the south side of the Red Lake River, that were former patrons of Neptune, Hilda and Radney post offices, which have been discontinued, and who now have to go a long distance to their mail box.

There seems to be some difficulty with the Highlanding Creamery, which should be adjusted by a prompt meeting of the board of Directors, and an investigation made of the situation. We as residents of this territory, who have our homes here, and our hard cash invested in that Creamery cannot afford to sit idly by and see it ruined by shipping cream to creameries outside our own territory. Let us have a friendly meeting and talk over the situation and get together for the best interests of the community in which we live. If the board are unable to adjust the difficulties there should be a prompt meeting called of the Share holders.

CHANGES WROUGHT BY WAR

Thousands of English Women Compelled to Think of Home in Which Man Has No Part.

War has done strange things to women; it has made of thousands of them home-makers and home-lovers. In the days of peace there was a great restlessness, a craving for club or corporate life, but out of the confusions and disruptions of war has been born a deep longing for quiet things and for the solitude of the home, remarks the London Daily Mail.

Clubs and hotels for women were popular three years ago, especially those which were run on common-sense lines without annoying rules and restrictions. Because so many women must live in London today, and because there is so little room for them, most of these hostels are full. But they are now unpopular. They are regarded as useful stopgaps. In the heart of almost every hostel-dweller, however, there burns a secret desire for a little house of her own, a house that is utterly unconnected with marriage and motherhood.

The dream of wifehood that shone as a star for so many girls before the war has faded away. Happy mating is the remotest of possibilities for hundreds of thousands of woman workers today. Women have given not only their husbands but their lovers to the battlefield, and so it is that the dream-home of tomorrow is one in which the man has no part.

love the sight OF John's
Prince Albert coat an' spats.
It makes no difference at ALL ef he is feelin' SAD, his cheery WORDS: "Good mornin', Friends," jest makes a feller glad. Why, even 'Smanthy said
OF him—an' 'Smanthy's TONGUE
ain't weak—"I bet ol' John's the feller put thet little 'Me' in 'Meek.'" But don't ye git a-thinkin' John ain't manly; he kin tell, OR write a cuss, with burnin' PEN, jest givin' him plain hell. THE SADDEST thought in ol' John's life, I honestly believes, is that he cannot give as much, each day, as he receives! But these ARE not the things thet makes me envy
Banker John; not THESE, an' not his riches are the things I dwells upon! But I look back to Sixty-One, when John an' me was boys,
a-growin' into manhood, when all life was full o' joys; an' then,
I hears agin the call to men—
young men—to fight—both North an' South fit honest fer the things they thought was right. Ol' John, he jined! Fer fifty year, from thet thar duty-root has growed his Tree o' Happiness! I sent a substitoot! Fer fifty year I've had regrets—remorse, all black, like Sin; with Whittier, I've wept
the words, Ol' man, "IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN!"*

IN that home ONE happy bunch will FORM a group, tonight, the same as what we allus
does; perhaps, whilst there is light, the lads 'll play at soldierin', OR, with the settin' sun, they'll make me tell ANOTHER tale—a tale
o' Sixty-One. An' whilst them boys IS hearin' o' THE GREAT

Amazing Thoroughfare.

Pennsylvania avenue, in your expectation of the Broadway of Washington, is more or less its Bowery, since proprietors, aware that the government will soon take over the holdings, see no object in improving them. Dowdy hotels bid for lodgers at 50 cents a night, 25 even. Shop windows teem with souvenirs; the capitol on brass slippers, the capitol on silver puppies, the capitol on patriotic dustpans, the capitol illuminated with mother of pearl. Chop suey resorts abound. On the way to his inauguration each new president passes a "home of burlesque," a penny arcade, a tattooist's studio and the shrine where a "beautiful lady palmist" reveals your name. And yet at the end of this amazing thoroughfare rises the matchless dome that crowns the capitol, which crowns a lordly eminence.—K. L. Hartt in the Century.

Rise of the Office Boy.

The coming of the office boy in England has often been a subject for comment since the outbreak of the war. Slowly but surely he has mounted in importance, taking the place of one clerk after another, until his horizon today is only bounded, and that not at all certainly, by the boss' office. A recent writer relates the following incident, which shows the office boy's progress: Both the principals were out, and the office boy explained this fact to a gentleman who called. Observing with sympathy, however, the gentleman's discomfiture at their absence, he suddenly drew forth his watch and encouragingly added: "But one or the other of 'em's bound to be here in ten minutes, because it'll be my dinner hour."—Christian Science Monitor.

Seeds Make Good Fuel.

Hundreds of tons of peach and apricot seeds, which have been thrown away every season heretofore by the canning factories in the great fruit districts of California, are now sold as fuel and bring $8.50 a ton retail. Formerly the seeds were considered too hard for fuel, but recently it was found that when heated in a stove burning hard coal they soon pop open and ignite, after which they burn with an intense glow like that of anthracite, and are practically smokeless, besides holding a fire well.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Scientific Bomb-Dropping.

The Germans have apparently taken the lead in the scientific phases of bomb-dropping from airplanes. According to reports from abroad, a recently captured German plane included an elaborate instrument for aiming the bomb in such a way that it would strike any given object on the ground below. The essential features of the device were a telescope so adjusted that it swung always perpendicular to the ground and a prismatic reflector which brought the country ahead of the line of flight into the field of vision. By the use of these two instruments, and by allowing for the altitude as determined by a barometer, the weight of the bomb, which fixes its speed of descent, and the speed of the airplane, which could be determined from the speed of the engine the aviator is enabled to aim and release his bomb in such a way as to strike close to any given objective.

New Machine-Gun Tripod.

Light in weight, free from the effects of vibration and permitting of rapid and free movement of the gun in any direction a recently perfected type of machine-gun tripod promises to extend the field of the present weapon. This tripod is provided with a ball and socket joint head, permitting the gun to be freely moved in any direction. To lock the gun a lever is given a slight turn, while the gun may be held at any angle in the clamp in which it rests. The new tripod can be readily carried about, and it is an ideal weapon for use in a motor car or motor boat, and as an anti-aircraft piece. In fact, it lends itself to all the customary uses of the machine gun, with many new ones besides.—Scientific American.

Free Speech.

Lincoln Steffens, the writer, believes in free speech—the right to say anything, any time and anywhere. And he has organized a club to that effect.

A short time ago Mr. Steffens made a speech advocating his theories. At the end he invited those who would to join his "Free Speech club." Only one man accepted the invitation.

He said: "I'd like to join your club long enough to tell you what I think about it."

Laid Up In Bed, Barely Holding Onto Life. Doan's Effected Marvelous Recovery.

"Without warning I was dragged to the brink of the grave by malignant kidney trouble," says Robert Wengatz, 114 Cypress Ave., Bronx, N. Y. "My kidneys seemed to stop acting and the pains in my back were terrible. Big, bloaty puffs came under my eyes and attacks of dizziness often blinded me. My limbs swelled twice normal size and I could press big dents into the flesh.

Mr. Wengatz.

"I was confined to bed and had convulsions several times a day. Despite the best of treatment, I grew worse and was taken to the hospital. I didn't improve, however, and was brought home again, barely holding onto life.

"Toward the last of 1913, a friend persuaded me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I cannot put into words what they did for me. The first box helped more than all the other medicines and treatments I had taken. I continued and from an emaciated wreck of a man I have taken on good, solid flesh until I now weigh 225 pounds and am in the best of health. Doan's alone deserve the credit."

"In this way," said Mr. Moore, smiling. "Noah had three sons, Shem, Ham, and, one more!"

Would Give Him Exercise.

Former Congressman George R. Smith of Minneapolis is fond of hunting and takes great pride in the ownership of a costly setter dog of noble birth. One day an old man, who was acting as guide for the hunt, came near making a lifelong enemy of Smith by criticizing the dog's technique in the field.

"The dog's perfectly all right," declared Smith, indignantly. "I wouldn't trade him for any dog I ever saw, only he doesn't get quite enough exercise. I'm busy and have to keep him penned up a good deal. He ought to have more exercise and that would improve his hunting."

"Has he got any fleas?" inquired the old man.

"Should say not," replied Smith, insulted. "That dog has his bath every week the same as I hope you do."

"Why don't you give him a few fleas?"

"What do you mean, give him fleas? Why should I want a fine dog like him to have fleas?"

"Well," opined the guide, thoughtfully, "they'd give him exercise."—St. Louis Republic.

U. S. SUCCESS PERILED

AIRPLANE BOARD HEAD URGES GOVERNOR TO ACT.

Timber Needed for Planes Cannot Be Secured Because of Strike in Spruce Mills of Northwest.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 17.—Stating in effect that America's success or failure in the war may depend on the outcome of labor troubles in the Northwest, H. E. Coffin, head of the airplane board, has wired Governor Lister of Washington urging immediate action to control the situation.

"It is imperative that the labor troubles in the spruce mills, particularly in Grays Harbor and Willapa Harbor, be controlled and I ask you to use your executive power and authority to this end.

"Success or failure in America's war plans may well depend upon the decisiveness of your action."

The labor situation in Washington became critical when shipwrights, joiners, caulkers, ship carpenters, doing carpenter work and helpers, variously estimated at from 2,000 to 4,000, struck in Seattle shipyards against the use of lumber manufactured in mills working 10 hours a day. Several wooden shipyards were inconvenienced.

BIG POTATO CROP PREDICTED

Will Amount to 462,000,000 Bushels, Says Vrooman.

Washington, Sept. 17. — America's potato crop will be a vital factor in winning the war, according to Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carl Vrooman. "The country will have at least 100,000,000 bushels of potatoes in excess of the 200,000,000 bushel crop last year," says Mr. Vrooman.

In order to properly conserve this supply and release other foods for military use, Mr. Vrooman declares potato warehouses must be made available in every county in the United States. The crop to be harvested, it was stated, will total 462,000,000 bushels.

Community warehouses are Mr. Vrooman's suggestion for meeting the situation and he urges farmers' associations, bankers and merchants to cooperate to make storage places available.

American Troops See New War Horror Demonstrated.

New York, Sept. 17.—The American Army in France, Sept. 16.—Next in the catalogue of war horrors which American troops will see demonstrated is the use of liquid fire.

Arrangements have been completed for a view by the Sammies very soon of how the Allies have turned the Germans' weapons against the Germans after perfecting the unquenchable flames.

Members of the famous Canadian-American legion have arrived to instruct the Sammies in general fighting tactics.

Had Not Heard of War.

Pueblo, Col., Sept. 17.—J. H. Carpenter, of Marna, Col., did not know there was a war between the United States and Germany and thought the registration under the selective draft law was registration for an election; he told officers here when arrested for failure to register.

May Seize Northwest Wheat, Is Report.

Washington, Sept. 17.—That President Wilson is prepared to commandeer wheat held up by farmers of the Northwest was the statement of Representative Baer, North Dakota, based, he said, on a talk with Herbert Hoover. At Hoover's office confirmation of this was lacking. Baer said Hoover told him the action of farmers holding up wheat until operations of mills is threatened is "disloyal" and "tha President will use his war powers to commandeer grain if the farmers continue to take that stand."

SWEDEN TO PUT MATTERS RIGHT

Foreign Office Pledges Itself To Settle Problem Disclosed by Exposure.

GERMAN MESSAGES STOPPED

Swedish Government Had No Idea of Their Contents or They Never Would Have Been Transmitted, Minister Declares.

Stockholm, Sept. 18.—Foreign Minister Lindman has stated to the Associated Press that Sweden expects to take steps to put matters right, realizing the seriousness of the situation created by the recent disclosures at Washington regarding the transmission of German dispatches.

All transmission of German dispatches has been stopped, he said, and Germany has been asked for an explanation of the abuse of the privilege formerly extended.

Points Brought Out.

In his talk with the correspondent Admiral Lindman brought out the following points:

First—That the Swedish government it not, as alleged in certain quarters, taking the affair lightly, but intends to do everything possible to settle the problem.

Second—That transmission of dispatches on behalf of Germany has been stopped absolutely and under no circumstances will be resumed.

Third—That had the Swedish government the slightest idea of the nature of the dispatches which the German government was transmitting, the messages would never have been transmitted.

Fourth—That strong representations have been addressed to the German government on the abuse made of this practice, accompanied by a request of explanation.

REGENTS TO RULE POLAND

To Be Named by Monarchs of Occupying Countries.

Amsterdam, Sept. 17. — A decree published at Lublin and Warsaw on September 12 transfers the supreme authority in Poland to a regency council of three members appointed by the monarchs of the occupying powers, a Vienna message says.

All the decrees of the council must be countersigned by a responsible premier.

The legislative power is to be exercised by the council.

The consent of the occupying powers, the decree provides, is necessary for all governmental affairs the administration of which has not yet been handed over to the Polish authorities.

T. R. RIDES IN 'PLANE ON NEW LIBERTY MOTOR TEST

Mineola, N. Y., Sept. 15.—"Bullies" and "greats" are still echoing around the aviation field here, following a trip by Colonel Roosevelt in an airplane driven by the new Liberty motor, with which the United States expects to attain supremacy of the air.

No Hope of Cheaper Meat.

Washington, Sept. 15.—That a decrease in the prevailing high meat prices cannot be expected unless cattle production greatly is stimulated was among the developments at the national conference of meat packers. With no possibility of an abatement in the Allies demands, propects are that prices will be maintained at their present level unless the desired expansion of the industry is realized. Hoover has excepted the offer of the packers to put their plants under a licensing system.

SENATE ACTS AS UNIT

NO DISSENTING VOTE ON BIG CREDITS MEASURE.

Aggregates $11,538,000,000 and Is Largest Bill of Its Kind in World History—To Conference Next.

Washington, Sept. 18.—Without a roll call or dissenting vote the Senate has passed the war credits bill, which authorizes bonds and certificates aggregating $11,538,000,000, the largest measure of its kind in the history of the world. It had already passed the House and will now go to conference.

Senators Stone, Smith of Georgia and Smoot were named the Senate conferees.

Few changes were made in the bill by the Senate, the bonds and certificate authorizations, interest rates and provisions giving the Secretary of the Treasury broad powers to determine the life of the issues, remaining as they came from the House.

The most important Senate amendment was that of the finance committee in increasing from one-seventh to one-fourth of one per cent the bonds and war savings certificates authorized.

Of the new bonds authorized, $3,000,000,000 are to convert the 3½ per cent Liberty Loan securities at the new 4 per cent rate and the remainder, excluding the new $4,000,000,000 for the Allies, are to take up the outstanding Danish West Indies, Alaska railroad, naval bases and Panama canal bonds.

ARGENTINA NOT SATISFIED

Expulsion of Luxburg Not to End Incident.

Buenos Aires, Sept. 17.—Foreign Minister Pueyrredon has informed the Associated Press that he was satisfied that the expulsion of Count Luxburg had not closed the incident growing out of the telegrams sent Berlin through the Swedish legation.

The minister explained that he discussed the recent German negotiations at a supposedly secret session of the Senate and that Count Luxburg cabled his remarks to Berlin a few days later.

The foreign minister said he believed that Germany would make concessions to retain the friendship of Argentina, but that unless the republic obtains the assurances and concessions desired, the friendship will end.

An anti-German demonstration planned by foreign residents here was prohibited by the government.

ALASKA TOWN FLOOD SWEPT

Church and Six Residences in Seward Swept Away.

Seward, Alaska, Sept. 17.—Seven inches of rain in 12 hours, after a three-day rainstorm, caused a flood in Lowell Creek, running through Seward, which did damage estimated at more than $100,000.

The water power pipe line was washed out and the power plant in the city flooded.

The Community Christian church and six residences were washed away.

The storm was unprecedented, according to old time hunters and trappers. The cable is cut between Seward and Valdez and the wire to Anchorage is down.

Airplane Flashing Signals Reported.

Kalispell, Mont., Sept. 17.—An airplane carrying red, green and white lights soaring above the Upper North Fork country has been reported to Sheriff J. H. Metcalf, who has been asked to investigate. The Sheriff at first thought the story one of many of the kind which have been circulated from time to time, but the reports from the Upper North Fork country have become so insistant that he has listened seriously to the latest reports received and will now make a thorough investigation.

Not Such a Fool.

There is an amusing little story about Sir Eric Geddes as a boy which shows the new first lord of the admiralty possessed of resourcefulness at an early age.

He was somewhere about ten when, on being given $2.50 by his father as pocket money, he forthwith went and spent it all on a second or third hand bone-shaker. This earned him a severe reprimand from his parent for reckless extravagance, but the culprit rose to the occasion. Going out the next day he returned, having sold the bone-shaker for $10.

A bad boy seldom gets his badness from his father. The old man generally holds on to all he has.

Too Sick To Work

Many Women in this Condition Regain Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Convincing Proof of This Fact.

Ridgway, Penn. — "I suffered from female trouble with backache and pain in my side for over seven months so I could not do any of my work. I was treated by three different doctors and was getting discouraged when my sister-in-law told me how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped her. I decided to try it, and it restored my health, so I now do all of my housework which is not light as I have a little boy three years old."—Mrs. O. M. Rhines, Ridgway, Penn.

Mrs. Lindsey Now Keeps House For Seven.

Tennille, Ga.—"I want to tell you how much I have been benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. About eight years ago I got in such a low state of health I was unable to keep house for three in the family. I had dull, tired, dizzy feelings, cold feet and hands nearly all the time and could scarcely sleep at all. The doctor said I had a severe case of ulceration and without an operation I would always be an invalid, but I told him I wanted to wait awhile. Our druggist advised my husband to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has entirely cured me. Now I keep house for seven and work in the garden some, too. I am so thankful I got this medicine. I feel as though it saved my life and have recommended it to others and they have been benefited".—Mrs. W. E. Lindsey, R. R. 3, Tennille, Ga.

HIS OLD DREAM CAME TRUE

Miner Was Killed in the Manner That Was Foretold in Vision Twenty Years Before.

In a lecture at Blackwood Rev. M. Griffin of Cross Oak, a minister who, after forty years' preaching, is as vigorous as ever, referred to subconsciousness, the mysterious power that controls us even when asleep, says a Cardiff Mail writer. Outside the chapel one of his hearers narrated a curious incident which happened to a Blackwood man. He lived near the present railway station, and dreamed one night that while working on his stall as a miner a stone fell on him and killed him.

The dream was so vivid he gave up his work at once and emigrated to America. Twenty years later he returned to Blackwood and sought work in his old colliery. He was told that no one had been working in his old stall since he had left, and work was found for him in the adjoining stall. While engaged there his pick accidentally struck through the coal which divided him from his old stall, there came a fall and the twenty-year-old dream was fulfilled.

His Best One, Too.

There was a gathering of farmers in a little market town when in stalked one in a state of high dudgeon.

"Whatever's the matter, John?" inquired one of the others.

"Why, that bill collector has just been to my house and abused me."

"What did he say?"

"Oh, I remonstrated with him."

"How did that affect him?"

"I don't know—but I broke my best pitchfork handle."

Considerate Girl.

"Did you scream when he tried to kiss you?"

"No, there's a poor man in the next flat who is very sick."

For Safety's Sake.

Two brothers who live in an East Lancashire manufacturing town were noted for being exceptionally well-served with nasal organs.

One of the ring spinners at the mill where they worked invited them to a wedding, and promised to send a cab for them, says London Tit-Bits.

The cab duly arrived, and the two brothers entered and planted themselves down, one at each window.

In order to create an impression during the drive to the wedding, the two brothers were looking out of the cab, one on either side, so that the people could see them.

All went well until the cab came to a rather narrow railway arch, which our travelers had to pass through. The cabman looked back to take his bearings, and seeing the two brothers' noses sticking out of the windows on either side, shouted:

"Put them elbows in, please!"

The Plain Truth.

"We are going to entertain company tonight."

"Some people you like, I presume."

"Mercy, no! We would lose our social standing if we entertained people we like."

Harvest the Crops — Save the Yields

On the battle fields of France and Flanders the United States boys and the Canadian boys are fighting side by side to win for the World the freedom that Prussianism would destroy. While doing this they must be fed and every ounce of muscle that can be requisitioned must go into use to save this year's crop. A short harvest period requires the combined forces of the two countries in team work, such as the soldier boys in France and Flanders are demonstrating.

The Combined Fighters in France and Flanders and the Combined Harvesters in America WILL Bring the Allied Victory Nearer.

A reciprocal arrangement for the use of farm workers has been perfected between the Department of the Interior of Canada and the Departments of Labor and Agriculture of the United States, under which it is proposed to permit the harvesters that are now engaged in the wheat fields of Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Wisconsin to move over into Canada, with the privilege of later returning to the United States, when the crops in the United States have been conserved, and help to save the enormous crops in Canada which by that time will be ready for harvesting.

The State In Brief

Word has been received of the death of Andrew Remark of Ada in an auto accident in Idaho.

A dispatch from Ottawa, Ont., says: The following Americans are named in today's casualty list: Killed in action, W. E. Campbell, Salol, Minn.; J. G. Malone, Austin, Minn.

The premium list of the Koochiching county fair, to be held at Northome on Sept. 18, 19 and 20, was issued yesterday by the committee and is an unusually attractive one.

Prof. A. D. Wilson, professor at the University of Minnesota, has been appointed food administrator for Minnesota by President Wilson. He will carry out Herbert C. Hoover's policies in the state.

Drafted men for the new National Army were honored at Silver Lake by a banquet that was attended by 500 persons. After the banquet the men were presented with a $5 safety razor, donated by men of Silver Lake.

On 40 acres of Wright's farm near Brainerd 2,140 bushels of oats were threshed. Although the cucumber crop this year has not been an extensive one, the Barrow's pickle plant has received about 2,500 bushels to date.

Northern lumber men forecast a serious labor shortage in the woods this fall and next winter and it is feared that the cutting of logs will be greatly handicapped for lack of men. Fewer men are available at this time than for many years.

E. G. Purssell of Minneapolis, meteorologist of weather bureau, was in Brainerd inspecting the local station and also gathering earthquake data, etc. From Brainerd, Mr. Purssell went north to Bemidji, Grand Rapids and other stations.

J. A. Preus, state auditor, and Sydney Anderson, congressman, will be speakers here on Loyalty day at the Winona Tri-county fair on Thursday, September 20. The celebration will be the most imposing ever held in the history of southern Minnesota.

A fifteen years' contract has been granted M. D. Stoner and T. H. Crosswell to erect and operate an electric light and power plant in the village of Walker. The present plant at Walker has been unsatisfactory for some time, giving poor service, hence the granting of the franchise.

A resident at Gilbert applied to the State Public Safety commission for a job as "beer commissioner." The applicant for the job stated that he had heard the safety body wanted a man to watch bottles of beer being delivered at range boarding houses and hotels. The commission replied that there was no vacancy.

Toddling through the field to take his father some lunch, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Rousu, living north of New York Mills, discovered the body of his father lying on the ground unconscious. The team was nibbling at the stubble a short distance away. It is believed that Rousu was overcome by a stroke of apoplexy.

Professor William A. Schaper, for the last 16 years a professor in the department of political science of the University of Minnesota, has been dismissed from the faculty by the board of regents on evidence which, according to Fred B. Snyder, president, was presented in a letter from the State Public Safety commission to the board, charging Professor Schaper with disloyalty to the federal government in the war with Germany.

At a meeting of Norwegian-Danish editors at Fergus Falls, loyalty was the keynote. Members toured the city in automobiles. Resolutions indorsing the President were adopted.

A letter found written by Mrs. Lottie Dunbar, wife of Freeman Dunbar of Brainerd, dated Aug. 29, shortly before she committed suicide by hanging, gives proof of the despondency suffered by her and which led to her death.

E. T. Sandberg of Aurora has more jobs, official and otherwise, than any other man in America. And he fills them all capably. He is the following: Mayor of Aurora, chief of the fire department, member of the park board, member of the library board, manager of a motion picture theater and chauffeur for himself. In his leisure moments Sandberg cultivates a war garden, is a baseball fan, goes fishing, does odd jobs about the house, corresponds for a Duluth newspaper and follows the war in the newspapers.

Arnie Barton Clayton Swanson, 27 years old, of Center City, Minn., was arrested by Chell M. Smith, United States deputy marshal, charged with failure to register June 5. He was taken to St. Paul and arraigned before Samuel Whaley, United States commissioner, and pleaded not guilty. His mother accompanied him to St. Paul and gave bond of $1,000 for his appearance next October at the Minneapolis session of the Federal court. The young man said he was ill at the time of registration.

In a letter to the Commercial club of St. Cloud, Congressman Harold Knutson expresses his belief that the $50,000 appropriation for an addition to the postoffice building for that city will be one of the appropriations that will not be cut down.

BOARD ORDERS AID OF $1,500,000 PAID

SUM TO AID SCHOOLS OF STATE MUST BE TAKEN FROM APPROPRIATION FOR 1918.

OFFICERS QUIT; PROBE ENDS

New Ulm's Mayor and City Attorney Resign, Putting End to Investigation of Charge of Disloyalty.

St. Paul.

The state high school board has voted to pay in full 1917 apportionments totaling nearly $1,500,000 in state aid to high and graded schools and teachers' training departments.

This action, following the board's order for payment of $1,070,921 deficits in high and graded school aid means, according to C. G. Schulz, state superintendent of education, that the latter payments, the legality of which is to be tested in the courts, must be drawn from the 1918 aid appropriation, which necessarily will be prorated at 40 per cent or less.

Officials Quit; Probe Ends.

Mayor L. A. Fritsche and City Attorney Albert Pfaender of New Ulm have filed their respective resignations with the city clerk there, following orders by Governor Burnquist suspending them from office pending an investigation on charges of disloyalty for having participated in an alleged anti-draft meeting at New Ulm.

Their resignations, Governor Burnquist said, will end the pending investigation on charges of disloyalty against those officials.

The inquiry will be conducted on a similar charge against Louis Vogel, auditor of Brown county and ex officio chairman of the local exemption board, the Governor said, in the absence of any report of his resignation from office.

Named Director of Children's Bureau.

William W. Hodson, Minneapolis, has been appointed director of the children's bureau, which January 1 will become a new active agency under the State Board of Control.

Mr. Hodson will begin his duties at once on preliminary work and an organization of perhaps twelve field agents and other assistants to administer the new law.

Establishment of the state children's bureau under model statutes exacted by the last Legislature, according to recognized authorities, is expected to make Minnesota the foremost state among those guarding the welfare of unfortunate children.

Mayo Proposal Accepted.

Regents of the University of Minnesota have accepted by unanimous vote the proposal of Drs. William J. and Charles H. Mayo for certain changes in the contract affiliating with the university the Mayo foundation for medical education and research.

By these changes the regents come at once into absolute possession and control of the foundation fund, amounting to $1,650,344.79. The trial affiliation period is also ended and the headquarters of the foundation may be moved from Rochester to the university, or any other place in the state, after 28 years.

Hygienists Cannot Do Dental Work.

"Dental hygienists" cannot be employed in Minnesota schools to supplement the work of regular licensed dentists in caring for the health of the teeth of school children, according to Lyndon A. Smith, attorney general, in his ruling given in response to an inquiry addressed to him by the Minneapolis school board.

So slight an operation as the pulling of a "baby" tooth with a string constitutes a "dental operation" under the laws of Minnesota, and may be performed for pay only by a regularly authorized dentist, according to the ruling of the attorney general.

Health Employes on Strike.

Four employes of the state board of health on the first strike in the history of the board have gone to secure more wages. Frank Cleve, Richard Saul, Howard Long and John Alver, all Minneapolis men, are said to have struck for an increase over their wage of $35 per month. They were employed to keep the laboratory clean.

Ask Temperature Rule Raise.

A petition by Minnesota railroads asking that the minimum temperature at which perishable freight will be handled be changed from 5 degrees below zero to 10 degrees above zero, was the subject of a hearing in the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse commission. The railroads contend that under the 5-degree temperature rule they receive much frozen fruit and vegetables and there is no way of detecting at delivery whether or not it is frozen. The petition was made through the Moorhead inspection bureau.

"This is a queer little hole of country of yours, Pat," said one of the Fly boys to our friend the other day.

"Begorra, an' as quare as it is," replied Pat, "there's wan thing ye can do in it that ye can't do in yer own country."

"And what is that?" asked the draft evader.

"Hide!" replied Pat.

Lemon Juice For Freckles

Girls! Make beauty lotion at home for a few cents. Try it!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless. A Maniac in the Trench.

An officer writes about an incident which is probably one of the most gruesome that has been recorded of life in trenches:

One night as a working party under Lieutenant Rathbone was proceeding down a communication trench, they were fired upon from close quarters. On inquiry Lieutenant Rathbone ascertained that the shots came from a soldier who had run amuck, and had posted himself with loaded rifle and fixed bayonet farther down the trench. Lieutenant Rathbone borrowed a rifle, and, accompanied by Corporal Feldwick, advanced along the trench until in view of the mentally deranged man. They then advanced with rifles at the ready; the officer calling upon the man to surrender. Receiving no reply, they then dropped their rifles and rushed him, and after disarming him took him to the nearest dressing station. Corporal Feldwick, who is a prisoner of war, has also been awarded the Albert medal of the second class.

LIFT YOUR CORNS OFF WITH FINGERS

How to loosen a tender corn or callus so it lifts out without pain.

Let folks step on your feet hereafter; wear shoes a size smaller if you like, for corns will never again send electric sparks of pain through you, according to this Cincinnati authority.

He says that a few drops of a drug called freezone, applied directly upon a tender, aching corn, instantly relieves soreness, and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts right out.

This drug dries at once and simply shrivels up the corn or callus without even irritating the surrounding skin.

A small bottle of freezone obtained at any drug store will cost very little but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet.

If your druggist hasn't stocked this new drug yet, tell him to get a small bottle of freezone for you from his wholesale drug house.—adv.

Premier Lloyd George, in a speech at Birkenhead, England, in which he was encouraging loyal subjects to believe that victory for the Entente allies would surely come, boasted that America had never known defeat. The British premier is quite confident that any nation that can lick England can lick Germany.—St. Paul Dispatch.

You bet we can lick Germany, and we are going to do it in proper style before we get through with them.

While other localities are complaining of hay shortage, there is no hay shortage this year in eastern Pennington County. While there occasionally may be a farmer that did not get hay enough here is more of them that have a surplus, People coming in here to buy hay from other sections, will not be able to secure much hay until the farmers who have a surplus, are sure that the territory in which they live has plenty. One farmer remarked to us the other day, that he had a lot of hay more than he would use, but refused to sell it for shipment, for fear some of his neighbors might be short of hay.

President's Message To Drafted Men

Washington, Sept. 4.—On the eve of their mobilization; President Wilson yesterday addressed a final word to the drafted men who will make up America's first great national army.

The President's greeting follows:

"To the soldiers of the national army:

"You are undertaking a great duty. The heart of the whole country is with you. Everything that you do will be watched with the deepest solicitude not only by those who are near and dear to you, but by the whole nation besides.

"For this great war draws us all together, makes us all comrades and brothers, as all true Americans felt themselves to be when we first made good our national independence.

"The eyes of the world will be upon you, because you are in some special sense the soldiers of freedom. Let it be your pride, therefore, to show all men not only what good soldiers you are but also what good men you are, keeping yourselves fit and straight in everything and pure and clean through and through.

"Let us set for ourselves a standard so high that it will be a glory to live up to it and add a new laurel to the crown of America.

"My affectionate confidence goes with you in every battle and every test.

"God keep and guide you."

Mere patriotic words were never spoken by an American leader than the above, from president Wilson. Sorrow for being drawn into the war, and a determination to win the war are all expressed in the above remarks.

THE LIBERTY BOND.

By Knute Nelson, U.S. Senator from Minnesota.

Our Country is now an active participant in a great war in which we must be victorious. Large funds are needed to carry on this war successfully. Such funds must be secured partly by direct taxation and partly by the issuance of bonds. To undertake to carry on the war entirely with direct taxes would place too heavy a burden upon the present generation, hence it is proper that a part of the burden, in the form of bonds, should be cast upon those to come after us, especially as they will not contribute their young manhood to the war, as we do.

The Liberty Bonds are the obligations of our Government, the best security in the world and when it is remembered that in addition to their interest, they are free from taxation, they are equivalent to a taxable bond drawing at least from 5½ to 6 per cent interest.

The proceeds from these bonds will not be sent abroad but will be expended among our own people to pay for the supplies our Allies purchase in this country, the allies reimbursing our Government for these advances by the issuance of their own bonds, payable to the United States. The funds thus obtained from the sale of these bonds will not only prove of great assistance to our Allies in carrying on the war successfully, but will serve to stimulate and extend the markets for the products of the farms and factories of this country.

These bonds are issued in such such small denominations, that a large share of our people can easily subscribe for same, and there can be no better token of our loyalty and devotion to the cause of our country in this great war than to subscribe for these bonds.

We cannot all be in the fighting line, but all of us, the high and low, the young and old, the men of moderate means as well as the wealthy, from city or country can and ought to subscribe to these bonds

In our former wars, especially during the Civil War, our Government was compelled to issue bonds in large quantities, but these bonds were taken mostly by the banks and not by the people at large. This great Liberty Loan ought not to be left in the hands of the banks, but rather in the hands of the great mass of our people, those who are the mainstay of the Republic in peace and in war.

It is the duty of all patriotic and loyal citizens, according to their means to subscribe for "The Second Liberty Loan of 1917", which will soon be announced by Secretary McAdoo. It is a duty which, to my mind, comes next to the duty of enlistment in the ranks of the army. We who are not in a condition to contribute our lives to the struggle certainly ought to be willing to contribute our means to aid in the successful prosecution of the war.

Nature.

The best definition of nature is perhaps Mill's in his "Three Essays on Religion." In that work Mill says, "Nature is a collective name for all facts, actual and possible, or a name for the mode, partly known to us and partly unknown, in which all things take place." Continuing, Mill says: "The nature of a thing means its entire capacity of existing phenomena. As the nature of any given thing is the aggregate of its powers and properties, so Nature, in the abstract, is the aggregate of the powers and properties of all things."

THE LOCAL NEWS

Fine weather for thrashing now days.

Walter McAndress has been cleaning out ditch No. 53 this this week.

Lars Hyland made a deal with Arne Gunderson this week, for some dairy cows.

Johu Homme of Highlanding is transacting business at Thief River Falls today.

Additional mail boxes are being put up on the Hazel mail line, as the people begin to appreciate a first class U. S. mail service, instead of a Singer mail service.

Thousands upon thousands of first class meadow hay has gone to waste near Neptune, this year, that could have been cut.

There is large quantities of baled hay, being shipped from Goodridge this year, to Dakota.

Lost: On road east of Highlanding a black hat with flag pin. Finder please return to Ed. Klemmetson. Sunbeam Minn.

The material for the new Highlanding bridge is being hauled in from Goodridge, by a big force of men and teams.

There is large quantites of baled hay being shipped from Goodridge this fall which will increase the ready cash supply in eastern Pennington county.

Lost: A large Blue Belton Setter dog. Black ears and spot on right side. Finder please take up this dog and notify this office, or W. H. Wilde Sunbeam Minn.

Mail Carrier Hesby will provide postage stamps for anyone living along the mail route, so you do not have to put loose change in the mail boxes.

Oklee is to have a big market day on October 6th, Liberal prizes will be given for exhibits of farm products. Professor J. H. Hay, of Thief River Falls, will speak on topics of general interest. A free auction sale will be held, at which farmers can sell any surplus stock or farm machinery they may have at public auction.

People having business in eastern Pennington county should not depend on getting across the Red Lake River at Highlanding, as the ferry is out of commission to make room for the new bridge. But they might be able to cross at the Stephen Stinger ford, south of Kratka. If you can't find the ford, ask Sin[illegible].

A let[illegible]ceived from Oklahoma yester[illegible]y, informs us that tons of fine peaches and apples rotted on the ground down there for the want of a market. The letter also said that the farmers were using their wheat for hog feed, and selling their corn.

Odd Marriage Belief.

An unmarried man or woman of marriageable age is something that is rarely seen in the Fiji islands. The reason of this is not far to seek. The natives believe that if a person dies while in an unmarried state his or her soul is doomed to wander about through endless ages of eternity in an intermediate region between heaven and hades. At the end of each moon they are allowed to look into heaven, but are never permitted to enter.

Ancient Pillory.

The prophet Jeremiah was confined in the pillory (Jeremiah xxix, 26), which appears to have been a common mode of punishment in his time. Ancient Hebrew prisons contained a special chamber for the pillory. This was termed "the house of the pillory" (II Chronicles xvi, 10).

Awful State of Affairs.

"How now, Geraldine?"

"I am investigating the conditions that surround poor working girls."

"Their lot is often trying."

"Indeed it is. Why, half of them go to work without chaperons."—[illegible]

WILL NOT SOW WHEAT

The farmers are busy trying to get as much winter Rye sown as possible on the land they expect to put into wheat next year. They will sow oats and barley on the most of their land next spring, as they will not sow wheat owing to the government taking control of the market. It is not the present price that they are complaining about so much as the fear, that after they raise their wheat crop next year, that the consumers may come forward and prevail on the government to fix a price of 75 cents a bushel, so they will not sow wheat next year, and as near as we can learn this is the sentiment of the farmers of North Dakota as well as those of Minnesota.

Oat Meal, Rye Bread and barley soup is going to be the popular foods of the future, except what wheat can be raised on the paved streets of the consumers, unless the government sets a price to be paid for the 1918 crop, satisfactory to the farmers, as they will not raise wheat, when they are likely to have to take 75 cents a bushe for it, so as to give the consumers cheap flour.

Next spring when the government begins to advise the farmers to sow wheat, the "rubes" will "wink the other eye", and sow other kinds of grain. The farmers are "ezy marks" but they are not likely to be caught twice by the same confidence game that was played to the limit in the Northwest last spring.

Rifle Range Industry Brisk.

The rifle range industry has taken on a wonderful impetus all over New York. Not only the men in uniform but citizens of all ages and even women are priming their weather eye for emergency service against the kaiser. The little street ranges, with their equipment of stationary clay pipes moving clay ducks and silver balls balanced on water spouts, have mushroomed their way into all the thoroughfares in which people promenade in the evenings, and every unoccupied store and booth has been converted into a spot for the testing of one's prowess with the rifle. Civilians are in a majority among those who nightly try their skill at these ranges, but very frequently a group of boys in uniform will saunter in [illegible] petition among themselves. The civilians [illegible] on such occasions usually retire for the time being.

Raisin Bread.

Incorporated with bread raisins constitute a valuable diet and help out the meat problem. It is stated that the raisin contains nearly 5 per cent protein and over 65 per cent carbohydrates and therefore is a very important energizing food. For invalids and children raisin bread is invaluable, says a food expert. The simplicity of the loaf makes it an ideal substitute for the lard, butter, sugar, egg, cream and citron laden cake. It is therefore an important addition to the domestic menu, and the woman who has her children's health at heart will see that at each baking two or three loaves are well filled with raisins, kneading them in just before the loaves are put into the pans.

Order of the Thistle.

The Order of the Thistle, the Scots equivalent of the Garter, is supposed to have been founded by King Achaius in 787 A. D. It was revived by James II in 1687 and re-established by Queen Anne Dec. 31, 1703.

The insignia of the office is a silver star in the shape of St. Andrew's cross, with other rays issuing between the points of the cross. In the center on a gold background is a thistle enameled in natural colors, surrounded by a green circle bearing the inscription, "Nemo me impune lacessit" ("No one injures me with impunity").—London Globe.

LAUGH IN FACE OF DEATH

British Soldiers on the Western Front Maintain Sense of Humor Under All Circumstances.

From the trenches on the western front by way of Canada comes the story of a soldier's narrow escape from death and the levity displayed by a comrade, illustrating how viewpoints change when men get on the firing line.

Private Mac of an Alberta regiment had a pious upbringing in his early home in Scotland, and his religious inclinations did not desert him when his family settled on a farm in western Canada. All through the war he has carried "Spurgeon's Sermons" in his breast pocket, and occasionally he does some preaching, with his comrades in arms as the congregation.

Private G—— of the same regiment lacked the upbringing and the book of sermons, but possesses a sense of humor. The two were in a group resting and smoking, when a shot from a German sniper hit Private Mac in the breast, the bullet being deflected by the book.

Fearing that Mac was about to improve the occasion, G—— "beat him to it" and in a fair imitation of his friend's best preaching manner started in:

"Oh, dear friends, what a blessed thing it was that our dear brother wasn't a-reading of his book of sermons—as he ought to have been—instead of engaging in worldly conversation with sinner soldier men. For if dear Brother Mac had been a-reading of his book of sermons, where, oh, where, my dear friends, would Brother Mac (priceless old thing) have been then?"

LUXURIANT FLORA OF CHINA

Appellation "Flowery Kingdom" Singularly Suited to the Land of the Yellow Race.

From time immemorial China has been called the Flowery kingdom, a name given by the Chinese themselves and singularly suited to the land which for ages was like an oasis of flowers of the spirit in the world desert of barbarism, says a writer in Scribner's. In this oasis grew the arts of the bronze and stone worker, of the silkmaker and embroiderer, of the potter, of the painter on silk, of the poet, philosopher and ethical devotee. But China was not named the Flowery kingdom because of these flowers of the mind. Her flora is one of the most luxuriant in the world. It is estimated to consist of some 12,000 species, 9,000 of which are known and one-half of which are indigenous and not found elsewhere.

Such being the flora of China, it is readily understood that horticulture and gardening early became a skilled and honored profession.

The Emperor Shon-nung (2737-2705 B. C.), known as the "Divine Laborer" and also as the Father of Medicine and Husbandry, dispatched collectors to all parts of the empire to bring in plants of economic or medicinal value for cultivation in the imperial gardens. We have more detailed information in regard to the horticulture and gardening carried on by the Emperor Wu Ti (140-86 B. C.), whose agents brought from distant parts many plants that have been identified.

Scott's Body Lost for Ever.

Dr. John Cope of the imperial Antarctic expedition that was sent in search of Captain Scott's body, says it will never be discovered. "Every year," he said, "there falls fourteen feet of snow in the Antarctic. This blows away and melts down to seven feet, and then the next year comes another fourteen or fifteen feet, and all the while the barrier wears away underneath, so that Captain Scott's body has been buried so deep it will never be found."

Flowers by Mail.

There's a new use for Uncle Sam's parcel post. Suburbanites have discovered it, to the delight of their city friends. It's sending posies from the rural garden to lure the cliff dweller to the commuter's life.

Flowers may be sent as far as the fourth zone without parting with their fragrance or freshness on the journey, provided they are correctly packed. But not all flowers are good travelers. There is little use in trying to share the beauty of a bed of poppies, cannas, moonflowers or others of like texture, with distant friends. Roses are rather delicate to send on long trips. But if they are picked when only partially blown and kept in cool water until the petals and stems are full, they will not wilt badly and will revive readily at the end of the journey.

Shoots 'Em in Neck.

One of the Irvington Junior cadets, age nine, stopped with his mother at the local branch of the United States Navy league, 40 Monument Circle, one day. While his mother was buying wool the cadet strutted around with his hands in the pockets of his uniform and tried to impress the knitters.

"I'm a real soldier," he boasted. "I can smoke. Why, I bought a whole box of 'pills' one morning and smoked them all before eight o'clock."

Several knitters looked properly shocked and one asked: "Can you shoot craps, too?"

"Sure," returned the hardened young Sammy. "I just take my pistol and shoot them in the neck."—Indianapolis News.

Colorado's Oil-Bearing Shales.

The geological survey estimates the oil content of the oil-bearing shales of the state of Colorado alone at 20,000,000,000 barrels. Several contiguous states contain great quantities of oil shales. These shales are clay-like soils saturated with petroleum. The recovery of the oil is too costly a process to be profitable at present, but if gasoline goes much higher it will be possible to work them, and thus throw open an immense new source of oil. They will thus act as a check to prevent the price of gasoline from soaring past a certain high point. The possibility of discovering a process of extracting oil more cheaply from the shales is also worth consideration.

TWO VARIETIES OF HEROES

One Who Admits He Is of Make-Believe Class, Tells of Life in the Trenches.

There are real heroes and make-believe heroes; and they are not always easily distinguishable. I do not hide from myself that I belong to the make believes. And yet, it is remarkable that I did not find the second week at the front as terrible as the first. It is not so bad there as it seems, says a writer in the Atlantic.

When once you get accustomed to the idea that you may be dead in a day, or in an hour, or in a minute, and when you are clear as to your future your mood is relieved from constant depression. Involuntarily you become kind and helpful to those about you, you do not get vexed over trifles, you are ready to make all sorts of sacrifices.

Of course, if, in the midst of such a condition, a grenade suddenly drops into your trench, if you see three or four of your comrades getting killed, your misery returns, no matter how good an outward appearance you may keep up. At least for a while.

But then again the thought comes that getting wounded means rest and safety, and good care. And death? that is still less terrible. One boast of reaching one's destination along the shortest road! Is not death every one's final destination?—Atlantic.

GERMAN PLOT TO SWAY CONGRESS ASTOUNDS NATION

Revelations by Secretary of State Lansing Bring Storm of Denunciation.

BERNSTORFF WAS PAYMASTER

Ambassador's Request for $50,000 Regarded as Indicating That Money Had Been Used Before for Same Purpose.

Washington.—Members of congress, government officials and members of the diplomatic corps have not yet recovered from their amazement at the astounding revelations made by Secretary of State Lansing of the plans of Count von Bernstorff, former German ambassador to the United States, to expend $50,000 in an effort to influence congress and prevent this country from going to war with Germany.

The revelation of this plot, following the disclosures of other cases of German duplicity in its diplomatic relations with the United States and other countries, had the effect of sweeping away such antiwar propaganda as may still have been alive in the national capital and giving more convincing evidence of the hostile acts which forced the United States into the war.

How Plot Was Revealed.

Here is the statement of Secretary Lansing:

"The secretary of state issues the following statement from Ambassador Bernstorff to the Berlin foreign office, dated January 22, 1917:

"'I request authority to pay out up to $50,000 (fifty thousand dollars), in order, as on former occasions, to influence congress through the organization you know of which can perhaps prevent war.

"'I am beginning in the meantime to act accordingly.

"'In the above circumstances, a public official German declaration in favor of Ireland is highly desirable in order to gain the support of Irish influence here.'"

Capital Stunned by Revelations.

The publication of this letter apparently revealing the fact that Bernstorff had previously "influenced congress through the organization you know of," actually stunned the capitol.

On the floor of the house, congressmen were denounced as "suspicious." It was openly stated by some that they believed their colleagues had received German money.

According to Representative Tom Heflin, Alabama, he believes he could name 13 or 14 men in the two houses of congress who have acted suspiciously.

Fess of Ohio and Howard of Georgia both declared the German propaganda worked directly, with money changing hands and reaching government officials.

Additional startling revelations of the free use of money by the German government to sustain the German propaganda in the United States will follow Lansing's expose.

These revelations, it was indicated, will corroborate the indictment of the German embassy as the disbursing bureau for propaganda. Certain Irish-American agitators in the country who have allied themselves with hostile German-Americans may expect to be the next objects of the government's attack.

Convicts Count Bernstorff.

The shower of indictments of German clandestine pre-war activities in this country is relied upon by the state department to set at rest all doubt remaining in any quarters that the German government officially through Count von Bernstorff conspired flagrantly, as asserted in President Wilson's war proclamation, to divide the American people on the issues of the war. It is believed by the state department that public opinion, after digesting the contents of the series of exposes, may be depended upon to deal effectively with those who became the catspaws of the German embassy.

The message was decoded by Scotland Yards experts after vain attempts by Americans.

Expulsion might have been Von Bernstorff's fate as remotely as 1915 if the state department had then known as much about the secrets of the German code as it knows today.

Other Shots to Follow.

One by one the exhibits in the evidence in the case, it was said at the state department, will be given to the public.

That Americans in high public positions lent themselves to the German embassy's plan to split congress on the question of war, further decoded messages in the possession of the government are expected to demonstrate conclusively.

More than one of these well-known persons has been under public suspicion, but proof of their complicity with the German government has not come forth. It is known that evidence of the most damaging and convincing character has finally been obtained by the agents of the government.

Vice President Marshall made a clear-cut statement of his views toward German propaganda, following the state department's announcement.

"This ought to end forever," he said, "any and every doubt in the mind of any American as to the justice of and necessity for this war. It proves that the German government was seeking all along to split us into factions, by corrupt means of necessary, possibly hoping in time to win the war in Europe and then humiliate and subjugate us. He who is not whole-heartedly for the war runs a grave risk of being suspected of getting a part of the fifty thousand dollars. This is an honest congress, and all its members will resent this insult to its intelligence and honor."

Whether the state department is in possession of other evidence indicating the ambassador's activities has not been revealed, but the extraordinary disclosures already made have fixed the belief that agents of the United States government have collected and compiled the entire story of German duplicity and intrigue and that additional chapters will be added.

Knew Plan of "Ruthlessness."

The reference to averting war is taken as an indication that Ambassador Bernstorff had prior knowledge of his government's intention to proclaim a merciless widespread submarine warfare and that he was equally confident that the United States government could not be easily placated by mere promises. The German announcement of its intention to expand its submarine activities was not made public until January 31, when the world was startled not only by the determination to remove all restrictions, but by the statement that it would become effective on the following day. Three days later the United States government had expressed its disapproval by severing relations with Germany.

That the German ambassador knew of his government's intention was assumed by some officials, although at the same time he denied prior knowledge and those in close touch with the embassy were given to understand that he did not approve the course and worked to obtain modification.

Small Amount for Bribe.

It has not been assumed that the ambassador actually attempted to bribe or personally influence any member of congress, and doubt that such was his purpose is supported to some extent by the comparatively small amount of money he asked. Fifty thousand dollars, it was pointed out, would go but a short way toward buying the influence of any congressman. Judiciously expended, however, it might do much in compensating paid agents, such as are now known to have belonged to the elaborate machine Bernstorff had so carefully built up for the production of propaganda and for purposes of espionage.

Search Anti-War List.

As soon as news of the Bernstorff message reached the capitol members began a hasty search of the files to find the names of the men who voted against war. While there was no assertion from anyone that anyone of these members was influenced by German propaganda or money, yet it was pointed out that if such influence was exerted, and if it had any effect, the names of those affected would be shown in the lists of those who opposed the war resolution.

"I was forced to the conclusion some time ago," Representative Heflin said, in discussing the revelations, "that Germany thought we were a cowardly people and afraid to fight, but I did not know that we were a corrupt people and would betray our country for German gold.

"The telegram sent by Count von Bernstorff is an admission of the fact that Germany had a corruption fund in the United States for the purpose of carrying on German propaganda.

"If members have acted in suspicious fashion by the introduction of resolutions or bills or by speeches in congress or out of congress, that leads to the conviction that they are not loyal to this government at this time, they ought to be investigated, and, if found guilty, they ought to be expelled from the floor of this house and from the floor of the senate of the United States."

Propaganda Still Lives.

Senator Husting was one of the first to make a declaration after the state department had made its spectacular disclosure.

"Although Bernstorff is gone," he said, "the spirit of Bernstorff still lives, and I trust the department of justice and the secret service will go to the bottom of this thing and that the organization which has been built up in this country through the efforts of the German government will be rooted out and utterly eliminated.

"This is highly interesting information, but I am not surprised. I myself have an order for $5,000 to be paid to a certain publication signed by Bernstorff.

"The thing that impresses me, however, is that Bernstorff has been gone for months and yet the propaganda goes on. Now it was apparent long before we entered the war that all of this propaganda was not coming forth by chance. It was clear that it was inspired by some astute, powerful, clever source, and that source was the German government.

"Bernstorff was not the only medium through which money was paid out.

"I have no doubt that millions of dollars have been expended here to influence American public opinion.

"This organization must be destroyed. We must take it out by the roots. It must not be allowed to live here after the war. Otherwise we shall have in our midst propaganda which will influence elections and from which politicians will run this way and that."

LANSING REVEALS TEUTON TREACHERY

FURTHER DISCLOSURES OF GERMAN PRE-WAR CRIMINALITY, THIS TIME IN ROUMANIA.

ABUSED PROTECTION OF U. S.

Guns and Explosives Concealed in Legation at Bucharest After U. S. Had Taken Charge of Teuton Affairs.

Washington, Sept. 24.—How Germany "shamefully abused and exploited" the protection of the United States by secreting in the German legation at Bucharest, after the American government had taken charge of Germany's affairs at the Roumanian capital, quantities of powerful explosives for bomb plots and deadly microbes, with instructions for their use in destroying horses and cattle, has been revealed by Secretary Lansing.

It was another of the series of Mr. Lansing's disclosures of German intrigue, made public without comment in the same manner as the Von Luxburg telegrams, which have brought Argentina on the verge of war with Germany, the Von Eckhardt letter from Mexico City and the Von Bernstorff telegram asking the German foreign office for authorization to spend $50,000 to influence Congress.

Report From Bucharest.

The latest story is told in a report to the State department from William Whiting Andrews, secretary of the legation at Bucharest, and a letter from Foreign Minister Porumbaru, of Roumania.

Parcels and boxes taken into the German consulate at Bucharest with display of great precaution aroused the suspicions of the Roumanian government. On August 27, 1916, the evening prior to the date of Roumania's declaration of war, some of the cases were taken to the German legation, located in a different building from the consulate.

Convinced that the boxes were not taken away from the legation by the German diplomatic mission on its departure from Bucharest, the Roumanian authorities later ordered the police to find and examine their contents. The police communicated with American Minister Vopicka, then in charge of German interests, who reluctantly assigned Secretary Andrews to observe the search. The boxes were found buried in the garden of the German legation.

Mr. Andrews' report says:

"The protection of the United States was in this manner shamefully abused and exploited. It this instance, at least, the German government cannot have recourse to its usual system of denial."

WAGE COMPACT ENDS SHIP BUILDERS' STRIKE

San Francisco Leaders Come to Agreement After Appeal From President Wilson.

San Francisco, Sept. 24.—A temporary wage schedule which will permit 30,000 iron workers, who struck here, to return to work immediately upon ratification of the agreement by the unions concerned, pending final adjustment of their differences by the Federal Board of Conciliation, was signed here at a conference between representatives of the men, their employers and federal mediators.

Gavin McNab, a San Francisco attorney, appointed by President Wilson as a special representative of the Federal Shipping Board to adjust the trouble, said that a telegram received from the President, appealing to "the patriotic co-operation of the workmen and their leaders," was instrumental in effecting the settlement.

GRAIN GRADING ACT TO BE RETAINED BY U. S.

Wheat Grading Below Number Three, However, May Be Sold by Sample.

Washington, Sept. 24.—The appeal of Governor Burnquist for suspension of the Federal grain grading act because of serious inequalities was denied jointly by the Department of Agriculture and food administration. It was agreed, however, that wheat below number 3 should be sold by sample.

Bill Provides Airplane Mail Service.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Establishment of airplane mail routes in the United States by use of machines no longer serviceable for military purposes is authorized in a bill favorably reported to the House by the post-office committee.

Negro Conscripts to Be Mobilized.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—A majority of the negro men of the National army will be called out for mobilization at the training cantonments with the contingent of draft forces summoned for October 3. The policy of organizing separate colored and white army units will be strictly adhered to. Where a subdivision has not sufficient negro drafted men to make up a company or other unit, the men will be assigned to complete units at another cantonment. Secretary Baker makes this announcement.

GOVERNOR BURNQUIST

Governor Burnquist has announced that if an official investigation of the statements made by Senator La Follette at the closing session of the Nonpartisan league's conference at the St. Paul Auditorium, reveals that his remarks were seditious, the Minnesota Public Safety commission will ask for warrants for the senator's arrest.

BOND CAMPAIGN ANNOUNCED

PREPARING FOR SECOND LIBERTY LOAN OF 1917.

Ninth Reserve District Expected to Be Called on for $125,000,000 in Subscriptions.

Minneapolis, Sept. 24.—Arthur R. Rogers, manager of the Northern division of the American Red Cross, has been temporarily released from service to take charge of an organization which is being formed to handle and control the participation of the Northwestern states in the Second Liberty Loan of 1917. It is expected that the Ninth reserve district will be called on to buy not less than $125,000,000 of war bonds of the Second Liberty Loan issue. Mr. Rogers was relieved by Chief Executives H. P. Davidson and Harvey D. Gibson of the American Red Cross, upon the personal request of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo.

Chairman Rogers saw service in the first Liberty Loan campaign last May and June, during which the Ninth Federal Reserve District bought war bonds to the extent of more than $72,000,000.

Campaign Starts Oct. 1.

The work of distributing the new Liberty Loan bonds of the second issue to the people of the Northwest will begin shortly after Oct. 1. The amount and rate of interest on the second Liberty Loan have not yet been announced by the Treasury Department, which will have control of the sale of the bonds over the whole United States, and acting under its authority, the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis will be officially responsible for the campaign in the Ninth Federal Reserve District, but has delegated the active work to General Chairman Rogers and his organization.

The campaign organization for the second Liberty Loan will be much more extensive than any organization it was possible to form on short notice for the handling of the first great War Loan, and will probably involve the services of twice or three times the number of men.

Higher Interest Rate Seen.

It is probable that the new war bonds will bear a more attractive rate of interest than the bonds of the first Liberty Loan issue, and it is regarded as certain that the plan of issuing them in denominations suitable to the requirements of every individual will be followed.

It is considered probable that the second War Loan will involve the sale of $3,000,000,000 of new United States bonds. The immensity of the task is illustrated by the fact that the apportionment for the Northwest will mean the sale of approximately $25 a bond for every man, woman and child in the entire Ninth Federal Reserve District.

Dye Costs $89; Sells for $5,000.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 24.—A barrel of German red dye hidden away in a stock room of a local paper company since its purchase three years ago for $89 has been sold to a New York concern for $5,000. The paper plant recently was sold and the new owners found the dye and put it on the market.

Son Drafted; Mother Ends Life.

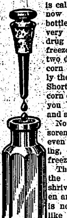
Chicago, Sept. 24.—The body of Mrs. Anna Houslien, 57, has been recovered from the lake. Her son, Robert, has been called to the national army.

City of Chicago to Sell Milk.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—The city of Chicago will engage in the milk selling business if it legally has the power to do so, it was announced by John D. Robertson, health commissioner. Dr. Robertson asked Corporation Counsel Ettelson for an opinion on the case and said if it was favorable he would sell milk direct to the consumers at the nine dispensaries of the Municipal Sanitarium at a price of 9 or 10 cents a quart, instead of 13 and 14 cents per quart, as is threatened as the result of the conference.

PAIN? NOT A BIT! LIFT YOUR CORNS OR CALLUSES OFF

No humbug! Apply few drops then just lift them away with fingers.



This new drug is an ether compound discovered by a Cincinnati chemist. It is called freezone, and can now be obtained in tiny bottles as here shown at very little cost from any drug store. Just ask for freezone. Apply a drop or two directly upon a tender corn or callus and instantly the soreness disappears. Shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it off, root and all, with the fingers.

Not a twinge of pain, soreness or irritation; not even the slightest smarting, either when applying freezone or afterwards.

This drug doesn't eat up the corn or callus, but shrivels them so they loosen and come right out. It is no humbug! It works like a charm. For a few cents you can get rid of every hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes, as well as painful calluses on bottom of your feet. It never disappoints and never burns, bites or inflames. If your druggist hasn't any freezone yet, tell him to get a little bottle for you from his wholesale house.—adv.

"What's the trouble up there in front?" asked the cook of a rapid restaurant, addressing one of the waitresses.

"Aw, Heloise said that Claudine wasn't any better than she ought to be," was the reply. "And Claudine says she is, too, and if anybody thinks different she'll make 'em prove it. That's how the customer got hit with the ketchup bottle."—Kansas City Star.

Why That Lame Back?

Morning lameness, sharp twinges when bending, or an all-day backache; each is cause enough to suspect kidney trouble. Get after the cause. Help the kidneys. We Americans go it too hard. We overdo, overeat and neglect our sleep and exercise and so we are fast becoming a nation of kidney sufferers. 72% more deaths than in 1890 is the 1910 census story. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands recommend them.

WOMAN SICK TWO YEARS

Could Do No Work. Now Strong as a Man.

Chicago, Ill.—"For about two years I suffered from a female trouble so I was unable to walk or do any of my own work. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and determined to try it. It brought almost immediate relief. My weakness has entirely disappeared and I never had better health. I weigh 165 pounds and am as strong as a man. I think money is well spent which purchases Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Jos. O'Bryan, 1755 Newport Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

A Test of Friendship.

Andy Foster, a well-known character in his native city, had recently shuffled off this mortal coil in destitute circumstances, although in his earlier days he enjoyed financial prosperity.

A prominent merchant, an old friend of the family, attended the funeral and was visibly affected as he gazed for the last time on his old friend and associate.

The mourners were conspicuously few in number and some attention was attracted by the sorrowing merchant. "The old gentleman was very dear to you?" ventured one of the bearers after the funeral was over.

"Indeed, he was," answered the mourner. "Andy was one true friend. He never asked me to lend him a cent, though I knew that he was practically starving to death."—Harper's Magazine.

Sublime Orders.

Colonel Corki was, as colonels go, not a bad old stick to have about a regiment, says London Ideas. Recently he had three men of his company in to help him remove the grand piano, and, as this gift of Aunt Eliza's was of hefty build, he signed a blank order that the men might obtain beer from the canteen; leaving the amount thereof for the warriors to fill in themselves.

Here was a dispute.

"Put down six pints," suggested Private Dumps.

"More like a barrel!" growled one of the others.

But at last the sergeant came along with the right idea. He filled the paper up thusly:

"Please fill these men with beer."

Obviously.

"Come on," said the first flea, as he hopped from the brown bear's left foreleg; "come over and join me at a short game of golf."

"Golf," exclaimed the second flea, hastily taking a bite of hyena; "where in the realm of Barnum are we going to play golf?"

"Why," said the first flea, "over on the lynx, of course."—Jack O' Lantern.

The State News of the Week in Brief

An Epitome of All the Big and Interesting Events of the Past Few Days In the State.

Fifty drafted men were tendered a banquet by the loyal citizens of Browerville.

John Nelson Richardson, a territorial pioneer of Hennepin county and war veteran, died at his residence at Anoka following a long illness.

One hundred dollars a minute for forty-five minutes for the American Red Cross was the record established at Heron Lake in a drive to provide the Jackson county chapter with adequate funds.

Prof. Willard E. Hotchkiss, who recently resigned as dean of the University of Nebraska, has begun his work as head of the department of business education at the University of Minnesota.

A campaign to raise $5,000 for the Nicollet county chapter of the American Red Cross will be made October 1. The county has been divided into districts and canvassing groups for each district appointed.

A most enthusiastic loyalty meeting was held at Henderson at Community hall. The meeting was in the form of a farewell reception for the young men of that vicinity who were leaving for Camp Dodge.

L. B. Blunket, 48 years old, died in a Winona hospital after having been found in a dying condition in a covered wagon in which he was journeying from his home in Bismarck, N. D., to southern Tennessee.

Marvin Ploof had several ribs broken in Crosby when the motorcycle on which he was riding came into collision with a car driven by an unknown Austrian, the driver of the car not stopping to see how much damage he had done.

L. A. Ickler, vice president of the American National bank, St. Paul, who spent a month near Drake, N. D., said today that the wheat crop is poor in that immediate vicinity but is better in the East and North.

"Conditions are much better in Minnesota, however," said Mr. Ickler.

Five new professors have been added to the faculty of the University of Minnesota, according to an announcement yesterday from the office of President Burton. They are: Philip Bing, journalism, formerly of the University of Wisconsin; Prof. J. C. LeCompte of Yale, to the department of languages; Dr. Robert M. Yerkes, Yale; Everett Fraser, law; E. C. Robbins, University of Oregon, economics.

There has been a reversal of opinion in many places in Southeastern Minnesota as to the extent of the damage by frost some days ago. The warm weather of the last few days, typical corn-growing weather, has convinced many farmers who took a chance by leaving their corn undisturbed that they have made no mistake. More than half the crop thought completely destroyed on the ridges in this territory will mature, experts said.

Only 43 tons of hard coal have been shipped into Thief River Falls since last spring—and that was received only after frantic appeals. Considerable alarm is felt lest winter comes without a further shipment. All the dealers have been trying for some time to get hard coal. Instead, soft coal in plenty has been shipped in until half of the usual supply has been received. Some uneasiness has also been felt over the fact that it has been almost impossible to get any cordwood.

J. O. Bentall, former Socialist candidate for governor, has returned to his farm at Cedar Mills, after having been arraigned in Minneapolis before a Federal commissioner on a charge of interfering with the draft law. He was arrested and brought to Minneapolis charged specifically with "aiding, abetting and inducing his farm hand, John F. Kassube, not to register for the draft." Bail was fixed at $2,500. It was Bentall's second arrest in connection with anti-draft activities.

Edward Fedel, a farmer residing in the town of Munson, two miles from Richmond, lies in the hospital with six shots in his body as the result of one of the first hunting accidents of the season. His condition is not considered serious. Fedel went out on the Sauk river for the purpose of fishing. Lucas Schroeder, a neighboring farmer, also went to the river in quest of ducks. Sighting a mud hen he fired. The hen happened to be directly in line with Fedel and a number of the shot hit him.

The forty-third annual reunion of the St. Croix Valley Old Settlers' association was held in Stillwater. A banquet was served at 1:00 p. m. at the Sawyer house.

George Shannon and John Kostchiz were arraigned before United States Commissioner H. A. Simons at Bemidji on charges of introducing liquor into Indian territory. Both pleaded not guilty and asked that their cases be transferred to the Minneapolis Federal court, which begins session Oct. 2. Their cases were transferred.

Concordia college at Moorhead is open in all departments, the opening this year being delayed somewhat to allow the men students to finish up work on farms in consonance with the food conservation movement all over the country.

Work on the new Cokato high school building is being pushed as rapidly as possible, and it is said that the building will be ready for occupancy by Oct. 1.

Because he insulted the American flag, Henry Zaender of Alden is spending three months in the county jail at Albert Lea. He was given no option of paying a fine.

Another bond issue to fully complete the new Lincoln school for the Fifth Ward in Bemidji, is to be voted on Sept. 22, as per the decision of the board of education.

The board of education at Fergus Falls has fixed the school tax levy for that city for the coming year at $53,000. This is an increase of $8,000 over last year's levy.

The county board at International Falls accepted $10,000 from Duffy and $3,000 from George Elder of Duluth in settlement of the case against them recently tried at Brainerd.

Fifty drafted men were tendered a banquet by the loyal citizens of Browerville. After the banquet addresses were given by P. H. McGarry and George F. Ashman of Staples.

Postmaster Louis Bauer of Crosby received a card from the United States department of agriculture at Washington asking for data on the earthquake that visited this section Labor day.

Maj. John Bigelow, who died at Minneapolis, was buried from Lakewood chapel. A detail from the First Minnesota infantry attended the funeral and fired a salute over the grave.

With threshing nearly completed in the Chatfield district, figures show that the small grain crop is turning out far above the average. Corn that was still standing was injured by the recent frosts.

A panther is believed to be making his headquarters some place near Fertile, many farmers reporting that they have seen the beast. The last report came from C. J. Grue, who said the animal crossed his grain field.

Plans for the federation of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches at St. Peter have been presented to the two congregations by their pastors. A committee will meet to consider details of the proposed consolidation.

Henry Schroeder of Moorhead, the "potato king," does not agree with some dealers that potatoes will be as low as 50 cents a bushel. He has made several sales of carload lots for October delivery at prices considerably above $1.

Goodhue county's second quota of men for the national army have been increased from forty-five to sixty men. They mobilized at Red Wing and in the evening a reception and banquet was tendered them in the Methodist church parlors.

Five of the young women employed in the Great Northern shops at St. Cloud to take the places of men as the first war measure in industrial work have been compelled to give up the work because of the fact that they have found it too strenuous.

Resolutions to furnish facilities for moral and religious training of Norwegian Lutherans in the training camps of the new National army were adopted at a meeting in Minneapolis, called by H. G. Stub, president of the Norwegian Church of America.

Women, wives and daughters labored side by side with men in the corn fields of Winona county and, Sunday brought no cessation in the speed of work to gather the salvage of the corn crop, attacked by a killing frost. Farmers, now convinced that most of the corn cannot possibly mature, are working feverishly to fill silos.

Chester L. Pope, a rural mail carrier of Martin county, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Benjamin Taylor at Mankato on the charge of embezzling a small sum that was entrusted to him by Olena Hanson with which to purchase a money order. He waived an examination and furnished a bond for $300 for his appearance at the October term of the federal court.

Compulsory military drill for all male students will feature the opening of Gustavus Adolphus college at St. Peter October 1. The date of the opening has been delayed for three weeks, in keeping with the plan adopted by all leading colleges and universities, to enable students who are doing patriotic service on farms an opportunity to remain until the fall work is well under way.

The state hospital for insane at St. Peter faces a "hard winter," says Dr. R. M. Phelps, superintendent. The year's coal bill will be more than $20,000 more than it was last winter, he said. Prices of all other commodities have soared accordingly, and the legislative appropriation for the year is only $10,000 more than last year, with twice that amount needed to pay the increased coal bill alone.

Allan S. Broms, orator and state organizer of the Socialist party, was found guilty in municipal court in Minneapolis of disorderly conduct and was sentenced by Judge C. L. Smith to serve 90 days in the workhouse. The specific charge against Broms was that while he was making a speech he uttered seditious statements which caused a disturbance and necessitated the interference of the military authorities.

Four University of Minnesota professors are in Washington doing their bit for Uncle Sam. They are Professor John Gray of the department of economics, and Dean G. S. Ford, Wallace Notestein and A. C. Krey of the department of history.

Potato digging operations are under way throughout the famous Clay county potato growing region, with indications pointing to a crop 200,000 to 800,000 bushels under normal. Frosts that laid the vines low stunted the growth of potatoes materially, and in the opinion of some growers reduced the yield by at least 20 to 25 per cent.

PROBE STILL FACES NEW ULM OFFICIALS

CITY COUNCIL ASKED BY PUBLIC BOARD NOT TO ACCEPT RESIGNATIONS.

STATE-WIDE MILK CAMPAIGN

Move to Do Away With Thin and Insanitary Milk in Smaller Cities of State Is Begun By Dairy Official.

St. Paul.

Mayor L. A. Fritsche and City Attorney Albert Pfaender of New Ulm probably will be forced to stand investigation on charges of disloyalty following adoption of resolutions in the State Public Safety commission, asking the city council of New Ulm not to accept their recent resignations from office. The charges followed participation of the officials in the alleged draft protest meeting at New Ulm and resulted in their suspensions and that of County Auditor Louis Vogel of Brown county by Governor Burnquist pending investigations before County Attorney James Hall of Marshall. Mayor Fritsche and City Attorney Pfaender filed their respective resignations with the city clerk at New Ulm and it was reported then that such action would enable them to escape the proposed inquiry. The resolution passed by the commission, however, was said to put a different aspect on the matter.

Officials Still Under Fire.

A campaign against thin and insanitary milk in the smaller cities of Minnesota is announced by James Sorensen, state dairy and food commissioner.

Four state inspectors have begun the campaign in six cities, and it will be carried to every town in the state if necessary to insure clean milk containing the butter fat content required by law.

"The campaigns for good milk have been confined largely to St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, where city inspectors are employed, but recent investigations indicate a need for state action in other towns," Commissioner Sorensen said.

"The percentage of insanitary dairies is high in small towns and the law against thin milk is almost totally disregarded in many instances. The dairymen not only pay little attention to cleanliness, but take some of the cream from the milk before selling it."

Inspectors have begun work in Mankato, Fairmont, Ada, Crookston, Brainerd and East Grand Forks and other towns are to be added to the list.

Endowment for Medical College.

Aiming to make the medical college of the University of Minnesota the most complete and efficient in the country, the Board of Regents has laid plans and appointed committees through which it is hoped that results can be obtained. Attempts will be made to obtain the aid of such institutions as the Rockefeller and Carnegie foundations towards the establishment of added hospitals and other incidental departments.

To See Northern Minnesota.

The Minnesota Forestry department and the St. Paul association have arranged a tour of northern Minnesota for eastern magazine writers, who will conduct a publicity campaign for the district next year. The tour has begun and will be along the Canadian border. Foresters will act as guides. Motion pictures will be taken of the trip.

Snyder Adjutant to Rhinow.

John Pillsbury Snyder, Minneapolis, will be commissioned lieutenant and adjutant of the First battalion of the new Fourth Minnesota infantry, Adjutant General W. F. Rhinow announced, and assigned to duties at his office in draft work. Other changes in the office staff probably will be announced soon.

State School Contracts Let.

The state board of control has announced awards of contracts totalling $61,298 for the new custodial building for girls at the Faribault state school for the feeble minded and $65,369 for the new dining hall and gymnasium building at the Morris state agricultural school. Both buildings are to be completed by July 1.

To Probe Charges.

Charges of disloyalty against John E. Lindberg, a state creamery inspector, will be referred to the State Public Safety Commission, Commissioner Sorenson of the state dairy and food department said.

Old Uniforms for Home Guards.

Blue dress uniforms and overcoats, no longer used by the national guard, will be issued to Minnesota Home Guard companies as long as the supply lasts, Adjutant General W. F. Rhinow has stated. About 350 blue overcoats will be shipped at once to home guard men at Chisholm, Eveleth and International Falls, he said, and the uniforms will be sent out as fast as requisitions are received. The announcements followed a decision by J. E. Abetree, military affairs commissioner on the state board.

An Irish Comeback.

An Irishman employed in a large factory had taken a day off without permission and seemed likely to lose his job in consequence. When asked by his foreman the next day why he had not turned up the day before, he replied:

"I was so ill, sir, that I could not come to work to save me life."

"How was it, then, Pat, that I saw you pass the factory on your bicycle during the morning?" asked the foreman.

Pat was slightly taken aback, then regaining his presence of mind, he replied:

"Sure, sir, that must have been when I was going for the doctor."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Slighted.

"So you're leaving us, Mary. What's the trouble; don't you like the place here?"

"I did, but I ain't going to stay here no longer. You don't treat me like one of the family."

"Why, Mary, how can you say that?"

"It's plain as day. You were away for ten days, and you didn't even send me a picture postal card."

Lemons Beautify! Make Quarter Pint of Lotion, Cheap

Here is told how to prepare an inexpensive lemon lotion which can be used to bring back to any skin the sweet freshness, softness, whiteness and beauty.

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quarter pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands, and see for yourself. Adv.

Raise High Priced Wheat on Fertile Canadian Soil

Canada extends to you a hearty invitation to settle on her FREE Homestead lands of 160 acres each or secure some of the low priced lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. This year wheat is higher but Canadian land just as cheap, so the opportunity is more attractive than ever. Canada wants you to help feed the world by tilling some of her fertile soil—land similar to that which during many years has averaged 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Think of the money you can make with wheat around $2 a bushel and land so easy to get. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. "We must control food, or flour will rise to $20 a barrel and meat to fifty cents a pound.

"Why, look at prices already!

"'See here, Jones, you'll ruin your health if you work all day on your books in the city and then go out and do night work on other men's books all the evening. My boy, you're burning the candle at both ends.'

"'I got to, Mr. Hoover,' said Jones. 'It's the only way to make both ends meet.'"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT. EDITOR
HARRIETT G. HUNT, PUB.

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 2? 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam, Minn under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Minneapolis, Sept. 7.—Mayor Van Lear's son, a Socialist, after makin a futile fight against being drafted, has announced he will ask President Wilson to exempt him.

"He is making the claim because he is a Socialist, and don't believe in war, but that don't make any difference to Uncle Sam, as he will soon drill him up so he will be able to take his place in the trenches beside the poor man's son. After he gets there he will get no better treatment because he is a Socialist and a rich man's son, than the poor Republican or Democrats son, and he will get no worse. All are equal rich and poor in this war, no matter what their politics or religion is. This is no political campaign, but WAR America against a foreign Monarchy.

OUR ENEMIES WITHIN

We took a good deal of interest in reading the proceedings of The Nonpartisan League in St Paul last week. Congressman Baer and Governor Frazer of North Dak., certainly made some of the present conditions plain to the common people by true American Patriotic addresses. But we cannot see what they invited them two Benedict Arnolds, of the U. S. Senate, LaFollet and Gronna to come there for. They are nothing more or less than the cheap tools of kaiser Wilhelm, and traitors to America, and anyone who has watched their traitorous action in the senate for the past six months can not help but see it. They did not want us to loan money to France, neither did kaiser Wilhelm. They did not want us to declare war aganist Germany when they were murdering our people on the high seas, neither did de kaiser. They did not want us to send our army and navy over the seas TO CLEAN THEM UP, neither did the kaiser.

Then they had that Ex Congressman Lindberg there to shoot off his Wisdom, that the people of the 6th District stopped him shooting off in Congress, and as soon as their present term of office expires both Senator Gronna and LaFollet will write Ex Senator after their names, as the Patriotic people of North Dakota and Wisconsin will not longer allow traitors to America to represent them in the U. S. Senate.

What the Nonpartisan League should have had was one or two speakers like Senators Nelson, and Kellogg, Congressman Steenerson, and a few other Patriotic American Congressmen to sit with John M. Baer, instead of them traitors, whose names and records in American history will go beside that of Benedict Arnold, who tried to betray America.

STEENERSON PROTESTS

Congressman Steenerson has introduced a resolution asserting the food administration have violated the anti-trust laws of Minnesota.

The resolution requests the president to furnish the house of representatives with the following information.

First—Whether pursuent to section 2 of the act, approved Aug 10 and the order of the president dated Aug. 30, the president and the United States food administration fix the price of wheat at Minneapolis and other markets to be paid by private purchasers as well as the [illegible] government [illegible] purchaser.

Second—Whether the operations of the food administration has fixed a maximum price for all wheat sales of the 1917 crop in Minneapolis and Duluth and restrained private purchasers from paying a higher price than that fixed for purchases by the government.

Third—Whether the food administration and the food administration grain co-operation (a private corporation) in attempting to control the price of wheat between private purchasers, claims exemption from the antitrust laws of the United States and the consitution and laws of the state of Minnesota against trusts and monopolized markets and if so, upon what is that claim based?

Fourth—Whether the price for wheat fixed in said order refer and relate to prices f.o.b. cars in the respective markets in harmony with the universal custom.

Fifth—Whether the food administration after fixing a price for wheat at Minneapolis and Duluth 3 cents a bushel below the Chicago price has established a rule of deducting therefrom a commission, contrary to the terms of said order.

Sixth—What authority exists or is claimed to exist, for deducting from the price paid to the seller of wheat a commission of 1 or 2 cents a bushel below the price fixed.

Seventh—What facts or data are in possession of the president of the food administration justifying making the wheat raisers bear all the loss by controlled markets when the producers of corn, rye, oats barley and other cereals have the benefits of competitive markets.

"Corn is sold in a competitive market and on Sept. 8 it was $2.15 as against $2.10 for wheat" said Mr. Steenerson in a dictated interview.

"Wheat, however, is sold in a government monopolistic market. Every one knows wheat has a food value at least one-fourth more than corn, so that the wheat farmer is penalized over the corn grower 60 cents a bushel.

Washington Monument.

The cornerstone of the Washington monument was laid on its fine site, which overlooks Washington, Georgetown, Arlington and Mount Vernon, by President Polk July 4, 1848. Its marble shaft rises in all the dignity of unadorned simplicity to the height of 555 feet. The base of the shaft is fifty-five feet square, and it gradually tapers until at the 500 foot point it has diminished to less than thirty-five feet. This monument is said to contain 18,000 blocks of marble, each two feet thick. They were lifted on an elevator run by steam, suspended in an inner framework of iron, which was built up at intervals thirty or forty feet at a time in advance of the surrounding masonry. The aluminum capstone, nine inches high, was set in position Dec. 6, 1884, thirty-six years and a half after the cornerstone was laid.

IN THE SAME BOAT.

"Several years ago I was traveling from St. Moritz to London," said a Chicago man. "I had an hour's wait in Paris at the Gare du Nord, so I got out of the train for a little exercise. Like our own railroad stations, this one was full of hustle and bustle. After a few moments of wandering about I heard above all other noises a man shouting frantically, 'Is there any one in this place who can speak English?'

"No one else evidently could, so I walked over to where he was despairingly waving his arms, and I said, 'I speak English.'

"'Saved!' he yelled. 'I must get to Boulogne tonight! Ask one of these chattering Frenchmen where I can get the train for Boulogne!'

"'I would,' I answered, repressing a terrible desire to laugh, 'if I could only speak French.'"—Puck.

Diseases Spread by Insects.

Dr. L. O. Howard, chief of the federal bureau of entomology, declared recently that no fewer than 226 diseases are spread directly or indirectly through the agency of insects, and that 282 species of insects are guilty of some form of the deadly work. This bears out the scientific contention that insects are the only dangerous rivals of man for mastery of the earth. The present has been called the age of man and insects; and the battle for supremacy has not yet been fought to a finish. Man is increasing from century to century, but the insects are, too.

A Glimpse of the Russian Peasant.

Russians are a very methodical people even in their crimes. They do not get excited when anticipating an act against the law; they just make up their minds quietly and freely, as the following story will show:

A man arrived one day at a village where he commenced to lecture that all men were equal and that no government had the right to exercise any authority. Thinking to add more power to his views, he decided to begin by disproving the existence of God.

Taking a holy ikon, or sacred picture, he said: "There is no God. I will prove it immediately. I will spit upon this ikon and break it. If there is a God he will send fire from heaven and slay me; if there is not, nothing will happen," whereupon he took the picture and carried out his threat, saying when he had done so, "You see, God has not killed me."

His audience talked quietly among themselves for a few minutes, and then one of them got up and said, "No, God has not killed you, but we will!" And they did without the slightest compunction.—London Standard.

The Circus Business.

The people who are in the circus game are there because of the primitive, wandering call of their blood, a call that dates back for generations. Anybody who's ever been with the big tops will tell you that he hates the business. It's dirty, it's rotten, it's nerve wracking, and if he can ever get to the place where he can have a little farm and a few chickens and a couple of hogs rooting around no mud colored circus big top is ever going to see him again. But, when the bluebird sings in the spring and the menagerie dens are bright with the paint that will remain gloriously shining until the first bad day in the mud, there he is, his eyes bulging, his whole being a-fret to "get with it" at any kind of a job from razorback to pony punk. And from the laboring class on up to the highest position that call of the blood is all the same.—Courtney Ryley Cooper in Everybody's Magazine.

Treating Electric Shock.

How to treat a person who has received a severe electric shock is best described by quoting from the Scientific American the account of how one man did it to a workman who had touched a wire carrying a current of 2,300 volts and was apparently killed.

"A lineman immediately took hold of the ankles of the limp body, lifting it until the whole weight rested on the neck and letting it fall. He then took a pair of connectors and hammered the soles of the injured man's feet without removing his shoes. Another lineman opened the man's mouth, pulled forward the swallowed tongue (which occurs in electric shock) and was about to begin the Schaefer prone method of resuscitation when the man returned to life. He was removed to the hospital and is now well, though suffering very severely from his burns."

Nature.

The best definition of nature is perhaps Mill's in his "Three Essays on Religion." In that work Mill says, "Nature is a collective name for all facts, actual and possible, or a name for the mode, partly known to us and partly unknown, in which all things take place." Continuing, Mill says: "The nature of a thing means its entire capacity of existing phenomena. As the nature of any given thing is the aggregate of its powers and properties, so Nature, in the abstract, is the aggregate of the powers and properties of all things."

THE LOCAL NEWS

Next week will about finish up the fall thaeshing in this locality.

Finish digging the potatoes during this fine weather.

The Mayfield farmers are finishing up threshing this week.

Ole Overgold took down a lot of stock to Oklee last Friday, for cattle buyer Ole Krosteau.

Edward Hyland is thrashing in the Deer Park neighborhood and will be moving up this way the last part of this week.

County Commissioner P. C. Wold was looking at the work being done on the Highlanding bridge Monday.

Lost: A large Blue Belton Setter dog, Black ears and spot on right side. Finder please take up this dog and notify this office, or W.H.Wilde, Sunbeam, Minn.

Stiner and John Johnson, of Kratka have an extra fine crop of earl Ohio potatoes. The are large sized and smoothe and sound.

Sheriff LaBree was up this way last Saturday, and had his usual difficulty getting across Red Lake River. Jess has always been an enthusiastic boaster for a bridge at Highlanding.

Farmers who have much oats Mixed with their wheat should clean their wheat through a fanning mill, as the government grades dock heavy for oats, and you had better clean them out and use them for feed.

Mail Carrier John Hesby carries books of stamps and will sell you a book at any time you meet him at your mail box. This will save the carrier lots of trouble, of gathering loose change out of the mail boxes. It don't cost you any more for postage, if you buy the stamps.

A small crew of men have been putting in the concrete work of the Highlanding bridge this week Should we have an early freeze up the bridge may not be completed this fall, as it would be pretty near an impossibility to grade the high approaches after the ground freezes.

Former County Attorney E.M. Stanton is now looking after the Counties business during the absence of County Attorney Kjomme at war. The older fellows have to do the work at home while the young men go to war. His office is located in the same block as County Attorney Kjomme's office.

There are some parties in Deer Park who take an active interest in what threshing machines the farmers should have, and how they should pay their threshing bills. Some people always seem to have plenty of time to attend to other people's business, and since the changing of the mail route from Rhoda to Hazel, they have not had so much of other peoples business to attend to that goes through the U. S. Mail.

"Artificial Sunshine" for Crops.

Among the efforts being made by England to get better crops, on account of the threatened food crisis, one of the most interesting is an experiment in growing cereals and other field crops with the aid of "artificial sunshine," provided by overhead electric current. This experiment, under the supervision of V. H. Blackman, professor of plant physiology and pathology at South Kensington, is being carried out at Huntington Court farm, near Hereford. The purpose of the experiments is to continue on a large scale work done during the last few years near Dumfries, where in 1916 an increase of about 50 per cent in grain and 85 per cent in straw was obtained on a crop of oats.

Plenty of Space.

[illegible]

Two Dollars

There has been an act passed by congress fixing the price at an even $2, a bushell to be paid to the farmers for their 1918 wheat crop, so the farmers can be sure of getting at least $2, a bushel for all the wheat they raise next year.

WE RETRACT SOMETIMES

Edward Singer, him of Erie served Legal Notice on us to Retract certain articles published in the Sunbeam. In justice to the Post office Department and the 4th Assistant Post Master General we cheerfully retract the article published Jan 21st 1916, as they have shown by their recent establishment of mail service that they wish to give the best service possible. As to several other articles mentioned, we will say; that if we have said anything that is not absolutely true, we are awfully sorry. But we wish to say in conclusion that we have been in the Newspaper business, more or less since May 1891, and knowing the reputation of the Singers as we do, and how well they like a lawsuit, we are not likely to publish anything concerning them unless we have the positive evidence to prove it in Court. The trouble with them is that they think we guess at facts, which we do not. They even complain about a local, that we published last June about the farmers being soaked by feed prices, and claimed we meant them. "The Guilty flee when no man pursueth". We retract.

WHO SPUN ARABIAN NIGHTS?

Authorship of Book That Has Entranced Thousands Has Never Been Definitely Ascertained.

The authorship of the "Arabian Nights" is unknown, but it was introduced to the reading world by a French linguist and traveler named Antoine Galland, who was born in 1646 and died in 1715. Starting as a country boy, with a meager education obtained in a provincial town of France, he became famous as an orientalist, archeologist and master of far eastern literature. For several years he was employed in cataloguing oriental manuscripts at the Sorbonne, in Paris, and then he traveled in the East, studying its languages and literature and accumulating rare manuscripts. On one of these trips he had the title of "Antiquary to the King" conferred upon him. During his prolonged residences abroad he acquired a thorough knowledge of the Arabic, Turkish and Persian languages, and in 1704 he began the publication of a book entitled in French, "Les Mille et Une Nuits," meaning, "The Thousand and One Nights." He did not claim to be the author of the work, but merely the translator and editor. The book was represented as being translated from the Arabic, but no name of an author was given or ever has been. Galland himself may have written the stories in Arabic and then translated them into French, for he was capable of doing it and such literary tricks have been common. In 1709 Galland was appointed to the chair of Arabic in the College of France, and he continued to hold that post until his death, in 1716. His French version of the stories was translated into English.

Machine for Opening Letters.

With the whole tendency of modern business toward centralization, to say nothing of the enormous growth of the mail-order houses, the daily mail problem is a gigantic one to the efficiency experts. A new machine has been put on the market to open letters which is said to break all previous records. It does the work by shaving off an exceedingly thin slice of the edge of each envelope, hardly thicker than the paper itself. It is impossible to cut an inclosure by this method. The chief feature of the machine is its speed. In a recent test run it opened 9,000 letters an hour for an eight-hour stretch.

I knows ye said it fer ter help The Flag—an' wuthless me, an' so I'll tell ye, honest, Bill—but confidentially. I borrowed twenty dollars an' I sneaked straight out o' town; the Army doctor tried my heart—well, Bill, they turn me down! I goes to work fer Hank, next week; thet twenty-'ll soon be paid; I ain't much good, but, please, ol' Bill, don't think I was—afraid!" O, Cibber knew! Today they's lots o' honest hearts thet bleed, consoled by nothin' 'cept THE thought o' some sich secret DEED.

Scott's Body Lost for Ever.

Dr. John Cope of the imperial Antarctic expedition that was sent in search of Captain Scott's body, says it will never be discovered. "Every year," he said, "there falls fourteen feet of snow in the Antarctic. This blows away and melts down to seven feet, and then the next year comes another fourteen feet, and all the while the barrier wears away underneath, so that Captain Scott's body has been buried so deep it will never be found."

"KUN'L JEDGE" SETTLED CASE

Probably Not According to Any Statute, But Both the Litigants Departed Well Satisfied.

Senator Ollie James tells of a "kun'l jedge," an undisputed czar in his county in western Kentucky, who disposed of cases that came before him with severity or clemency, according to their merits in his eyes, and without regard to law or precedent.

In one instance, two old negroes went to law about a certain mule, which each accused the other of having stolen. Inasmuch as the case presented many amusing features, the "Kun'l Jedge" enjoyed it the first day as a sort of special performance for his entertainment; but the second day he summarily dismissed court, in order to go with a hunting party.

"Now, see heah, I'm tired of listenin' to all that nonsense. One or the othah of you stole that mule, and its mighty plain to my mind that evah last one of you have been up heah swearin' to a pack of lies. Unc' Mose, you can keep that mule—you was the last one to git him. Unc' Joe, you go 'long up to the big house and tell Son Bob I said to give you that ol' black mule outer the pasture. Now evah one of you cleah out, and if I evah find out who stole that mule, I'll punish him yet. Cot's dismissed till day aftah tomorrah—no, better make it next Monday. We'll be down the bottom three or four days, won't we, Zeb?"—Case and Comment.

Saving Causes Coin Shortage.

Shortage of small coins, complained of by Minneapolis banks, may be due partly to the practice of saving buffalo nickels and the new dimes, bankers believe.

Many persons have formed the habit of putting away the buffalo coins or the new ten-cent pieces on the well established theory that the saver can accumulate considerable sums in this way and yet do it so gradually that "he never misses it."

Bankers said the penny famine probably was due to recently instilled thrift among children. Pennies given them by parents, which formerly went back into circulation as quickly as little feet could flutter to the corner candy store, now find their way into the toy bank.—Minneapolis Journal.

MORE WHEAT PRIZES

Honors for Western Canada Come Year After Year.

At the recent Soil Products Exposition at Peoria, Ill., in a keen contest for the coveted first prize for wheat, Western Canada has again carried off all the honors. Not only has she won the first, but also the second and third prizes. These were won by Mr. S. Larcombe, of Birtle, Manitoba. In past years the Province of Saskatchewan had the distinguished honor of carrying off the initial prize.

Harvesting and threshing are now completed in Western Canada, and while it is early in the season to give exact figures as to the average yield per acre of wheat, oats, barley and flax it is safe to assume that the former will yield about 20 bushels per acre. The price to the farmer will be about $2.00 per bushel, giving him $40.00 an acre of a return. When it is considered that the land upon which this wheat is grown averaged less than $30 an acre, it takes very little figuring to arrive at an estimate of the profit there is to the grain grower of Western Canada. The writer knows where a farmer purchased 160 acres of land in the spring of 1916, broke it up the same year, put it in wheat in 1917. His crop was harvested a few days ago. It yielded 4,800 bushels and he sold it at $2.05 per bushel, giving him $9,840. The land cost him $4,800, breaking, seeding, seed, cutting and threshing, $1,020. His profit was $3,120 after paying for his land and his costs of improving. He has now $3,120 to commence another season with a "paid for in full" improved farm.

Never has farming offered such profitable returns for labor as at present and nowhere is the large profit equal to that of the low priced, high yielding lands of Western Canada.

There has been a big rush during the past few weeks of renters and owners of high priced lands in many parts of the United States to investigate these 100% profit reports. No better season of the year could be selected by anyone desiring to better their condition and wishing to give Western Canada the "once over." Threshing is now completed and the grain being marketed. The weather is fine and will be pleasant for a couple of months and a visit now to personally investigate the conditions will be convincing and profitable. While old home ties and family associations are one of the first considerations in the mind of the reader, who feels that the old five or ten per cent return is sufficient, it behooves the modern and progressive farmer always to be on the alert to grasp the opportunities of the hour. Land in Western Canada that is annually producing a gross return of from $40.00 to $80.00 per acre is purchasable at from $15 to $30 per acre. It can be seen at a glance that such values cannot help but increase as they have done in the older agricultural districts of the United States. The new settler will find himself surrounded by same contented and prosperous neighbors. The expense of making one visit to look into Western Canada's opportunities is small—a special reduced rate is available and you owe yourself a holiday and a trip may do you good. You owe your dependents a right to better your condition and Western Canada offers that opportunity.—Advertisement.

ROOSEVELT IS CHEERED BY MANY THOUSANDS

HITS DISLOYAL HEAVY BLOWS

Roosevelt Routes "Huns Within Our Gates" in Twin City Speeches.

RECEIVES BIG OVATION

Colonel Flays La Follette as "Most Sinister Enemy Within Nation's Borders"—Gronna and Lundeen Also Scored.

Minneapolis, Oct. 1. — Theodore Roosevelt trained his heavy guns on "Huns within our gates" and put them to rout in his Twin City speeches.

From the time he arrived at noon and until he left, the former president, apostle of preparedness, kept up his fire. With the thousands upon thousands who heard him in Minneapolis and St. Paul he was stamping out all traces of disloyalty left by La Follette.

"Lesser Microbes" Denounced.

"While the men in khaki are warring against the Huns without our gates, let us war against the Huns within our gates," he said. And it was that purpose that guided him every minute of the time that he spent in the Twin Cities.

La Follette was called "the most sinister enemy of the United States within its borders." Senator Gronna of North Dakota, "Ernie" Lundeen and others of their kind were dubbed "lesser microbes" and "shadow-Huns."

The Nonpartisan league and its leaders, A. C. Townley and Congressman John M. Baer, were not spared. They came in for the most scathing denunciations for their utterances.

Man-handles La Follettism.

Mr. Roosevelt paid his respects to the conscientious objector. He would deprive him of a vote. He man-handled La Follettism and the "neo-copperheads" who advocated it. He wanted to see La Follette and the kaiser in close companionship because he "wished ill to both." He said America must become a great industrial democracy and he advocated compulsory, universal military service as the great requisite to make America really independent among the nations.

His hearers applauded him at every step. He drew the greatest demonstration, however, with a little personal reference out of the current of his speech:

"I am an old man," he said. "It is a matter of bitter regret to me not to be allowed to go abroad to serve in the army of the United States. I have made other sacrifices that were bigger, for I have sent my four sons."

House Is One With Speaker.

The house was on its feet in an instant, cheering and clapping and waving hats and handkerchiefs. It was one with the speaker.

"No father or mother here in my position, who understands, but would do anything honorable to avoid war," he continued. "I am not for war when war can be honorably avoided. I was president seven years and in all that time there wasn't a shot fired by us or an American citizen killed by a foreign power."

"We have heard much of the conscientious objectors to military service, the outcry having been loudest among those objectors who are not conscientious at all, but who are the paid or unpaid agents of the German government.

"It is certain that only a small fraction of the men who call themselves conscientious objectors in this matter are actuated in any way by conscience. The bulk are slackers, pure and simple, or else traitorous pro-Germans. Some are actuated by lazy desire to avoid any duty that interferes with their ease and enjoyment, some by the evil desire to damage the United States and help Germany, some by sheer, simple, physical timidity. In the aggregate, the men of this type constitute the great majority of the men who claim to be conscientious objectors, and this fact must be remembered in endeavoring to deal with the class.

"In some of our big cities, since the war began, men have formed vegetarian societies, claiming to be exempt from service on the ground that they object to killing not merely men, but slackers. Others among the leading apostles of applied pacificism are not timid men; on the contrary they are brutal, violent men, who are perfectly willing to fight, but only for themselves and not for the nation. These rough-neck pacifists have always been the potent allies of the parlor or milk-and-water pacifists, although they stand at the opposite end of the developmental scale.

Like Conscientious Polygamists.

"The peace people of the directly opposite type include the men who conscientiously object to all participation in any war, however brutal the opponents, and however vital triumph may be to us and to mankind. These persons are entitled to precisely the respect we give any other persons whose conscience makes them do what is bad. We have had in this country some conscientious polygamists. We now have some conscientious objectors to taking part in this war. Where both are equally conscientious, the former are, on the whole, not as bad citizens as the latter.

"If these men are sincere they will refuse to interfere (for moral suasion is not interference) with a white-slaver who runs off with one of their daughters or a black-hander who kidnaps and tortures a little child or a ruffian who slaps the wife or mother of one of them in the face. They are utterly insincere unless they decline to take advantage of police protection from burglary or highway robbery. Of course if such a man is really conscientious he cannot profit or allow his family to profit in any way by the safety secured to him and them by others, by soldiers, in time of war, by judges and policemen in time of peace; for the receiver is as bad as the thief. I hold that such an attitude is infamous; and it is just as infamous to refuse to serve the country in arms during this war. If a man's conscience bids him to act, then his conscience is a fit subject for the student of morbid pathology.

"Respect the conscientious objector's opinions, but let him abide by the full consequence of his opinions. Universal suffrage can be justified only if it rests on universal service. We stand against all privilege not based on the full performance of duty; and there is no more contemptible form of privilege than the privilege of existing in smug, self-righteous, peaceful safety because other, braver, more self-sacrificing men give up safety and go to war to preserve the nation. If a man is too conscientious to fight, then the rest of us ought to be too conscientious to let him vote in a democratic land which can permanently exist only if the average man is willing in the last resort to fight for it, and die for it.

For Universal Service.

"I wish to see the principle of universal obligatory military service established in this country precisely because it is the only democratic principle. We are in the war and we must do the best we can with the instruments that are at hand. Whether or not I have disapproved of the methods adopted, when once they were adopted I have loyally tried to help them work. But I emphatically protest against the failure to make permanent provision by preparedness in advance against the occurrence of disaster to this country, and the failure properly to democratize our army.

"What we need is the permanent establishment in this country of the system of universal obligatory military training for all our young men, and for making officers out of the best fitted among these young men, without the slightest regard to whether they or their fathers have money or do not have money.

"Under this as a permanent system, every young man so trained—sometime between the ages say of 18 or 19 and 21 or 22—will spend one year with the colors in the field. He would not be allowed to vote until he had performed this service, no matter where he was born. The son of the railway president and the son of the brakeman, the son of the banker and the son of the bricklayer, the son of the lawyer and the son of the farmer will all live on the same food, sleep in the same tents, do the same work, go on the same hikes. This would not only help from the military standpoint. It would also help to bring about in civil affairs a realization of what is meant by democracy and a chance for real understanding of one another by all our citizens. It would mean the drilling into every man of a sense of true devotion to the flag."

CONFEREES AGREE ON REVENUE BILL

MEASURE AS FINALLY WHIPPED INTO SHAPE RAISES ESTIMATE OF BOTH HOUSES.

BILL TO BE TAKEN UP AT ONCE

Senate Estimate Is Increased $300,000,000 and House Estimate $900,000,000—Three Letter Postage Is Restored.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The war revenue bill, raising $2,716,000,000, has been agreed upon in conference after three weeks wrangling. It will be taken up at once in the house.

As reported, the bill is an increase of $300,000,000 over the senate's measure and $900,000,000 over the house bill.

These increases were obtained through restoration of the 3-cent letter postage provisions, increase in second class postage rates, higher rates on tobacco and restoration of taxes on jewelry and inheritances.

The bill as finally agreed on fixed the graduate scale of exemptions for war profits as follows: 20 per cent of profits which do not exceed 15 per cent of the capital; 25 per cent on profits over 15 and under 20 per cent; 35 per cent on profits over 20 and under 25 per cent; 45 per cent on profits over 25 and under 33 per cent; 60 per cent on profits over 33 per cent.

Wine Tax Doubled.

The whisky tax is $1.10 a gallon. The present tax was doubled on still wines, champagne and sparkling wines. On grape brandy or wine spirits withdrawn from a bonded warehouse, the present tax is doubled. On sweet wines 10 cents a gallon is added to present taxes. On grape brandy or wine spirits used in fortification of sweet wines, 20 cents a gallon is added.

On soft drinks, rates were compromised between the high house and senate minimum.

Cigars, snuff and chewing tobacco were increased.

The automobile tax was increased from 1 per cent in the senate bill to 3 per cent. The house percentage on the selling price of piano players, etc., is levied. A like rate was placed on sporting goods, such as tennis racquets and golfballs.

Postal Rates Increased.

On postal rates, in addition to providing that within 30 days after passage of the act, letter postage shall be 3 cents instead of 2 cents as at present, the report adopts a zone system on newspapers and magazines. It provides a schedule of rates based on advertising and reading matter, effective July 1, 1918.

The income tax section remains virtually as passed by the senate.

Admission and dues will raise about $23,000,000. Amusement parks and concessions charging 10 cents or more for admission are taxed.

Movie films are taxed ¼ of a cent a foot.

Jewelry is taxed 3 per cent of the selling price.

Special munitions tax of 10 per cent is levied.

MINNESOTA IS LOYAL ROOSEVELT ASSERTS

All That Is Needed Is the Right Leadership, Colonel Tells Chicagoans.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, who has just closed a patriotic speaking campaign in the cities of the Middle West, was in Chicago for several hours en route east.

"Minnesota and Wisconsin are as straight and loyal as any other states," said Colonel Roosevelt. "All they need is the right leadership. In my whole career I never saw anything like the crowds and enthusiasm in Minneapolis and St. Paul. The people of the northwest are thoroughly alert and patriotic."

As Colonel Roosevelt passed through the railway station he spied a group of the Seventh Illinois regiment about to leave for a southern training camp.

He stopped and shaking hands with several of the men said:

"Boys, I congratulate you most heartily. I only wish I were going with you. You know my four boys are in the service."

City Coal Yard Not Legal.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 1.—The charter commission has turned down the amendment to the city charter for a municipal coal yard as unconstitutional. The state constitution provides that the city shall not make interior improvements and also that taxation shall be for public purposes only, while the coal and wood yard would be a private enterprise.

Duluth May Have Food Controller.

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 1.—As a result of Mayor Magney's investigation into alleged wholesale destruction of food at the city incinerator, the appointment of a food administrator is a probability. Mayor Magney returned from Columbus, O., yesterday. He said that he will "tackle the problem immediately and complete his investigation." When he first took up the investigation, he consulted with the Minnesota Public Safety commission. Commissioner March suggested a food administrator be appointed.

WOULD STIR UP OPPOSITION

PLAN OF SENATORS GORE AND LA FOLLETTE REVEALED.

Had Plan to Start Nation-Wide Fight on War Revenue Measure as Passed by Senate.

Washington, Oct. 1.—An attempt by Senators T. P. Gore of Oklahoma, and Robert M. La Follette to stir up nation-wide opposition to the war revenue bill as passed by the Senate has been revealed to their colleagues and members of the House in the past few days.

They sought to utilize the services of certain county officials in this propaganda work.

But instead of helping to spread dissention over the merits of a war measure many of these officials at once notified their senators and representatives of the activities of Gore and La Follette.

A multigraphed letter dated September 1, and bearing the stamped signature of these two senators was mailed at the postoffice here at 5:30 p. m., September 11, the day after the Senate passed the war revenue bill, to county clerks, presumably in all states.

Asked for Names.

Enclosed with the single page letter were a stamped, self-addressed envelope and four sheets of blanks upon which the recipient was asked to place the names of three intelligent and public spirited citizens who take an interest in matters relating to taxation, in each precinct, township or civil subdivision of your county.

There were spaces for ten precincts or thirty names on each blank, or 120 for each clerk to furnish.

In addition to the township or precinct, name and postoffice, the county clerks were asked to tell the occupations of those whose names were sent to the Senators.

The letter and enclosures were mailed in an envelope bearing Senator Gore's return mark. Four cents postage was required.

FOUR LEADERS TAKEN IN BIG I. W. W. DRIVE

Iron Range Agitators Arrested on Blanket Warrants From Chicago.

New York, Oct. 1.—Four leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World who have been active in the east were arrested on warrants issued in Chicago under the blanket indictment found against 166 members of the organization. Those taken into custody were Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Carlo Tresca, Arturo Giovannitti and John Baldazza.

Tresca was conspicuous in the recent Mesaba iron ore strike in Minnesota and played a leading part in the Paterson silk mill strike in 1914. Giovannitti was one of the leaders in the famous textile mill strike at Lawrence, Mass.

Miss Flynn played a prominent part in the Minnesota Iron Range and Paterson strikes. Baldazza has been comparatively inconspicuous in the past.

Swedish-Americans Pledge Loyalty.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Five thousand Americans of Swedish descent and birth gathered at the municipal pier here to attest their loyalty to the government.

Twin City Car Men Get Raise.

Minneapolis, Oct. 1.—Effective Oct. 1, there will be a 10 per cent increase in pay for street railway trainmen. The increase was announced by Horace Lowry, president of the Minneapolis Street Railway company, following a conference with the trainmen's committee from the six stations. Originally it had been intended to grant the increase Jan. 1. Increased cost of living, set forth by the men, induced the company to grant the request despite a shrinkage in the company's earnings.

With the Fingers! Says Corns Lift Out Without Any Pain

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn can shortly be lifted right out with the fingers if you will apply on the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

At little cost one can get a small bottle of freezone at any drug store, which will positively rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain or soreness or the danger of infection.

This new drug is an ether compound, and dries the moment it is applied and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding skin. Just think! You can lift off your corns and calluses now without a bit of pain or soreness. If your druggist hasn't freezone he can easily get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.—adv.

Postmaster Hanks ran the general store as well as the post office and one summer morning a lanky youth slouched in, removed his battered straw hat and said:

"Mr. Hanks, I un'erstand there's two letters here fur me—one wot come a month ago and one wot come last week. I'm afeared my folks must be sick, or else they wouldn't be writin' so plum often. Let me have them letters, will ye, Mr. Hanks?"

The postmaster glared at the youth.

"No, Peleg Anderson, I won't let ye have them letters till ye settle fur that lot o' groceries wot's been owin' so long!"

The young man took out some money.

"I kin settle half the account, Mr. Hanks," he said.

"Then," said the postmaster, in a milder voice, "I kin give ye one o' yer letters," and he did so. "Squar' up in full, Peleg Anderson, an' ye'll git yer other letter, but not before."

Mrs. Janis.

"Flashes of fire came before my eyes and the pains in my head were terrible. My sight was affected and there were large, puffy spots beneath my eyes.

"How I suffered when passing the kidney secretions! I screamed in agony and I often wished I might die and be out of misery. I had night sweats and mornings on getting up I was so weak and numb I could hardly stand up. DOBBIN HAS A DAY DREAM Faithful Old Horse Will Have Regular Thrill When He Casts Off His Shoes.

When the automobile and the tin Lizzie shall at last have relegated the "hoss" to the limbo of things obsolete, will the noble animal degenerate and hark back to his ancestral type, or will he simply disappear like the dodo? asks "Zim" in Cartoons magazine.

It has taken a lot of time and patience to develop Dobbin from the primitive models such as the hydracoterium, the pachynolophus and the eohippus, to make him "whoa," back and "gitap" and take his meals out of a nosebag. In the process of civilization he has gradually lost his toes and has had to accommodate his feet to the horseshoe. Does he still dream perhaps of the delights of having toes—of sinking them down into the green sqush of the tertiary era and feeling the cool goo trickled up between them? If so, how glad he will be some day to look down and see his long-forgotten toes beginning to sprout once again! His will be the thrill of the small boy on the first warm day of spring when he can cast off his shoes and go barefoot.

When the "hoss" discovers for the first time that he can again wiggle his toes, he will doubtless radiate a smile of solid comfort.

LEMONS BRING OUT THE HIDDEN BEAUTY

What girl or woman hasn't heard of lemon juice to remove complexion blemishes; to bleach the skin and to bring out the roses, the freshness and the hidden beauty? But lemon juice alone is acid, therefore irritating, and should be mixed with orchard white this way. Strain through a fine cloth the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing about three ounces of orchard white, then shake well and you have a whole quarter pint of skin and complexion lotion at about the cost one usually pays for a small jar of ordinary cold cream. Be sure to strain the lemon juice so no pulp gets into the bottle, then this lotion will remain pure and fresh for months. When applied daily to the face, neck, arms and hands it should help to bleach, clear, smoothen and beautify the skin.

Any druggist will supply three ounces of orchard white at very little cost and the grocer has the lemons. Adv.

Selective Draft.

Much amusement was caused in the house of commons by the official admission that "by a regretable clerical error" the national service department had notified the speaker that they proposed to transfer him to new employment at Wolverhampton at about one dollar per day, with a weekly war bonus of a little more than a dollar "on the ground that such employment was deemed of greater national importance than that on which he was now engaged."

When to Keep Still.

Nothing in the world adds weight to a man's words so much as keeping still when he has nothing to say.

Brief Items of State News

Rudolph Gruenloh of Avon, a pioneer of that section, died at his home after a short illness. He was 83 years of age.

Quarrying has started at the Little Falls granite works and it is said that stone of fine quality is being removed in large quantities. Preparations are being made to build a sidetrack to the quarry.

A resolution was sent to President Wilson by the Minnesota W. C. T. U. in state convention at the Wesley M. E. church, Minneapolis, urging him to use his influence to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor during the war.

Rev. J. K. Warden has filed slander suits against two Williams men, James O'Brien and Hans Christenson, charging them with damaging his character to the extent of $1,000. The case will be tried in the district court at Baudette.

The body of W. S. Woodcraft, who took his life in a room at the Nicollet hotel, Minneapolis, was sent to Montevideo, in care of a brother who identified him. No reason is known why Woodcraft committed suicide. His wife survives him.

Capt. Arthur S. Gow, of Battery F, of the 151st field artillery, formerly the First Minnesota field artillery, now in camp at Camp Mineola, L. I., has acknowledged the receipt of $7,200, the artillery's share of the proceeds of the soldier's pageant recently held at the state fair grounds.

Plans for aiding Federal and state authorities in their efforts to stop the illegal sale of liquor to soldiers and others, were discussed at a meeting of the Minneapolis Retail Liquor Dealers' association. Another meeting will be held soon to which all saloonkeepers in Minneapolis will be invited.

At a conference of land men held in Minneapolis plans for forming a state-wide association to develop 20,000,000 acres of unsettled land in northern Minnesota were discussed. It is proposed that the association develop wild land in the northern part of the state by inducing men interested in the sheep industry to come to the state.

At the time of the first drive for funds for the Red Cross a number of Crookston farmers, instead of donating money, promised to pay the value of crop yields from certain tracts of land on their farms, when their crops were harvested this fall. The first return of this nature was received when William Dittman turned in $40 to the Red Cross as his donation.

Vera Friend, a Socialist, who was arrested in New Brunswick, when she was accused of desecrating the American flag, was tried in the federal court here and fined $25 and costs. Later the court allowed the fine to be removed and permitted the woman to return to Minneapolis on her promise of good behavior. Miss Friend says she did not kick and trample on the flag, as she is charged with doing, but merely unpinned it when some one put it on her coat. J. F. Emme, St. Paul Socialist, was arrested at the same time as Miss Friend, but was released upon promise of future good behavior.

Eleven hundred and twenty-five hunting licenses have been issued by County Auditor Nicholas Thomey at St. Cloud.

D. S. Hayward, proprietor of the Grand Central hotel at St. Cloud, has given out a statement in which he indicated he intended erecting a new hotel of 150 rooms.

Reports from the Cuyuna iron range say a number of supposed I. W. W.'s from Bisbee, Ariz., have drifted in. Officials say no action will be taken as long as they work and remain quiet.

The Otter Tail County Public Safety association circulated a petition asking that Senator La Follette be ousted from the United States Senate, following his speech befor the Non-Partisan league convention in St. Paul.

The Montevideo Leader has been sold to Ludvig I. Roe of Northfield, Minn., and possession will be given on or before Oct. 1. H. E. Hoard, the retiring editor, has been in charge of the paper for the past thirty-five years.

Loyalty gained a victory at Brunswick, seven miles south of Mora, when a meeting addressed by J. F. Emme, St. Paul Socialist, was broken up by sheriffs and home guard organizations from Kanabec and surrounding counties and a loyalty meeting held at which speakers addressed 2,500 persons. Mr. Emme and a woman were arrested and taken to Mora.

A meeting of the Duluth-Fargo Highway association, commonly known as the Black Diamond trail, will be held in Wadena October 1. "Everyone who is interested in good roads should attend this meeting," writes John Dower, secretary of the organization. "The building of a good road between Duluth and Fargo means much to every citizen in every county through which this road passes." Mr. Downer has asked every delegate and visitor to come by automobile, if possible, thus getting first hand knowledge of the condition of the road.

A petrified human head was unearthed on a farm near Virginia by Irvin Fredrichs, in digging a root cellar. The stone weighs 8½ pounds and is perfect in formation, the teeth distinguishable. Local archaeologists are of the belief that it is the head of an Indian buried centuries ago.

A potato warehouse, to hold approximately 8,000 bushels, is being built at the Monroe location near Chisholm, by the Oliver Iron Mining company for the use of its employes. The company encouraged its employes to plant potatoes this year, furnishing the ground and plowing without charge.

A Combination.

"Are you going to fight or raise food?"

"Little of both, suh," replied Erastus Pinkley. "I's gineter git my chicken coop well populated an' den I's gineter hang 'round over it wif a shotgun."

Quite Appropriate Motion.

"Thrones are rocking these days."

"Quite right, too. A rocking throne is the cradle of liberty."

One can't always judge a woman's innate truthfulness by what she says.

Liquor Control in Bermuda.

Consul Carl R. Loop of Hamilton, reports that the Bermuda legislature has passed a law whereby "during the continuance of the present war the sale or supply of intoxicating liquor in all clubs and licensed premises is prohibited between the hours of nine o'clock at night and nine o'clock on the following morning."

Compliments of the Day.

Soldiers have to do their own mending, when it is done at all, and it appears—although few persons would have guessed it—that the thoughtful war office supplies them with outfits for that purpose. Otherwise, this joke would be impossible.

Everything was ready for kit inspection; the recruits stood lined up ready for the officer, and the officer had his bad temper all complete. He marched up and down the line, grimly eyeing each man's bundle of needles and soft soap, and then he singled out Private MacTootle as the man who was to receive his attentions.

"Toothbrush?" he roared.

"Yes, sir."

"Razor?"

"Yes, sir."

"Hold-all?"

"Yes, sir."

"Huh! You're all right, apparently," growled the officer. Then he barked, "Housewife?"

"O, very well, thank you," said the recruit, amiably; "how's yours?"—Journal of the American Medical Association.

What It Does.

"What does golf do for a man?"

"Well, for one thing, it makes him decide to take his vacation in the winter, when he can go south."

Even though a man stops growing while young, he may grow old.

Bone Surgery Marvels.

A reserve officer in the United States medical corps who recently returned from Great Britain is loud in his praises of the work in bone surgery being done in British hospitals. He says: "They can take a rib from a man and use it to replace a crushed bone in his arm. Patients who in earlier times would have been considered permanently disabled are now fixed up in a few weeks so that they can go back to the front. In a single month, in one hospital, we had 1,350 bone cases, and 1,000 of them were ready at the end of the month to go back and fight again."

New Weather Words.

The esteemed weather bureau has sprung a new one. It is the word "smog," and it means smoke or fog. The bureau explains that very frequently there are times when the mixture is apparent in the atmosphere, and it considers the new word a great little idea.

Very well, "smog" let it be. But why end there? Let's call a mixture of snow and mud "smug," a mixture of snow and soot "snoot," and a mixture of snow and hail "snail." Thus we might have a weather forecast:

"Snail today, turning to snoot tonight, tomorrow snoggy with smud."—Builder's Guide.

It's up to a man to foot his bills after receiving a legacy.

A Wise Orang-Outang.

Prof. William T. Hornaday, the noted animal preceptor, cites this instance of ape sagacity:

"I once became quite chummy with an untrained, caged, menagerie orang-outang by the name of Dohong. He was a son of the jungle and intensely concerned in matters that came into his narrow life. All that he learned outside of his inherited instincts he learned himself. His cage contained a number of horizontal bars attached to brackets on which he took considerable solemn exercise. One day he concluded that the bars ought to come down. Bracing his feet against the solid wall of the cage, he pulled every bar from its fastening and flung it on the floor. Larger bars were substituted, which the ape vainly tried to remove. After straining his back in this futile effort, he walked up and down in his cage and was apparently intently studying the situation. Eventually he procured the crossbar of his trapeze and using it for a lever, he not only pried every horizontal bar from its brackets, but he likewise pried the iron bars of his cage apart so that he could stick his head through the opening and satisfy his curiosity regarding his neighbor in the adjoining cage."

FIRE OUT TRAITORS

A thousand citizens of Washburn, Wisconson, have wired to Washington the demand for La-Follette's resignation or La Follette's impeachment.

Every community in Wisconson, and every local citizen of Wiscon,should join in that demand.

Every community in America, and every loyal citizen,should do the same.

If the country, besides fighting the kaiser,must fight La Follette, then it should be war to the hilt, quickly begun and quickly finished.

And what La Follette of Wisconsin deserves,Gronna of North Dakota also deserves and should get.—The Duluth Herald.

Minnesota,with her sister States of Wisconsin and North Dakota has vigorously demanded the removal of these two traitors from the senate, some going so far as to demand their imprisonment for treason.It is now plain to be seen where some of that Fifty thousand dollars went that Germany sent over to be used to get congress not to declare war. Out of the Senate with them! Fire them bodily! Let them go to Germany where they belong.Our brave soldier boys are already in the trenches in France, fighting the battles of America, and the people at home will not allow them to be stabbed in the back. LaFollette was hung in Effigy in St. Paul and it is too bad that it was only an imitation and not the reality.

Old Kaiser Wilhelm may as well go out and whistle as to talk peace to President Wilson, and Wilson is right.When an individual breaks his word and promise, you are not likely to trust him again, and when a ruler of a Nation will break his word there is no use to take it the second time, Even German sympathizers in this Country bragged about how nice Kaiser Wilhelm fooled Wilson, until he got his submarine fleet ready, America admits that it was a mistake to take his word, but they will not take it the second time, and there will be no peace talk between the present German monarchy and the United States. Wilson has spoken and he meant every word he said.

Congressman Baer, of North Dakota, the farmers Nonpartisan Congressman, seems to have got mixed up with the wrong crowd down there at Washington. Instead of going in with the great majority of Patriotic Congressman, he seems to have got mixed up with old rotten politicians like Britten and Mason of Illinois, who are to be put under investigation for sharing in that German $50.000 slush fund that was sent over here to corrupt Congress. We hope to hear that Congressman Baer will shake that crowd, but if he don't the farmer Rubes of North Dakota, who allowed him to Cartoon himself into Congress have been worked as "Rubes" to the limit.

Berlin have announced that they will not consent to abandoned Belgium. They will soon get out of there when your Uncle Sam gets after them, and they will not have time to stop to dictate any terms on which they get out, as there will be an American bayonet so close to their rear they won't have time to stop Rifles at West Point.

The average recruit who starts in at West Point knows as much about the fine points of rifle firing as a longshoreman about flying. First he masters the elementary steps—the manual of arms and the correct firing positions—says the Popular Science Monthly. Then he must learn a thousand facts not mentioned in the drill regulations. Among the rifle kinks, for instance, is the smoking of the glass rifle sights for work in the sun. By simply holding the sights over the flame of a match—or, better, over an alcohol flame—a light layer of lampblack is spread over the sight, which enables the soldier to fire, even when he is directly facing the sun. And when his back is toward the sun the reflected glare is eliminated, so that he can work without danger to his eyes.

Another kink is the doubling up of the ordinary rifle strap in order to use it to obtain a sling grip. By making the sling short enough it is possible for the left hand to obtain a viselike grip on the rifle. This helps considerably in steadying it.

Head Waiters.

A head waiter must always be able to tell at a glance how much money you are going to spend so that he will be able to sneer at you accordingly.

When a restaurant proprietor hires a new head waiter he expects to be greatly humiliated. To make a favorable impression the head waiter must be able to give the proprietor a look that will make him feel pretty cheap. Before the interview is over the proprietor is showing the head waiter his family portrait album.

The head waiters in the magazines and movies could never hold real jobs because they have been seen to smile and bow. If a real head waiter ever smiled at a customer he would break out with a rash, and if he ever bowed it would cause internal injuries.

There may come a day when a head waiter's bows and smiles may be had at moderate prices. At present, however, they are within the reach of few.—Brooklyn Eagle.

England and Russia.

A knowledge of English is widespread among the educated classes of Russia. There is not a notable play or novel produced in London which is not acted or read in Russia. The Russian intelligenzia knows not only French and German, but also English history and literature, thoroughly.

Gytha, the daughter of King Harold who was slain at Hastings (1066) through her marriage with the Russian Prince of Tchernigoff laid the first foundation to the close relationship between Great Britain and the Russian empire. The real English discoverer of Russia is, of course, Richard Chancelor, who, through his voyage to Moscow in 1553, established solid commercial connections between the two countries. Peter the Great's mother was brought up in a Scottish household.—Exchange.

Peanut Cookies.

This crumb recipe makes 302 peanut cookies at a cost of 40 cents. A cupful of skimmed milk, half a cupful of butter or oleomargarine, half a cupful of peanut butter, four cupfuls of fine sifted dry crumbs, two eggs, two cupfuls of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, four teaspoonfuls of salt and enough flour to make a stiff dough, which will be about three and a half or four cupfuls of flour. Cream fat and sugar together, add eggs to milk and add flour and milk alternately to creamed fat and sugar, roll thin and use medium size biscuit cutter. Put half of roasted peanut kernel on top of each cookie. Bake on greased pan in medium oven until brown.—Kansas City Star.

Beets in England.

For several years Great Britain has experimented with the sugar beet, but now, facing a sugar shortage and with the need of making the country less dependent upon foreign supply, the government is taking an official concern in the possibilities of this industry. Accordingly, the government has made a loan toward the creation of a sugar beet factory near Newark, capable of dealing with a large daily tonnage. The British Sugar Beet Growers' society has purchased land, and it is hoped that this area, with additional land in the vicinity cultivated by separate farmers, will produce 80,000 tons of beets per year, which should yield 11,000 tons of sugar.

Woman Smokers in Wales.

A woman was seen smoking a pipe in a Swansea by-street the other day, and seemed to be enjoying it hugely. Of course, this is not quite a new thing. Some old ladies, especially of Irish extraction, have enjoyed their weed in that way for many years past. But it was the way in which this was done which surprised the public. As a matter of fact, in London some women have gone in for cigarettes and pipes in their homes and in the woman's clubs there is a rule that pipes are not permitted has been quietly rescinded in favor of the male visitors, who now smoke vigorously without complaint.—Cardiff Western Mail.

A Glimpse of the Russian Peasant.

Russians are a very methodical people even in their crimes. They do not get excited when anticipating an act against the law; they just make up their minds quietly and freely, as the following story will show:

A man arrived one day at a village where he commenced to lecture that all men were equal and that no government had the right to exercise any authority. Thinking to add more power to his views, he decided to begin by disproving the existence of God.

Taking a holy ikon, or sacred picture, he said: "There is no God. I will prove it immediately. I will spit upon this ikon and break it. If there is a God he will send fire from heaven and slay me; if there is not, nothing will happen," whereupon he took the picture and carried out his threat, saying when he had done so, "You see, God has not killed me."

His audience talked quietly among themselves for a few minutes, and then one of them got up and said, "No, God has not killed you, but we will!" And they did without the slightest compunction.—London Standard.

The Circus Business.

The people who are in the circus game are there because of the primitive, wandering call of their blood, a call that dates back for generations. Anybody who's ever been with the big tops will tell you that he hates the business. It's dirty, it's rotten, it's nerve wracking, and if he can ever get to the place where he can have a little farm and a few chickens and a couple of hogs rooting around no mud colored circus big top is ever going to see him again. But, when the bluebird sings in the spring and the menagerie dens are bright with the paint that will remain gloriously shining until the first bad day in the mud, there he is, his eyes bulging, his whole being a-fret to "get with it" at any kind of a job from razorback to pony punk. And from the laboring class on, up to the highest position that call of the blood is all the same.—Courtney Ryley Cooper in Everybody's Magazine.

Treating Electric Shock.

How to treat a person who has received a severe electric shock is best described by quoting from the Scientific American the account of how one man did it to a workman who had touched a wire carrying a current of 2,300 volts and was apparently killed:

"A lineman immediately took hold of the ankles of the limp body, lifting it until the whole weight rested on the neck and letting it fall. He then took a pair of connectors and hammered the soles of the injured man's feet without removing his shoes. Another lineman opened the man's mouth, pulled forward the swallowed tongue (which occurs in electric shock) and was about to begin the Schaefer prone method of resuscitation when the man returned to life. He was removed to the hospital and is now well, though suffering very severely from his burns."

Odd Marriage Belief.

An unmarried man or woman of marriageable age is something that is rarely seen in the Fiji islands. The reason of this is not far to seek. The natives believe that if a person dies while in an unmarried state his or her soul is doomed to wander about through endless ages of eternity in an intermediate region between heaven and hades. At the end of every day they are allowed to look into heaven, but are never permitted to enter.

Ancient Pillory.

The prophet Jeremiah was confined in the pillory (Jeremiah xxix, 26), which appears to be a common mode of punishment in his time. Ancient Hebrew prisons contained a special chamber for the pillory. This was termed "the house of the pillory" (II Chronicles xvi, 10).

Plummer is to have their Second Annual Market Day, next Friday October 12th. A good program of Races and a free auction will be held, at 1 o'clock. Liberal prizes have been offered for farm exhibits.

Any farmer bringing an exhibit to the Plummer Market Day Oct 12th, will be entitled to receive a piece of cake from the cake of the First State Bank. Three of the pieces contains a $2.50 gold piece. It costs you nothing to draw, if you bring an exhibit to the fair.

Ye Editor has been so busy lately that he has not had time to assist some of the people in eastern Deer Park to get better mail service. We all know why you want a change in your present mail service; but if we should say anything about it, Singers would claim we meant them, and sue us for libel.

The people living on the Sunbeam and Hasel mail route are well pleased with their present mail service, as mail carrier Hesby and the Post Masters at both ends of the route are endeavoring to give them the honest daily mail service, that they have long been entitled to.

The youngsters, at Highlanding have kept the ferry running by poling it across the river. If it is awfull necessary for you to get ferried across the river show the kids the color of your coin and they will safely ferry you across. But as they be quite a healthy bunch they don't like to tug at them roaps and poles for their health.

Sigrud Sigurdson will leave this week for the training camp, as one of the Soldiers from Highlanding Pennington County. It is sad to see our young men start off for war, but those that go now will only get as far as the training camps, as there are now plenty of troops in France to finish up Germany and the final finish will be before next March. Watch our Prediction as a careful observer.

A New Zealand man vouches for the truth of the following story:

Dick Seddon was of Lancashire origin, and when he died the Lancastrian society in New Zealand sent a wreath with the following inscription: "I have gone whoam." The journalist who reported the funeral evidently did not come from Lancashire and consequently was somewhat puzzled by the wording and, after thinking hard, concluded that some one had blundered. His report read:

"The Lancastrian society sent a beautiful wreath bearing the inscription: 'I have gone. Who am I?'"

THE QUESTION OF LABOR

Probably the Most Serious Handicap to Put in Maximum Crops This Year Is the Scarcity of Farm Labor.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Many a good crop will be ruined because farmers cannot get labor at the right time. There are two times of the year when more labor is absolutely necessary—at seed time and at harvest. While our farmers need men at other times of the year, these are the two crucial periods.

As it is to the interest of every person living in this county to produce a bumper crop this year, we must do all we can to help the farmer and perhaps the most important thing we can do, is to find him right help of the right class.

Surprising the Bullock.

In times of crisis and worry a kind word has been known to have surprisingly good results. The unexpectedness of such a word is perhaps the secret of its force. A book, "On the Wool Track," backs the moral with an anecdote.

A team was working on the Broken Hill road, and a bullock—the Beelzebub of the team—had gone obstinate, and the coach was passing. The whip was swinging, and some apt remarks were just forming on the back of the teamster's tongue when he caught sight of a clerical hat on the front seat and just in time thought better of it. He coughed politely.

"Ahem—Strawberry," he said, "proceed!"

To his obvious astonishment Strawberry proceeded.

WHO HELP THEMSELVES.

By Joseph Altsheler of the Vigilantes.

I ARRIVED in Vienna one night late in July, 1914. The streets were filled with young men, singing, dancing, shouting and expressing joy in many ways. Why? Austria-Hungary had just declared war upon Servia, and they were going to a picnic. In a week they would wipe Servia off the map.

It all seemed very far away from my country. A war in southeastern Europe could not affect us, and Americans could go on in the ways of peace ignoring cannon and rifles.

But Russia undertook to defend Servia. Germany, the ally of Austria-Hungary, promptly declared war upon Russia and also attacked and invaded France, the ally of Russia. But it still seemed very far from America, and we could go on with the ways of peace.

Belgium was devoted to peace, but it was overrun by the German army, its people were slaughtered and its cities burned. But that was still very far away from us, and we could go on in the ways of peace, ignoring the cannon and the rifles.

Great Britain was drawn in. The war came a little nearer and spread upon the sea. But it was yet far away and would never touch us. We could sleep in peace. These matters did not concern us.

But we awoke suddenly from our dream. The little fire that had been started in southeastern Europe had spread all over the world. Although we withdrew steadily from the flames, they reached out for us as steadily. Now we cannot avoid them if we would, and we must fight fire with fire.

As the world comes more closely together what affects one is likely to affect all. Isolation is no security, and in reality there is no isolation. Doing everything that our self respect admits to avoid it, we are nevertheless drawn into war.

Rescued by Nature.

WHO SPUN 'ARABIAN NIGHTS?'

Authorship of Book That Has Entranced Thousands Has Never Been Definitely Ascertained.

The authorship of the "Arabian Nights" is unknown, but it was introduced to the reading world by a French linguist and traveler named Antoine Galland, who was born in 1646 and died in 1715. Starting as a country boy, with a meager education obtained in a provincial town of France, he became famous as an orientalist, archeologist and master of far eastern literature. For several years he was employed in cataloguing oriental manuscripts at the Sorbonne, in Paris, and then he traveled in the East, studying its languages and literature and accumulating rare manuscripts. On one of these trips he had the title of "Antiquary to the King" conferred upon him. During his prolonged residences abroad he acquired a thorough knowledge of the Arabic, Turkish and Persian languages, and in 1704 he began the publication of a book entitled in French, "Les Mille et Une Nuits," meaning, "The Thousand and One Nights." He did not claim to be the author of the work, but merely the translator and editor. The book was represented as being translated from the Arabic, but no name of an author was given or ever has been. Galland himself may have written the stories in Arabic and then translated them into French, for he was capable of doing it and such literary tricks have been common. In 1709 Galland was appointed to the chair of Arabic in the College of France, and he continued to hold that post until his death, in 1716. His French version of the stories was translated into English.

Scott's Body Lost for Ever.

Dr. John Cope, of the imperial Antarctic expedition that was sent in search of Captain Scott's body, says it will never be discovered. "Every year," he said, "there falls fourteen feet of snow in the Antarctic. This blows away and melts down to seven feet, and then the next year comes another fourteen or fifteen feet, and all the while the barrier wears away underneath. Captain Scott's body has been buried so deep it will never be found."

IRISHMEN IN COMMON BOND

Writer Sees Peculiar Opportunity for Commonwealth in That Country, for Many Reasons.

Ireland is, perhaps, the only country in Europe in which a co-operative commonwealth has a notable chance of being realized. Few great industrial interests have been established there. The bulk of the people are small farmers whose economic status makes co-operative combinations more and more a necessity. The people have always worked well in combination from the time of the Celtic clans who so ably and for so long resisted a great military aggression to our own time when their combinations for boycott destroyed a feudal system that had the might of an empire behind it.

Such a commonwealth, democratic for production, aristocratic in leadership would move more and more toward a brotherhood. The literary movement of today may be a prophecy of or perhaps a preparation for that brotherhood. The theme of the new Irish poetry, as I have said, is a spiritual democracy.

The ideal of the co-operative commonwealth is apt to gain the allegiance of every vital force in the country. To those who would have Ireland an independent state it shows the way to economic independence; to those who would have Ireland a resurgent Gaelic nationality it shows the way of return to a Gaelic form of social organization; to those who react from the dreadful economic conditions in many parts of the country it shows the way to economic betterment.—Padraic Colum, in the Seven Arts.

Machine for Opening Letters.

With the whole tendency of modern business toward centralization, to say nothing of the enormous growth of the mail-order houses, the daily mail problem is a gigantic one in the large business concerns. A new machine has been put on the market to open letters which is said to break all previous records. It does the work by shaving off an exceedingly thin slice of the edge of each envelope, hardly thicker than the paper itself. It is impossible to cut an inclosure by this method. The chief feature of the machine is its speed; a recent test put it [illegible] 9,000 letters an hour for an eight-hour stretch.

Help to Save Nation's Food Supply

In this time of high cost of living, everybody should use all possible means to prevent waste and to help save food. No one means can be more effective than a vigorous campaign to exterminate rats which destroy over two hundred million dollars worth of foodstuffs annually. Keep garbage in rat-proof cans, stop up their holes, and above all exterminate them with Stearns' Paste, which can be bought for a few cents at any store. A two ounce box will usually rid a house or barn of every rat. It destroys mice, cockroaches and waterbugs as well. Adv.

Surf Coasting.

The sport of surf coasting reached this country from Hawaii and promises in a few years to become a popular sport. In California it was much practiced this past summer, while a few surf boards might be seen on the New York beaches. American manufacturers have put on the market a special surf board which is a considerable improvement over the plank used by the Hawaiians, having an air chamber at one end. All we lack now is the Hawaiian skill in riding the big breakers standing up.—Exchange.

WHAT CITIZENS MUST GIVE TO WAR REVENUES

Conferees of Senate and House Report as to Expenditures Made Necessary.

TAX IS DIVIDED IN EQUITY

BURDEN EQUITABLY DIVIDED AS SEEN WISE BY COMMITTEE APPOINTED.

Corporations Will Pay Commensurate Share for the Protection of the Country—Statesmen at the Capital Well Satisfied With the Efforts They Have Put Forth.

Washington.—The joint conferees on the war revenue bill completed their draft after two weeks of deliberation.

As revised by the conferees the measure has been raised from the levy fixed by the senate of $2,416,670,000 to an aggregate of approximately $2,700,000,000. Chairman Simmons of the senate finance committee estimated that the increase made by the conferees would approach $275,000,000.

Profits Tax Modified.

The excess war profits tax, as agreed to by the conferees, is a modification of the senate bill, the principal changes being in the maximum and minimum rates of exemption upon which the tax is to be determined. The senate graduated scale of exemptions ran from 6 to 10 per cent, while the house exemption rate was 8 per cent. The conferees adopted the graduated rate of from 7 to 9 per cent.

The definition of capital, which was a point upon which the conferees argued for days, was modified so as to provide that the actual value of tangible property paid into a corporation or partnership or individual business before January 1, 1914, shall be taken as of that date. The proviso as to good will and other intangible property has been somewhat liberalized.

As to "Invested Capital."

In calculating war excess profits the terms "invested capital" of corporations and partnerships was declared to include "actual cash paid in, actual cash value and other tangible property paid for stock or shares at the time of payment or January 1, 1914, but in no case to exceed the par value of the original securities; paid in or earned surplus and undivided profits used or employed in the business, exclusive of undivided profits earned during the taxable year."

The allowance for intangible assets includes "actual cash value of patents and copyrights paid in for stock or shares at the time of payment . . . good will trademarks, trade brands, franchises . . . if for bone-fide payments not to exceed the cash value."

It stipulates that such intangible assets exchanged for securities before March 3, 1917, not exceeding 20 per cent of the total, shall be included at a value not exceeding a fair cash value at the time of purchase.

Postal Increases.

A flat increase on reading matter of ¼ cent per pound until July 1, 1919, and ½ cent thereafter was provided. Advertising matter exceeding 5 per cent of the total space would be taxed from ¼ to 2¼ cents additional until July 1, 1910, and from ½ to 4½ cents more until July 1, 1920; and from ¾ to 6¾ cents to 1921 and from 1 cent to 9 cents thereafter.

An additional tax of ⅛ cent per pound until July 1, 1919, and ¼ cent thereafter, on religious, agricultural, fraternal and similar publications was adopted.

The 1 cent tax on letters, excepting drop letters and postal cards, was restored by the conferees. A 1 cent additional tax on postal and private mailing cards was added. The first-class mail increases are estimated to raise $90,000,000, and are effective 30 days afetr the passage of the act. The senate provision exempting from postage leetters written by soldiers and sailors abroad was retained.

Railroad Tickets Hit.

The conferees levied 8 per cent in lieu of the senate rate of 5 and the house rate of 10 per cent on passenger transportation, estimated to raise from the compromise levy abouot $60,000,000 instead of $37,500,000 under the senate plan. The 3 per cent tax on freight transportation was retained and the tax on express transportation was increased so that 1 cent would be levied on each 20 cents paid instead of each 25 cents. The house 10 per cent tax on Pullman accommodations, cut to 5 per cent by the senate, was restored and is estimated to raise $5,000,000.

In lieu of the house 5 per cent tax on sales of automobiles by manufacturers, and the senate federal license tax on owners, the conferees adopted a 3 per cent tax on all motor vehicles, including trucks, payable by manufacturers, producers and importers.

Taxes of 3 per cent of manufacturers' sales of musical instruments and jewelry also were written in, with a tax of ¼ cent a foot on motion picture film.

New Inheritance Tax.

A new system of graduated inheritance taxes was written into the bill in lieu of the house plan and despite the senate's rejection of such taxes. The new rates on inheritances, with those of Americans in military service exempted, range from one-half of 1 per cent on $50,000 estates to 10 per cent on estates of $10,000,000 and more.

The bulk of the increases of between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000 made by the conferees in the senate bill was secured from the postage, public utilities and manufacturing sales section and the new inheritance taxes.

With but few exceptions, the new taxes are effective with the passage of the act.

Senate Version Stands.

The income tax section was adopted virtually as written by the senate. The new 2 per cent normal tax on incomes of more than $2,000 for married persons and $1,000 for single persons is in addition to the present law exempting incomes of less than $3,000 for single persons and $4,000 for married persons. Thus those between the new low exemption bases and the present exemptions will pay only the 2 per cent tax, but single persons having an income of $3,000 or more and married persons whose income is $4,000 or more would pay the full 4 per cent normal tax.

The senate income provision allowing an additional exemption of $200 for each dependent child to heads of families subject to the present law was retained. The exemption for children, however, does not apply to those subject to the new reduced taxes with the $2,000 and $1,000 exemptions, respectively, for married and single persons.

Surtax Is Agreed Upon.

Surtaxes were agreed upon as follows:

One per cent on income over $5,000 and less than $7,500; 2 per cent between $7,500 and $10,000; 3 per cent between $10,000 and $12,500; 4 per cent between $12,500 and $15,000; 5 per cent between $15,000 and $20,000; 7 per cent between $20,000 and $40,000; 10 per 18 per cent between $80,000 and $100,- per cent between $60,000 and $80,000; 18 per cent betwene $80,000 and $100,000; 22 per cent between $100,000 and $150,000; 25 per cent between $150,000 and $200,000; 30 per cent between $200,000 and $250,000; 34 per cent between $250,000 and $300,000; 37 per cent between $300,000 and $500,000; 40 per cent between $500,000 and $750,000; 45 per cent between $750,000 and $1,000,000, and 50 per cent on incomes exceeding $1,000,000.

Increased Tax on Whisky.

Increased senate rates on whisky and beer were virtually retained, and that on wines somewhat reduced. The tax on distilled spirits was made $2.10 per gallon when for beverage use and $1 less for industrial purposes, estimated to raise $135,000,000. The amendment prohibiting importation of distilled spirits for beverage use was retained. Floor taxes to reach withdrawn liquors were approved. Beer was taxed $1.50 per barrel additional, to raise $46,000,000, an increase of 25 cents per barrel over the house rate.

Present wine taxes were doubled.

Taxes on nonalcoholic beverages were compromised. On prepared sirups and extracts the taxes graduated from 5 to 20 cents instead of from 3 to 12 cents a gallon were adopted. Grape juice and other soft drinks are taxed 1 cent per gallon, as provided by the senate in reducing the original 2-cent rate of the house.

Senate rates on cigars and cigarettes were retained, but those on snuff were increased from 4 cents to 5 cents a pound.

Stamp Taxes Fixed.

Stamp taxes agreed upon are:

Bonds of indebtedness, 5 cents on each $100.

Indemnity and surety bonds, 50 cents.

Parcel post packages, 1 cent for each 25 cents of the cost of transportation.

Capital stock, original issues, 5 cents per $100.

Sales and transfers, 2 cents per $100.

Sales of produce on exchange, 2 cents for each $100 value in merchandise.

Drafts, checks payable other than on sight or demand, promissory notes, except bank notes for circulation, and renewals, 2 cents for all sums below $100 and 2 cents for each additional $100 or fraction thereof.

Conveyance papers, 50 cents between $100 and $500 and 50 cents for each additional $500.

Customs house entries, from 25 cents to $1; entry for withdrawal from bonded warehouses, 50 cents.

Passenger vessel tickets for ports other than those in the United States, Canada and Mexico, between $10 and $30, $1; between $30 and $60, $3, and above $60, $5.

Voting proxies, 10 cents.

Power of attorney, 25 cents.

Playing cards, decks of not more than 54 cards, an additional 5 cents on the present rates.

Taxes on life insurance, eliminated from the house bill in the senate, were amended and reinserted, raising about $5,000,000. Effective November 1 the new taxes on new insurance policies issued are 8 cents per $100 or fraction thereof on life insurance and 1 cent per $1 on the premium charged on marine, casualty, fire and inland insurances.

Amusement taxes agreed upon provide that all persons entering places of amusement free, except employees and officials on duty and children under twelve, would pay a tax rate of 1 cent on each 10 cents or fraction thereof of the admission charge. This tax also would apply to cabarets and similar performances where the cost of entertainment is included in other costs, such as service. Holders of annual box seats would pay 10 per cent of the annual rental. Nickel theaters and shows, rides and other outdoor park amusements with a maximum admission of 10 cents and benefit entertainments and agricultural fairs were exempted.

After November 1, 1917, members of all clubs, except fraternal orders, paying more than $12 annual dues would be subject to a 10 per cent tax.

Exemptions Are Allowed.

On excess profits the conferees agreed upon a minimum deduction of 7 per cent and a maximum of 10 per cent, instead of the 6 to 10 per cent fixed by the senate. Other exemptions are $3,000 for corporations and $6,000 for individauls. Corporations, partnerships and individuals having no capital stock would pay a flat rate of 8 per cent on net profits in excess of $3,000 for corporations and $6,000 for individuals and partnerships.

Miscellaneous income tax amendments inserted by the senate were generally adopted, including the so-called Jones amendment for a tax of 10 per cent on corporations' undistributed surplus, without allowance for income taxes paid. The 10 per cent tax would not apply to undistributed income actually invested or employed in business or invested in federal securities after September 1, 1917, and 5 per cent penalty for surplus retained but not employed is provided.

In making provision for administration and collection of the new and existing taxes the conferees provided that the special tax of 12½ per cent on war munitions manufactures shall be reduced to 10 per cent, but retained to January 1, 1918. It now yields about $29,000,000 annually and the senate had proposed its repeal.

SEEKS NEW LIBERTY LOAN

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo Formally Opens Campaign to Raise Needed Funds.

Washington.—The campaign for the second Liberty loan of $3,000,000,000 was formally opened at Cleveland by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo.

Ten million subscribers to the new loan will be sought, and it is possible that the ultimate issue of bonds may be $5,000,000,000.

Secretary McAdoo issued the following appeal:

"There is now offered to the American people a new issue of $3,000,000,000 of bonds to be known as the second Liberty loan. They will be issued in such denominations and upon such terms that every patriotic citizen will have an opportunity to assist the government by lending his money upon security of the government bond.

"It is essential to the success of the war and to the support of our gallant troops that these loans shall not only be subscribed but oversubscribed. No one is asked to donate or give his money to the government, but every one is asked to lend his money to the government. The loans will be repaid in full with interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum. A government bond is the safest investment in the world; it is as good as currency and yet better, because the government bond bears interest and currency does not. No other investment compares with it for safety and ready convertibility into cash."

GARFIELD FIXES COAL PRICES

Fuel Administrator Announces Final Decision, Which Will Be Binding on All Dealers.

Washington.—Fuel Administrator Garfield announced regulations, effective at once, for the limitation of the retail prices of bituminous and anthracite coal throughout the country.

The fuel administration has fixed, in the conclusions arrived at, not the specific price which the retail dealer will be allowed to charge the consumer, but the gross margin which the retail dealer will be allowed to add to the average wholesale cost of his coal in making retail prices.

HAIG PLANNING NEW OFFENSIVE

British Artillery in Terrific Bombardment Previous to New Big Drive.

GERMANS ANSWER FIRE

New Offensive May Be Sprung at Any Moment—Crown Prince's Army Repulsed by French Forces.

London, Oct. 9.—Through squalls of rain and under low hanging clouds, Field Marshall Haig is blazing the way with his artillery for another raid into the German line in Flanders.

Since the great advance of the midweek the British infantry has kept to the trenches and shell craters, except where forays were called for to realign the new front or counter attacks were necessary to hold back weak and sporadic German attempts to recapture lost terrain here and there.

But the big guns never ceased their activity, and day in and day out great masses of steel have been blasting the German points which are mapped out for capture when the new drive is launched. The Germans are answering the British fire on various sectors.

Particularly heavy is the bombardment in the region running from Langemarck to Zonnebeke, and especially to the east of the latter town, where the wedge of the British has been pushed in, almost within striking distance of the Ostend-Lille road.

New Drive Coming.

When the new offensive will be sprung cannot be predicted. Several days may elapse before Haig has sufficiently pounded the Germans to warrant sending his men across no man's land to the objectives assigned to them for capture, or the process of demolition already may have advanced to the point where the first gray streaks of dawn may see its commencement.

The army of the German crown prince in Champagne again has endeavored to dent the French line, but again has failed with considerable losses in men killed or made prisoners. The heavy artillery duel continues along the eastern bank of the Meuse river in the Verdun sector.

Comparative Quiet in Russia.

Comparative quiet prevails on the northern portion of the front in Russia, and along this line to Roumania. In Roumania, however, the Russians in an attack northwest of the town of Sereth captured a Tetonic Allied position, made prisoner 762 men and took seven machine guns.

Daily the Italians and Austrians are engaged in battles for supremacy on the slopes of Monte San Gabriele in the Gorizia sector. In the latest fight the Italians captured many positions on the northern slopes and also took prisoners.

WILSON PRAISES CONGRESS

Says Body Has Assured Effectiveness of American Arms.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Congress in its remarkable session has at once assured the "effectiveness of American arms" and safeguarded the rights of the people, President Wilson declares.

In a review of war legislation definitely completed when adjournment was taken at 3 o'clock Saturday, the President said America's legislative body "has left no doubt as to the spirit and determination of the country."

The President's statement, issued after the Senate had concurred in a House vote to adjourn at 3 o'clock subject to the call of the President, was issued just before the President went to the capitol to sign bills and formally end the session.

FIRST U. S. PATROL SHIP LOST

Founders in European Waters, Report Crew Safe.

Washington, Oct. 8.—An American patrol vessel on duty in foreign waters has been lost, the navy department announces.

A dispatch from Vice Admiral Simms states that the ship foundered, but the entire crew and officers were safely landed.

The accident occurred on the morning of October 4. The department stated that beyond a bare announcement of the loss, no further details are given. An investigation is being made.

This patrol vessel is the first American ship to be lost in foreign waters.

Russian Paper Workers Strike.

Petrograd, Oct. 8.—The workmen in all the paper factories of Petrograd have gone on strike. If prolonged it seriously threatens to embarass early convocation of the constituent assembly owing to the demand for paper for the electoral bulletins.

Anti-Fat Ad Arouses German Ire.

Amsterdam, Oct. 8.—The Hamburg Echo almost boils with indignation because the Luneberger Anzeiger prints an anti-fat advertisement at a time when "his ribs are poking through every honest German's clothes." It shows both a lamentable want of tact and an impertinence to the suffering people to publish an announcement such as the following: "Cornova Tablets, containing Marienbad salts. The safest means to reduce fat and flesh without dieting. Two marks 80 the box.—New Apothecaries' Hall."

Certain-teed

Roofing

CERTAIN-TEED is the best roof, not only because it costs less to manufacture, but also because it is weather-tight, light weight, clean, sanitary, fire-retardent, and costs practically nothing to maintain.

There are many roll roofings on the market, but only one CERTAIN-TEED. It pays to get the best. It costs no more to lay a CERTAIN-TEED roof than it does to lay a poor roof, but there is a vast difference in the wear. You can't tell the quality of a roofing by looks or feel. Your only safety is the label. Be sure that it is CERTAIN-TEED—then you are certain of quality and guaranteed satisfaction.

CERTAIN-TEED is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years according to thickness (1, 2 or 3 ply).

Certain-teed Slate-Surfaced Asphalt Shingles are supplanting wood and slate shingles for residences. They cost less, are just as good looking, wear better, won't fall off, buckle or split. They are fire-retardent and do not have to be painted or stained.

Apology Accepted.

There is a good story of J. M. Barrie in Douglas Sladen's "Twenty Years of My Life."

It appears that the talented author of "The Little Minister," having promised to be present at a dinner of the Authors' club was late, for which he apologized.

He had, he explained, been to the wrong club. He had never been to the Authors' before, he said, so he asked a policeman the way.

From the way he pronounced the word, the policeman thought he meant Arthur's club, and to Arthur's accordingly Barrie was directed.

When he got there he found it a very grand place. The club porter looked him up and down, and said:

"The servants' entrance is round the corner."

It took the normal courage of a Scotsman (adds Mr. Sladen) to tell that story; but it was inimitably funny, told in Barrie's broad Doric.—Exchange.

BROKEN DOWN IN HEALTH

Woman Tells How $5 Worth of Pinkham's Compound Made Her Well.

Lima, Ohio.—"I was all broken down in health from a displacement. One of my lady friends came to see me and she advised me to commence taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I began taking your remedies and took $5.00 worth and in two months was a well woman after three doctors said I never would stand up straight again. I was a midwife for seven years and I recommended the Vegetable Compound to every woman to take before birth and afterwards, and they all got along so nicely that it surely is a godsend to suffering women. If women wish to write to me I will be delighted to answer them."—Mrs. JENNIE MOYER, 342 E. North St., Lima, Ohio.

Women who suffer from displacements, weakness, irregularities, nervousness, backache, or bearing-down pains, need the tonic properties of the roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

An Alteration.

"China and Brazil sever diplomatic relations with Germany, while Holland and Denmark and Spain accept Germany's sea murders with a polite protest. Holland is nearer than China to the Hun, and circumstances alter cases."

The speaker was Richard LeGallienne. He resumed:

"Circumstances alter cases—often for the worst. A bride once said to me:

"'Marriage makes such a big difference, doesn't it? I notice that when I sit on George's lap now, his foot goes to sleep ever so much quicker than it used to.'"

A Puzzler.

The preacher was visiting in Tommy's home. Tommy was just three years old and loved above all things to sit on the preacher's lap. This day when they were enjoying a romp the preacher shook Tommy's head and clucked much as one would to a horse. Jumping down from his lap Tommy ran across the room and shook his head vigorously, then looked disappointed. He ran back to the preacher for another shake and cluck, then away again. He repeated this everal times, each time looking puzzled. Finally he ventured:

"Say, are you loose or am I?"—Indianapolis News.

FAILS TO DEFEND ST. PAUL ADDRESS

La Follette's Reply to Disloyalty Charges in Senate General in Tone.

ACCUSED BY KELLOGG

Wisconsin Senator's Statements Not Based on Fact, Minnesotan Says in Reply—Charge That U. S. Wars to Protect Loans Denied.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The extraordinary session of Congress, which began on April 2, and is generally regarded as the most momentous in American history, was adjourned sine die at 3 p. m., after a day of thrilling debate on the alleged disloyalty of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin.

Vehement criticism of the Wisconsin senator and his own defense occupying virtually the entire day, marked the close of the war session.

The preliminary steps taken point to a careful scrutiny of the La Follette address in St. Paul, and will probably see the subcommittee taking testimony in St. Paul. It also indicates that at the next session, the effort to remove Senator La Follette will be taken up with real earnestness.

Senator La Follette took the floor to make a three-hour speech in answer to the critics who have petitioned for his expulsion because of his course and public utterances toward the war.

By prearrangement, two hours were reserved in which senators were to reply at the close of his speech.

House Members Present.

Members of the house, which only was marking time waiting for the senate, flocked to the senate chamber where galleries and floor were jammed in expectation of a spectacular finale to the session.

Standing at his seat in the front row before the vice president's desk, La Follette began his address, reading carefully and deliberately his manuscript, with senators giving close attention.

"Campaign of Villification."

Characterizing the attack upon him as a "general campaign of villification and attempted intimidation," La Follette shouted:

"Neither the clamor of the mob nor the voice of power will ever turn me from the course I mark out for myself, guided by such knowledge as I can obtain and controlled and directed by a solemn conviction of right and duty."

Course Defended.

Defending his course of opposing the declaration of war and subsequent attacks on war policies, La Follette declared:

"It is the citizen's duty to obey the law until it is repealed or declared unconstitutional. But he has the inalienable right to fight what he deems an obnoxious law.

"It is the suppressed emotion of the masses that breeds revolution. If the American people are to carry on this great war, if public opinion is to be enlightened and intelligent there must be free discussion.

Wants "Free Discussion."

"If we are to forestall the danger of being drawn into years of war, perhaps finally to attain imperialism and exploitation, the people must unite in a campaign for free discussion of the policy of the war and its conclusion."

Statement of Aims Demanded.

"Shall we ask the people to shut their eyes and take the entire war program on faith?" he asked. "The way to paralyze the German arm is to declare our objects in this war and show we are not seeking to dictate a form of government to Germany or render England's domination of the seas more secure."

Nowhere did Senator La Follette refer to the much discussed St. Paul speech, to be investigated.

KELLOGG'S REPLY TO LA FOLLETTE'S SPEECH

Following conclusion of La Follette's speech, Senator Frank B. Kellogg, who introduced the resolution of the Minnesota Public Safety commission demanding La Follette's expulsion, took the floor.

Kellogg discussed La Follette's speech at St. Paul on Sept. 20. It is because of statements attributed to La Follette in this speech that the Public Safety commission demanded La Follette's expulsion.

Kellogg Takes Exception

Kellogg took emphatic exception to some of La Follette's statements. "I believe we should be extremely cautious and accurate in stating the causes of the war," he declared.

"I deny that we went to war to secure the right of American citizens to ride on ships loaded with munitions or loaded with explosives in violation of American statutes.

"I deny we went to war to protect the loans of Morgan & Co. to foreign governments."

Reviews U-Boat Sinkings.

Kellogg reviewed the history of torpedoing of American ships. Discussing the demand for free speech, Senator Kellogg said:

"I am as jealous of the right of free speech as any member of this body or any citizen of the land. But this is a question of erroneous statement of fact rather than free speech."

Kellogg's Speech.

Senator Kellogg's speech in full follows:

"A week ago I presented to the senate a petition from the Minnesota Commission of Public Safety, containing a copy of a speech purporting to have been made by the senator of Wisconsin in St. Paul on Sept. 20. The petition was referred to the committee on privileges and elections. At that time I made no comment thereon and should not have done so but for the speech of the senator today. I shall not now anticipate the action of the committee or of the senate upon this question or express an opinion as to what should be done in the matter. But I cannot allow this occasion to pass or this congress to adjourn without expressing my emphatical dissent from some of the views stated in that speech.

No Sympathy With Unjust Criticism.

"I have no sympathy with unjust and intemperate criticism of members of the United States senate or any other men for I realize that when the senate ceases to be a deliberative body the republic is in danger. I desire to discuss the reason which brought this country into this conflict and the duty public officials owe in such a time.

"The petition I presented contained a certified stenographic copy of the speech made by the senator from Wisconsin. It was not a pleasant duty. I performed that duty under the constitutional authority of the right of petitions to the senate.

Limits Remarks.

"I shall limit remarks to those parts of the senator's speech which discuss causes of the war, as the senator understood it. The speech was made 15 days ago. I have heard no denial of the parts of the speech I shall read, and hope they were not spoken. It is to the sentiment expressed and the reasons given that I shall dissent."

Reads From St. Paul Talk.

The speech is before the senate and is before the country. The parts I particularly wish to comment upon, I now wish to read.

"We are in the midst of a war. I was not in favor of beginning the war. I didn't mean to say we had not suffered grievances. We had, at the hands of Germany, serious grievances; we had cause for complaining; they had interfered with the right of American citizens to travel upon the high seas on ships loaded with munitions for Great Britain. We had right, a technical right, to ship munitions, and the American citizens had a technical right to ride on those vessels. I was not in favor of riding on them because it seemed to me when the consequences resulting from any destruction of life that might occur would be so awful. I say (a voice: "Yellow") any man who says that in an audience where he can conceal himself is yellow himself. (Cries: "Put him out.") I say this, that the comparatively small privilege of the right of an American citizen to ride on a munition loaded ship flying a foreign flag is too small to involve this country in a loss of millions and hundreds of millions of lives.

Against War for Morgan.

And, fellow citizens, it behoovcs a nation to consider well before it enters upon a war of that sort how much it has got at stake. If all it has got at stake is the loans the house of Morgan makes to foreign governments and the profits that the munitions makers will earn in shipping their products to foreign countries, then I think it ought to be weighed, not in a common hay scale, but in an apothecary's scale.

"Ah but somebody will tell you American rights are involved. What American rights? The right of some venturesome person to ride upon a munition laden vessel in violation of an American statute that no vesesl which carries explosives shall carry passengers. Four days before the Lusitania sailed President Wilson was warned in person by Secretary of State W. J. Bryan that the Lusitania had 6,000,000 rounds of ammunition on board. Besides explosives, and that the passengers who proposed to sail on that vessel were sailing in violation of a statute of this country, that no passengers shall travel upon a railroad train or sail upon a vessel which carries dangerous explosives. And Mr. Bryan appealed to President Wilson to stop passengers from sailing upon the Lusitania. I am giving you some history that maybe has not come to you heretofore—the grievances that carried this country into the war, into a war the results of which, as to the loss of life and burdens, financial burdens, that shall be laid upon us cannot be calculated by any mind."

Pose As Police; Get Jewels.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Three men staged a daring robbery at the home of Abraham Blackstone, a wholesale junk dealer, and escaped with jewelry valued at more than $1,100 and a small sum of money. About 6 o'clock the men went to the Blackstone flat. They posed as policemen and said they had a warrant for the arrest of Blackstone on a charge of receiving stolen property. Mrs. Blackstone and her niece, 17 years old, were alone. As soon as the robbers got in they drew revolvers.

Criticizes Roosevelt's Criticism.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Senator Lewis, Democratic whip of the senate, assailed Col. Roosevelt's statement that the United States has "broomstick preparedness." Lewis said we have "broomstick preparedness to sweep the earth clean of the foes of democracy." In a tribute to the way the war has been managed, Lewis said that while other nations had cabinet crises many times since the war began there has not been a stain on the government of this nation.

What He Learned.

Gerald was much depressed on bringing his monthly report card home from school at being scolded severely by his parents because it showed his deportment had only been 80 per cent out of a possible 100, and thinking she had punished him enough the mother, to cheer him, asked:

"Didn't learn nothin'," he pouted.

"Oh, you surely must have learned something," the mother insisted.

"Well, nothin', only just how to be good," he conceded.—Indianapolis News.

A Letter From Washington

The Food Administrator Writes Us:

"The use of baking powder breads made of corn and other coarse flours instead of patent wheat flour is recommended by the Conservation Division of the Food Administration. The wheat needed for export is thus conserved, and at the same time healthful food for our own people is provided. The circulation of recipes providing for these uses would be of assistance in carrying out our plans."

The following recipes for Corn Bread and Rye Rolls save wheat flour and make attractive and wholesome food for every day when made with

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

CORN BREAD

1½ cups corn meal
½ cup flour
4 level teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk
2 tablespoons shortening

Mix thoroughly dry ingredients; add milk and melted shortening; [illegible] and bake about 25 minutes.

RYE ROLLS

2 cups rye flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 level teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
¾ cup milk
½ tablespoon shortening

Sift dry ingredients together; add milk and melted shortening. Knead on floured board; shape into rolls. Put into greased pans and allow to stand in warm place 20 to 25 minutes. Bake in moderate oven 20 to 30 minutes.

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County, Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 30 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam, Minn. under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

The Nonpartisan League are not at all to blame for the speech made by Senator LaFollette at their convention. The Safety Commission had men there, and the police forces were there for the purpose of arresting anyone who used any unpatriotic language. Why did they not promptly arrest and suppress LaFollette, instead of kicking about it, afterwards? The farmer members of the Nonpartisan League were there to meet the representatives of the laboring men, to try and better their conditions and not to listen to speeches of traitor U.S. Senators who wanted to excuse their taking sides with Kaiser Wilhelm on the war issue. It was not the place of the farmers to stop LaFollette but the polices duty who were there for that purpose.

It now does not look as if the U. S. Senate will take any action to expel or impeach Senator La-Follette. His speech made at St. Paul does not seem to excite them at all, as they have got used to his traitor speeches, and just simply ignore his wind jamming and go ahead and do business. So far as his influence is concerned in the senate, Wisconsin's senatorial chair may as well be occupied by one of the straw men that have been hung in Effigy throughout the country.

We are at war. The entire energies of every patriotic citizen are needed in carrying us to victory. It cannot be wasted in prosecuting campaigns of partisan politics. Speeches should be made of course, but they should be patriotic speeches that are vastly more important at this time than partisan politics. Help in every way to carry the message of the war to the citizens of Minnesota. Aid the Commission of Public Safety in its effort to make our greatstate ready and efficient for doing its full share toward winning the war. There is a great task involed in awakening the people to the real significance of the war; to the fact that a victory for our enemy means danger to every happy home. It matters little who will be next year's office holders. The organization of the state and conserving of resources is the real task before us today. Forget politics, and put your sholder to the wheel, and push for America.

We have no complaint to make of the act passed by Congress for the suppression of Newspapers opposing the government, in the war with Germany. We think there is no danger of any American Newspaper being put out of business by Post Master Burleson, that does not deserve to be put out of circulation, and we hope to see him enforce the authority given him by promptly snuffing out of existence every unamerican Newspaper published in the United States, until the end of the war with Germany, and then let them loose with their appeal to treason.

To Our Subscribers

THE SUNBEAM has been published at its present location since 1905.

Two years ago this fall we began to notice that a large number of our Eastern Pennington County friends and subscribers were getting pretty badly in arrear with their subscription dues. But as the flax crop was a failure that year, we allowed it to drift over to the next fall hoping for better crops, but the last years crop was worse instead of better. Now we are placed in the position of being compelled to pay 10 per cent interest to borrow money to replace the money that is justly due us. We are going to send out statements to all our subscribers soon and we expect them to pay up this fall. It is only a small matter for each of you but it is quite a big matter to us, as we are in need of the money to pay our bills.

Although the cost of producing a Newspaper has nearly doubled within the past few years, we have kept our regular subscription rates of $1.00 a year, but we now insist on getting that amount.

Please remit when you get your statements.

He Knew Him.

In his book "Winnowed Memories," Sir Evelyn Wood relates how he once met a quiet American gentleman in England, and they began to talk of American poetry. Sir Evelyn mentioned the well known poem, "Jim Bludso," which he highly eulogized.

"My enthusiastic praise of the poem excited, I thought, an appreciative purr in my companion, but he remarked, quietly:

"'Jim was a fine fellow.'

"I said, 'Or the author made him so?'

"'Oh, but he was!'

"'Why, was he real?'

"'Yes. I knew him well.'

"'But don't you think that the poet embellished Jim's act?'

"'No, I am sure he did not.'

"'Well, but how can you be sure?'

"And he replied quickly, 'I wrote it.'"

The gentleman to whom Sir Evelyn was speaking proved to be Colonel John Hay, author of the "Pike County Ballads," who was then the United States ambassador in London.

The Editor.

Editors, like actresses—beg pardon, like actors—are hidden from the vulgar gaze when on stage. It is not meet that the curtain should be lifted upon personalities, for this might lead to personalities; hence the editor is in a nook all to himself, save when attending conventions.

The editor, be it known, however, has no sorrows. He is a gay lot upon the universe, shifting shiftily from one white page to another, blithering blithely as occasion fits, regretting nothing, daring everything.

The editor fattens upon anonymity. Yet he is human, for when by chance his name appears there is no living with his conceit. And when it is misspelled—ye gods, the masses have their revenge!

Here's to the editor. May he live long and write short!—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

No Recommendation.

Signor Marconi, in an interview in Washington, praised American democracy.

"Over here," he said, "you respect a man for what he is himself—not for what his family is—and thus you remind me of the gardener in Bologna who helped me with my first wireless apparatus.

"As my mother's gardener and I were working on my apparatus together a young count joined us one day, and while he watched us work the count boasted of his lineage.

"The gardener, after listening a long while, smiled and said:

"'If you come from an ancient family it's so much the worse for you, sir, for as we gardeners say, the older the seed the worse the crop.'"

Disproves a Japanese Proverb.

"If you sit idly you will lose money every minute," is a liberal paraphrase of a well known Japanese proverb and serves as a protest against idleness. But we cite the case of the great Buddha at Nara, which despite inaction is reaping a fortune. During the past year the Buddha received 351,000 visitors, who paid admission fees aggregating $9,350. The exaction of a fee to visit the big Buddha began in 1911.—Tokyo Journal.

"I'm afraid," her father replied, "you would not be able to support my daughter in the style to which she has become accustomed."

"Well," the young man said, after he had thought the matter over briefly, "I'm not proud. I'll gladly let you help."—Chicago Herald.

NO APES IN MAN'S ANCESTRY

Fundamental Differences Between Them Cannot Be Explained by Any Theory of Evolution.

Dr. Mattoon M. Curtis, professor of philosophy in Western Reserve university, protests in a letter to Science against the assertion, still common in current scientific literature, that man is a descendant of the anthropoid apes. He quotes Professor Duckworth, the leading authority in this field, who wrote in his "Morphology and Anthropology":

"We must conclude that the existing anthropoid apes, constituted as they now are, did not figure in the ancestral history of man."

And he points out some of the fundamental differences between man and the apes, differences which defy any theory of evolution to explain. Among these differences are those in the form of the skulls, the shape of the most ancient skulls that have been found being substantially the same as the shape of the skulls of today.

Professor Curtis pleads that sound science and sound education be based upon actual facts and such theories as grow out of them, rather than upon mere speculations.

QUEEREST OF SEA MAMMALS.

The Grotesque Walrus Has a Strong Maternal Instinct.

The walruses, or "sea horses" of the old navigators, are the strangest and most grotesque of all sea mammals. Their large, rugged heads, armed with two long ivory tusks, and their huge swollen bodies, covered with hairless, wrinkled and warty skin, give them a formidable appearance unlike that of any other mammal. They are much larger than most seals, the old males weighing from 2,000 to 3,000 pounds and the females about two-thirds as much.

Walruses have a strongly developed maternal instinct and show great devotion and disregard of their own safety in defending the young. The Eskimos at Cape Vancouver, Bering sea, hunt them in frail skin covered kyaks, using ivory or bone pointed spears and sealskin floats.

Several hunters told me of exciting and dangerous encounters they had experienced with mother walruses. If the young are attacked or even approached the mother does not hesitate to charge furiously. The hunters confess that on such occasions there is no option but to paddle for one's life.

Occasionally an old walrus is unusually vindictive and, after forcing a hunter to take refuge on the ice, will remain patrolling the vicinity for a long time, roaring and menacing the object of her anger.—National Geographic Magazine.

Shrewd.

The manager, writing out the announcement of his show, ended with these words:

"The patronage of children under eighteen is not encouraged."

"That," he remarked shrewdly, "will appeal to the children over eighteen!"—New York Post.

A Doubtful Affection.

"Does your teacher like you, Tommy?" inquired the friend of the family.

"I guess so," replied the young hopeful. "She used to quarrel with me because I didn't know my lessons, but she says now that, for all she cares, I can stay in her class for the rest of her life."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

THE LOCAL NEWS

We have been getting some rain hail and snow this week. Any kind of moisture is welcomed by the farmer now days.

Notwithstanding the extreme dry weather there has been more plowing done this fall than there was last fall.

The Sunbeam and Hazel mail route is increasing in patronage rapidly, since the people begin to understand what a regular and reliable mail service they have.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Rhoda Catholic Church will meet with Mrs Walter McAndress next Wednesday afternoon Oct 22nd. All are invited to attend.

The prospects are that the bridge across the river at Highlanding will not be completed this fall, unless the weather is very favorable next month, which looks doubtful with 8 inches of snow at the present time.

We are called on this week to devote a large amount of free space to advertising the Liberty Bonds. It is unnecessary to add that it is fortunate for the government that they do not have to depend on the Country Editors to buy these bonds.

Strayed: From the farm of Walter McAndress, Sec. 30 Highlanding Township, a black and white spotted Holstein heifer, one and one half years old. Anyone having seen this animal, will please notify above named owner at Sunbeam Minn.

Free space and Free sample copy grafters seems to have increased by about 50 per cent, this year. Should any of the big city Sunday Daily's lack copy to fill space they can be supplied from this office; any kind you want, from a plea for the life of Tom Mooney, to be hanged for murder, down to Christian Science.

On Wednesday evening and Thursday forenoon we got our first real snow storm of the season snow falling to the depth of 8 inches. The moisture that is in it it just what is badly needed, and it is likely to go away in a few days, and give us another spell of fine weather before the winter sets in for good.

The Mayor of Fergus Falls has announced, that he would not allow A.C. Townley, president of the Nonpartisan league to speak at the big league meeting to be held in that city tomorrow, October 20th. We wonder if the big Mayor of that little city has any idea that he can suppress the Nonpartisan league, if he has, he had better go out to his pump and pump a pail of water, stick his finger into it, pull it out and look for the hole. Mr. Townley will address the farmers of Ottertail county at that meeting, and it will be a patriotic speech, advising the farmers to stand by their Country in the war with Germany, but to organize for protection against their enemies in this Nation that have been robbing them for years and years.

SHE IS JUST LIKE A BEE.

The thought has just occurred to me
How much a girl is like a bee.
She sometimes hums and sometimes sings
And knows just how to wear her wings.
She flits about in sun and showers
And always shows a love for flowers.
She picks out buds and blossoms rare
And often goes up in the air.
To see her work would make drones dizzy
When in her garden she is busy.
She knows just how to use the money
Which she receives from her own honey.
Much sweetness to her home she brings,
And yet, alas, she sometimes stings!

BONDS OR BONDAGE—Which ?

IF THE Germans should win this war, the fate of your home would be the fate of those of Belgium.

You would have no choice as to what would be done with your money. It would be taken from you by force.

Today your boy, who is prepared to give his life to save your home, is looking to you for the money which will buy the bullets with which he will make his fight.

Buying a Liberty Bond is not giving money to the Government. It is loaning money; every cent of which will be returned to you with interest. Liberty Loan Bonds are backed by all of the resources of the richest government in the world.

The second Liberty Bond issue is for $3,000,000,000. The share of every American family is $150. The Government pays you 4% interest, half of which is payable November 15th and half May 15th of each year. If, before the end of the war, there should be another bond issue at a rate higher than 4%, your bond will pay the higher rate from then on.

All who bought the first Liberty Loan Bonds at 3½% may now convert them into 4% bonds.

Liberty Bonds are as marketable as wheat. You can go to any bank at any time and get your money for them.

Liberty Bonds are in denominations of $50 and up. In this issue all purchases of $5000 or less are tax exempt.

Buy your Liberty Bonds now. October 27th is the last day subscriptions will be received in Washington.

Don't wait for someone to ask you to buy a bond. Go at once to your nearest bank or post office. Your neighbors and your friends are watching you. They are depending upon you to do your share.

IRISHMEN IN COMMON BOND

Writer Sees Peculiar Opportunity for Commonwealth in That Country, for Many Reasons.

Ireland is, perhaps, the only country in Europe in which a co-operative commonwealth has a notable chance of being realized. Few great industrial interests have been established there. The bulk of the people are small farmers whose economic status makes co-operative combinations more and more a necessity. The people have always worked well in combination from the time of the Celtic clans who so ably and for so long resisted a great military aggression to our own time when their combinations for boycott destroyed a feudal system that had the might of an empire behind it.

Such a commonwealth, democratic for production, aristocratic in leadership would move more and more toward a brotherhood. The literary movement of today may be a prophecy of or perhaps a preparation for that brotherhood. The theme of the new Irish poetry, as I have said, is a spiritual democracy.

The ideal of the co-operative commonwealth is apt to gain the allegiance of every vital force in the country. To those who would have Ireland an independent state it shows the way to economic independence; to those who would have Ireland a resurgent Gaelic nationality it shows the way of return to a Gaelic form of social organization; to those who react from the dreadful economic conditions in many parts of the country it shows the way to economic betterment.—Padraic Colum, in the Seven Arts.

Machine for Opening Letters.

With the whole tendency of modern business toward centralization, to say nothing of the enormous growth of the mail-order houses, the daily mail problem is a gigantic one to the efficiency experts. A new machine has been put on the market to open letters which is said to break all previous records. It does the work by shaving off an exceedingly thin slice of the edge of each envelope, hardly thicker than the paper itself. It is impossible to cut an inclosure by this method. The chief feature of the machine is its speed. In a recent test run it opened 9,000 letters an hour for an eight-hour stretch.

REVIEW OF WORK DONE BY RECENT "WAR CONGRESS"

MANY IMPORTANT MEASURES ENACTED INTO LAW AT THE SESSION JUST CLOSED.

TAX LEGISLATION IS FEATURE

Administration Dominant Throughout the Six Months During Which the Legislators Were in Session—Only One Measure Defeated.

Washington.—"The most remarkable session in the parliamentary history of the world," was the way Democratic and Republican leaders characterized the first war session of the Sixty-fifth congress, which came to a close at three o'clock in the afternoon of October 6, exactly six months after the declaration of war against Germany.

The record of legislation enacted and money appropriated has no parallel anywhere in the annals of all time.

Beginning with the declaration of war against Germany in April, congress has passed bill after bill of the most revolutionary character, including such measures as the draft bill and the food control bill. Appropriations and contract authorizations for the present fiscal year, totalling $21,390,000,000, including $7,000,000,000 in loans to the allies, were voted without a single dissenting voice, a record equalled nowhere, not even in the kaiser-dominated German reichstag.

How Money Is Expended.

The following table shows how the money is to be spent:

Army	$8,911,000,000
Navy	1,875,000,000
Merchant shipping fleet	1,889,000,000
Loans to the allies	7,000,000,000
Defense fund for—
President	100,000,000
Food and fuel control	173,000,000
Soldiers' and sailors' insurance	176,000,000
Interest on bonds and certificates	200,000,000
Civil establishment of government	958,000,000
All other expenses	102,000,000

As a part of the scheme of meeting these enormous expenditures congress passed the $2,535,000,000 war revenue bill, the largest taxation bill in American history, levying directly or indirectly upon every man, women and child in the United States. Something more than a billion dollars of this amount will be taken from war profits. All incomes more than $1,000 for single men and more than $2,000 for married men are made subject to taxation.

Where New Taxes Fall.

Here are some things upon which the average citizen will pay taxes under the new war tax bill:

Approximately 2 per cent increase on incomes of $5,000 or less.

Letter postage, except local letters, increased to 3 cents and postcards to 2 cents, beginning November 3.

One cent for each 10 cents paid for admissions to amusements.

Five-cent shows and 10-cent outdoor amusement parks exempted.

Ten per cent on all club dues of $12 a year or more.

One cent for each 25 cents paid for parcel post.

One cent on each 25 cents express package charge.

Three per cent of all freight charges.

Eight per dent of passenger fares by rail or water, except trips of less than 30 miles.

Ten per cent of charges for seats, berth and staterooms on parlor cars or vessels.

Five cents on each telegraph, telephone or radio message costing 15 cents or more.

Three per cent on jewelry.

Eight cents on each $100 of life insurance. The tax on whisky is increased from $1.10 a gallon to $3.20. The tax on beer is increased from $1 a barrel to $2.75.

Increased tax on cigars, cigarettes and manufactured tobacco and snuff.

Little Dissension During Session.

Despite pacifist activities, the session was marked with comparatively little dissension, the fighting centering about questions mainly affecting policy. The most stubborn contests were staged over the revenue bill, the draft bill and the food control bill. In every case, except censorship of the newspapers and speech, the administration has received everything it asked of congress for the conduct of the war.

Congress was in session 188 days. During that time more than 10,000 army, navy and marine corps nominations sent to the senate were confirmed, among them the advancement of Major General Pershing, commander in chief of the armies in France, and Major General Bliss, chief of staff, to the rank of full general, held only four times previously in American history. The only important appointment held up was that of Col. Carl Reichmann, to be a brigadier general. Action was blocked until the December session because it was charged he uttered pro-German sentiments.

An unprecedented feature of the session was the reception of the special missions sent to the United States by the allied governments, and the special representatives of Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy, Russia and Japan addressed both houses. Invitations of the British and French governments to have the United States send a congressional mission across the Atlantic to see war conditions and co-operate with the interparliamentary congress were rejected.

Important Measures Passed.

Following is a list of the most important measures passed by congress:

Resolution declaring a state of war exists between the imperial German government and the government and the people of the United States and making provision to prosecute the same.

On April 2 the resolution for war against Germany was introduced in the house and on April 6, or four days after the assembling of congress, the president attached his signature to the measure. No delay was involved in the passage of this resolution, perhaps the most important ever offered either in this or any other congress.

General-deficiency appropriation act, appropriating $163,841,400.52, of which $100,000,000 was for the national security and defense and for each and every purpose connected with the war.

Act authorizing an issue of bonds to meet expenditures for the national security and defense and for the purpost of assisting in the prosecution of the war and to extend credit to foreign governments and for other purposes. This act appropriated $3,007,063,945.46 for establishing credits in the United States for foreign governments by purchase of bonds of our allies and expenses incident to preparation and issue of bonds and certificates; authorizes the issue of bonds amounting to $5,063,945,460, of which $3,000,000,000 is for meeting the loans authorized to foreign governments, $2,000,000,000 to meet domestic expenditures, and $63,945,460 to redeem the three per cent loan and also authorizes $2,000,000,000 of one year certificates of an indebtedness temporarily to provide revenue.

Huge Military Expansion.

Act authorizing one additional midshipman for each senator, representative and delegate in congress.

Act appropriating $273,046,332.50 for the support of the army for the fiscal year 1918.

Act authorizing the president to increase temporarily the military establishment of the United States. This act authorized a selective draft of 1,00,000,000 men and contains other important legislative features pertaining to the army.

Resolution authorizing the president to take over for the United States any vessel owned in whole or in part by any corporation, citizen or subject of any nation with which the United States may be at war.

Act to increase temporarily the commissioned and warrant and enlisted strength of the navy and Marine corps from 87,000 to 150,000 men, in the first instance, and from 17,400 to 30,000, in the second.

Act appropriating $1,344,896.18 for the support of the military academy for the fiscal year 1918 and for other purposes.

Largest Single Grant in History.

Act to amend an act entitled "An Act to Regulate Commerce," as amended, in respect of car service, and for other purposes.

Act amending the war risk insurance act and appropriating $45,150,000 to insure vessels and their cargoes and expenses connected therewith.

Act appropriating $147,363,928.77 for the sundry civil expenses of the government for the fiscal year 1918.

Act authorizing the issue to states and territories and the District of Columbia of rifles and other property for the equipment of organization of home guards.

Act appropriating $3,281,094,541.60 for the military and naval establishments on account of the war expenses. Up to time this was the largest appropriation act known to this or any other country. Among other things it appropriated $405,000,000 for an emergency shipping fund with which to begin construction of the greatest merchant fleet the world has ever known.

Act to punish acts of interference with foreign relations, the neutrality and the foreign commerce of the United States, to punish espionage and better enforce the criminal laws of the United States.

Conservation Bills Passed.

Act authorizing condemnation proceedings of lands for military purposes.

Act appropriating $640,000,000 to increase temporarily the signal corps of the army and to purchase, manufacture, maintain, repair and operate airships.

Act authorizing the United States to take possession of a site for use for permanent aviation stations of the army and navy for school purposes.

Acts enlarging the membership of the interstate commerce commission and amending the act to regulate commerce by authorizing priority shipments by any common carrier, ect.

Act appropriating $11,346,000 to provide further for the national security and defence by stimulating agriculture and facilitating the distribution of agricultural products.

Act appropriating $162,500,000 to provide further for the national security and defence by encouraging the production, conserving the supply and controlling the distribution of food products and fuel.

Act to authorize an additional issue of bonds to meet expenditures for the national security and defense and, for the purpose of authorizing in the prosecution of the war, to extend additional credit to foreign governments, and for other purposes. This act makes an additional appropriation of $4,021,377,890.92 to extend credit in the United States for foreign governments by purchase of bonds of our allies and expenses incident to preparation of an issue of bonds and certificates; authorizes an additional issue of $4,000,000,000 of bonds to meet loans to foreign governments; authorizes an additional issue of one year certificates of indebtedness amounting to $2,000,000,000 and an issue of five year war saving certificates amounting to $2,000,000,000.

New Mark Again Set.

Act appropriating $5,356,666,016.93 to supply deficiencies in appropriations for the fiscal year 1918 and prior years on account of war expenses and for other purposes, and authorizes contract obligations to be met by future congresses amounting to $2,401,458,393.50. This is the largest appropriation act passed by this or any other country. This act makes further appropriations of $635,000,000 for the emergency shipping fund and raises the limit of cost to carry out the purposes of the shipping act to $1,734,000,000.

Act to define, regulate and punish trading with the enemy and for other purposes, and appropriates $450,000 to enforce the provisions thereof.

Act to provide revenue to defray war expenses. This measure provides approximately $2,500,000,000 of revenue with which to pay the expenses of the government.

Act to provide a military and naval family allowance, compensation, and insurance fund for the benefit of soldiers and sailors and their families, and makes an appropriation therefor of $176,250,000.

MOST IMPORTANT MEASURES PASSED

Declaration of war against Germany on April 6.

War bond issues aggregating $15,538,000,000.

War appropriations and contract authorizations, totalling $14,390,000,000.

War loans aggregating $7,000,000,000 to the allies.

The selective draft bill, making 10,000,000 men liable to military service.

The espionage bill, including the embargo provision.

The $2,235,000,000 war revenue bill.

The food control bill.

The trading with the enemy act.

The soldiers' and sailors' insurance bill.

C. P. TAFT WEDS MISS CHASE

Son of Former President Marries Daughter of Irving H. Chase of Waterbury, Conn.

Waterbury, Conn., Oct. 8.—Miss Eleanor, the daughter of Irving H. Chase, was married here to Sergt. Maj. Charles Phelps Taft II, U. S. A., son of William H. Taft and Mrs. Taft of New Haven. The ceremony was at Rose Hill, the home of the Chase family. Flags predominated in the decorations. Rev. Robert E. Brown, pastor of the Second church, officiated. The bride was given away by her father, Irving H. Chase.

50,000 BELGIAN HOUSES GONE

Germans' Record of Destruction is Shown by New Gray Book Issued by Government.

Havre, Oct. 8.—The Belgium government has issued a gray book to refute allegations against Belgium civilians contained in the German white book of May, 1915, in which it was said Belgian civilians savagely attacked German troops in the early days of the war and that the measures adopted by the Germans were necessary in the interest of preservation of the German army. According to the gray book, between 40,000 and 50,000 houses were destroyed by the Germans.

FIND CAPITAL IS CROWDED

Visitors of Wealth and Standing Unable to Secure Accommodations at Hotels.

Washington.—Adjournment of the war congress did not let Washington resume the even tenor of its old fashioned, easygoing way. The oldest inhabitant awoke to a realization that it was not congress that has brought 70,000 additional inhabitants here, but that the war is responsible for that some call commercialization of the national capital. The census estimates place the population at this time at 400,000.

Congress quit, and yet the housing situation is overwhelming Washingtonians. The commercial side of the national capital's life is reflected in the hotel prices and the cost of food puts Chicago in the [illegible] class, if you take the word of Chicagoans who have [illegible]

The lonely wayfarer who drifts in here without the aid of an advance agent to secure a lodging place is helpless indeed, though be he a war contract lobbyist or a union labor business agent. The hotel clerks are like stone to such. They say, "Sorry," and walk away, and the applicant for a place to sleep has nobody to talk to. [illegible]

At the New Willard after the adjournment of congress Saturday it was said the hotel was not making any promises of rooms before Wednesday. The Raleigh and the Shoreham hotels would not give even that much comfort.

FOOD PLEDGE WEEK CAMPAIGN COMING OCTOBER 21 TO 28

Every Family Must Do Utmost to Conserve Resources and Lend Money to Nation So We May Crush Enemy.

LEARN LESSONS OF ECONOMY

Washington.—America's place in the industrial competition of nations that will follow peace will be determined in large part by the response that the American people make to the coming food pledge week campaign. This is the belief of the United States food administration and is one of the thoughts that is spurring on its forces in their preparations by enrolling the families of the nation in the cause of food conservation during the week of October 21.

"When the war is over," the food administrator declared recently, "Europe will find herself with a reduced standard of living, with a people greatly disciplined in all directions, and in a position to compete in the world's markets in a way that they never have been able before. We shall also face a world with a reduced consuming power, and unless we can secure such discipline in our own people, we will be in no position to meet that condition when peace comes."

The idea that the purpose of food saving is not alone the present one of feeding our army and the allies, is further developed by the belief of the food administration that wars are paid for out of the savings of the people. It is pointed out that the decision is up to the American people right now, whether they are to help pay for the present conflict out of the savings of today or after the war by mortgaging the future of the people. A saving of six cents a day per person will amount to two billion dollars a year.

If the United States were an autocratic country there would be no popular appeal for the conservation of food. There would be an autocratic food control. The mailed fist would rule in the kitchen. Imperial food decrees would be enforced at the point of the bayonet. But ours is not an autocratic country. Food control is in the hands of the people themselves and it is to the people that the food administration has appealed in the food pledge card campaign.

Herbert Hoover has termed this appeal an "unprecedented adventure in democracy"—an adventure that will determine whether or not a democratic form of government is, after all fitted to engage in a death grapple with autocracy.

The food pledge week campaign resolves itself into an effort to secure as a result of voluntary agreement pledges insuring the general support of a well-defined program of food conservation. The food pledge week campaign represents an effort to induce as many American homes as possible to unite in a common policy. Our wheat reserves can be conserved if everybody helps. Our meat reserves can be conserved if the whole public co-operates.

The American people are asked to join together in a common conservation policy. As evidence that they are supporting this policy they are asked to hang a card denoting membership in the United States food administration in their window. In order that the conservation policy may be understood, the reasons for it made plain and the manner of observing it rendered certain, instruction cards—"The War Creed of the Kitchen," are to be hung in the home.

And that is what the national food pledge week campaign is all about.

Whole Family Under Fire.

A land owner of Vergeze, according to a Paris correspondent, has received the following letter from his son, a staff captain:

"I heard a strange story today, that a woman and a boy of sixteen had been found among the men of the —— battalion of unmounted chasseurs. An investigation was made and they were found to be the wife and son of a chasseur who had determined not to be separated from him. Both went into the trenches with other poilus, and the most striking thing about it is that they had been with the battalion for five months before the authorities found out. Of course everybody in the battalion knew, but as you see, the secret was well kept.

"As an old chasseur yourself, you will be proud to learn that a father, mother and son have been under fire together in your old battalion."

Hay Fever Pollens.

The development of hay fever in any locality depends upon the atmospheric hay fever pollens increasing to a point which overcomes the resistance of the patient," says Doctor Scheppegrell. "It was ascertained that most of the spring and summer cases of hay fever are caused by the pollen of the grasses, although the pollen of other plants, such as the yellow dock, amaranth, goose foot, etc., may cause the attack or help to maintain it when set up by the grass pollens.

FOE TRADE LAW PUT INTO EFFECT

President Issues Regulations for New Trading With the Enemy Law.

RULES ARE IMPORTANT

Every Citizen Is Affected by Act Which Is Expected to Force the Germans to Submit.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Regulations for the trading with the enemy act have been issued by President Wilson. They constitute the most far reaching control of every phase of intercourse between the United States and the world.

They give legal force to every move of the United States in casting about Germany an economic barrier which will compel her into submission.

Not only the new regulations for cutting off trade between the United States and Germany, but they do the following:

Cut off trade with Germany's allies.

Cut off trade with those who do trade with either Germany or her allies.

Provide custodians for all enemy property in the United States.

Require special licenses for trade or intercourse with any enemy or ally of an enemy within the United States.

Authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to investigate and supervise all foreign exchange and prevent its working to the advantage of the enemy.

Empower the Secretary of the Treasury to stop the taking from or into the United States of any communication other than by mail, telegraph, cable or wireless.

Creates Censorship Board.

Officially creates a censorship board consisting of representatives of the Secretaries of War and the Navy, Postmaster General, War Trade board and committee on public information to censor mail, cable, radio and other means of communication.

Authorize the Federal Trade commission to keep secret all patents that may be developed for the interest of the United States and to provide for working in the United States under patents held by enemies or allies of the enemy.

Vest in the Postmaster General the authority to censor foreign language publications.

Charge the Secretary of State with control over the entry and egress from the United States of enemies or allies of the enemy.

Authorize the Secretary of Commerce to hear appeals of refusals of customs officers to grant clearance papers to vessels.

Charge the Attorney General with the enforcement of the criminal sections of the trading with the enemy act.

Empower the President to regulate imports as well as exports.

"LIBERTY OXYGEN" A SUCCESS

Airmen Can Do Terrific Execution From Great Height.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Aircraft flying the Stars and Stripes may bombard Berlin from a height of six miles through the latest invention of American scientific genius. At this height German defending planes and guns would be useless.

This unheard of height can easily be attained by the "Liberty motor," according to all experts. The only difficulty has been that in such a rarified atmosphere the aviators themselves could do nothing; the terrific demands on their lungs are too great to permit other action. Airplanes have attained heights of 25,000 feet but the difficulty of breathing all but made the aviators powerless.

Now American science steps in with the twin of the Liberty motor. "Liberty oxygen" is its name and it is a respiratory device which automatically supplies to the flier the oxygen which is lacking in the natural air at high altitudes.

TEUTONS LAND IN RUSSIA

Report Says Gunners Are Now on Mainland.

Amsterdam, Oct. 16.—Unconfirmed dispatches from Swedish sources say that the important town of Hapsal, on the Esthonian mainland, terminus of the direct rail to Reval and Petrograd, has fallen to the German naval forces that captured the two islands dominating the Gulf of Riga. Hapsal lies 275 miles south of Petrograd, but with its occupation German control of the Riga Bay would be complete and the menace to the Gulf of Finland extreme.

U. S. MAY TAKE RAILROADS

"Exigencies of War May Force Action," Preparedness Committee Says.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The Great Northern and Northern Pacific ocean liners owner by the Hill interests and recently used in Pacific coast trade, have been requisitioned by the shipping board and soon will be put at disposal of the war department for transport service. The government will pay approximately $3,500,000 for them.

WAS ALL RUN DOWN

Faulty Kidneys Caused Acute Suffering. Completely Recovered Since Using Doan's.

Mrs. Harry A. Lyon, 5 St. William St., S. Boston, Mass., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have surely done me wonderful good. About two months prior to the birth of my baby, I had two convulsions and was taken to a hospital. Doctors said the convulsions were due to my kidneys not working properly.

"I had swelling of the feet and ankles so that I had to wear large-sized slippers. My back ached intensely, I was nervous and unable to sleep. I also suffered from awful headaches and felt weak, tired, languid, and run down.

"After I came home a friend suggested that I try Doan's Kidney Pills, and I got some. I soon noticed improvement; my back became stronger and I felt better in every way. I kept on taking Doan's and was cured. They are surely reliable."

Mrs. Lyon gave the above statement in May, 1915, and on March 12, 1917, she said:

"My cure has lasted, I take Doan's occasionally, however, as a strengthener for my kidneys."

USES TOMATOES AS WEAPONS

Woman Vendor Also Effectively Bombards Kimonoed Customer With the Scale Weights.

The high cost of things generally—including tomatoes—was directly responsible for the loudest case heard in the Yorkville court, a case reflecting the difference in shopping tactics to be observed in various segments of a large city, says the New York Herald.

Mrs. Anna Saconne was present in a cerise kimono and bandages to complain of the commercial tactics of Mrs. Concetta Fasano, a traveling saleswoman for tomatoes. According to the evidence, Mrs. Saconne was complaining of the price and condition of the tomatoes sold by Mrs. Fasano, when she suddenly received a one-pound weight in the direct center of the forehead, and was subsequently bombarded with other weights ranging from a quarter of a pound to three pounds, after which a deluge of tomatoes wrecked another azure blue kimono which Mrs. Saconne wears when tomato shopping.

"Why this?" asked the magistrate of Mrs. Fasano.

"She buy notheeng and talka too mooch," explained Mrs. Fasano. "If she joost buya somethceng an' walk away, all right, shut up, but she no buys somethceng and says averytheeng ees no good. I slappa da face; she talks. I trow da weight; she talks. I trow da fruit; she talks. She talk, she talk, she talk. She no buy soomtheeng; she talk, she talk, she talk. How mooch?"

"Five dollars," answered the magistrate, and the fine was paid.

How the Airmen Fight.

The pitfalls and dangers which an aviator must avoid at the front are becoming more numerous every day. Anti-aircraft guns mounted on fast motor cars chase around the country behind the lines and prevent the enemy airplanes and Zeppelins from remaining over our territory. This type of battery was responsible for the Zeppelins brought down at Compeigne in April, 1917, and Revigny, in April, 1916. In fact, this invention was one of the immediate causes of the Germans giving up their "strafing" with Zeppelins. The record for distance and height in hitting an airplane with this type of cannon is 15,000 feet in the air at 9,000 yards' distance across country. A very large crew is required to man one of these cannon. Besides the cannon a telephonist gets the report of the position over which the German machine is flying.—Carroll Dana Winslow, in Scribner's Magazine.

Different Methods.

The prison visitor on his usual rounds noticed that a new man occupied a cell that had been empty for some time.

"My friend," he began, "may I ask what brought you here?"

"The same thing that brought you here," replied the convict; "a desire to poke my nose into other people's business, only I generally used to go in by the basement window."

Rolling Rapidly.

Tom Moore called on Campbell one evening, and in the course of conversation Campbell mentioned a poem he had just composed and the manuscript of which he showed to Moore. It was entitled "The Battle of Hohenlinden," the last line of the first verse of which read:

"Of Iser rolling rapidly."

When Moore was departing he slipped on the stairs, which caused Campbell to ask:

"What's that? What's that?"

"I, sir, rolling rapidly!" instantly replied Moore.

A Medicine for Women

For Forty Years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has Relieved the Sufferings of Women.

It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who continues to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world.

Mrs. Kieso Cured After Seven Month's Illness.

Aurora, Ill.—"For seven long months I suffered from a female trouble, with severe pains in my back and sides until I became so weak I could hardly walk from chair to chair, and got so nervous I would jump at the slightest noise. I was entirely unfit to do my house work, I was giving up hope of ever being well, when my sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles and today I am a healthy woman able to do my own housework. I wish every suffering woman would try Lydia E. Though the temperature didn't go below 37 degrees last Tuesday, the first snow of the season added zest to the universal conversational topic, the weather. From Superior, from La Crosse, and from various Minnesota towns, came news of similar conversational blessing.

The new Red Lake Falls hotel is an assured thing. At a special meeting the stockholders unanimously decided to purchase the Sortedahl lots, just north of the new Gazette building on which an option had already been secured and they voted to form a corporation.

MINNESOTA AGAIN WINS BUTTER TITLE

STATE CARRIES OFF NATIONAL BANNER FOR THIRTEENTH SUCCESSIVE YEAR.

STATE WHEAT CROP A BUMPER

Government Report Shows Vast Increase Over Last Year in October Forecast.

St. Paul.

Defending the world's championship, which it has held for twelve successive years, Minnesota again carried off the banner awarded by the National Creamery Buttermakers' association in convention at Milwaukee.

News of the victory was received by Secretary H. D. Meyer of the state dairy and food department from Commissioner James Sorensen, who was at the meeting.

"The banner is awarded every year to the state having the highest average score," Secretary Meyer explained, "and was won by an average of 96.57 out of a possible 100 points by the Minnesota contestants. It means that Minnesota as a state produces the finest butter in the world."

More than 600 buttermakers competed for prizes.

Governor Warns Nonpartisan League.

Governor J. A. A. Burnquist, in advance of a conference with representatives of the Nonpartisan league from different parts of Minnesota, repeated the attitude of the Minnesota Public Safety commission toward meetings of that organization.

"Like all other meetings at this time, the question whether they will instill loyalty is the one first to be determined," said the governor. "That most interests the Public Safety commission and is left entirely with the local authorities, who are in close touch with the conditions obtaining."

Cars for State Shippers.

Chairman Ira B. Mills of the State Railroad and Warehouse commission, announces that the commission has been successful in a move to retain 300 box cars of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific roads which had been ordered to Eastern lines and that potato growers and other shippers in Minnesota will profit accordingly, but must load the cars to a maximum capacity in every instance.

While no explicit instructions are given for the use of the cars left on the Northwestern lines, it is planned to use the majority of them for the movement of the semi-perishable crops.

New Rifles for Home Guard.

Minnesota Home Guard companies and the new Fourth regiment may be uniformly equipped with Krag-Jorgenson rifles, as the result of withdrawal by the War department of the Springfield rifles issued to some units for use in the regular and national armies, Adjutant General W. F. Rhinow said.

Mrs. Stickitt, a lady notorious for her saving habits, one morning entered the doctor's office, leading by the hand a stoutly-built boy nine years of age and of exceedingly healthy appearance.

"Well, Mrs. Stickitt," said the doctor, "who's my patient? I don't seem to recognize his face. Not a village boy, is he?"

"No, doctor; my nevvy from town."

"Not much wrong with him, I should say," laughed the doctor, pinching his red cheeks.

"It's about his appetite, doctor," said the boy's aunt in a low tone.

"What?" exclaimed the doctor, staring at the well-fed young patient. "Surely he doesn't need an appetizer?"

"Good gracious, no, doctor!" replied the lady, in horrified accents. "I want you to give me something to make his appetite less. He'll eat me out of house afore his month's holiday is up if his appetite ain't cut down!"

Too Late.

He was a great pedestrian, but one day his physical energy seemed to give out. Weary and worn and sad, he was beeginning to despair of finding rest and refreshment when a small wayside house came into view. The good lady of the house executed her commission to supply her visitor with eggs, toast and tea.

"May I open the eggs for you?" she asked, smilingly.

The young man nodded assent, but, although the shell looked well enough, appearances are often deceptive, and that egg would not have done credit to any self-respecting hen.

He drew back his chair with a sigh.

"Hasn't it been boiled long enough, sir?" queried the lady.

"Yes," he replied, wearily, "but it was not boiled soon enough."

Luck.

"Are you superstitious?"

"I believe some men are luckier than others. But I never in my life met one who would own up that he was lucky. So what's the difference?"

Friend, Indeed.

"Did you send flowers to his funeral?"

"No, I sent a fire extinguisher."

Don't Neglect Kidneys

Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Prescription, Overcomes Kidney Trouble

It is now conceded by physicians that the kidneys should have more attention as they control the other organs to a remarkable degree and do a tremendous amount of work in removing the poisons and waste matter from the system by filtering the blood.

The kidneys should receive some assistance when needed. We take less exercise, drink less water and often eat more rich, heavy food, thereby forcing the kidneys to do more work than nature intended. Evidence of kidney trouble, such as lame back, annoying bladder troubles, smarting or burning, brick-dust or sediment, sallow complexion, rheumatism, maybe weak or irregular heart action, warns you that your kidneys require help immediately to avoid more serious trouble.

An ideal herbal compound that has had most remarkable success as a kidney and bladder remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. There is nothing else like it. It is Dr. Kilmer's prescription used in private practice and it is sure to benefit you. Get a bottle from your druggist.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Adv.

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR
HARRIET G. HUNT, PUB.

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 30 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879

We was surprised to see that our friend Anderson of the Clearbrook Journal has taken a stand against Farmers Oganization. The Nonpartisan League, again we say that people and Editors make mistakes, because they don't understand the situation: First we want to say: That we challenge any men, or plutrocratic newspaper to question our loyalty to America in this war, but we also believe in the organization of the farmers into the Nonpartisan League. But we are bitterly opposed to having our organization used as a cats paw to rake the chestnuts of old rotten politician, like LaFollete out of the fire.

There is no question of the willingness of our farmers of eastern Pennington County to invest in liberty bonds, if they only had the money to invest. But their last years crop was about a total failure, and with a very light crop this year the majority of them still belong to the borrowing class, instead of the loaning class. They simple cannot raise the money to buy bonds this year, and no man should be condemned because he is not financially able to raise the cash to buy liberty bonds.

Germany is slowly weakening and the close of the reign of kaiser Wilhelm will soon be in sight. He would now make any terms of peace that did not compel him to vacate his throne. But America will not talk peace with him, but will go after him until they get him and then we will have peace that will last.

Buy a Liberty Bond, the safest investment you can make.

Wise Daughter.

Father—If you paid more attention to cooking and less to dress, my dear, you would make a much better wife.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINTS.

To Avoid Headaches.

Headaches may be a symptom of indigestion, grippe, typhoid fever, malaria, hysteria, nephritis (inflammation of the kidneys), rheumatism, diabetes, anaemia (impoverished blood), neurasthenia (nerve exhaustion) and neuralgia. There are various kinds of headaches differently localized. A sharp ache, coming in paroxysms and affecting the eyeballs, indicates neuralgia; a sharp and continual pain, hysteria; a dull and diffused frontal and temporal ache is due usually to digestive disturbances, to anaemia or to nephritis; pain at the top of the head (vertex) may come from excessive "nervousness" or from bladder trouble, while sharp aching in the occipital or lower back part of the head may mean a beginning of meningitis, adenoids or merely decayed teeth. To avoid headaches keep the blood pure and the circulation active by proper diet and regular exercise in the open air. Keep the nostrils clear of all obstructions tending to interfere with nose breathing. Have any refractive errors of the eyes promptly corrected and see that the teeth are attended to regularly to prevent dental cavities or softening.

Perils of Oil Cargoes.

The explosion of vessels carrying petroleum frequently occurs, and this is generally caused not by the cargoes of oil which they contain, but by the inflammable vapor which is left behind after the huge tanks of the ships have been emptied.

It is difficult to remove all the oil that adheres to the sides of the tank, and the evaporation of the oil film left by them after they have been pumped out takes place with great rapidity. Moreover, the vapor thus formed mingles readily with the air and is capable of rendering more than 2,000 times its own volume of the latter inflammable. A spark may thus cause a fearful explosion in the hold of a ship that is apparently empty.

A film of petroleum spreading over the surface of the water has been known to produce enough of this volatile and dangerous vapor to cause a conflagration, by which a number of ships lying in a harbor have been suddenly enwrapped in roaring flames as if by a stroke of magic.

He Wins Who Works.

And still people talk about born singers, artists, inventors and mechanics. The theory is illogical, and the truth of it has never been demonstrated. It is true that there are a few individuals who are born into the world with an unusual amount of latent ability and people call them talented. The difference between the words talent and latent is merely a variation in the location of the letters. The meaning of the two words is almost identical. The possession of talent means the possession of some latent quality which requires development for perfect expression. A freak is not a genius because, although usually lacking in the consciousness of power, he feels no need for growth, and even the power that he possesses gradually diminishes instead of expanding. The man who works for years and finally reaches the goal of his dreams always smiles when he hears some one speak of a born genius.—Los Angeles Times.

Municipal Markets.

One thing in which Baltimore is a pioneer is its system of municipal markets. In 1751, when there were only twenty-five houses in what was then known as Baltimore Town, a public market was established, and, by the time the city was incorporated in 1796 three such markets had already been established within its corporate limits. Today eleven municipal markets, all owned by the city, are within easy reach of 700,000 people of Baltimore and vicinity. Going to market is a localism in Baltimore, and the thrifty Baltimore housewife learned, when a little girl, that it pays to take a market basket to one of the public markets at least twice a week, particularly on Saturday, and get fresh country produce, without the middleman's handling and profit, at considerably less than at the corner grocery stores.—Exchange.

Beets in England.

For several years Great Britain has experimented with the sugar beet, but now, facing a sugar shortage and with the need of making the country less dependent upon foreign supply, the government is taking an official concern in the possibilities of this industry. Accordingly, the government has made a loan toward the creation of a sugar beet factory near Newark, capable of dealing with a large daily tonnage. The British Sugar Beet Growers' society has purchased land, and it is hoped that this area, with additional land in the vicinity cultivated by separate farmers, will produce 80,000 tons of beets per year, which should yield 11,000 tons of sugar.

Woman Smokers in Wales.

A woman was seen smoking a pipe in a Swansea by-street the other day and seemed to be enjoying it hugely. Of course, this is not quite a new thing. Some old ladies, especially of Irish extraction, have enjoyed their weed in that way for many years past. But it was the way in which this was done which surprised the public. As a matter of fact, in London some women have gone in for cigarettes and pipes in their homes, and in the woman's clubs there is a rule that pipes are not permitted has been quietly rescinded in favor of the male visitors, who now smoke vigorously without complaint.—Cardiff Western Mail.

THE LOCAL NEWS

If there is any oats in your wheat it will pay you to clean them out for feed before taking your grain to market.

Eddie Hyland drove down to Thief River Falls Wednesday on a business trip.

There was a large attendance at the Brekke sale yesterday and everything brought good prices.

Mail carrier Hesby laid up last Monday, while the bad storm was prevailing.

Mrs. Henry Hyland has been on the invalid list this week, and has been staying at Sunbeam.

Peter Hedeen was up this week from Alexandria looking after his farming interests in the Town of Kratka.

The Hazel Merchants are selling 10 pounds of sugar for $1.00, which is 1 lb extra from the Highlanding price.

Owing to the bad storm last Monday the Kittle Brekke sale was postponed until Thursday of this week.

Will Korstad bought four fine Holstein Cows at Thief River Falls Wednesday which he will place on his Highlanding farm.

Wheat came down 1 cent a bushel this week, as the railroads were not getting enough for freight, and of course the farmer has to pay the freight.

There was a large attendance at the Ladies Aid society meeting at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Walter McAndress on Wednesday afternoon.

O. M. Mandt, Gunder G. Anderson, John Radneicki, John Eisbrener and B. Henry Costello, of Deer Park, failed to get their threshing done before the snow storm.

Hazel would now be a first class location for a Blacksmith, as there is none there now, and he would have plenty of work for one man to do sent in to him by mail from the farmers east of Hazel.

After November 2nd all first class mail matter must be paid for at the rate of 3 cents per ounce. Postal Cards must have one additional 1 cent stamp, besides the one cent stamps on them.

The McIntosh Times has announced that after November 1st, they will commence the publica- of the names of all Delinquent subscribers and the amount they owe, opposed their names. We may have to adopt the same plan a little later on, just to let some of our subscribers know how much they are behind.

REMEMBER, that the last one half of your realestate taxes is due before November 1st.

Respetifully,

Co. Treas.

The Commercial Club, of Thief River Falls cooperting with the Farmers Clubs of the county will put on a potato show at Thief River Falls on November 17, 1917. The fifteen best samples at this show will be taken to the state show to be held at Brainerd on Dec. 6, and 7, 1917. Prizes wil be given for exhibits and we expect that potato raisers will take an active interest in this show.

Leather Medals.

Leather medals were originally conferred as a genuine mark of honor. When King John of France captured at Agincourt was forced to pay to Edward III of England a ransom of 3,000,000 gold crowns to effect his release he was left without precious metal for coins or decorations. So he found it necessary to pay the palace expenses with leather money. He also used leather medals when he wished to confer honor on some nobleman. The custom quickly arose of presenting leather medals as a burlesque distinction.—[illegible]

Buy a Liberty Bond so he may have good food, warm blankets, clothing and shoes.

Buying a Liberty Bond does not mean giving your money. It means loaning your money and receiving every cent of it back with 4% interest.

Liberty Bonds are backed by all of the resources of the richest government in the world and are the safest investment man has ever known.

Purchases of Liberty Bonds up to $5000 are exempt from government taxes.

Liberty Bonds may be purchased in any amounts in units of $50. The share of every American family on the Second Liberty Bond issue is $150. This makes $250 for the two issues.

You can buy Liberty Bonds on easy payments as follows:

	$50 Bond	$100 Bond	$500 Bond	$1000 Bond
On Application	$1.00	$2.00	$10.00	$20.00
November 15th	9.00	18.00	90.00	180.00
December 15th	20.00	40.00	200.00	400.00
January 15th	20.00	40.00	200.00	400.00

Plus accrued interest to be settled with final payment January 15th.

Don't wait for someone to ask you to buy a bond. Go at once to your nearest bank, post office or department store and subscribe.

If you do not furnish your troops with the sinews of war, and thereby allow the German armies to conquer, the fate of your home will be that of the homes of Belgium, and your money will be taken from you by force.

Today you have a choice between this awful condition and an opportunity to live in peace and Liberty in a prosperous nation. If you do not act today it may be too late.

All Circus Rings the Same Size.

Railway tickets are the same size all over Great Britain and the continent—viz, 2¼ by 1¼ inches—and have been so for the last fifty years. This surely indicates a worldwide tendency to standardize.

Every builder's ladder is built to scale, and the fireman's ladder is on the scale of the seaman's run up the ratlines. But perhaps the greatest triumph of standardizing is that of the circus. There are big and little circuses in the world, but the ring is always of the same diameter, for the bareback rider has discovered the exact angle at which he can square the circle. No matter whether it be a ring cut in the turf or a luxuriously appointed theater, the circus ring never varies a foot.—London Mail.

The Hotel In the Forest.

Busaco, the beauty spot of Portugal, is a vast forest, in the center of which is situated one of the finest hotels in the country. Travelers arriving at this noted hostelry invariably comment upon the position of a certain olive tree standing just outside the hotel in the center of the road, most awkwardly situated for traffic. The reason the obstruction is not cut down is due to the fact that Wellington tied his horse to this identical tree on the eve of the battle of Busaco, 1810, and the inconvenience is put up with out of respect for the great general. An ancient monastery formerly stood on the site of the hotel, and Wellington is said to have slept there on the eventful eve.—New York Sun.

When Turkey Was Great.

Turkey at her height was in possession of every famous city of the ancient world except Rome. She held by the sword Athens, Corinth, Sparta, [illegible], Thebes, Constantinople, Antioch, Seleucia, Ctesiphon, Babylon, Nineveh, Bagdad, Jerusalem, Damascus, Mecca, Medina, Alexandria, Cairo, Memphis, Egyptian Thebes and Carthage. Some were in ruins, but the Turk was master where they had been.

Diving Animals.

One thing that none of the land living animals does is to dive. No matter how hard pressed a swimming deer, rabbit, squirrel or other purely terrestrial animal may be, it will remain above water. But the muskrat, beaver, ice bear and otter dive immediately.

ANCIENT LEGEND MADE GOOD

Russian Women Fighting With the Desperation Said to Have Animated Amazon Warriors.

Legend tells of an ancient nation of female warriors, the Amazons, who were said to have lived in Pontus, near the shore of the Euxine sea, where they maintained an independent government under the rule of a queen. These hardy women, so runs the tale, carried war into many neighboring countries, including Scythia and Thrace, and to the coasts of Asia Minor, even penetrating to Arabia and Egypt. They were seldom made to swallow the bitter potion of defeat.

Now, according to the war cables from Petrograd, woman is again taking her place in battle. The "Death Battalion" in the Russian army on the eastern front, reports say, is full in the fight and is acquitting itself heroically. We read such lines as "Ensign Mlle. Vera Butchkareff has been sent to hospital suffering from shell shock," and "the Death Battalion rushed forward, firing their rifles with deadly effect."

It is a strange situation in Russia which finds women standing fast under fire, and thousands of men turning their backs to the foe and delivering over their own soil. If these traitors are capable of shame, the spectacle of women fighting their battles for them must sink deep into their souls.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Royal Names.

Nicholas Romanoff is the name by which the late czar is mentioned in the Russian papers. But it may be doubted whether this is a correct use of the word Romanoff, because monarchs, who sign by their Christian names only, are not supposed to have surnames. In the early days, when both surnames and customs were in the making, they did not need them, and, except in case of dethronement, and not always then, they have never needed them since. Contrary to popular belief, Plantagenet was not a surname. Tudor may have been one, and Stuart certainly was. But Guelph was not, and so good an authority as Fox-Davies holds that the present King of England has no surname at all. [illegible] learned authorities have been perplexed to know whether the descendants of Queen Victoria did not inherit the surname of their father, the Prince Consort.

IMPROVEMENTS ARE NOT TAXED

Western Canada Does Not Tax Stock or Improvements but Collects an Additional Tax From Land Speculators.

Owners of uncultivated lands in Western Canada are loud in their protests against any extra tax on their lands because they are not under cultivation. Western Canada, through its provincial governments, is endeavoring to force the speculative land owner to either sell his land to a settler or to cultivate it himself. At present a surtax of a few cents an acre is levied against all wild land, so that the owner of land held in its natural state, without improvements, is contributing more taxes to the government than the owner of a farm that is cultivated and even improved with buildings and stock to the value of thousands of dollars. In order to encourage the farmer to improve and to go into stock raising, he is not charged one cent of taxes on any of his improvements, implements or stock of any kind.

As a result of this surtax on uncultivated or speculatively held lands, the owners are now trying to sell them to actual settlers, and, in nearly every instance, have been offering on very easy terms of payment, usually a quarter down, and the balance extending over a term of years at prices much lower than their productive value would warrant.

A world-wide shortage in farm stuffs has given a new value to all agricultural products and the margin of profit today is greater than ever in the past. It is true labor and implements have increased in price, but it is now possible to secure 50% profit in farming, and higher. Possibly not on the $100 to $200 an acre farm lands but on land that can now, under existing conditions, be purchased at from $15 to $30 per acre. Western Canadian farm lands are as productive as any in the world and can be as economically farmed. Wheat yields of from 30 to 50 bushels per acre have been common in Western Canada during the past few years, and the farmers have been too busy farming all they can so as to sell as much wheat as possible at $2.00 a bushel, that they have not had time to do any talking or writing. It is doubtful if there ever was such an opportunity to make big profits in farming. The value of each year's crop has been in hundreds of cases more than the market value of the land it was grown on. It is unreasonable to suppose such a condition will last long, as the land now being forced onto the market by surtax on speculative owners will soon become absorbed by those who have learned of these highly profitable wheat lands. The news is spreading gradually throughout the high priced land districts in the United States, where there is a renewed awakening to the realization that the maximum profit in farming is not being obtained when it is possible to secure from forty to seventy per cent return on the investment in Western Canada. Many who have been planning to visit Western Canada for the purpose of personally investigating conditions are leaving this month, when the good weather can be enjoyed. As threshing operations and marketing of grain is under way, no better time could be selected to secure first hand and reliable information from the farmers themselves. The winter months afford ample time for completing moving arrangements, to allow the settler to take up residence in early spring, so as to get something done next year and to make a start on the big and profitable farming operations in Western Canada.—Advertisement.

WOMEN SUFFERERS NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, and may be despondent and irritable.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, restores health to the kidneys and is just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large bottle immediately from any drug store.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Adv.

LIBERTY LOAN IS STILL BILLION SHY

TREMENDOUS EFFORT IS NECESSARY TO REACH MAXIMUM TOTAL SET.

TRUE FIGURES ARE GIVEN OUT

Reports of Alleged Withholding of Actual Sales by Treasury Department Are Given Denial.

Washington, Oct. 23.—The Liberty Loan campaign swings into the home stretch with subscriptions of only $1,973,000,000, or slightly under 40 per cent of the hoped-for maximum.

The final spurt will finish next Saturday. Widespread reports that the totals announced by the treasury department are actually far below the totals really subscribed are regarded as a great handicap.

This handicap, it is said, is imposed unwittingly by the loan's best friends, who have come to believe in many instances that the treasury department has deliberately made the total subscriptions appear less, "by several hundred million dollars," than the real returns. No such practice, it was emphatically asserted, has prevailed.

Estimate Based on Facts.

"Committee chairmen throughout the country," reads the treasury department statement last night, "have been asked to base their estimates on what they know to be the facts, and in so far as is known at the department, they have done so. A striking example of the inaccuracy of some reports which have been sent broadcast was shown in the case of the Minneapolis district, where estimates of current sales were being published daily before the sale started there."

"The situation, therefore, according to the best information the department possesses is that the sales to date are about $1,000,000,000 short of the minimum and $3,000,000,000 short of the maximum quotas set for the country by Secretary McAdoo at the outset of the campaign. He insisted that $3,000,000,000 in bonds be sold and it was his expressed hope that the $5,000,000,000 mark would be reached.

New Spurt to Be Started.

"Vigorous efforts will be made in every district between now and next Saturday noon, to raise the $5,000,000,000 total. The $3,000,000,000 mark is being lost sight of in the fight for the higher figure.

U. S. SENATOR KILLED IN HUNTING ACCIDENT

Husting of Wisconsin Loses Life on Duck Shooting Trip.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 22.—Accidentally shot in the back by his brother, while hunting ducks near Rush Lake, Wis., United States Senator Paul O. Husting died at a farmhouse at Picketts, nearby.

Senator Husting recently returned to his home at Mayville, Wis., after close of the extra session of Congress, where he was one of the leading supporters of the administration's war program.

With his brother, Gustave, he had gone on a hunting expedition to Rush Lake and the two were in a boat when the accident occurred. Senator Husting had sighted a flock of ducks and called for his brother to fire and at the discharge of the shotgun he raised slightly, receiving the full charge of the gun in his back. He was rushed to the farmhouse where all efforts to save his life were unavailing.

BRITISH MAKE STRONG DEMAND FOR REPRISALS

Pride of Nation Stung by German Baltic Coup and Zeppelin Raid.

London, Oct. 22. — British pride, stung by the German coup in the Baltic sea, during which two destroyers were sunk, and by the last Zeppelin raid in which 27 persons lost their lives, clamored for governmental changes that will insure immediate reprisals on Germany and a sharp stiffening of British naval aggressiveness.

Long articles in the Times and Observer demand no further delay on the part of the government in announcing the formation of a new air ministry.

Petrograd, Oct. 22.—The cabinet met Friday to hear Premier Kerensky's report on his recent visit to the front and his conversations with the general commanding the northern front. The chief subject discussed was the evacuation of Petrograd. The Premier expressed the belief that the evacuation of Petrograd was not urgent and should be carried out gradually without undue haste. The announcement of the impending removal of the government has not caused anxiety among the populace.

This is the only photograph of the popular congressman and officer in military garb and shows him at the camp.

GERMAN BOMB KILLS FAMILY

MOTHER AND SEVEN CHILDREN VICTIMS OF AIR RAID.

Another Mother, Sleeping With Babes, Burned to Crisp But Children Are Saved.

London, Oct. 22.—How bombs dropped by Zeppelins in the last raid over England killed a mother and seven children in one family and brought death to another mother sleeping with her two babies are just revealed.

Asleep in Home.

The mother and her family of seven were asleep in their home in the London downtown district. A bomb struck the house, destroying it. A lodger was killed at the same time. None of the bodies has been recovered.

Eight bombs were dropped in a small town outside of London. One went through the roof of a workman's home and entered a home where the wife and her two babies were asleep. The mother was burned to a crisp. The children were rescued after they had been severely burned.

Workmen's Homes Razed.

In a populous London district one of the explosive bombs demolished a row of workmen's cottages.

It is reported from an eastern county that seven Zeppelins remained overhead there for several hours last night and dropped fifty bombs, including a number of incendiary nature.

PERSHING'S TROOPS PUT MILLIONS INTO U. S. BONDS

Soldiers Not Only "to Do Bit" in Trenches But Set Example for Folks Back Home.

American Field Headquarters, Oct. 22.—American soldiers are not only going to "do their bit" in the trenches fighting the Huns, but they are setting an example for folks back home in a record-breaking purchase of Liberty bonds.

Several million dollars in subscriptions are reported. The exact total is being withheld. The various American expeditionary units are keenly competing for the honor of subscribing the greatest amount. The heavy artillery claimed the top figure—with nearly $300,000 pledged and several batteries still to be heard from.

In some infantry companies every man and every officer subscribed to one or more bonds.

Mystery in Poisoned Candy.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 22.—Mystery surrounds the finding of a poisoned barrel of candy, containing 600 pounds, in a railroad warehouse here yesterday. The candy was heavily adulterated with arsenic. The only marking on it was "Louisville." Food Inspector Blume suspects a plot and has reported his findings to Federal officials.

Ask to Join Federal Reserve System.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Seventy state banks and trust companies, among them some of the largest in the country, have joined the federal reserve system or made application for membership since October 1. Applications continue to come into the board at the rate of three to five a day and a decided increase in this number is expected within a short time. Thirteen of the seventy institutions have been admitted. No applications were announced from the Minneapolis, Kansas City or Dallas districts.

One hundred Minnesota men of the depot brigade at Camp Dodge who were in charge of squads that sold $62,050 Liberty Loan bonds to the Second provisional regiment, composed of Minnesota men, were entertained at dinner at the Des Moines Chamber of Commerce. The men from Minnesota subscribed for an average of $57 each.

The typhoid fever epidemic at Chisholm cannot be traced to the water supply, in the belief of Dr. L. J. Burns, state board of health inspector, who investigated conditions. A bacteriological investigation revealed no typhoid germs in the water. One of the cases was traced to Ely and two to Keewatin. "The spread of the disease may be through carriers," said Dr. Rippert, chairman of the local health board.

Destitute Belgians will be cared for on a large tract of land seventy-five or 100 miles from St. Paul, it was announced yesterday by James Slevin, delegated by the Societe to Colonization Americaine of Paris to make the arrangements in the United States. Friday was the first pay day in the world's highest paid military organization, the Fourth Minnesota infantry, which recently relieved the First infantry on property guard duty, after being organized with the expectation that it would be continued in that service and not be called by the War department. About 500 officers and men drew more than $20,000 from the state general revenue fund for September services, exclusive of the subsistence allowance of 50 cents a day for each man and the "bonus" paid them from a fund subscribed by business houses and citizens in Minneapolis and Duluth.

STATE SAFETY COMMISSION CONSIDERS APPROPRIATION OF $50,000 FOR PURPOSE.

STATE TO BUY LIBERTY BONDS

Royalties From State Mines to Be Used in Purchase of Bonds to Amount of $100,000.

St. Paul.

The state safety commission is considering a request for an appropriation of $50,000 to create and police a social hygiene zone at Fort Snelling. Action on the matter was deferred until a detailed budget of the proposed expenditures could be submitted. The request, presented by Dr. W. A. Jones and Dr. C. E. Smith, Jr., came in the form of a resolution adopted last week by the Minnesota State Medical association.

State to Buy Liberty Bonds.

The state board of investment has voted unanimously to buy $100,000 of the bonds with state school trust funds. A system was inaugurated to enable any state employe to draw his salary in advance to invest in Liberty bonds. State Auditor J. A. O. Preus initiated both proposals.

The legality of the investment of the school funds in Liberty Bonds was established when E. E. Smith, a Minneapolis attorney, informed Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith that the intent of the amendment to the state constitution in 1896 to govern investments of state trust funds was not to repeal the previous provision permitting purchases of Federal bonds.

Auditor Preus then moved in the investment board that $100,000 of the funds be invested, adding that the money would be available October 23 from royalties on iron ore from state mines.

The motion was carried unanimously. Treasurer Henry Rines and Attorney General Smith voting in the affirmative and Governor Burnquist having assented to the proposal before leaving for Vicksburg.

Treasurer Rines agreed also to the plan by Auditor Preus to allow state employes to assign a percentage of their salaries during the remaining nine and a half months of the state fiscal year to apply on purchase of Liberty Bonds.

State Institutions to Get Fish.

S. C. Bailey, game warden, has gone from Bemidji to Redby, where he will supervise the opening of the state fisheries at Red Lake. At present the fish will be purchased from the Indians only and will be ready for shipment when purchased, but Carlos Avery, state game and fish commissioner, expects to have several men at work soon erecting warehouses and packing sheds which will take care of the fish during the coming winter.

Mr. Bailey will supervise the buying and shipping of the fish until another man is sent up by the state game and fish commission to take charge of the work. While the first few shipments of fish will be sent to the state institutions it is intended that the fisheries shall be opened on such an extensive scale that Red Lake will eventually become a factor in supplying cheap food to the citizens of the state as it is intended that the fish shall be sold at actual cost.

More Coal for Northwest.

Continued gains in deliveries of both hard and soft coal at the Head of the Lakes are shown in official reports received by the State Railroad and Warehouse commission from the Twin City committee on car service of the Railroad's War board. The report is for the week ending October 7, and gives comparisons with 1916 deliveries.

Anthracite deliveries for the season total 1,226,871 tons against 1,049,500 tons for the corresponding period last year, a gain of more than 175,000 tons, while for the last week reported the total was 61,062 tons against 44,884 tons.

Bituminous coal deliveries for the season were 6,515,502 tons against 9,850,049 tons for the same period last year. Deliveries for the week ending October 7, were 367,527 tons against 247,834 tons for the corresponding week of 1916, a gain of 20,000 tons.

Mr. Pocock recently mustered fifty cooks to be sent to Camp Dodge to instruct army cooks at the cantonment. "I will have no definite plan for conservation in hotels until I have conferred with Mr. Wilson," Mr. Pocock said.

Keep Yourself Fit

You can't afford to be laid up with sore, aching kidneys in these days of high prices. Some occupations bring kidney troubles; almost any work makes weak kidneys worse. If you feel tired all the time, and suffer with lame back, sharp pains, dizzy spells, headaches and disordered kidney action use Doan's Kidney Pills. It may save an attack of rheumatism, dropsy, or Bright's disease. Doan's have helped thousands back to health.

A Minnesota Case

Anthony P. Kern, R. R. No. 7, Faribault, Minn., says: "I suffered from kidney trouble from infancy. My life was a burden. I had such dizzy spells that I hardly realized where I was. I was tired and worn out and my back got terribly lame after a day's work. I kept growing worse until I was a total wreck. After I used Doan's Kidney Pills the ailments gradually left me until I was well. Doan's gave me a new lease on life."

Fooling the Motorist.

The motorist had lost his way on a country road. Hailing the first pedestrian he overtook, he asked the way to Blankville.

"I don't know as I can explain it very clearly," replied the pedestrian, "but if you'll take me in your car I'll point it out to you as we go along."

"Good," said the motorist. "Jump in."

"First off," directed the pedestrian, as he took his seat in the car, "you drive straight ahead the way you were going for about two miles."

When the two miles had been traversed, he continued: "Now, if you'll let me out here I can show you the rest of the way without going along. Just turn around and go back three miles and there you are."

"Why didn't you tell me that in the first place instead of taking me two miles in the wrong direction?" demanded the motorist.

"I didn't want to hurt your feelings right away by telling you you were going in the wrong direction," replied the other, "and, besides, I live here."

How Japan Deals With Bribery.

Violators of the election laws of Japan are promptly punished. Five citizens of prominence in Osaka were arrested on various charges of influencing voters at the last general election. The Osaka court of first instance fined the debauchers of the franchise 100 yen each. From this sentence they appealed and the high court quashed the judgment of the lower tribunal, but sent each of the five prisoners to jail for two months.—East and West News.

Latest in Torpedoes.

A torpedo with a corkscrew course has been observed. It it misses the port side it turns and strikes the starboard; sometimes on missing there it overturns again, striking the port side. The ship's officer unaccountably omitted to add that after the explosion the fragments reunite and return to the submarine as a complete missile ready to be fired anew.—New York Sun.

Canadian Farmers Profit From Wheat

160 ACRE
FARMS IN WESTERN
FREE

The war's devastation of European crops has caused an unusual demand for grain from the American Continent. The people of the world must be fed and wheat near $2 a bushel offers great profits to the farmer. Canada's invitation is therefore especially attractive. She wants settlers to make money and happy, prosperous homes for themselves by helping her raise immense wheat crops.

You can get a Homestead of 160 acres FREE and other lands at remarkably low prices. During many years Canadian wheat fields have averaged 20 bushels to the acre many yields as high as 45 bushels to the acre. Wonderful crops also of Oats, Barley and Flax.

Mixed farming as profitable an industry as grain raising. The excellent grasses full of nutrition are the only food required for beef or dairy purposes. Good schools, churches, markets convenient, climate excellent.

There is an extra demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for the war. The Government is urging farmers to put extra acreage into grain. Write for literature and particulars as to reduced railway rates to Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or

JOFFRE'S VALET DID WELL

Amassed Fortune of 25,000 Francs While on American Tour With the Noted Marshal.

When Marshal Joffre went to the United States he took with him a body servant who was to act as his valet. The man formerly had served in the family and there was nothing said about what pay he was to receive until the journey was over, when the marshal asked him what he owed him.

"I couldn't ask for any pay in view of the petite fortune that I have brought back with me."

"What little fortune?" asked the marshal. "You haven't been speculating?"

"Mais non, monsieur de Marechal, but there were times when I could be of service. People who wanted autographs, and those who wanted to see the chambers occupied by monsieur le Marechal, and those who sent notes and messages—"

"I understand," said the marshal, "but, if I may ask, how much did you bring back?"

"Eh, b'en, Monsieur le Marechal, about 25,000 francs."

It is Mme. Joffre who has let the story out. She has told it to some of her acquaintances in the American colony in Paris, who repeat her assurances that it is perfectly true.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Japan's Financial Aid to Russia.

A domestic loan of $50,000,000 has been arranged by Japan for Russia, a large part of which will be used to pay for war supplies already ordered by Russia in Japan. At present $35,000,000 Russian treasury bills held in Japan, matured on September 25 and were renewed. The bankers of Japan have so many demands for money made upon them at present to finance new enterprises that they are not disposed to underwrite Russian loans; therefore the government will issue exchequer bonds which may be paid for with Russian treasury bills.—East and West News.

Church Pension Fund Success.

Final returns sent to J. P. Morgan, treasurer of the $5,000,000 pension fund for the support of retired Episcopal clergymen, show that the fund was oversubscribed nearly 75 per cent, total subscriptions amounting to $8,712,000. Of this $5,164,555 has already been paid.

The church pension fund is the largest of the kind ever raised, and, next to the Red Cross hundred million dollar fund, the largest charitable fund ever gathered in America for any one purpose. It took just a year to do it. While $5,000,000 was the goal originally set, it was announced from time to time that an oversubscription was desired in order to give the fund the soundest backing possible.

LEADERS OF RED CROSS WORK TOUR CITIES OF WEST

Meet Representatives of Local Chapters and the General Public.

TELL HOW BIG FUND IS USED

Washington.—At the request of the Red Cross war council, Henry P. Davison, chairman of the council, and Harry D. Gibson, general manager of the American Red Cross, have undertaken a tour through the West, in the course of which they will visit points at which division managers of the Red Cross have been stationed. The purpose of the trip is to meet with representatives of Red Cross chapters, also with those who have contributed to Red Cross funds and with the public generally. It is also the purpose of the war council to render an account of its stewardship, to interest the people in the work of the Red Cross and to let the public know just how the $100,000,000 war fund is being utilized.

Beginning at St. Louis October 22, the schedule for the trip called for large meetings to be held successively at Denver, San Francisco, Seattle, Minneapolis, Chicago and Cleveland.

Purpose of the Trip.

In announcing the purpose of the trip, Mr. Davison authorized the following statement:

"With the division of the United States into thirteen districts, each headed by a successful business man serving this country through the Red Cross during the war, the Red Cross organization in this country is now complete. Also special Red Cross missions, made up of competent and sympathetic American citizens have now arrived and are at work on behalf of the American Red Cross in France, Great Britain, Russia, Italy, Roumania and Serbia.

"Collections to the war fund of the Red Cross up to October 1 amounted to $64,424,232.90, of which $6,269,566.57 has been refunded to chapters to provide for their own Red Cross activities. Up to that time the war council had appropriated from the war fund $25,090,870.41. The Red Cross membership has just become more than four million. Included in that membership are hundreds of thousands of American women who are knitting, making surgical dressings and comfort kits. The Red Cross war council is seeking to render an account of its stewardship to the American people in the most effective manner possible. It is giving frequent announcements of its activities and every fact concerning the work of the Red Cross is available to everybody. We now wish to go a step farther and give a detailed account of our stewardship, as well as to advise with Red Cross workers and supporters throughout the country as to Red Cross policy and methods. We have felt that this could best be done by appearing face to face before audiences of representative citizens, telling the Red Cross story, answering questions, and ourselves gaining a more complete knowledge of public sentiment.

Would Inform Public.

"We are extremely anxious that the people at large should be fully informed as to the methods and policies adopted in handling the great fund with which the Red Cross war council has been intrusted and also that all policies and activities of the Red Cross should be in accord with a fully informed public sentiment. The purpose of this trip is not to solicit subscriptions or to take collections, although we expect to give to the American people the latest advice we have received as to conditions in France, Russia, Roumania, Italy and Serbia.

"Our reports indicate that the American Red Cross has an opportunity to lend a helping hand and to carry a practical message of cheer to suffering humanity such as no philanthropic undertaking in the history of the world has ever had before."

Accompanying Mr. Davison and Mr. Gibson on this trip is Rev. Robert Davis of Englewood, N. J., who has just returned from France, having gone to Paris with the American Red Cross commission in May.

The Last Free-Soiler.

Robert G. Elliott, "the last Free Stater," died recently at Lawrence, Kan. He was a member of the first Free State colony that went from New England to Kansas. He took with him a fine educational equipment, and he quickly became a leader of the Free State party in the bitter border strife of the '50s. He was the editor of the first Free State paper in Kansas, and a friend of Abraham Lincoln. His paper was twice burned out and his life was often threatened. He lived through many thrills of a dramatic age in which he played a leading part, to see the principles for which he struggled pass forever as a national issue.

CORN MEAL MUFFINS

¾ cup corn meal
1¼ cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
4 level teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons shortening

Mix thoroughly dry ingredients; add milk and melted shortening and beat well. Bake in greased muffin tins in hot oven about 20 minutes.

NUT BREAD

3 cups graham flour
5 level teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
1½ teaspoons salt
1½ cups milk and water
¼ cup sugar or corn syrup
1 cup chopped nuts (not too fine) or 1 cup raisins, washed and floured

Mix together flour, baking powder and salt; add milk and water, sugar or corn syrup and nutmeats or raisins. Put into greased loaf pan, allow to stand 30 minutes in warm place. Bake in moderate oven 40 to 45 minutes.

"That's not a Pierce-Marrow," contradicted another, languidly. "It's a Mudson Super Slick."

An Aztec Grain.

At the time of the Spanish conquest, an ivory grain, finer than mustard seed, was made into paste for molding into religious idols and was an important food in these times of scarcity of maize. This grain, known to the Aztecs as "huauhtli," was among the tributes paid by the pueblos to Montezuma. The botanical identity of the seed was long unknown, but the collection of Dr. Edward Palmer in the states of Sincola and Palisco included fish-egglike seeds of an amaranthus. The plant was found both wild and under cultivation, a paste of the seed and sugar being sold under the name of "suale." Dr. W. E. Safford of the department of agriculture has recognized in these specimens the sacred "huauhtli" of Montezuma's time, and suggests that this amaranthus might be cultivated in favorable situations. Closely allied plants are cultivated in India, Tibet, South America and Africa as grain crops.

War Declared on Rats by U. S. Gov't.

The government at Washington is preparing a campaign that should be effective in killing the rats that are so destructive both to lives and property. A conservative estimate places the loss of foodstuffs from rats at over two hundred million dollars annually, and in the present scarcity of food, this loss must be prevented. The most efficient way to "Kill the Rat" is by the use of Stearns' Paste, and thousands of dollars worth have been bought by the government. Every housekeeper troubled with rats, mice, roaches or waterbugs should buy a small box of this reliable exterminator for thirty-five cents, and stop further loss of food in her home. Adv.

MORE OF LaFOLLETTE

It will require something more than threats to bring libel suits to convince the people of Minnesota that Townley and the National Nonpartisan league are American in spirit and purpose. Where a public gathering will attempt to humiliate and insult a patriot like Eli Torrance and then encourage and applaud the disloyal utterances of LaFollette the public cannot easily misunderstand the mental attitude of those who constitute it.—Bemidji Sentinel.

Oh "cheese" that racket Mr! The patriotic members of the Nonpartisian league have just began to get it through their head that, that LaFollette "stunt" was one the slickest political "frame-ups" that was ever pulled off in the state of Minnesota, aided and brought about by shrewd politicians to discredit the honest purpose of the farmers and their meeting, and the principal part of the applauding of remarks was done by "cheap john" politicians brought there for that purpose.

The Nonpartisan league would not indorse Bob LaFollette for the office of public spitoon cleaner, so what is the use to class traitors of his stamp as voicing the sentiments of the League.

It is a well known fact, that LaFollette did not deliver the speech that had been indorsed by the League, but when he got possession of the platform launched into a traitorous speech that was a disgrace to the state of Minnesota. Whose duty was it to stop him? Was it the duty of the common farmers and laboring men, or was it the duty of the police and members of the safety Commission, who were there for that purpose? Townley is a very good politician, but them shrewd politicians of the twin Cities, assisted by the tool of kaiser Wilhelm certainly "put one over" on him that time. LaFollette's traitorous speech was not indorsed by the League at that, or any other time, and there is no use for old line politicians to try to injure an organaziation of farmers by continually stirring up such rot.

Notwithstanding that the temperance people filled the state of Iowa with orators of National reputation, Bryan among them, the State voted to kill the bone dry amendment by over two thousand majority, at their election on October 15.

Minnesota will surely hand the "bone drys" a bigger package than that next fall as that bone dry amendment is a little bit too strong a dose for a rabid County optionist to swallow without gagging. There is no record that the wets made any campaign in Iowa, but when the temperance orators explained what bone dry meant the majority voted no bone dry for us.

THE FIRST CASUALTIES

The first casualty list of our fighting forces in the field has been published. It consists of one killed and five wounded. If we include in the list those naval gunners killed on board American merchantmen the number of killed mounts up to one officer and sixteen men.

The wonder is not that these few have been killed but that more have not been accounted for by Germany's undersea pirates. Since the [illegible] months and a half ago, our navy has been constantly in the field and most of the time has had a large destroyer force in European waters. Many submarines have been engaged and several, it is believed, have been accounted for. And yet in all this time our warship battle toll has been but one killed and five wounded! The record indicates either extraordinary luck or extraordinary skill on the part of our crews.

There can be no question of the sacrifice being worth while. For it is not the mere safety of shipping that our navy is charged to accomplish but the defeat of Germany. And the progress of our destroyer fleet toward that end cannot be better attested than in the falling off of Germany's weekly submarine record despite the fact that she is constantly launching new U-boats.—St Paul Dispatch.

THEY APPLAUDED

Potatoes in the Twin Cities since Oct. 1st. have been retailing at $1.20 to $1.60 a bushel. The farmers have been getting seventy five cents a bushel. This leaves the $1.20 that the consumer pays divided as follows:

To the farmer	075
To the retailer	10
To the railroad	06
To the Commission man	29
Total	$1.20

It will be seen by the above that the Commission man, the "handler", who never touched the potatoes is making 29 cents on every bushel of potatoes shipped to Minneapolis.

Is it any wonder that that gang that have grown into millionaires by their profits between the producer and consumers would have a gang of "cheap john" politicians on hand to applaud a traitor like LaFollette so as to cast reflections on the honest laboring men of the cities who had met to organize with the farmers to put them out of business. Thats the gang that applauded LaFollette as they are the ones the League are after and they are going to get them.

Starvation Wiping Out Warsaw.

Warsaw under German rule is becoming a morgue. Starvation is on every side. This is the gist of a letter received the other day in New York, the accuracy of which is vouched for by the Zionist committee. The letter says:

"Death from starvation is a real fact, it is witnessed all over here, in every street, at every step, in every house. Jewish mothers—mothers of mercy—feel happy to see their nursing babies die, for at least the infants are through with suffering. Our wealthiest people cut off their daughters' hair, to be able to buy the indispensable things, like bread, for their dying children. Four and five-year-old children must be carried in the arms like babies. Should America not aid us we will be lost. Fathers, should they return from the battlefield, will meet, of their five or six children who kissed them good-by when they left, only one or two."

Mending Amber.

To mend amber requires a certain amount of care, though the process is a simple one. Apply some linseed oil to the broken edges and then hold the oiled parts over a gas jet, covering the rest of the amber meanwhile with a cloth. As soon as the oiled parts become sticky with the heat press the edges which are to be united together and hold them very carefully till cold.—Exchange.

Seaweed as Food.

Kelp is an enormous sea plant which abounds along the Pacific coast. A full grown plant will have a stem 300 feet in length, which bears at the top an air bulb. From this bulb grow fifty or more giant leaves, each one of which will attain a length of thirty or forty feet.

This plentiful vegetable is entirely ignored by us, but the Japanese prize it highly. They make what is known as "kombu" from kelp. Because it fades in the curing process much of it is dyed green, just as French peas are dyed to give them their pleasing color. This shredded, dyed "kombu" is used as a vegetable and is cooked with soups and meats. It is even made into a sort of confection by sugaring small strips of it.—Popular Science Monthly.

THE LOCAL NEWS

Ole Overvold made a trip to Oklee Monday.

Mrs. L. O. Kongelf of Kratka, is suffering from a severe attack of muscular rheumatism.

Harris Heggestuen was a business caller at Thief River Falls Tuesday.

Our early snow seems to stay with us, and yet we still have hopes for our Indian summer during this month.

Joe LaCounte and family moved to Virginia, Minn. this week. They sold their farm in Mayfield township to Ole Olson of Highlanding.

Read the auctioneer's add of Louis Kongelf published in another column, and when you want any work done in his line give him a call.

We extend our sincere thanks to the following subscribers for cash paid on subscription the past week, John Kilen, Ben K. Kveste, Stephen Jordahl, Salve Myrum and John Quirk.

Big Ball: There will be a big ball given at the Wajnerowski Hall, Town of Hickory, on Saturday evening November 10th. Music by the Szymenski band. All are invited to come and have a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Borgie of Hazel are the proud parents of a fine baby boy born on Tuesday evening. Mother and baby are doing well, and Paul is wearing a pleasanter smile than usual.

John Quirk of Kratka was transacting business here Tuesdoy, and improved the opportunity to jog his subscription ahead for THE SUNBEAM for another year. "Go thou and do likewise."

Again we wish to call the attention of patrons of mail boxes to the fact that they should procure postage stamps from the mail carrier or at the post offices. The rules of the Department do not require that the carrier should pick up loose pennies for postage in the mail boxes. When the weather gets colder, if you find your loose change and letters left in the mail boxes, don't blame the mail carrier, as he has instructions from the Department to not pick up loose change from mail boxes. It is not so bad to do this in warm weather, but a mail carrier can not take off his mitts and hunt a half hour after a penny in the snow, when it is thirty degrees below zero, so he will leave your change and letter for you to pick up yourself.

Construction work on the Highlanding bridge is proceeding fine now days, but those approaches to it does not seem to be started to be built. There would be nothing to hinder the constructors from grading the approach on the south side of the bridge now before the ground freezes any harder. But maybe the contractors are of the opinion that they can get five or ten years time to build it, the same as some of the ditch contractors had, but they will find out that Pennington County has changed in the management of its affairs, from what it used to be, when "de gang" run things, and yet we hear that some of them have got gall enough to mention the fact that they are going to run for re-election. Let them try it, if they want to get their records published, so they will know themselves as the the people see them.

Remember to put a one cent stamp extra stamp on all letters and postal cards, if you want them promptly delivered to their destination. Three cents on all letters and two cents on postal cards.

Miranda was an incurable optimist and the embodiment of kindliness. She would never admit that anything was wrong with any one, although sometimes facts pushed her hard. Her young mistress had many suitors, and the latest recruit to the ranks could boast as little in the way of good looks as was humanly possible.

"Grand looking chap, isn't he, Mirandy?" queried Miss Annette's mischievous brother when the guest had departed.

Miranda teetered perilously between truth and charity. "Cose he was," she answered presently, with dignity. "Han'some gintleman—han'some gintleman."

At that point honesty got the upper hand. "Gentm," she added conscientiously, "fur his feetures."—Youth's Companion.

LITTLE OLD LADY EXPLAINS

Simply Couldn't Help Telling Men They Were Unnecessarily Worried Over Tin Plate Shortage.

The war is mothering a race of giant problems, but there are always atoms:

She was a little old lady in the chin-ribbon class, except that the ribbons were black net to match her bonnet. And her collar was pinned with an ancient cameo set in twisted gold, thin and battered, as if Father Time had used it to cut his teeth on—the sort of cameo that you either consider priceless or junk, according to the way you look at things—and a silver-spangled black fan. She was winnowing the fan with gentle regularity when her interest was caught by a newspaper headline which a man read out to another man seated with him directly in front. The men were discussing the subject with obvious concern when the old lady, moved with compassion, leaned forward and touched the reader with her fan.

"Pardon me, gentlemen, but as a housekeeper for many years, I think I can relieve your anxiety. Tin plates have not been in use for ages. Even pie plates are made of graniteware now. When I was a bride I took a great pride in my row of shining tins, and my cook was equally careful, but the times have changed—I think I may say there is no demand whatever—"

Those two men—God love them!—after the puzzle in their eyes had given way to humorous understanding, thanked the little old lady most appreciatively. They even came across a sudden joke to lay their chuckles on.

And they made no further reference to "The Tinplate Shortage."

YOUTHS GET BITTER LESSON

American Boys in France Acknowledge Their Gallic Compeers Have Been Better Educated.

I ran up yesterday to a beautiful old French town where three of our American boys, rather envied by other young men who are ready to offer their swords to France, have been put in training as artillery officers. When they pass their examinations and get the galons as second lieutenants they will take command in French regiments at the front.

They had been chosen by competitive examination for entrance into the school.

"I'm having a hard time keeping up," said one of the boys. "It's not only French—and if you think you know this language, try some technical stuff and find how much you don't know—it's general knowledge. They run rings round me in mathematics and physics—and what they know they know certainly and accurately. English and American schools and colleges don't turn out such scholars as these."

It is being borne upon me that continental boys get a great deal more education out of their schools than ours of the English-speaking races. I am sure it is so with the French and Italians, and it must be so with the Germans. I wonder, sometimes, if the day of the picturesque college loafer is not over for England and the United States.—Will Irwin in the Saturday Evening Post.

SHE IS JUST LIKE A BEE.

The thought has just occurred to me
How much a girl is like a bee.
She sometimes hums and sometimes sings
And knows just how to wear her wings.
She flits about in sun and showers
And always shows a love for flowers.
She picks out buds and blossoms rare
And often goes up in the air.
To see her work would make drones dizzy
When in her garden she is busy.
She knows just how to use the money
Which she receives from her own "honey."
Such sweetness to her home she brings,
And yet, alas, she sometimes stings!

All Circus Rings the Same Size.

Railway tickets are the same size all over Great Britain and the continent—viz, 2¼ by 1¼ inches—and have been so for the last fifty years. This surely indicates a worldwide tendency to standardize.

Every builder's ladder is built to scale, and the fireman's ladder is on the scale of the seaman's run up the ratlines. But perhaps the greatest triumph of standardizing is that of the circus. There are big and little circuses in the world, but the ring is always of the same diameter, for the bareback rider has discovered the exact angle at which he can square the circle. No matter whether it be a ring cut in the turf or a luxuriously appointed theater, the circus ring never varies a foot. London Mail.

The Hotel in the Forest.

Busaco, the beauty spot of Portugal, is a vast forest, in the center of which is situated one of the finest hotels in the country. Travelers arriving at this noted hostelry invariably comment upon the position of a certain olive tree standing just outside the hotel in the center of the road, most awkwardly situated for traffic. The reason the obstruction is not cut down is due to the fact that Wellington tied his horse to this identical tree on the eve of the battle of Busaco, 1810, and the inconvenience is put up with out of respect for the great general. An ancient monastery formerly stood on the site of the hotel, and Wellington is said to have slept there on the eventful eve. New York Sun.

When Turkey Was Great.

Turkey at her height was in possession of every famous city of the ancient world except Rome. She held by the sword Athens, Corinth, Sparta Grecian Thebes, Constantinople, Antioch, Seleucia, Ctesiphon, Babylon, Nineveh, Bagdad, Jerusalem, Damascus, Mecca, Medina, Alexandria, Cairo, Memphis, Egyptian Thebes and Carthage. Some were in ruins, but the Turk was master where they had been.

Diving Animals.

One thing that none of the land living animals does is to dive. No matter how hard pressed a swimming deer, rabbit, squirrel or other purely terrestrial animal may be, it will remain above water. But the muskrat, beaver, ice bear and otter dive immediately.

Shun "Tips" if You Play Stocks.

"Whatever you do, don't go it alone," is the advice that Harold Howland gives to women investors in the Woman's Home Companion. "Shun the financial gossip of the uninformed, the cocksure counsel of the irresponsible, the glittering generalities or the more insidious particularities of the conceited ignoramus. Beware of rumors, 'tips' and 'inside information.' Base your transactions upon the firm ground of accurate information, sound judgment and disinterested advice. Don't try to 'get rich quick.'"

Making Tin.

The tin of trade is not pure, but has in it a little iron, lead or arsenic. Tin is a metal of chemistry. Its principal ore is called tin stone or tin oxide and is made up of tin and oxygen. To obtain the tin the ore is heated in furnaces with charcoal. The carbon of the charcoal unites with the oxygen of the ore, forming carbonic acid gas, which passes off into the air, leaving the tin, which melts and is drawn off and cooled in iron molds. This is called block tin. Tin ore is chiefly found in Cornwall, England; Banca, in Dutch East Indies; Malacca and Queensland and New South Wales, in Australia. Tin was used by the ancients. The Phoenicians obtained most of their tin from the British isles. When the Romans conquered Britain they worked the tin mines in Cornwall by means of slaves.

ANCIENT LEGEND MADE GOOD

Russian Women Fighting With the Desperation Said to Have Animated Amazon Warriors.

Legend tells of an ancient nation of female warriors, the Amazons, who were said to have lived in Pontus, near the shore of the Euxine sea, where they maintained an independent government under the rule of a queen. These hardy women, so runs the tale, carried war into many neighboring countries, including Scythia and Thrace, and to the coasts of Asia Minor, even penetrating to Arabia and Egypt. They were seldom made to swallow the bitter potion of defeat.

Now, according to the war cables from Petrograd, woman is again taking her place in battle. The "Death Battalion" in the Russian army on the eastern front, reports say, is full in the fight and is acquitting itself heroically. We read such lines as "Ensign Mlle. Vera Butchkareff has been sent to hospital suffering from shell shock," and "the Death Battalion rushed forward, firing their rifles with deadly effect."

It is a strange situation in Russia which finds women standing fast under fire, and thousands of men turning their backs to the foe and delivering over their own soil. If these traitors are capable of shame, the spectacle of women fighting their battles for them must sink deep into their souls.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Royal Names.

Nicholas Romanoff is the name by which the late czar is mentioned in the Russian papers. But it may be doubted whether this is a correct use of the word Romanoff, because monarchs, who sign by their Christian names only, are not supposed to have surnames. In the early days, when both surnames and customs were in the making, they did not need them, and, except in case of dethronement, and not always then, they have never needed them since. Contrary to popular belief, Plantagenet was not a surname. Tudor may have been one, and Stuart certainly was. But Guelph was not; and so good an authority as Mr. Fox-Davies holds that the present king of England has no surname at all [illegible] learned authorities have been perplexed to know whether the descendants of Queen Victoria did not inherit the surname of their father, the Prince Consort.

AMERICANS IN FIRST LINE TRENCHES OPEN ATTACK ON GERMANS

Pershing's Men Fire Opening Gun in Flanders--Artillery Fight in Progress.

OFFICIAL U. S. REPORT

First Statement Issued By American Headquarters Is Made Public.—Helmeted Infantry Given Wild Greeting.

With the American Army in France, Oct. 29.—(By the Associated Press.)—Following is the first official statement issued by the American headquarters:

"In continuation of their training, as a nucleus for instruction later, a contingent of some battalions of our first contingents in association with veteran French battalions, are in the first line trenches of a quiet sector, on the French front. They are supported by our batteries of our artillery in association with veteran French batteries.

"The sector remains normal. Our men have adapted themselves to actual trench conditions in the most satisfactory manner."

First Shot Fired at Germans.

American troops are in the first line trenches on the French front. The artillery fired the first shot of the war at 6 a. m. of a recent day, at a German working party. There has been intermittent artillery fighting since.

The helmeted infantry marched in, without the knowledge of the enemy on the same night, through rain and mud. The French soldiers in the trenches welcomed them enthusiastically.

Casualty List Coming.

The nearest enemy trench is several hundred yards away. The sector is one of the quietest of the front. It has not been taken over, being under the control of troops under the direction of the French.

The Americans have shelled German positions and troops, the enemy sending shell for shell. The first casualty list will be sent President Wilson.

The empty case of the first shell fired will be sent to President Wilson. It is now in the possession of General Sibert. The shot was fired by a red haired gunner as his comrades in the ranks and the assembled officers cheered. Later a luncheon in the field was attended by the American and French artillerists in celebration of the First American contact with the enemy.

Get Benefit of Actual Warfare.

The gun used in firing the first shot was one of the famous French 75s. On the second day the French shelled a German battery position which was located by sound and the enemy replied vigorously, projectiles falling close to the Americans who joined in the artillery duel. All the troops will be relieved after a certain period by others. Thus the American expeditionary forces are getting the benefit of actual war conditions.

Standing in a little, almost deserted shell wrecked village well within hostile gun range and a few kilometers from the trenches, the Associated Press correspondent watched the troops marching up in a driving rain over roads covered with sticky mud. The artillery had been firing all day and as a result the impression was given that there was considerable more activity on this front than there had been for some time.

Missouri Mules There.

It was soon after lulls in the firing and after dark that the first machine guns hauled by Missouri mules, the drivers swathed in slickers and with shrapnel helmets over their eyes came up on the road beside a dark canal. There was a long line of these and then came some infantry rolling kitchens, giving off a savory odor of warm food. All passed in silence. The last gun carriage had sprawled on it the form of a soldier who had been taken ill and who was being held on by two of his walking comrades. Through another street paved with cobbles and its sides lined with gaunt skeletons of shell wrecked houses came the sound of the tread of many hobnailed boots and in the darkness the forms of men could be seen marching.

March As If On Parade.

The cautious flash of an electric pocket lamp disclosed that they were American infantry, packs on their backs, rifles slung on their shoulders, rain glistening on their helmets and coats, the wind whipping the bottom of their coats around their legs, which were moving with machinelike precision.

The Americans swung down the street apparently as proud as though on dress parade, notwithstanding that they had marched miles from the billets where they had been since coming by motor truck and railway from the instruction centers. As the ranks passed every now and then a soldier could be heard whistling softly to himself, his nearby comrade listening silently to sentimental and popular pieces.

Go Into Battle Whistling.

Finally from the rear came the whistled strain of a tune which all knew and from many places in the ranks whistles and voices joined in. The tune was "Tipperary." It lasted briefly as an officer turning, ordered "Stop that noise!"

As the Germans were near by much depended on approaching the scene quietly. The troops turned a corner and disappeared down an ink black screened road. As a major standing there listened he looked continuously at an illuminated watch dial. He said:

"The men from the other direction should now be entering the trenches. I have been standing here waiting to hear if the Germans discovered the movement." He paused, listened and then continued:

"There is no firing yet, although I expect it, for no doubt we are in for a 'strafe' if the 'boche' knows we are going in."

No "strafe" developed although the Germans put over a few customary shells, hitting nothing.

The troops entered the trenches safely, unit by unit passing quickly to the places assigned them. Quietness was essential but the French welcome none the less was heard and it was enthusiastic. Every American was shaken by the hand, some were hugged and even kissed on both cheeks in the French custom. Some of the French troops were those who helped to train the Americans. The trenches were found to be muddy but nevertheless in a condition of excellent construction. Greetings being over, the Americans settled down and at daylight, under low hung dripping clouds, they got their first view of the German lines stretching away in the rolling terrain.

One American battery observed and scattered a marching enemy group with shell fire.

BRAZIL IS FINALLY IN WAR

Congress Declares State of War Exists With Germany.

Rio Janeiro, Oct. 29.—The Chamber of Deputies yesterday, by an almost unanimous vote, declared that a state of war exists between Germany and Brazil. The vote was 149 to 1. The senate unanimously approved the proclamation of a state of war and President Braz has sanctioned the proclamation.

The tribunes of the chamber were filled to capacity. After a debate on the opportuneness of proclaiming martial law, the president of the diplomatic commission spoke in favor of a law worded as follows:

"A state of war between Brazil and Germany is hereby acknowledged and proclaimed. The president of the republic is authorized to adopt the measures enunciated in his message of the 25th of October, and to take all steps tending to ensure national defense and public security."

NEEDS TWO YEARS' TRAINING

Writer Says U. S. Troops Can Be In Field Sooner.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 29.—Hamilton Fyfe, war correspondent for the Northcliffe newspapers, a member of Lord Northcliffe's party, speaking here, declared that from what he had seen at the front the American army would do well if it were ready to take the field after two years' training.

"I have been called a pessimist for expressing this opinion," he said, "but I believe it is much better to try to see things as they are than to indulge in false hopes. The German nation prepared for 50 years to win this war and they have not won it yet. How can anyone expect that an army can prepare in a year or 15 months and expect to win it?"

Labor Rebukes Socialist Convention.

Washington, Oct. 29.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor has issued a statement saying it has declined to participate in an international conference of workmen and socialists of all countries, suggested by the executive committee of the Russian workmen's and soldiers delegate council, declaring that such a conference at this time would be untimely, inappropriate and not conducive to good results.

BRITISH CAVALRY FOLLOWING UP THE GERMANS AS THEY RETREAT THROUGH RUINED VILLAGES

BRITISH OFFICIAL PHOTOGRAPH

Cavalry, which for the greater part of this war was little used, is now coming into its own. The British, who for the most part had dismounted their cavalry regiments and used the men as infantry to man the trenches, are once again using mounted men at the front. The retreat of the Germans before the advancing allied forces has given the cavalry its opportunity to prove its worth for pursuing troops in retreat. This British official photograph, taken on the western front in France, shows a body of British cavalry passing through a ruined village during the great British push against the Teuton lines.

SHOOT TRUE TO MARK

First American Shell Wipes Out Group of Boches.

Makes Exact Bull's Eye When Aimed By College Boy and Fired By Irish Lad.

Paris, Oct. 30.—With a vigor and purpose that bodes ill for the Hun and his kind, the Americans have entered in actual warfare with the Boches.

The first shell fired by the Americans made an exact bull's eye. It was aimed at a group of twelve or fifteen Boches, landed in the middle and when the smoke cleared and the dust settled there were no Boches.

The gun was aimed by college boys, cool and collected.

A lithe, undersized, but tremendously enthusiastic Irish lad did the firing.

The first man over the top was a young lieutenant, just a fine type of the cool, nervy American who can look death in the face and smile.

The Germans, forty yards away, uncourteously fired upon him, whereupon he whisked out an automatic pistol, killed one, wounded two and then bethought himself to slip back into the trenches.

A moment later he went back over the top and collected the three empty shells from his automatic. One he will keep, one goes to his parents and the other to a certain fair young person whom he left back in the states.

GONZALES FAVORS BREAK

Says Mexicans Should Come Out Strongly With Allies.

Mexico City, Oct. 29.—Great excitement has been created through the publication in El Universal of a statement by Gen. Pablo Gonzales, former commander of the Carranza forces in Mexico City and a well known Constitutionalist, favoring Mexico following the example of other Latin-American countries and severing diplomatic relations with Germany.

In his statement General Gonzales said in part:

"As a Mexican and citizen of a country which necessarily will feel the consequences of the European conflict, I consider it most essential that Mexico should direct a frank and decided course in favor of the Allies.

"Undoubtedly the attitude which the Mexican government will adopt in any case will be a simple declaration of principles, and in no case would this mean that Mexico would send a contingent to Europe."

ASKS RELIEF FOR ARMENIA

President Appeals For Funds To Go Through Red Cross.

Washington, Oct. 29.—President Wilson has appealed to the American people again to contribute to the relief of the stricken Armenian and Syrian peoples. The situation, among more than 2,000,000 destitute survivors of Turkish atrocities, he said, is "so distressing as to make a special appeal to the sympathies of all."

The president says:

"In view of the urgent need, I call again upon the people of the United States to make such further contributions as they feel disposed, in their sympathy and generosity, for the aid of these suffering peoples. Contributions may be made through the American Red Cross, Washington, D. C., or direct to the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief, Cleveland H. Dodge, treasurer, No. 1, Madison avenue, New York city."

LIBERTY LOAN PASSES MARK

Without Exact Figures Treasury Department Confident Maximum Is Reached.

RESPONSE WAS UNITED

Riches of Her Sons and Daughters Poured Into Columbia's Lap To Meet Demands of War.

Washington, Oct. 30.—Several days will probably elapse before the full extent of the nation's subscriptions to the second Liberty Loan is ascertained. The Treasury Department announces that the total amount is still "a matter of speculation."

Several days probably will elapse before the full extent of the nation's subscriptions is ascertained.

The department is without figures showing any change in the estimated totals, other than in the New York district. New York's maximum of $1,500,000,000, reported to have been exceed, it was said might be increased by late returns to as much as $1,750,000,000. Previous estimates had placed the total at approximately $1,650,000,000 or $100,000,000 less than last night's estimate.

Campaign A Success.

The success of the campaign now ended has proved conclusively that it needs only the telling of the wants of the United States to bring pouring into Columbia's lap all the riches of her sons and of her daughters. The manner in which the story of Columbia's need has been brought to every man, woman and child within her domains is perhaps the most astounding thing in the country's history.

Reserve bank officials and local committees are resting. It is virtually the first breathing spell they had taken since the campaign began. Few districts have fully reported to the treasury and the assumption was that they would take their time in transmitting the finals. They have until November 1 to make the complete report.

"It seems certain that every district has gone well past its minimum and that several will exceed their maximum sufficiently to carry the weaker districts to the high mark in the general total," the Treasury department announces.

Ninth District Shows Loyalty.

"'Every state in our district has exceeded its minimum allotment,' the Minneapolis district reported. 'Many townships have sold bonds to every family. Large manufacturing establishments have sold bonds to every employe. Some of the former rabid German sympathizers, including ministers, are now staunch supporters of the government and for the last week have been soliciting sales. Many communities which first refused to organize now are working of their own accord.'"

Scores Hunt Winona Man.

Winona, Minn., Oct. 29.—Over snow-covered fields and through woods, scores of persons searched for Edward Fakler, 47 years old, who has been missing for 10 days. Fakler was a merchant here. A quiet search has been carried on by the police since he disappeared October 18. Then members of the Elks lodge and other organizations formed searching parties. He is an extensive property holder.

Volunteers For France Still Wanted.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Recruiting of volunteers was by no means concluded with the passage of the draft law and the movement of the men to cantonments, it was pointed out here by recruiting officers of the regular army. A variety of volunteers is still wanted. The Thirtieth engineers, gas and flame fighters, are promised transportation to France within a month. The government wants for this service chemists, steamfitters, gas engineers, mechanics, blacksmiths, plumbers, fire fighters and acid workers [illegible]

COAL PRICE IS RAISED

Bituminous Advanced 45 Cents By President.

President Acts On Recommendation of Fuel Administrator Garfield.

Washington, Oct. 30.—To meet the demands of coal miners for wage increases, President Wilson, by executive order, has added 45 cents a ton to all the government proclaimed prices for bituminous coal. The new prices go into effect at once.

The president's action was based on a recommendation from Fuel Administrator H. A. Garfield, who urged the increases after a careful investigation of the coal mining and labor situation throughout the country.

The text of the president's order is as follows:

The scale of prices prescribed Aug. 21, 1917, by the president of the United States for bituminous coal at the mine, as adjusted and modified, by order of the United States fuel administrator, to meet exceptional conditions in certain localities, is hereby amended by adding the sum of 45 cents to each of the prices so prescribed or so adjusted and modified, subject, however, to the following expressed exceptions:

(1) This increase in prices shall not apply to any coal sold at the mine under existing contract containing a provision for an increase in the price of coal thereunder in case of an increase of wages paid to miners.

(2) This increase in prices shall not apply in any district in which the operators and miners fail to agree upon a penalty provision, satisfactory to the fuel administrator, for the automatic collection of fines in the spirit of the agreement entered into between the operators and miners at Washington, Oct. 6, 1917.

This order shall become effective at 7 a. m. on Oct. 29, 1917.

ASKS FOOD CONSERVATION

President Makes Appeal To Every Home In Country.

Washington, Oct. 29.—President Wilson wants the families of the land to enroll themselves in the great army of food conservation interests. A statement issued by him asks every one in the country to do their bit towards saving the nation's food supply.

The chief executive's message says:

"The chief part of the burden of finding food supplies for the people associated with us in war falls for the present upon the American people and the drain on supplies on such a scale necessarily affects the prices of our necessaries of life.

"Our country, however, is blessed with an abundance of food stuffs and if our people will economize their use of food, providently confining themselves to the qualities required for the maintenance of health and strength; if they will eliminate waste; and if they will make use of those commodities of which we have a surplus and thus free for export a larger proportion of those required by the world now dependent upon us, we shall not only be able to accomplish our obligations to them, but we shall obtain and establish reasonable prices at home.

"We cannot accomplish our objects in this great war without sacrifice and devotion, and in no direction can that sacrifice and devotion be shown more than by each home and public eating place in the country pledging its support to the food administration and complying with its requests."

Army Camp Guards Doubled.

Vancouver, Wash., Oct. 29.—Following the discovery that German spies were working in the army camp here, both inside and outside guards were ordered doubled and the activities of the alleged enemy agents have been decreased. Col. Jones, post commander, admitted that authorities were conducting an investigation of alleged attempts to poison the camp's source of water. Repeated attempts to pollute the water are said to have been made. Evidence indicates that the plotting is the work of German agents.

Y. W. C. A. To Protect Morals.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Young women and girls of this country and of France and Russia are to be safeguarded from the moral risks of the war. This is the task before the sectional conferences of the Young Women's Christian association. Delegates from the central and north central fields—Minnesota, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota, Nebraska and Iowa—were in session here Saturday, while similar meetings are being held in other cities [illegible]

Warns of Incendiary Plot.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Intimation that a widespread conspiracy exists to destroy livestock and grain in stock yards and elevators in the middle west was contained in a telegram received by Harry A. Wheeler, Illinois food administrator, from Hoover. Hoover urged Wheeler to warn packers and grain men against incendiary fires and other means of destruction and advised him to take up the plan of having all stockyards and elevators patrolled by home guards [illegible]

Accused Army Officer On Stand.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 29.—Dr. William J. Condon, a captain in the army medical reserve, took the stand in his own defense at his trial on a charge of murdering John V. Piper, a Rutgers College student. The defendant told how Piper responded to an advertisement he placed in a newspaper when in need of some one to care for his house last winter. Dr. Condon then began a description of his movements on the February night when it is alleged by the prosecution [illegible]

Suffered For Years

Back and Kidneys Were in Bad Shape, But Doan's Removed all the Trouble.

"My kidneys were so weak that the least cold I caught would affect them and start my back aching until I could hardly endure the misery," says Mrs. D. C. Ross, 973 Fulton St., Brooklyn, N. Y. "In the morning when I first got up, my back was so lame, I could hardly bend over and any move sent darts of pain through my kidneys. It was hard for me to walk up stairs or stoop, and to move while lying down sent darts of pain through me.

MRS. ROSS

"The kidney secretions were scanty and distressing and the water remained in my system, making my feet and hands swell. There were dark circles under my eyes and I became so dizzy I could hardly see. I had rheumatic pains in my knees and it was all I could do to get around. For years I was in that shape and I wore plasters and used all kinds of medicine to no avail until I tried Doan's Kidney Pills. They rid me of the trouble and strengthened my back and kidneys. When I have taken Doan's since, they have always benefited me."

Roofing

Before its merits were recognized, roll roofing was regarded as a more or less temporary roof—but now CERTAIN-TEED has demonstrated that it is not only a most durable roof, but also the most efficient roof.

It is economical to buy, inexpensive to lay and costs practically nothing to maintain. It is light weight, clean, sanitary, fire-retardent and weather-tight.

It is now used as the preferable type of roof for office buildings, factories, hotels, stores, warehouses, garages, farm buildings, etc., where durability is demanded. CERTAIN-TEED is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to thickness (1, 2 or 3 ply.)

Her Qualifications.

The housekeeper of the Hotel Severin, in quest for housemaids, receives many applicants and not a few requests for a trial at the job through the mail, says the Indianapolis News. One young woman wrote from a small town in an adjoining state that she would like to have a try at hotel housekeeping and offered this inducement:

"I a mtwenty-two years of age, have brown hair and eyes, and weigh 183 pounds. I have never been sick two days in my life. Folks say I am nice looking and have a kind disposition."

"It sounded good," said the hotel housekeeper, "but I wrote the young woman that we were keeping a hotel and not running a matrimonial agency."

Caloric Luncheon.

The Boston Transcript tells of a "caloric luncheon" served at the Women's City club of Boston recently, the well-balanced meal providing 750 calories. The menu was worked out by a food expert, Mrs. Harriet L. B. Darling. On the place cards the caloric value of each item of the menu was given, even to a lump of sugar. The luncheon served consisted of cream of celery soup, chicken en casserole, tomato salad, graham muffins, ice cream, cake and coffee.

News of the State

Condensed for Busy Folks

Official notice has been sent by the government to masters and pilots on the Mississippi river that the stretch of river between Burlington, Iowa, and St. Paul would be lighted for the last time the night of October 31.

At a special election citizens of Hawley decided that the electric light franchise should be transferred to the local mill, and the water and light commission is making arrangements to do so. The mill has promised to give all day service.

James M. Elder, 58 years old, interested in mineral and farm lands in the Cuyuna range, died at Owensboro, Ky., following an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Elder was identified with the Democratic party in Minnesota politics and is widely known throughout the state.

Emil Eisenmenger, a patient in the tuberculosis building at the St. Peter state hospital for the insane, looped his belt strap around his neck, fastened it to the head of the bed, and strangled himself to death. His act was attributed to despondency following the receipt of a letter from his brother.

J. J. Opsahl, of Bemidji, president of the Northern Minnesota Sheep Growers' association, has received applications from farmers in the following communities for sheep to feed and has orders for eleven carloads: Deer River, two carloads; Grand Rapids, one; Akeley, two; Kelliher, two; Pequot, one; Boy River, one; Grygla, two.

Miss Helen Sandstrom, 18 years of age, who has been working as a domestic in Red Wing for several months past, sent a bullet into her breast at the home of Mrs. William Pumplin, and is at the Red Wing hospital in a critical condition. Dr. A. E. Johnson said the girl had a slim chance for recovery. The young woman gave no reason for her act.

F. S. Schwalen, presiden and cashier of the Triumph State bank, who was arrested and held for trial on $1,000 bail, on a charge of obstructing the sale of Liberty Loan bonds, subscribed $3,000 worth of bonds for the Triumph State bank and $500 worth for himself at an impromptu mass meeting which was addressed by members of the local Liberty Loan committee.

As an indication of the effect the car shortage is having on the coal supply, Judge John F. McGee, state fuel administrator, Tuesday night said one dock company at Duluth and Superior has orders for 468 cars of coal, but haven't a car with which to move the fuel. "This will give the people an idea of what we are up against in Minnesota," Judge McGee said. "Out of the orders mentioned above, two-thirds are for hard coal."

Abraham L. Sugarman, state secretary of the Socialist party in Minnesota, was sentenced to serve three years in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan. It took a jury in Mankato just 40 minutes to find Sugarman guilty of having made seditious remarks tending to cause treason and disobedience to military orders. Judge Wilbur F. Booth immediately sentenced the young Socialist secretary to a term of three years. J. O. Bentall, Socialist candidate for governor, was recently sentenced to one year in the Crow Wing county jail for inducing a man not to register.

Red Wing raised $200,000 the first day of the Liberty Loan drive toward its quota of $300,000.

Every man connected with the Fergus Falls postoffice from postmaster to janitor has subscribed for the Liberty bonds. The total from the office is $2,000 from 28 employes.

A proposal to increase the minimum carload of potatoes is being discussed by railroad traffic men as a move toward relieving the car shortage situation. The plan is to increase the minimum from 36,000 pounds, or about 600 sacks, to 48,000 pounds, or 900 sacks.

Heavy losses to shippers and a big curtailment in receipts to the South St. Paul market were forecast as the result of a live stock embargo announced by the Great Northern on all shipments on its lines in Minnesota and North Dakota billed to South St. Paul or New Brighton.

As a result of the action of Mayor George D. Hamilton of Detroit, following the recommendation of the city council, in barring A. C. Townley, president of the Nonpartisan league, from speaking in that city, resolutions identical with those adopted at Fergus Falls, requesting the removal of Mayor Leonard Erickson of that place, were adopted and have been sent to Governor Burnquist by the Nonpartisan league, requesting the removal of Mayor Hamilton. Mayor Hamilton denied the use of the halls of the city to the Nonpartisans should President Townley speak, and as a result the meeting was held two miles from the city on a country road.

The largest crowd ever packed into a hall in Waseca assembled there and put that place on the map of loyal towns in Minnesota. Hundreds were turned away. The principal address was by Secretary of State Julius A. Schmahl, whose patriotic sentiments were wildly applauded. After discussing the causes of the war Secretary Schmahl told the people of their debt of allegiance and loyalty.

MANY IMMIGRANTS COMING TO STATE

MINNESOTA OUTDISTANCES ALL OTHER STATES FIVE TO ONE FIGURES SHOW.

ROAD BUILDING IS PLANNED

Double Program For 1918 For Combined State And Federal Construction Being Worked Out.

St. Paul.—Minnesota outdistanced its nearest competitor by 5 to 1 in the number of immigrants' movables handled during September through the Minnesota Transfer railway, Fred D. Sherman, state immigration commissioner, announces. Of 243 cars handled, Minnesota received 100, North Dakota 20, Montana 19 and Canadian points 15, the balance going to scattering states. During the corresponding month last year, 157 out of 363 cars of immigrant movables were consigned to Minnesota points. "Although the number of cars is small, Minnesota's percentage is good and the showing is very satisfactory," said Mr. Sherman.

Road Building Program.

A double road building program for Minnesota for 1918 is being worked out successfully by the state highway department. The regular road building program will be carried out, and to this will be added the federal aid projects.

C. M. Babcock, highway commissioner, is making federal aid apportionments only where a special levy is made by counties to meet their share.

The federal government will contribute $425,865.40 and the state must put up an equal amount for the various projects.

A special law was passed by the legislature permitting the counties to make extra levies in order to be able to secure a part of the federal aid fund. The counties can levy 5 mills on a valuation up to $10,000,000; 3 mills from $10,000,000 to $25,000,000 and 1 mill above $25,000,000.

Guarding Governor's Home.

Threats against the lives of Governor Burnquist's wife and children in anonymous letters received by Mrs. Burnquist, resulted in the detachment of six men from the Fourth Minnesota infantry being detailed to guard the Governor's home.

"Mrs. Burnquist has received several threatening letters," Gustav Lindquist, secretary to the Governor, said, "and that was the reason for the establishment of a night guard on the Governor's home.

"One letter in particular which caused apprehension was from a person who criticised the Governor for advocating patriotic submission to draft laws and warned Mrs. Burnquist that her life and those of her children might be taken that the Governor would know the sorrow of losing loved ones.

"Many similar letters, some signed with skull and crossbones, and from places as distant as New York and Maine, have been received by the Governor and little attention paid to them," Mr. Lindquist said. "But when they began reaching Mrs. Burnquist it was thought time to take precaution against cranks and fanatics."

No Fixing of Retail Prices.

There will be no fixing of retail prices in Minnesota by the food administration.

This is the announcement made by A. D. Wilson, food administrator. Professor Wilson says there may be conferences with wholesalers and retailers looking to reductions in prices. He asserts that the food control bill does not even give Mr. Hoover power to fix retail prices.

Potato Cost Dependent on Cars.

Potato prices are absolutely dependent upon the supply of cars and as soon as there are plenty of cars the prices will come down with a rush, according to H. J. Hughes, chairman of the potato committee of the Minnesota Public Safety commission. Even with plenty of cars, however, there is still 15 to 20 per cent of the potatoes which are a total loss because of storage facilities.

Appointed Capitol Postmaster.

Edgar Ellis, a Civil War veteran living at Minneapolis, has been appointed by Governor Burnquist postmaster at the Capitol to succeed C. E. To Fight Floods.

The Minnesota valley drainage and flood control district of Ortonville is the first Minnesota organization under the new state law authorizing property owners along the borders of the state to undertake drainage projects with similar organizations in adjoining states. Its articles were presented in the office of the secretary of state. The purpose is to drain thousands of acres in the Minnesota valley by building dykes on the lake and straightening and otherwise improving the Minnesota river.

"Feminalls" Are Worn.

One of the packing houses in the stock yards in Chicago has persuaded its women employees to wear what it calls "feminalls," another form of overalls. The women at first objected, but as so much machinery with belts and other contrivances that are likely to catch in the dresses of women are used, the managers persuaded five women to try it, and it was then easy for the rest to don the feminalls. In this particular place 7,000 women are employed, about three times as many as last year, and much of the work they do was formerly done by men.

ALL MEN AT HOME SHOULD PREPARE FOR WAR

The first test a man is put thru for either war or life insurance is an examination of his water. This is most essential because the kidneys play a most important part in causing premature old age and death. The more injurious the poisons passing thru the kidneys the sooner comes decay—so says Dr. Pierce of Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N.Y., who further advises all people who are past thirty to preserve the vitality of the kidneys and free the blood from poisonous elements, such as uric acid—drink plenty of water—sweat some daily and take Anuric, double strength, before meals. 60c a package.

This An-u-ric is a late discovery of Dr. Pierce and is put up in tablet form, and can be obtained at almost any drug store. For that backache, lumbago, rheumatism, "rusty" joints, swollen feet or hands, due to uric acid in the blood, Anuric quickly dissolves the uric acid as hot water does sugar. Take a little Anuric before meals and prolong life. Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce for trial package of Anuric.

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR
HARRIETT G. HUNT, BUS.

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 3, 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879

Crookston will hold their City election next Tuesday, November 6th. The Republicans have one ticket in the field and the Citizens, Democrats, one. They of course, will have a nice little scrap, and the next morning after the smoke of the battle has lifted they will discover that both of their candidates are still running, and that the Socialist have elected the next mayor of Crookston.

The promptness with which that second liberty loan was subscribed had ought to satisfy kaiser Wilhelm that the American people were backing up their government. And they will back it up with men and money to win the war. They drafted the men when they needed them and they will draft the money when they need that, with the same strong hand that they drafted the men.

It must have surprised the germans last week when they faced the American troops for the first time. The first man over the top was a U.S. Lieutenant, who shot three of them with his revolver, who must have thought he was an Englishmen or French, that was going to chase them with a a bayonet. All the American troops are well trained in the use of the revolver for close fighting, which gives them a big advantage, as a german soldier is not likely to do much bayonet charging after he gets one of them 44's into his stomach.

Passing of the Spare Room.

Of course there still are guest rooms. People in the country have them, and rich people have them in the city. There are guest rooms ordinary and guest rooms extraordinary—modest little corners in which to tuck away a transient friend or relative, and imposing suits fit for the entertainment of a royal family. There are guest rooms with secluded marble temples of Hygeia attached and guest rooms with movable washbowls. But I contend that the spare room as an institution is passing from our national life. As a nation of a hundred millions we don't have spare rooms.—Atlantic.

Ancient Proofreading.

The editions of books printed 200 or 300 years ago are almost entirely free from typographical errors, which may be attributed to the fact that early publishers were generally eminent scholars and themselves gave much attention to the revision of their proofs. After reading the proofs they frequently turned them over to other scholars with the request to revise and correct, and as the printer's time was then deemed a matter of small consequence a perfection was attained which is seldom equaled by modern printers.—Exchange.

Queer Story of a Grave.

A curious barren mound is to be seen in Montgomery churchyard. Whatever the cause, there is plainly to be seen a strip of sterility in the form of a cross among a mass of verdure. With the mound a melancholy legend is connected. It is called "Robert's Grave," and the story is that beneath this barren hillock lie the remains of an innocent man who was hanged on mistaken evidence. It is said that while the man stood on the gallows with the rope round his neck he solemnly declared, as a proof of his innocence, that grass should never grow on his grave. And even so it was and is. Any one who attempts to frustrate the fulfillment of this prophecy by sowing grass on this spot pays the penalty with his life. A Flying Collision.

The author of "Tales of the Flying Services" tells of a strange accident that occurred in France.

Not long ago, he says, I ran across an aviator I know looking very much annoyed and with one eye seriously obstructed by a large contused swelling on his cheek bone. Thinking that he had had a smash of some kind, probably a bad landing in which he had been pitched against the front of his machine, I asked what had happened.

He explained that about six hours earlier he was starting out on a fast biplane and was going full speed on the ground in order to get a good jump into the air when he met a large sized bumblebee going in a hurry in the opposite direction.

"You see," he explained, "I was doing about sixty knots due east and he was doing between thirty-five and forty knots due west, and he was a large bee, and the impact was something terrific. And," he added vindictively, "I hope he has spilled all his honey and that he's still unconscious!"

Skill With a Skillet.

A writer in the Woman's Home Companion says:

"Where we are living at present we have no gas range, only a two burner plate, and the coal range is so large that it requires a great deal of fuel to heat the oven sufficiently to bake even a few muffins or biscuit, so that I have tried to find a satisfactory substitute that could be cooked in a skillet. By using the skillet dry and sprinkling it lightly with flour I bake very enjoyable biscuit cake or scone. For these I use simply a biscuit batter made a trifle stiffer, patted or rolled to about a quarter inch thickness. One must be sure to have the fire or gas low enough not to burn the outside of the scone before the inside has time to cook sufficiently. If gas is used a more even distribution of the heat may be obtained by using a heated lid from the stove under the skillet, or a heavy piece of tin or sheet iron will serve the purpose."

Much Abused Coffee.

A prominent medical writer in an article, "How to Keep Well," says: "Coffee relieves fatigue by stimulating the brain, the spinal cord, the muscles, the heart and the kidneys. It doesn't merely benumb the tired feeling, it enables the body to eliminate the poisons that cause the tired feeling. Coffee is not a moral menace. It makes for sociability. "The food as well as drink as ordinarily taken with sugar and cream . . . all our private and hospital experience we have never encountered an instance in which dyspepsia, nervousness or any other ailment was reasonably attributable to the moderate and habitual use of coffee as a beverage. Slitting a Pen.

The center slit in a pen is cut by a machine which seems almost to think. It consists of two chisels which barely pass each other when the slit is made, and the exact way in which the pen is poised so as to place the chisels in the proper position for cutting is one of the marvels of penmaking.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINTS.

Camphor For Colds.

In its early stages an acute cold may be avoided by the use of camphor. If the chest seems "tight" rub it thoroughly with equal parts of sweet oil and camphor and wear a compress during the night of flannel saturated with the mixture, heated and covered with dry flannel. Three or four drops of camphor in a glass of hot water taken at night is excellent. If the throat is a little sore use a gargle of ten drops of camphor to a tablespoonful of water, being careful not to swallow this. Rubbing the nose with sweet oil and camphor and inhaling the fumes of the latter will help matters when the head has a sensation of fullness.

Leather Medals.

Leather medals were originally conferred as a genuine mark of honor. When King John of France, captured at Agincourt, was forced to pay to Edward III. of England a ransom of 3,000,000 gold crowns to effect his release he was left without precious metal for coins or decorations. So he found it necessary to pay the palace expenses with leather money. He also used leather medals when he wished to confer honor on some nobleman. The custom quickly arose of presenting leather medals as a burlesque distinction.—American Boy.

Mail carrier Hesby got stuck on the new grade of the state road in Mayfield Township Monday, with his auto, and had to get a farmers team to pull him out. He drove horses over the road Tuesday, which are more reliable, if they are not so fast.

Elling Klemmentson and James O'Brien are fixing up the road grade on the section line between sections 27 and 34 town of Kratka this week, so as to make a good mail road that will be in passable condition at all seasons of the year. The people down that way appreciate their good mail service, and do not propose to have it hindered by impassable roads.

A dirty sheet called, "The Nonpartisan Leader" bearing the ear marks of the twin City Commission and middle men "skinners" of both cities is being gotten out monthly to try to discredit the organization of the farmers and laboring men to put them out of business. They raise the usual cry of Socialists, I. W. W., and any other kind of dope that they think a farmer might be sucker enough to swallow. But such opposition helps the National Nonpatisan league more than it injures it, and the backers of it, will find that they are getting very poor returns for their cash put into it. However let them spend some of the cash that they made so easy by profits between the producer and consumer, if it does them any good, as it certainly does not do any harm to the league as it is increasing in numbers every day, and the more of that kind of opposition it has the faster it grows.

There is one half mile of road west from Grunde Austads farm, in Mayfield township, that will have to have the brush cut from the north side of it, or it will be an impossibility for the mail carrier to get through when the first big snow storm comes. Of course the people living west of there can save the labor of cutting the brush and keeping that line in passable condition by placing their mail boxes on the north west corner of section 11, during the winter. But remember that when the snow drifts into that road so deep that you can't get through yourself [illegible] the mail carrier [illegible] the congress through to deliver the mail to other patrons of the route.

Remember to put a one cent stamp extra stamp on all letters and postal cards, if you want them promptly delivered to their destination. Three cents on all letters and two cents on postal cards.

Decided To Quit Farming

Having decided to quit farming, is the way all auction bills start out nowadays, which means that another man has quit farming, and being a producer of wealth, to join the ranks of the middle man, who is raking in his wealth, by sitting at his desk and "skinning" the producer and consumers; And yet if there is any attempt made for the true producers of wealth to organize for self protection, against this class of sharks that are robbing them, the cry is immediately raised of, Anarchists, Unpatriotism, Pro-Germans, and any other old thing to discredit and prevent them from either organizing or going out of business. But they are going to organize as the Nonpartisan League has come to stay and some of them get rich quick middle men will be looking for a job of grubbing, to make an honest living.

When They Met Again.

Two friends met recently in Flanders. Dan Daly was one of the friends. He used to be an advertising man in Brooklyn and elsewhere. Just before the war began he was in Germany, look-seeing. One night there was a grand party in Frankfurt-am-Main. Nora Bayes was there and one or two other Americans and Arthur Blaut, who owns the largest tannery in Germany. He tans most of the leather for one of the great English firms. Next day Blaut and Daly went out in Blaut's car and saw the town. Then they said good-by.

"We were out gathering up the wounded," said Daly, "when I heard my name called. There was a German soldier with a smashed arm.

"'Won't you speak to me, Dan?' he asked.

"It was Arthur Blaut."

But He Was Not Dead.

Raising trouble at his own funeral was the charge against a man in Portuguese Africa. A drunken man fell asleep by the roadside. A patrol coming along thought he was dead, and, as burial in that part of the world follows straight on the heels of death, he was speedily taken to the cemetery, where there are always open graves. The lowering into the grave aroused the toper, who made such a commotion that he was released. He was immediately fined a large sum for being drunk and creating a disturbance at a funeral.

PRINCE MAKES CALL

By LOUISE OLIVER.

After two years or so of vainly trying to make Anne think seriously of their cause, the phalanx of suitors of her hand had reluctantly dwindled to two, and the reason of the plural was that Anne herself did not know which one she liked the best.

She liked them both as each appealed to a different side of her with equal force. There were two sides to Anne as there are to most American girls—the dreamy, aesthetic, poetical side which is every woman's by nature, the mystic, highly imaginative strain that inclines to the superstitious and explains their love of cats; and the wholesome, hearty, frank, sunny side, independent and reliant, contemptuous of the covert, fond of athletics, and—bulldogs.

It was impossible for her to make up her mind which of the two men she cared for most, they were so utterly unlike. Gerson de Palma, dark and Spanish looking, although he boasted of ancestors in every American war, was the last word in culture.

Jerry Tilford was the name of the other. He appealed to Anne's independent side—the side that liked athletics and bulldogs. Moreover Jerry had a bulldog—a snub-nosed brindle named Prince—which (Jerry referred to him as "who") looked villainous but wept real tears, sat on a chair at the table, and scared the life out of the park babies by kissing them dog-fashion whenever he got a chance.

Jerry was rather thickly set up—his tailor wept over the way his coats hiked up his back. His fingers were stubby and short and his eyes were gray and about as languorous as two electric headlights. He smoked black cigars, affected tan shoes, loved soft hats, and Prince—and Anne.

One day Anne had a headache, a bad one, the kind where you're afraid you won't die—the kind where not only your head aches but every other organ too is crying out against existence. Anne's mother answered two telephone calls with the news of Anne's indisposition, which immediately brought two notes by special messengers. Gerson wrote: "How I long to soothe your poor tormented brow." Jerry's envelope was bulkier, having an enclosure: "You've been eating too much candy, Annie girl, and it's all my fault. I'm sending you two grains of calomel—take it in eight doses and then tell your mother to give you a tablespoonful of castor oil. I know what sick headache is, you poor child."

Anne was angry—then took the medicine and got better. She answered Jerry's note instead of Gerson's.

But Gerson got in his inning when he gave her the cat. It was a beautiful creature with long silky fur, a tail like a fox's brush, and deep blue eyes. Jerry hated it and Prince hated it—and Prince had to stay at home now on girl nights.

But Jerry had to go away and leave his fences unguarded—oil wells near Tulsa claimed him for two weeks, and he went with trepidation. He stocked up his lady-love with more flowers and candy, extracted a promise that she would answer his letters and departed, leaving Prince to Sansuki, his Jap, to be aired, fared and cared for generally.

Sansuki was busy all day so he and Prince walked at night—and one night they went past Anne's.

Now Prince was not accustomed to passing that lawn without turning in, so in spite of the Jap's whistling he persisted in making a friendly call and trotted up the steps. Then stopping suddenly he drew back and growled in ferocious resentment, for there on his particular straw mat lay the hated cat.

He let out a wild, indignant bark and plunged madly at his enemy, which flew, a silver-gray streak, out into the darkness and up a poplar tree on the lawn.

"Prince—oh, Prince come here!" called Anne. "Bad doggie. Prince, here, Prince."

The bulldog still barked at his invisible enemy, but was now a paeon of victory. The undesirable one had fled, and that was all he wanted.

"Prince, come here."

This time he harkened. And remembering the mat, now his for the taking, he catapulted back to the porch, up the steps and vaulting right into Anne's lap, a full 60 pounds of caninity. Anne screamed with surprise, and Prince dropped to the floor. Then De Palma [illegible] Prince with stunning force straight between the eyes.

That decided for Anne in an instant what had worried her for a year.

And this is the letter Jerry got in Tulsa: [illegible]

HANDICAP OF FINGER SPEECH

Nighthawk Husband Turns Out Electric Light to Stop Wife's Curtain Lecture.

Domestic courts as a rule do not grant injunctions against the practices of offending husbands, but once in a while they are asked for. A man and his wife, both deaf mutes, were in court recently in New York. Their earnest digital gyrations and contortions convinced the presiding magistrate that an interpreter was needed, and one was summoned. Through him the man spoke first. His principal desire, it appeared, was that anything his wife might say should be largely discounted. He had known her for many years, he spelled, on his fingers, and during that period she had rarely been right on any subject.

The wife proved more interesting when it came her turn to testify. She wanted an injunction. Why? And there the interpreter had to do fast receiving to catch all her wagwagging. "She says that her husband comes home late every night," relayed the interpreter, "and nearly always he is half-stewed. She says that when he gets in she starts to tell him in sign language what she thinks of him, and his late hours, and that he won't even let her talk. That's what she wants an injunction for—against his cruelty in stopping her from bawling him out." "What does he do?" asked the magistrate. "Choke her?" "No, your honor; she says that whenever he gets tired of listening he reaches up and turns out the electric light."

TYPHOID GERMS ARE PETTED

Fed With Agar Jelly, Specially Prepared and Very Costly—Millions of Soldiers Inoculated.

Millions of the allied soldiers in France have been inoculated against typhoid fever since the war began.

In order to prepare the lymph which is used for the purpose of rendering them immune to this deadly disease, perfectly pure cultivations of the typhoid bacillus have to be made.

These are obtained by artificially breeding the microbes in government-controlled laboratories. The deadly germs are kept in little glass tubes, carefully sterilized, and are fed with agar jelly, an exceedingly expensive substance which comes from Japan, where it is prepared from a particular species of seaweed.

Nothing can exceed the care and attention that is lavished on these lothsome little organisms by the scientists in charge of them.

The typhoid microbe is not a very little fellow as microbes go. There are others far smaller. Nevertheless if a pin's head were a hollow capsule it would hold four hundred million typhoid bacilli, a colony of living organisms about equal in point of numbers to the combined population of the United States of America, Russia, France, Germany, Italy and the United Kingdom.

What a Railroad Did.

Let me cite one instance of what the building of a railroad has meant, writes B. C. Forbes in Leslie's. Montana had always been regarded as a grazing state until A. J. Earling, president of the St. Paul railroad, while traveling over the state by horseback, spent a night at a ranch and noticed a bumper field of wheat next morning. The owner confided that he had raised similar yields for over ten years without one bad crop, but had not gone in for wheat raising on a large scale because he was 60 miles from the nearest railroad. Mr. Earling's peregrinations convinced him that, although there had scarcely been a furrow plowed in the whole Judith Basin at that time, it could be developed into one of the greatest wheat-growing sections in the world. Last year, thanks to the St. Paul's railroad building, the Judith Basin, extending some 200 miles east and west and 160 miles north and south, produced the greatest part of the 22,000,000 bushels of wheat grown in Montana, as well as a large part of the 62,000,000 bushels of all grain marketed by Montana, placing it among the foremost grain-growing states.

Living Failure in Show Window.

A living example of "a failure" was exhibited in the show window of a vacant store in St. Louis by a correspondence school as an advertising scheme.

A disheveled man past the prime of life, wearing worn and dirty clothes, with dirty hands, uncombed hair, and scrawny mustache, and a leer on his face, sat at a table, such as might be in the back room of a saloon playing solitaire with a greasy deck of cards. On the table beside him was an empty whisky bottle. On the window was a large sign reading: "A failure. This man is a failure because he wasted his [illegible]"

UNEARTHLY WAS THIS MUSIC

German Publication Reprimanded by Press Agent for Mistranslation of Adjective "Heavenly."

The censorship of foreign language publications by the post office department won't be at all offensive to one of the musical comedies which recently opened in New York. And if the censorship can extend to the point of gathering altogether a certain German periodical, then the press agent will be even stronger for the government.

His animosity dates back to the hand-painted account of the opening of his play, which he wrote and sent out some twelve hours before the curtain was raised on the premiere. However, his description of the charms of the chorus, the plot, the scenery and the personnel of the audience didn't suffer on account of anything like that.

On the question of the beauty of the music he was especially grandiloquent, and when he called up the German editorial offices the next morning he felt that his grievance was just. But there they told him he had used a part of his own copy, without changing a single word, merely translating it into German.

"Oh, you did," raved the young press agent, [illegible] "I wrote that the music was heavenly—and you [illegible] made it say that the music was unearthly!"

In 1916 there were 2,757 Young Men's Christian associations in North America, with a total membership of 689,023. They owned 782 plants and buildings valued at $83,263,469, and aggregate property, including real and personal, at over $106,000,000. The local associations with 4,353 secretaries and other paid officers, showed an enrollment of 152,160 men and boys in Bible courses, and 82,358 others in educational courses. The total operating expenses for all the associations was $15,812,250. New buildings costing all together more than $6,000,000 were opened during the year, and by the end of the year $8,900,000 had been pledged toward the erection of more than 40 additional buildings.

Dogs Saved Boy From Bear.

Two small pet dogs saved the life of their thirteen-year-old master, Bruno Westerman of St. Paul, when Teddy, a pet black bear, attacked the boy.

As the bear seized the boy the dogs gave battle and Teddy dropped the child and sought refuge in a near-by tree.

Carl, the sixteen-year-old brother, finally killed the bear with ten shots from a shotgun and a fusillade from a 22-caliber revolver. The brother retreated to the house to protect the mother, and from an upper window opened fire on Teddy, who had taken to a tree after he wounded Bruno and the dogs gave him battle.

Of Small Account.

Over 2,000,000 iron crosses have been given out by the German authorities. We doubt if the German soldiers place any great value on these crosses. We recall a good-natured old German who spent the declining years of his life in Toledo. One day, with due modesty, he showed an iron cross he had won in the Franco-Prussian war. PORTIONS OF PRESIDENT WILSON'S WAR MESSAGE SUPPRESSED IN GERMANY

That Kaiser Did Not Dare Permi Full Text of Address to Reach His People Shown, It I Declared, by Distorted Reports Published.

That the German government did not dare permit the publication in that country of the full text of President Wilson's address to congress on April 2, 1917, in which the president called upon congress to declare the existence of a state of war with the imperial German government is shown by copies of the message as published in Germany which have been obtained by the committee on public information of the United States government.

The Wolff Telegraph bureau, which is not only under censorship control of the German government but has been used as a semi-official mouthpiece of the government, in its report of President Wilson's address, suppressed many passages in which the president outlined the conditions which forced this country to defend itself against the attacks of the German government. As a result the message was presented to the German people in an abridged and distorted form.

In the following copy of the president's address, issued by the committee on public information, the passages suppressed by the Wolff Telegraph bureau are shown in bold-faced type.

Gentlemen of the Congress:

I have called the congress into extraordinary session because there are serious, very serious, choices of policy to be made, and made immediately, which it is neither right nor constitutionally permissible that I should assume the responsibility of making.

On the 3d of February last I officially laid before you the extraordinary announcement of the Imperial German government that on and after the 1st day of February it was its purpose to put aside all restraints of law or of humanity and use its submarines to sink every vessel that sought to approach either the ports of Great Britain and Ireland or the western coasts of Europe or any of the ports controlled by the enemies of Germany within the Mediterranean. That had seemed to be the object of the German submarine warfare earlier in the war, but since April of last year the Imperial government had somewhat restrained the commanders of its undersea craft, in conformity with its promise, then given to us, that passenger boats should not be sunk, and that due warning would be given to all other vessels which its submarines might seek to destroy, when no resistance was offered or escape attempted, and care taken that their crews were given at least a fair chance to save their lives in their open boats. The precautions taken were meager and haphazard enough, as was proved in distressing instance after instance in the progress of the cruel and unmanly business, but a certain degree of restraint was observed.

The new policy has swept every restriction aside. Vessels of every kind, whatever their flag, their character their cargo, their destination, their errand, have been ruthlessly sent to the bottom without warning and without thought of help or mercy for those on board, the vessels of friendly neutrals along with those of belligerents. Even hospital ships and ships carrying relief to the sorely bereaved and stricken people of Belgium, though the latter were provided with safe conduct through the proscribed areas by the German government itself and were distinguished by unmistakable marks of identity, have been sunk with the same reckless lack of compassion or of principle.

I was for a little while unable to believe that such things would in fact be done by any government that had hitherto subscribed to the humane practices of civilized nations. International law had its origin in the attempt to set up some law which would be respected and observed upon the seas, where no nation had right of dominion and where lay the free highways of the world. By painful stage after stage has that law been built up with meager enough results, indeed, after all was accomplished that could be accomplished, but always with a clear view, at least, of what the heart and conscience of mankind demanded.

This minimum of right the German government has swept aside under the plea of retaliation and necessity and because it had no weapons which it could use at sea except these, which it is impossible to employ as it is employing them, without throwing to the wind all scruples of humanity or of respect for the understandings that were supposed to underlie the intercourse of the world.

I am not now thinking of the loss of property involved, immense and serious as that is, but only of the wanton and wholesale destruction of the lives of non-combatants, men, women, and children, engaged in pursuits which have always, even in the darkest periods of modern history, been deemed innocent and legitimate. Property can be paid for; the lives of peaceful and innocent people cannot be. The present German submarine warfare against commerce is a warfare against mankind.

It is a war against all nations. American ships have been sunk, American lives taken, in ways which it has stirred us very deeply to learn of, but the ships and people of other neutral and friendly nations have been sunk and overwhelmed in the waters in the same way. There has been no discrimination. The challenge is to all mankind. Each nation must decide for itself how it will meet it. The choice we make for ourselves must be made with a moderation of counsel and a temperateness of judgment befitting our character and our motives as a nation. We must put excited feelings away. Our motive will not be revenge or the victorious assertion of the physical might of the nation, but only the vindication of right, of human right, of which we are only a single champion.

When I addressed the congress on the 26th of February last I thought it would suffice to assert our neutral rights with arms, our right to use the seas against unlawful interference, our right to keep our people safe against unlawful violence. But armed neutrality, it now appears, is impracticable. Because submarines are in effect outlaws, when used as the German submarines have been used against merchant shipping, it is impossible to defend ships against their attacks, as the law of nations has assumed that merchantmen would defend themselves against privateers or cruisers, visible craft giving chase upon the open seas. It is common prudence in such circumstances, grim necessity indeed, to endeavor to destroy them before they have shown their own intention. They must be dealt with upon sight, if dealt with at all.

The German government denies the right of neutrals to use arms at all within the areas of the sea which it has proscribed even in the defense of rights which no modern publicist has ever before questioned their right to defend. The intimation is conveyed that the armed guards which we have placed on our merchant ships will be treated as beyond the pale of law and subject to be dealt with as pirates would be. Armed neutrality is ineffectual enough at best; in such circumstances and in the face of such pretensions it is worse than ineffectual; it is likely only to produce what it was meant to prevent; it is practically certain to draw us into war without either the rights or the effectiveness of the belligerents. There is one choice we cannot make, we are incapable of making: We will not choose the path of submission and suffer the most sacred rights of our nation and our people to be ignored or violated. The wrongs against which we now array ourselves are no common wrongs; they cut to the very roots of human life.

With a profound sense of the solemn and even tragical character of the step I am taking and of the grave responsibilities which it involves, but in unhesitating obedience to what I deem my constitutional duty, I advise that the congress declare the recent course of the Imperial German government to be in fact nothing less than war against the government and people of the United States; that it formally accept the status of belligerent which has thus been thrust upon it; and that it take immediate steps not only to put the country in a more thorough state of defense, but also to exert all its power and employ all its resources to bring the government of the German empire to terms and end the war.

What this will involve is clear. It will involve the utmost practicable co-operation in counsel and action with the governments now at war with Germany, and as incident to that, the extension to those governments of the most liberal financial credits, in order that our resources may so far as possible be added to theirs.

It will involve the organization and mobilization of all the material resources of the country to supply the materials of war and serve the incidental needs of the nation in the most abundant and yet the most economical and efficient way possible.

It will involve the immediate full equipment of the navy in all respects, but particularly in supplying it with the best means of dealing with the enemy's submarines.

It will involve the immediate addition to the armed forces of the United States, already provided for by law in case of war, of at least 500,000 men, who should, in my opinion, be chosen upon the principle of universal liability to service, and also the authorization of subsequent additional increments of equal force so soon as they may be needed and can be handled in training.

It will involve, also, of course, the granting of adequate credits to the government, sustained, I hope, so far as they can equitably be sustained by the present generation, by well-conceived taxation.

I say sustained so far as may be equitable by taxation, because it seems to me that it would be most unwise to base the credits, which will now be necessary, entirely on money borrowed. It is our duty, I most respectfully urge, to protect our people, so far as we may, against the very serious hardships and evils which would be likely to arise out of the inflation which would be produced by vast loans.

In carrying out the measures by which these things are to be accomplished we should keep constantly in mind the wisdom of interfering as little as possible in our own preparation and in the equipment of our own military forces with the duty—for it will be a very practical duty—of supplying the nations already at war with Germany with the materials which they can obtain only from us or by our assistance. They are in the field, and we should help them in every way to be effective there.

I shall take the liberty of suggesting, through the several executive departments of the government, for the consideration of your committees, measures for the accomplishment of the several objects I have mentioned. I hope that it will be your pleasure to deal with them as having been framed after very careful thought by the branch of the government upon whom the responsibility of conducting the war and safeguarding the nation will most directly fall.

While we do these things, these deeply momentous things, let us be very clear, and make very clear to all the world, what our motives and our objects are. My own thought has not been driven from its habitual and normal course by the unhappy events of the last two months, and I do not believe that the thought of the nation has been altered or clouded by them. I have exactly the same things in mind now that I had in mind when I addressed the senate on the 22d of January last; the same that I had in mind when I addressed congress on the 3d of February and on the 26th of February. Our object now, as then, is to vindicate the principles of peace and justice in the life of the world as against selfish and autocratic power, and to set up among the really free and self-governed peoples of the world such a concert of purpose and of action as will henceforth insure the observance of those principles.

Neutrality is no longer feasible or desirable where the peace of the world is involved and the freedom of its peoples, and the menace to that peace and freedom lies in the existence of autocratic governments, backed by organized force which is controlled wholly by their will, not by the will of their people. We have seen the last of neutrality in such circumstances. We are at the beginning of an age in which it will be insisted that the same standards of conduct and of responsibility for wrong done shall be observed among nations and their governments that are observed among the individual citizens of civilized states.

We have no quarrel with the German people. We have no feeling toward them but one of sympathy and friendship. It was not upon their impulse that their government acted in entering the war. It was not with their previous knowledge or approval. It was a war determined upon as wars used to be determined upon in the old, unhappy days, when peoples were nowhere consulted by their rulers and wars were provoked and waged in the interest of dynasties or of little groups of ambitious men who were accustomed to use their fellow men as pawns and tools.

Self-governed nations do not fill their neighbor states with spies or set the course of intrigue to bring about some critical posture of affairs which will give them an opportunity to strike and make conquest. Such designs can be successfully worked out only under cover and where no one has the right to ask questions. Cunningly contrived plans of deception or aggression, carried, it may be from generation to generation, can be worked out and kept from the light only within the privacy of courts or behind the carefully guarded confidences of a narrow and privileged class. They are happily impossible where public opinion commands and insists upon full information concerning all the nation's affairs.

A steadfast concert for peace can never be maintained except by a partnership of democratic nations. No autocratic government could be trusted to keep faith within it or observe its covenants. It must be a league of honor, a partnership of opinion. Intrigue would eat its vitals away; the plottings of inner circles who could plan what they would, and render account to no one, would be a corruption seated at its very heart. Only free peoples can hold their purpose and their honor steady to a common end, and prefer the interest of mankind to any narrow interest of their own.

Does not every American feel that assurance has been added to our hope for the future peace of the world by the wonderful and heartening things that have been happening within the last few weeks in Russia? Russia was known by those who knew her best to have been always in fact democratic at heart in all the vital habits of her thought, in all the intimate relationships of her people that spoke their natural instinct, their habitual attitude toward life. The autocracy that crowned the summit of her political structure, long as it had stood and terrible as was the reality of its power, was not in fact Russian in origin, character, or purpose, and now it has been shaken off and the great generous Russian people have been added, in all their native majesty and might, to the forces that are fighting for freedom in the world, for justice, and for peace. Here is a fit partner for a league of honor.

One of the things that have served to convince us that the Prussian autocracy was not and could never be our friend is that from the very outset of the present war it has filled our unsuspecting communities, and even our offices of government, with spies and set criminal intrigues everywhere afoot against our national unity of counsel, our peace within and without, our industries, and our commerce. Indeed it is now evident that its spies were here even before the war began and it is unhappily not a matter of conjecture, but a fact proven in our courts of justice, that the intrigues which have more than once come perilously near to disturbing the peace and dislocating the industries of the country, have been carried on at the instigation, with the support, and even under the personal direction of official agents of the Imperial government accredited to the government of the United States.

Even in checking these things and trying to extirpate them we have sought to put the most generous interpretation possible upon them, because we knew that their source lay not in any hostile feeling or purpose of the German people toward us (who were, no doubt, as ignorant of them as we ourselves were), but only in the selfish designs of a government that did what it pleased and told its people nothing. But they have played their part in serving to convince us at last that that government entertains no real friendship for us and means to act against our peace and security at its convenience. That it means to stir up enemies against us at our very doors the intercepted note to the German minister at Mexico City is eloquent evidence.

We are accepting this challenge of hostile purpose because we know that in such a government, following such methods, we can never have a friend, and that in the presence of its organized power, always lying in wait to accomplish we know not what purpose, there can be no assured security for the democratic governments of the world. We are now about to accept the gage of battle with the natural foe to liberty and shall, if necessary, spend the whole force of the nation to check and nullify its pretensions and its power. We are glad now that we see the facts with no veil of false pretense about them, to fight thus for the ultimate peace of the world and for the liberation of its peoples, the German peoples included; for the rights of nations, great and small, and the privilege of men everywhere to choose their way of life and of obedience. The world must be made safe for democracy. Its peace must be planted upon the tested foundations of political liberty. We have no selfish ends to serve. We desire no conquests, no dominion. We seek no indemnities for ourselves, no material compensation for the sacrifices we shall freely make. We are but one of the champions of the rights of mankind. We shall be satisfied when those rights have been made as secure as the faith and the freedom of nations can make them.

Just because we fight without rancor and without selfish object, seeking nothing for ourselves but what we shall wish to share with all free peoples, we shall, I feel confident, conduct our operations as belligerents without passion and ourselves observe with proud punctilio the principles of right and of fair play we profess to be fighting for.

I have said nothing of the governments allied with the Imperial government of Germany because they have not made war upon us or challenged us to defend our right and our honor. The Austro-Hungarian government has, indeed, avowed its unqualified indorsement and acceptance of the reckless and lawless submarine warfare, adopted now without disguise by the Imperial German government, and it has therefore not been possible for this government to receive Count Tarnowski, the ambassador recently accredited to this government by the Imperial and Royal government of Austria-Hungary; but that government has not actually engaged in warfare against citizens of the United States on the seas, and I take the liberty, for the present at least, of postponing a discussion of our relations with the authorities at Vienna. We enter this war only where we are clearly forced into it because there are no other means of defending our rights.

It will be all the easier for us to conduct ourselves as belligerents in a high spirit of right and fairness because we act without animus, not with enmity toward a people or with the desire to bring any injury or disadvantage upon them, but only in armed opposition to an irresponsible government which has thrown aside all considerations of humanity and of right and is running amuck.

We are, let me say again, the sincere friends of the German people, and shall desire nothing so much as the early re-establishment of intimate relations of mutual advantage between us, however hard it may be for them for the time being to believe that this is spoken from our hearts. We have borne with their present government through all these bitter months because of that friendship, exercising a patience and forbearance which would otherwise have been impossible.

We shall happily still have an opportunity to prove that friendship in our daily attitude and actions toward the millions of men and women of German birth and native sympathy who live among us and share our life, and we shall be proud to prove it toward all who are in fact loyal to their neighbors and to the government in the hour of test. They are most of them as true and loyal Americans as if they had never known any other fealty or allegiance. They will be prompt to stand with us in rebuking and restraining the few who may be of a different mind and purpose. If there should be disloyalty, it will be dealt with with a firm hand of stern repression; but if it lifts its head at all, it will lift it only here and there and without countenance except from a lawless and malignant few.

It is a distressing and oppressive duty, gentlemen of the congress, which I have performed in thus addressing you. There are, it may be, many months of fiery trial and sacrifice ahead of us. It is a fearful thing to lead this great, peaceful people into war, into the most terrible and disastrous of all wars, civilization itself seeming to be in the balance.

But the right is more precious than peace, and we shall fight for the things which we have always carried nearest our hearts—for democracy, for the right of those who submit to authority to have a voice in their own governments, for the rights and liberties of small nations, for a universal dominion of right by such a concert of free peoples as shall bring peace and safety to all nations and make the world itself at last free.

To such a task we can dedicate our lives and our fortunes, everything that we are and everything that we have, with the pride of those who know that the day has come when America is privileged to spend her blood and her might for the principles that gave her birth and happiness and the peace which she has treasured.

God helping her, she can do no other.

KNITTING BAG HELD SECRET

French Bulldog Leered From Folds of Satin Lining, Much to Surprise of Spectator.

She was a very pretty young woman, extremely well dressed. Her tailored suit was perfection, her boots and gloves immaculate, and her hat, correctly tilted, had the smart lines that women envy.

As though all this wasn't enough, she carried the most adorable knitting bag, says the Kansas City Star. It was made of some wonderful velvety brocaded stuff and the huge flowers of crocheted yarn somehow looked more stunning than those on other handsome bags.

With it all the face that peeped out from under the hat was so demure and serious that you knew the knitting she carried was not a sweater of orange or turquoise, but something made of sober gray yarn, for a boy "somewhere in France."

When the elevator stopped to let her in it gave the woman nearest her a chance to more closely examine the lovely bag, and she did not wait for opportunity to knock the second time. She suddenly cried out, for just as the girl stepped in the ridiculous face of a French bulldog leered from the soft folds of the satin lining.

FOE RAIDERS ARE SUNK IN NORTH SEA

GERMAN FLEET LOSES BATTLE-CRUISER AND 10 PATROL BOATS DESTROYED.

BRITISH SUFFER NO LOSSES

Capture Number Of Prisoners—Enemy Overwhelmed By Rapidity and Accuracy of Fire—German Loss Of Life Heavy.

London, Nov. 5.—One German cruiser and 10 armed patrol boats sunk, told the story of a British sea victory, announced by the admiralty from the North sea.

Germans Overwhelmed.

According to Copenhagen dispatches describing the action, the German auxiliary cruiser sunk was the Marie of Flensburg (or Flensborg). She was literally overwhelmed by the deadly accuracy and rapidity of the British fire and sank, aflame, 10 minutes after starting the engagement.

Survivor Talks.

Her commander, Captain Lauterbach, was one of the seven German survivors brought into Copenhagen wounded.

"My vessel's four guns were almost unworkable because of the hail of fire which the enemy destroyers centered on us," he declared. "We were soon a mass of flames."

At Jutland Battle Scene.

The admiralty statement located the sea battle as occurring in the Kattegat—an arm of the North sea, just adjacent to the Skagerrat, where was fought the famous battle of Jutland earlier in the war.

Copenhagen placed it still more definitely as occurring 12 miles north of Kullen or to the north of Gothenburg.

Enemy Life Loss Heavy.

The loss of life on the German vessels must have been very great. Copenhagen reported the seven survivors landed there had said 30 of their crew of 81 aboard the cruiser were killed outright.

The British admiralty mentioned 64 prisoners having been taken.

No British Losses.

The British squadron suffered no losses, it was officially stated. The British fleet was referred to as "our naval forces operating in the Kattegat."

The British vessels destroyed the German cruiser Marie Flenborg, a vessel of 3,000 tons, capturing 54 prisoners.

Cruiser Identified.

The admiralty statement, as issued, did not identify the German cruiser, merely stating that a cruiser carrying six inch guns had been destroyed. Dispatches from Copenhagen detailing the same naval action, however, identified her as the Marie of Flensburg or Flenborg.

Out Of Action in 10 Minutes.

According to the Copenhagen story, the German cruiser answered the fire of the British vessels and was soon struck by British shells and set afire.

Within 10 minutes she went out of action under British broadsides.

Of the crew of 81 aboard the ship, 30 were killed, according to Copenhagen.

Destroyers are supposed to have rescued the other survivors.

TWELVE SAILORS LOST WHEN SMALL BOAT SINKS

Picketboat From Battleship Michigan Founders In Home Waters.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Twelve men—all the crew of the picketboat of the battleship Michigan—were lost when their little craft foundered in home waters.

The brief announcement of the disaster by the navy department gave no details. Presumably the boat was on patrol duty and foundered in a heavy sea or met with some accident. Three bodies have been found and inasmuch as all the others are missing, the navy department assumes that all were lost.

The body of Coxswain Tamillo has been recovered. It was found by fishermen entangled in their nets and later identified and claimed by naval officials.

Reads Like Fiction.

One of the most unusual salvages yet recorded in these days of submarine warfare, says Popular Science Monthly, is that of the Norwegian steamship Kongsli, whose cargo of grain swelled to such an extent on the inrush of water through the ragged hole torn in her side by a torpedo, that the hole was clogged up and the water prevented from flowing in and sinking her.

A party of fishermen, clambering aboard to discover the trouble, were amazed to find that the ragged hole on one side and hull plates torn loose opn the other by the force of the explosion had been effectively plugged by the swollen grain. The fishermen were afraid to attempt to tow her because the rush of the water along her sides might have washed away the effective grain seal. Accordingly, they improvised bales made of cotton filled with grain and forced these into the holes. This made the stoppage secure enough to enable the vessel to be towed to a nearby port.

Housekeepers Can Save $200,000,000 on Food

In these days when the high cost of living pinches nearly every home, no waste should be overlooked. One of the most flagrant and the most easily prevented, is the destruction of food by rats. One rat will often do a hundred dollars' damage of food and property in a single night, and a careful estimate gives over $200,000,000 as the value of foodstuffs destroyed annually by these pests. Exterminate them with Stearns' Paste and save this enormous loss of food. A small box of Stearns' Paste costs only 35 cents and is usually enough to completely rid the house of rats and mice, also effective against cockroaches and waterbugs. Adv.

Brief Items of State News

Galen Campbell of Randall was arrested by Sheriff Felix, charged with breaking into the store of Nelson Bros., at Randall in March, 1916, and made a complete confession, according to county authorities.

Fred Harper of Lynchburg, Va., grand exalted ruler of the Elks, visited Stillwater one day recently. An informal reception was held at the Stillwater club, after which Mr. Harper, accompanied by a party of friends, visited the prison.

In district court at Roseau in the suit of Ethel L. Jones, late of Warroad, against the Missouri State Life Insurance company, to recover on two two policies of insurance aggregating $5,000, the jury returned a verdict against the company for $5,230.

A municipal wood yard at Bemidji to provide cheap fuel for poor people at a nominal cost is expected to result from action of the city council when, following a suggestion by Mayor Charles Vandersluis, the council appointed a committee to investigate the proposition.

Dr. Frank A. Weld, president of ehe Moorhead normal school, has been appointed treasurer for Clay county to have charge of funds collected in the campaign to raise a company fund for the 352nd regiment of the National army stationed at Camp Dodge, composed of the selected men from Minnesota and North Dakota counties, including Clay county.

One family in every two pledged to conserve food along the lines suggested by the food administration, is the goal which Herbert C. Hoover expects to see reached in the food pledge drive. A. D. Wilson, food administrator for Minnesota, believes that this state will come up to that ratio. More than 3,000,000 cards have been signed throughout the United States already, according to reports from Washington. Minnesota's quota is 235,000.

That the closed season on partridge is resulting in a big increase in this game bird is vouched for by Game Warden John G. Green, just in from the north. Last year few partridges could be seen anywhere in Northern Minnesota. "I have seen a large number of partridge coveys this fall," said Green. "Last fall most of us thought that the partridge had gone forever. Hunters will enjoy rare shooting in 1920 when the law will be off."

What is said to be an unusual case of catalepsy occurred at the home of Andrew Wickund near Fergus Falls when his seventeen-year-old daughter was taken suddenly ill. Almost without warning she fell into a cataleptic state and now lies absolutely rigid and with open eyes. Apparently she recognizes no one and it is necessary for physicians to feed her with a tube. She was taken to a hospital in Fergus Falls and physicians state that recovery is quite possible.

Gen. William Gates Le Duc, pioneer Minnesota, for many years among the best known men in public life in this state, and a national figure in the development of agriculture, died in his home in Hastings, the city which he had laid out in the fifties. Pneumonia from which he had suffered for a week, was the cause of death. He was 94 years old.

Fire completely destroyed two buildings at Baker and threatened the rest of the town, local citizens spending several hours fighting the flames in their successful struggle to keep the fire from spreading. The Odd Fellows' Hall and the Oscar Iverson grocery store were both burned to the ground, causing a loss of over $6,000, about half of which is covered by insurance.

Soldiers in the cantonments at Fort Snelling are experiencing much discomfort from the cold weather. As the cantonments were constructed on post foundations a foot from the ground and with but a single board siding, in the hope that the Northwest would have its usual Indian summer, there are plenty of places for the cold air to creep in. The stoves are too small to heat them.

Steps were taken at a meeting held at Hibbing, of coal dealers from Hibbing, Chisholm, Buhl, and Kinney to co-operate with Judge J. F. McGee of St. Paul, state fuel administrator, in remedying the iron range coal situation. Coal dealers will prepare an estimate of the coal required for immediate use. The coal situation is considered exceedingly bad. There has been no decrease in prices this year.

Game Warden Munch of Crookston, receiving his first shipments of white fish from the fisheries at Red Lake, near Bemidji, was completely swamped by consumers seeking to cut down the high cost of living by buying fish from the fish and game commission at prices less than half of those being charged by the butchers. Ten minutes after the fish were unpacked the game warden was completely sold out.

Lena Lard, aged 22 years, daughter of Edward Lard, a well known farmer near St. Cloud is in a hospital at the latter place at the point of death as the result of injuries sustained when she jumped from a haystack onto the prongs of a pitchfork at the home of her father near Richmond.

The three members of the Minnesota tax commission, Commissioners Arneson, Hale and Lord, will go to Little Falls soon to make an investigation of the assessment of the property of the Little Falls Water Power company with a view to adjusting it in a fair manner.

Supplying the Names.

"So you have twins at your house?" said Mrs. Nabor to little Jack.

"Yessum," he said soberly, "two of them."

RELIABLE REMEDY RESTORES KIDNEYS

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is a physician's prescription.

Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. Dr. Kilmer used it for years in his private practice. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merit and it will help you. No other remedy can successfully take its place.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

THE LAST EXAMINATION OF WAR'S DRAFT

Many a man has fallen down because a test of his water showed unmistakably that he had kidney disease.

The kidneys are the scavengers and they work day and night in separating the poisons from the blood. Their signals of distress are easily recognized and include such symptoms as backache, depressions, drowsiness, irritability, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic twinges, dropsy, gout.

"The very best way to restore the kidneys to their normal state of health and cure such symptoms," says Dr. Pierce of Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., "is to drink plenty of water and obtain from your favorite pharmacy a 60-cent bottle of An-u-ric, double strength, which is dispensed by almost every druggist." You will find Anuric more potent than lithia, dissolves uric acid as water does sugar.

Send Dr. Pierce 10c for trial pkg. and ask for advice if there is need.

Royal Baking Powder saves eggs in baking

In many recipes only half as many eggs are required, in some none at all, if an additional quantity of Royal Baking Powder is used, about a teaspoon, in place of each egg omitted.

Try the following recipes which also conserve white flour as urged by the government.

Corn Meal Griddle Cakes

1½ cups corn meal
1½ cups boiling water
¾ cup milk
1 tablespoon shortening
1 tablespoon molasses
¾ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

NO EGGS

Scald corn meal in bowl with boiling water; add milk, melted shortening and molasses; add flour, salt and baking powder which have been sifted together; mix well. Bake on hot greased griddle until brown.

(The Old Method called for 2 eggs)

Eggless, Milkless, Butterless Cake

1 cup brown sugar
1¼ cups water
1 cup seeded raisins
2 ounces citron, cut fine
⅓ cup shortening
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup flour
1 cup rye flour
5 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

Boil sugar, water, fruit, shortening, salt and spices together in saucepan 3 minutes. When cool, add flour and baking powder which have been sifted together. Mix well; bake in loaf pan in moderate oven about 45 minutes.

(The Old Method [Fruit Cake] called for 2 eggs)

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT. EDITOR
HARRIETT G. HUNT, PUB.

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 2- 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn under the Act of Congress of March 8, 1879

That Loyalty Meeting at St. Paul next week will certainly be a hummer. If you are in any doubt why America entered the war, be sure to attend this meeting.

Wisconsin have to elect a Senator to replace Senator Husting who was accidently shot and killed on a hunting trip. Wisconsin now have the opportunity to show whether they are for, or against America in the war. If they elect a man like Senator Husting, they are for America. If they elect one like LaFollette they are for the Kaiser. Which shall it be? A senator for America, or Germany.

The Northwestern Minnesota Educational Association convenes in annual session at Thief River Falls, November 15th and 16th. The school officers of Pennington and eastern Marshall counties meet on Friday, the 16. Thief River is prepared to entertain all who come.

We do not understand why there should be any suspicion of a loyalty meeting by the Nopartisan Leader. We as one member of the league would certainly like to attend that big loyalty meeting to be held at St. Paul November 15 and 16th. Any thing that the speakers can or will say could not change our opinion of the honest purpose of the league and our loyalty to it, or increase our loyalty and patriotism for America in their war with Germany.

Now comes the report that there is opposition to County Auditor Anderson, because the false reports have been circulated regarding the action of the exemption board. But Mr. Anderson has no reason to fear that kind of opposition in the city, as it does not go among the ditch tax paying farmers, and they can have all the fun and spend all the money they want to, with their opposition to T. P. Anderson, but when they count the votes next fall they will find the farmers of eastern Pennington county solid in line for the re-election of T. P. Anderson. They elected him before, and they can and will return him to the position which he has so ably filled.

Senator D. P. O'Neill, who has been appointed county chairman for the Loyalty meetings to be held in the state, has called a meeting of all those interested in this county for the evening of Nov. 10, at the Commercial club rooms. At that time ten delegates to the state meetings to be held Nov 16 and 17 will be selected.—Thief River Falls News-Press.

If the Nonpartisan League should go into the indorsement of men for County Office next year, they would stir up a lot of unnecessary strife in their own ranks. The better way would be to look after the Legislative and Congressional, and state ticket as an Organization, and if we find any candidate for County Office that is making his campaign by opposing the League, just pass the word around to quietly knife him in the election booth, and he will be defeated, alright.

At the present time it would be pretty hard to guess what power the Nonpartisan League will develop in the Election next year. If the farmers of this state give it the same solid support that was given it in North Dakota they will most likely elect all state officers. Here is one member that would favor the indorsement of Senator Nelson for another term.

INCREASED PENSIONS

Congressman Steenerson informs us that Congress on Oct. 6th, 1917 adopted an amendment to the pension law increasing the rate of pension for a widow of an officer or an enlisted man of the army, navy, or the marine corps of the United States who served in the Civil war, the war with Spain, or the Phillipine insurrection, to $25 per month. Applications are not required from those entitled, and the Commissioner of Pensions has announced that prompt action will be taken in the pension office to make payment of the increased amount.

Primitive Reptiles.

The tuatara, or tuatera, is an almost extinct lizard-like reptile (Sphenodon punctatum), now found only on certain rocky islets in the bay of Plenty, northern New Zealand. It is of great scientific interest for the reason that it is the only surviving representative of the order of prosauria, or primitive reptiles, and is therefore a sort of "living fossil." It was formerly hunted for food, but is now protected by law in New Zealand.

Our Strongest Muscles.

The strongest muscle in the human body is the gluteus maximus. Hardly a movement of the lower extremities can be made without bringing it into play; but its chief duty is to balance the pelvis on the head of the thigh bone. It assists in carrying the leg forward and outward in walking, and without its aid any movement of the body from the hips would be impossible.

As it is the strongest, so is it also the largest muscle we possess. In the full grown man it can exert a force of 110 pounds to the square inch of its section in the thickest part.

Another strong muscle, which is situated in the calf of the leg, is capable of sustaining seven times the weight of the body. The great tendon, which is inserted in the heel bone and which is called tendon achilles, is also of singular strength. When removed from the body it has sustained a weight of 2,000 pounds, yet sometimes by the sudden action of the muscles of the calf, to which it belongs, it has been snapped across.

THE LOCAL NEWS

Hurrah! Teams can now cross the Red Lake River on the new Highlanding Bridge.

Walter and his son Lenard McAndress and Abel Bost, went up the big timber for a weeks hunting trip on Monday.

The absence of snow during the Deer hunting season, is regretted by the hunters, but is very fortunate for the Deer.

Government Engineer have been along here taking soundings and levels of the Red Lake River this week, which looks as if we may yet get the river dredged out

Farmers passing this way look with surprise, at seeing us plowing land that has always been a lake, which we drained last fall, and expect to raise 20 bushels of wheat to the acre on next year.

County Auditor Anderson informs us that his son has been appointed as Principal at West point, where he will meet for examination on March 24th. The appointment was obtained by Congressman Steenerson.

We do not remember a time when a bushel of wheat would purchase as much that a farmer has to buy as it will at the present time, except alcohol. It used to take only three bushels of wheat to buy a gallon, while now, it takes six bushels but alcohol is not a necessity.

O! they all will return to Minnesota if we give them time enough. Reliable word now comes that August Paulson, the carpenter, and Anton Deerdahl, who sold out at auction here some time ago are both headed for this state again from Montana.—The Gully Advance.

A. L. Sugarman, of St. Paul, one of the States leading Socialists has been sentenced to three years imprisonment, just for shooting of his mouth too much. Whale Meat Is Used.

"Whale meat a la Creole," is the new offering on a San Francisco hotel menu. The portions are large and juicy, delightfully seasoned, and cost 75 cents each. The new food has come to stay, according to the hotel experts. It is a war-time food resource of the United States that has been overlooked. Many tried it and pronounced it good. The whale meat is supplied by a sea products company, which has bought property at Moss Landing and will establish a packing house there. The meat resembles beef in appearance, texture and flavor. There is no fishy taste about it.

TOWNLEY URGES PURCHASE OF LIBERTY BONDS.

"Friends, last year 54 corporations in the United States made $4,000,000,000 greater profits than they did before the war. This is blood money, money coined from want and misfortune. Yet, when our own boys were ordered to the front, these same corporations refused to bear their fair portion of the burden; they refused to give up their profits to aid your boy who is ready to give up his life.

"We are at war now. Someone must give the money to equip our men. If the profiteers won't do it we will. It is just as though your house was on fire and your children in danger of burning to death. The first thing to do is to put out the fire. So you all start pumping water on the flames—all but one brother. He thinks it is going to be a cold day tomorrow and he wants to make a skating rink so he can enjoy himself. So instead of helping fight the fire, he draws off water to flood the old slough so he can have a skating rink. That is what the profiteers are doing. But our house is on fire; we can't stop to attend to them now. We must put out the fire first. Then we will attend to their case.

"So, regardless of what these selfish profiteers do, we must buy Liberty bonds to sustain our boys at the front. This money is needed to force the war to a successful conclusion. It is up to us to buy these bonds and we will do it. They are a good investment and a patriotic service. They are needed to put out the fire."—Conclusion of speech by President A. C. Townley of the Nonpartisan league made at all organization meetings through Southern Minnesota.

WAS KITCHENER'S OWN CITY

Khartoum Rebuilt by British Leader After It Had Been Sacked by Dervishes on Their Retreat.

A sentimental interest will always attach to Khartoum, for it is Kitchener's city. He fought his way to it up the Nile, to find the old town blasted, sacked and destroyed by the dervishes, writes a correspondent. He is said to have drawn the plans for the new Khartoum on the sand with his own hand, and the engineers set to work the same day to build it up. The streets and squares are laid out in the design of a monster Union Jack.

All that was only in 1898, but the new Khartoum is already a place of beauty and importance. There are many groves of noble trees, a feature only to be appreciated by the desert dweller, for the dervishes were not schooled in the refinements of modern warfare. They sacked the town on their retreat, but they failed to girdle the trees. They were only ignorant savages and they did their best, but thanks to their unfamiliarity with modern methods, Khartoum has some beautiful groves today. There are rose gardens, too, that were planted by the unfortunate Gordon himself.

The Blue Nile runs past the city; river gunboats helped Kitchener to encompass its fall. The White Nile is only a few miles away. These two great arteries of trade stretch their way southward into the unknown and northward flows the united river toward Cairo and the Mediterranean. The trade of the town is augmented by all manner of parties from the savage interior, and about Khartoum are native villagers built after the fashion of all the tribes of the Sudan. The people are drawn from all the ends of Africa, negroes and Arabs, and from Europe and Asia come Syrians, Greeks and Copts. The upper classes are Egyptians in commercial circles; in the political and administrative world the English, of course, are dominant. It is a strange and cosmopolitan city that has grown from the plan that Kitchener sketched on the sand, with the dead of the last day's fighting still unburied on the plain.

Heroic Wireless Operator.

The heroic conduct of Vignola, the wireless operator in the Messageries liner Natal, sunk in the Mediterranean, was brought to light by survivors. When the collision occurred Vignola, who had been temporarily relieved by a petty officer, rushed to his post and telling his substitute to save himself, sent out a signal of distress. Then he reported to the captain, who replied, "All right, now save yourself!" Instead of doing so the operator returned to his telegraph cabin and with absolute calm sent out fresh signals which were picked up by the Marseilles station. When the ship sank a quarter of an hour later Vignola went down with it.

NONPARTISAN LEAGUE LOYAL

Action of Its Officials Refute Unfair Charges of Sedition Made by Hostile City Papers.

Always bitterly hostile to any movement which threatens the profits of Big Business upon which it depends for support, the "kept press" of St. Paul and Minneapolis seized on certain remarks made at the recent Nonpartisan league convention in St. Paul to make false accusations that the league is unpatriotic and its leaders are sowing sedition. Ever since the convention these papers have been making unfair charges, in some cases basing these charges on badly garbled reports, until their tone was modified by the threat of libel suits. Several such suits already have been commenced.

The speech of Senator La Follette gave these papers their opportunity. Senator La Follette's speech was very unfortunate. After being heckled, he departed from his manuscript and launched into what amounted to a defense of his record as a public official and an explanation of why he voted against declaring war. The State Public Safety commission, however, which was given a sworn stenographic transcript of his remarks, was unable to find any sedition in the speech. Many of the charges made by Twin City papers were based upon twisted and garbled reports of what Senator La Follette actually said.

But regardless of what La Follette said, his speech in no way represented the convention. The convention invited nearly 30 speakers to address it and then adopted resolutions. These resolutions were the only official voice of the convention. The resolutions were wholly patriotic in tone and pledged unqualified support of the government in the war. The resolutions did, however, denounce the profiteers, who hope to make billions out of the conflict, are trying to escape their fair burden of taxation, and resist all efforts to conscript money as well as men.

This probably explains the real opposition of the "kept press." It is significant that the Twin City organs of Big Business refused to print these resolutions as a matter of news. They had columns to devote to abuse of the league and misrepresentation of its purposes, but no space to print the only official action taken by the league. The resolutions finally were inserted in several papers at advertising rates and many of the readers of these organs at once realized that the previous attacks they had been reading were not founded on facts but misrepresentations.

These same papers have neglected to state that every Nonpartisan league meeting addressed by President Townley is concluded by an eloquent appeal for the purchase of Liberty bonds. They also neglect to state that the Nonpartisan Leader and Fargo Courier-News, both owned by the league, gave free space to advertise the sale of Liberty bonds. So have practically all the patriotic country press. The city papers, however, insist upon being paid for Liberty loan advertisements and the money devoted to this purpose runs into staggering totals.

Airplane Wrecks Train.

An airplane has often proved itself more than a match for its antagonist in an unequal encounter. A French aviator once penetrated far behind the German lines and chanced upon a heavily laden troop train. The speed of his craft being fully twice that of this unusual antagonist, it gave him an advantage he was quick to use. The airplane flew so low that its machine gun was brought to bear upon the cars, raking them with disastrous results. Still flying very low, the airman increased his speed and, on coming abreast of the locomotive, shot both engineer and fireman. Left to itself, the locomotive raced forward uncontrolled, and taking a sharp curve at high speed was wrecked with great loss of life.

UNEARTHLY WAS THIS MUSIC

German Publication Reprimanded by Press Agent for Mistranslation of Adjective "Heavenly."

The censorship of foreign language publications by the post office department won't be at all offensive to one of the musical comedies which recently opened in New York. And if the censorship can extend to the point of gathering altogether a certain German periodical, then the press agent will be even stronger for the government.

His animosity dates back to the hand-painted account of the opening of his play, which he wrote and sent out some twelve hours before the curtain was raised on the premiere. However, his description of the charms of the chorus, the plot, the scenery and the, personnel of the audience didn't suffer on account of anything like that.

On the question of the beauty of the music he was especially grandiloquent, and when he called up the German editorial offices the next morning he felt that his grievance was just. But there they told him he had used a part of his own copy, without changing a single word, merely translating it into German.

"Oh, you did!" raved the young press agent, and his voice instinctively told that he was tearing his hair. "I wrote that the music was heavenly—and your blamed translation made it say that the music was unearthly!"

Mr. Reuter

"After an injury I was in terrible shape from kidney trouble," says D. Reuter, North St., West Chicago, Ill. "I couldn't stoop because of the awful pains in my back and the steady, dull misery almost drove me frantic. I had to be helped out of bed mornings, the pains across my kidneys were so bad and nobody knows the agony I went through. I couldn't do anything and was almost helpless; it seemed I would never get well.

"The urine passed far too often and burned like scalding water. The passages were scanty and I had no control over them. At times everything in front of me grew dark and I couldn't see for several minutes. I perspired profusely and I was thirsty all the time. For two years I suffered, trying medicine after medicine without relief. I was just about discouraged and didn't think I would ever be able to work again.

"Hearing about Doan's Kidney Pills I used them and four boxes cured me. My kidneys became normal, my back got well and strong and all the other troubles disappeared."

"Aberdeen, eh? I came down from there before crossing. Wait half a jiff, and I'll see what I can do for you."

A little later there was a noise of throbbing engines, and a powerful motor car drew up before the veranda where the soldiers were sitting.

"Now, then," said the obliging driver. "Bend down to this wheel, while I unscrew the valve of this back tire. I pumped it up in Aberdeen before I left. Put your mouth right over it and take a good sup when I let her go."

REVOLT IN RUSSIA NEARING ITS END

REVOLUTIONISTS ARE DEFEATED IN MOSCOW AND TSARKOE-SELO—STILL FIGHTING IN PETROGRAD.

RETREAT IN DISORDERLY MOB

Kerensky With 200,000 Men On His Way To Reinforce Loyalists, May Soon Be In Power Again.

Petrograd, Nov. 12.—The Congress of Soldiers' and Workmen's delegates has issued a decree abolishing the rights of land owners and handing over all estates forthwith to agricultural committees.

The decree provides that all products of the subsoil, including coal, petroleum and minerals, are the property henceforth of the state. The land of small owners is not to be confiscated. Each citizen has the right to own as much land as he himself cultivates, without hiring labor.

Revolt Is Weakening.

London, Nov. 12.—Apparently the Bolsheviki in Petrograd is nearing its end and Premier Kerensky may soon again be in power. Late advices from Petrograd are to the effect that the revolutionists have been defeated in Moscow and at Tsarkoe-Selo, and from the latter town, which is 15 miles from Petrograd, are retreating a disorderly mob toward the capital. In Petrograd, street fighting has taken place, with the Cossacks and other loyalists having the better of the Bolsheviki.

Big Battle Expected.

Kerensky with 200,000 men is on his way from Gatchina to reinforce the loyalists. To stay his progress, however, the rails of the Petrograd-Gatchina railway have been torn up and large forces of the Bolsheviki are said to have gone out to give battle.

To add to the troubles of the Kerensky government, a state of war has been proclaimed in Finland and the governor general dismissed, his place having been taken by a sailor. The Diet has voted to elect a state directorate which will have supreme power in the province.

Finland Declares War.

Helsingfors, Finland, Nov. 12.—A state of war has been declared in Finland. The provisional soldiers committee has appointed a sailor named Schiecks as commissary of Finland in place of Governor-General Nekrasoff.

The Diet is in session and Russian representation in it has been completely ignored. It was voted to elect a state directorate with supreme powers.

Prof. von Wendt, a delegate of the Diet, has telegraphed President Wilson that, owing to the poor harvest, the country faces starvation unless food can be obtained in the United States.

MUNITIONS PLANT IN NEW YORK CITY BURNS

Factory Working on Orders for Government Destroyed With $2,000,000 Loss.

New York, Nov. 122.—New York City's waterfront was the scene of another disastrous fire when the factory of the Washburn Wire company, which was working on large war orders for the government, was destroyed, with an estimated loss of $2,000,000.

The patrolman who discovered the conflagration declared he found three separate fires in the factory. An investigation revealed that a score of Germans and an equal number of Austrians, only one of whom possessed a zone permit, were included in the force of 1,000 employes of the factory.

The federal authorities have been notified of the failure of the company to obtain zone permits for its alien enemy employes. Five firemen were injured by falling walls and a water tower was demolished under an avalanche of bricks.

U. S. RECEIVES MESSAGE FROM ENVOY TO RUSSIA

First Word From Francis Contains No New Information—Relations Suspended For Time.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The first reports from American Ambassador David R. Francis on the upheaval in Russia have arrived but added nothing to the news dispatches already received.

The ambassador's dispatches, filed on Nov. 7 and 8, said that up to that time all the ministers of the provisional government except Kerensky had been arrested.

Minneapolis Aviator Meets Death.

Minneapolis, Nov. 12.—Walter A. Jones is the fourth Minneapolis man to give his life in war service. He was instantly killed at Hicks Field, Fort Worth, Texas, when an airplane he was driving fell 800 feet. Either through loss of control of the machine, or through some mechanical trouble the plane did a spinning nose dive, killing Jones, but only slightly injuring a passenger he had with him. Mr. Jones was 21 years old and for the last two years had been a student at the University of Minnesota. [illegible]

Fred Gates, Winnebago, a lineman living at Blue Earth, was killed when he fell from a pole.

Mayor Neil Kelleher and the entire city administration were re-elected at East Grand Forks.

Robbers entered R. L. Singleton's store at Nemadji and stole a typewriter and also took a 50-pound can of lard from the Soo station.

G. A. Penney was elected mayor of Thief River Falls. He easily defeated F. H. Gambel, candidate for re-election, Gambel carrying but one ward in the city.

Fred Busch, former mayor of Hastings, 70 years old, died at Macon, Ga., on a train while en route to Florida, according to a telegram received by friends at Hastings.

If he can get the men, James E. McGrath, owner of the White Pine mills, at Moose Lake, plans to take out 10,000,000 feet of white pine during the winter, employing 350 men in eight camps. He also plans to work 100 men in the mill.

Running for mayor without opposition John Long was elected at Cloquet to succeed Mayor Harry Dixon. A. J. Hunter was elected treasurer. Alderman elected were: First ward, Tom O'Meara; Second ward, Ed. Solen; Third ward, George Solomon.

The Brainerd city council believes it is in a fair way to rejuvenate Brainerd city finances by an amendment to the city charter to provide a decrease in the city valuation and an increase in the levy, thus giving Breanerd more revenue and the state a smaller proportion.

While taking gasoline from a barrel standing outside his home between Carlton and Cloquet, F. Gruning was badly burned when the liquid spurted onto a lighted lantern he was carrying and an explosion resulted. A Cloquet doctor had to graft several inches of skin onto the burned places.

Eight girls were injured and 112 others narrowly escaped when the east wing of the Gilbert Technical high school was wrecked by a gas tank explosion. The explosion sent a huge skylight crashing through the gymnasium, many pieces of flying glass being thrown in the swimming pool where the injured were. Debris has thus far prevented an investigation as to the cause of the blast.

S. H. Selvog, the agent of the state fisheries on Red lake, and Mr. Shooster of Kelliher had a narrow escape from drowning while on an automobile trip from Kelliher. They took the ice on the lake from Shotly to Henlin, a distance of twenty-five miles, but when within half a mile of Shotly the car went under in about six feet of water. The occupants were saved by the homesteaders living along the lake shore.

Michael Godfrey, superintendent of the Oliver Mining company at Hibbing, announces that a 40-acre tract of land, in the heart of Hibbing, will be mined. According to the plan, a dozen square blocks in the center of the city, in which are located the leading hotels, the city hall and practically all the business houses will be razed. It is planned to move the business center of the city to Alice, a suburb south of Hibbing.

The city election at Crookston was full of surprises. First reports had it that in a four-cornered fight for mayor Former Postmaster Elias Steenerson, brother of Congressman Steenerson, was elected by fourteen votes over A. J. Neal, Great Northern conductor, running on "stickers," but a recount revealed that J. E. Morrissey was elected by one vote over Steenerson, the detail vote being: Morrissey, 295; Steenerson, 294; Neal, 282; M. R. Hussey, 238.

Moss such as grows in the woods and swamps of Northern Minnesota has come into use for surgical dressing in war hospitals. Moss has been found to be four times as absorbent as cotton. It will hold sixteen or twenty-two times its weight in water. A large quantity of moss has been gathered and placed in the rooms of the Red Cross in Duluth. The supply is inexhaustible.

Directors of the Minnesota State Creamery and Cheese Factory Operators' and Managers' association, formerly the Butter and Cheese Makers' association, were elected at a meeting at the Ryan hotel in St. Paul. According to the new constitution, five directors were elected, to organize themselves, instead of the customary president and other officials. Emil G. Oman, Delano, was elected director for a three-year term. H. Sandholt, St. Paul; Alex Johnson, Lafayette; M. Sorensen, Pelican Rapids, were elected for two-year terms, and J. Parenteau, Mantorville, was elected for a one-year term.

The plans for the reconstruction of the Great Northern viaduct over Sixth street at Crookston, to replace the present structure, have been agreed upon between the Great Northern engineer and the city engineer and are now being completed by the Great Northern Railway company to be presented to the city council at the December meeting.

To Aid in War Work

W. W. Hodson, director of child welfare under the State Board of Control, now in the East on state business, will remain there temporarily to aid in Federal work in connection with training camp activities. Chairman Ralph W. Wheelock of the board of control has announced that leave has been granted Mr. Hodson at the request of the National War Camp committee. It is probable the director will combine his state work with that of the federal commission while in the East.

Fire Warning Issued.

Warning against the fire danger from defective flues has been issued by George H. Nettleton, assistant state fire marshal. A defective flue, he said, caused the recent fire that almost wiped out the town of Freeport, near St. Cloud, and the same cause is blamed for numerous fires reported now that heating plants are being put into operation for the winter. Careful inspections were advised to avoid the fire danger.

Draft Interference To Be Tested.

A case to test the constitutionality of the 1917 Minnesota law, prohibiting and penalizing interference with conscription, has been set for hearing in the state supreme court December 7. The legal questions involved were raised in a demurrer to the joint indictment accusing C. H. Holm and Frank Holm with interfering with the draft by circulating anti-conscription literature. The Ramsey county district court overruled the demurrer and certified the case under a special law for review by the supreme court.

Last in place but first in choice
This building will be roofed with Certain-teed Roofing

The roof is the last to go on your building; but the selection of an efficient and economical roof is of first importance. If you will use on your building you will get the most efficient roof, and will cut down the cost of the roof materially.

Certain-teed Roofing

CERTAIN-TEED Roofing is economical to buy, inexpensive to lay, and it costs practically nothing to maintain. It is weathertight, fire retardant, clean, sanitary and gives the utmost roofing service over a period of years. CERTAIN-TEED is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to thickness (1, 2 or 3 ply.)

There are many roll roofings, but only one CERTAIN-TEED. As it costs no more to lay a CERTAIN-TEED Roof than it does to lay a poor roof, it will pay to get the best, and save on renewals and upkeep. You can't tell the quality of roll roofing by its appearance, or by feeling of it; your only safety is in the label. Be sure it is CERTAIN-TEED.

Certain-teed Paints and Varnishes are made of the best quality materials and mixed by modern machinery to insure uniformity. Made for all uses and in all colors and sizes. Any dealer can get them for you. With paint and varnish, as with roofing, the name CERTAIN-TEED is a guarantee of quality and satisfaction.

U. S. IN WAR MEET

COMMISSION NOW IN EUROPE FOR COUNCIL HEADED BY COL. E. M. HOUSE.

NOT TO BE PEACE CONCLAVE

Secretary of State Lansing Emphasizes Fact That Session Is to Be Essentially a War Conference.

Washington.—An American war board, headed by Col. E. M. House, chief unofficial counselor of President Wilson, and including in its personnel those at the head of various war activities of the United States, is now in Europe ready for participation in the conference of all the allies.

News of the safe arrival of the American commission abroad was followed by the issuance of a statement by Secretary of State Lansing, making public the make-up of the commission and the policies which will be followed by the representatives of the United States government when they participate for the first time in a general war council of the allies.

Personnel of Commission.

The American war commission consists of the following members:

Col. E. M. House, chairman, who will act as the spokesman of President Wilson on questions pertaining to the general policies of the conduct of the war.

Admiral W. S. Benson, chief of naval operations, U. S. N., who will participate in the formation of plans for the employment of the combined naval forces of the allies.

Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, chief of staff, U. S. A., who will give detailed information on the extent of military support the United States will be able to give next year.

Oscar T. Crosby, assistant secretary of the treasury, who will speak for the United States on questions of inter-allied war financing.

Vance C. McCormick, chairman of the war trade board, who will assist in planning a uniform policy in administering embargoes on exports and provisions against trading with the enemy.

Bainbridge Colby, member of the shipping board, who will report the amount of tonnage building and the amount that can be turned out next year.

Dr. Alonzo E. Taylor, who, as a representative of Food Administrator Hoover, will co-operate with the commissioners of the allies in working out a uniform policy of food conservation and apportionment of American supplies to the European co-belligerents.

Thomas Nelson Perkins of the priority board, who will negotiate an agreement on a plan of giving preference to the shipment of vital necessities to the allies of the United States.

Gordon Auchincloss, son-in-law of Colonel House and assistant to Counselor Polk of the state department, who will serve as chief secretary of the commission.

Realize Lack of Unity.

Secretary Lansing's statement regarding the mission indicates conclusively that the nations fighting Germany realize that a lack of team work accounts for the reverses they have sustained and for the failure to cope effectively at all times with the well-organized German military machine.

Until the combined resources of the allies can be employed against Germany by a single directing agency, it is contended, there will continue to be waste of human lives and material, reverses at weak points and other misfortunes, all serving to postpone a decisive victory over the enemy.

Mr. Lansing stresses the fact that the conference is to be a war and not a peace conclave. He does not wish anyone to get the impression that the United States is thinking of peace while preparing to exert its utmost to defeat Germany on the field of battle.

The secretary's anxiety on this score is due to the speculation aroused by the announcement before American troops reached the firing line that Colonel House had been selected to prepare for the peace conference. Immediately reports gained circulation that President Wilson was expecting peace this winter and that he did not intend to send the American troops into action until all hope of a suspension of hostilities had disappeared.

Is "War Conference."

Secretary Lansing's statement follows:

"The conference is essentially a war conference with the object of perfecting a more complete co-ordination of the activities of the various nations engaged in the conflict and a more comprehensive understanding of their respective needs in order that the joint efforts of the co-belligerents may attain the highest war efficiency.

"While a definite program has not been adopted, it may be assumed that the subjects to be discussed will embrace not only those pertaining to military and naval operations, but also the financial, commercial, economic and other phases of the present situation which are of vital importance to the successful prosecution of the war.

"There will undoubtedly be an effort to avoid any conflict of interests among the participants; and there is every reason to anticipate that the result will be a fuller co-operation and consequently a much higher efficiency and a more vigorous prosecution of the war.

"The United States, in the employment of its man power and material resources, desires to use them to the greatest advantage against Germany.

Problem No Easy One.

"It has been no easy problem to determine how they can be used most effectively, since the independent presentations of requirements by the allied governments have been more or less conflicting on account of each government's appreciation of its own wants, which are naturally given greater importance than the wants of other governments.

"By a general survey of the whole situation and a free discussion of the needs of all, the approaching conference will undoubtedly be able to give to the demands of the several governments their true perspective and proper place in the general plan for the conduct of the war.

"Though the resources of this country are vast, and though there is every purpose to devote them all, if need be, to winning the war, they are not without limit. But even if they were greater they should be used to the highest advantage in attaining the supreme object for which we are fighting. This can only be done by a full and frank discussion of the plans and needs of the various belligerents.

"It is the earnest wish of this government to employ its military and naval forces and its resources and energies where they will give the greatest returns in advancing the common cause.

To Stop Waste Energy.

"The exchange of views which will take place at the conference, and the conclusions which will be reached, will be of the highest value in preventing waste of energy and in bringing into harmony the activities of the nations, which have been unavoidably acting in a measure independently.

"In looking forward to the assembling of the conference, it cannot be too strongly emphasized that it is a war conference and nothing else, devoted to devising ways and means to intensify the efforts of the belligerents against Germany by complete co-operation under a general plan and thus bringing the conflict to a speedy and satisfactory conclusion."

Colonel House is the actual representative of the government of the United States; the others are merely his cabinet advisers. He had been preparing for this mission for weeks before there was an inkling that the president meant him to represent the United States at the conference, and it is understood that he personally chose delegates from the various departments.

There is no time set for the adjournment of the war conference. The very nature of the purposes that bring the representatives of all the allies together forbids a period being put to their labors.

May Remain Through War.

In some form the congress will remain during the entire war, for until Germany is beaten there will be the necessity of co-operation that can only be obtained by a permanent board.

If there had been such a board in existence, for it means the direction of the war by a central body in authority over all forces, Italy would not be struggling for her life, it is believed. Such a board would have vetoed the advance of General Cadorna so far into Austria that the Teutons could trap him, or if the strategy appeared sound, they would have arranged for supplies and support that would have protected him in the positions he won against the divisions Germany brought from the Russian and Roumanian fronts.

On the Wrong Side.

One of the shortest marriage ceremonies on record was that performed in Hartford City recently when a Fort Wayne soldier strolled into the office of a justice of the peace with his Montpelier bride and asked the justice of the peace to "tie them up," notes the Indianapolis News.

Standing the girl on the wrong side of the man, the justice told them to grab hold of hands, after which the ceremony proceeded as follows:

"Have this man?" the justice inquired of the woman.

"Yes," was her timid reply.

"Have this woman?"

"Yes," was the firm answer of the soldier.

"You're married," said the justice as he waited for his fee, forgetting to give the couple a certificate.

In a day or two the bride, accompanied by her mother, came back to the clerk's office for a certificate of marriage. They were directed to the justice's court.

The fact that the bride stood on the wrong side during the ceremony led spectators to wonder whether she would always be on the wrong side in the future.

One's Career.

Strictly speaking, every life is a career because it is a course that is run from start to finish, but as generally used the term implies an unusual life record, something exceptional and out of the ordinary, says a professor. Childhood is a period of life, but it is not a career. One's career is the life one lives and the record one makes, whether it becomes known to the public or not. The term public career is applied to life largely spent in the public service.

Freak Newspapers.

One of the most remarkable freak newspapers ever printed was the Luminara, published in Madrid. It was printed with ink containing phosphorus so that the paper could be read in the dark. Another curiosity was called the Regal, printed with non-poisonous ink on thin sheets of dough, which could be eaten, thus furnishing nourishment for body as well as mind. Le Bien Etre promised those who subscribed for forty years a pension and free burial.

THE "KITE" BALLOON

A MOST ESSENTIAL UNIT IN MODERN WARFARE.

USEFULNESS LITTLE KNOWN

Government Offers Splendid Opportunity to Young Men Who Aspire to Become Air Craft Pilots.

Omaha, Nebr.—A branch of Uncle Sam's big army that the public has not yet heard a great deal about but which is to play a most important part in the war is the "Kite" or Stationary Balloon section for which about 1,500 men are now being trained at Fort Omaha preparatory to their departure for the front.

The usefulness of the "kite" or stationary balloon is not generally known. One familiar with its employment says that at the balloon schools an applicant for officers' commission must first qualify as a pilot of spherical balloons. Then they are taught to become pilots and observers in the "kite" balloons.

This balloon is allowed to ascend to a height of about 3,000 feet with a wire attached to it by which it is drawn down when desired by motor power.

In war, these balloons are located from three to five miles from the first line of trenches, and from the basket, two men, a pilot and an observer give the range and results of firing by telephone to the artillery. For this reason the section is known as the "eyes of the artillery."

On the western front, they are placed from one-half to a mile apart according to conditions, and are provided with parachutes attached to the men in the basket; in event of accident to the balloon the men parachute safely to the earth.

Applications for the Officers' Reserve School for this important and interesting branch of the service are still being received. Applicants must be citizens of the United States, not under 19 years of age or over 35. They must have a good education and three letters of recommendation.

After passing the examination required the applicant is enlisted as a first class private in the Aviation Section of the Signal Enlisted Reserve Corps, and assigned to a school for training, the time of training depending upon the man's ability.

If he qualifies as an observation balloon pilot a lieutenant's commission is issued.

From the time of his entrance into the school until he is commissioned he receives $100 per month, quarters and food allowance. As 2nd lieutenant $1,700, lieutenant $2,000 annually.

Anyone wishing to apply for admission to this branch of the army should make their request for application blanks at once to the President Aviation Examining Board, Fort Omaha, Nebraska.

IGNORE FLAG OF TRUCE.

Teutons Fire on Life Boats in North Sea Engagement.

London—An appalling story of cold blooded massacres by Germans of crews of British North Sea convoys in a recent battle is told by the Norwegian newspapers.

The Tidenstegn said the German cruisers were observed at 6 o'clock in the morning and were thought to be British vessels, but at 7 o'clock, when there was more light, they suddenly began shooting and the convoy was terrified to see the British destroyer at the stern of the convoy begin to sink, although it fought to the end. The German cruisers, after signalling the vessels to stop, advanced on each side of the convoy, which they swept with all their guns at a range of less than 200 yards.

The German destroyers came up and helped to spread death and destruction on the defenseless ships, shells falling thick and fast. The Germans were not content to sink the ships, but shelled the life boats, and every living thing coming their way was mercilessly slaughtered. The survivors owed their lives to the high sea which was running, making the boats a difficult mark.

In the midst of the massacre, another British destroyer came up and immediately attacked, but soon was sunk in the unequal struggle. The German flotilla then cruised backward and forward along the sinking steamers, pouring a fresh and terrible rain of shells at a range of 100 yards. One shell went through the Swedish ship Wirndar, exploding in the life boat on the other side and killing all its occupants, 12 men and three women.

The other life boat rowed back to rescue the captain and two waitresses from the wreck. A shell struck the boat and killed five of its occupants, only the mate escaping by swimming. The Wirndar was a mass of flames and the two girls jumped into the sea. The captain was saved by clinging to wreckage. As the two young women were sinking an English ship hoisted the white flag. The answer from the Germans was a shot which killed both girls. Twelve men of another ship had just got into the life boat when a shell killed them all.

ACID POISONING!

The most eminent physicians recognize that uric acid stored up in the system is the cause of gout and rheumatism, that this uric acid poison is present in the joints, muscles, or nerves. By experimenting and analysis at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. Pierce discovered a combination of native remedies that he called An-u-ric, which drives out the uric acid from the system, and in this way the pain, swelling and inflammation subside. If you are a sufferer from rheumatism, backache, pains here or there, you can obtain Anuric, double strength, at any drug store and get relief from the pains and ills brought about by uric acid; or send Dr. Pierce 10c for trial pkg. Anuric which you will find many times more potent than lithia and eliminates uric acid as hot water melts sugar. A short trial will convince you. Send a sample of your water to Dr. Pierce and it will be tested free of charge.

Anuric is a regular insurance and life-saver for all big meat eaters and those who deposit lime-salts in their joints.

A Minnesota Woman's Advice

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I suffered for many years with woman's weakness and kidney trouble. I would have dreadful backaches and pains through my side and stomach. I became very weak and nervous, could not sleep nor eat. I would have fainting spells and would fall right over. My doctor told me nothing but an operation would help me. I began at once taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and this medicine restored me to good health, which I am still enjoying to this day." —MRS. L. LARSON, 247 21st Ave. N. —Adv.

Notice to Sick Women

The Experience of These Women Prove That There is a Remedy for Your Illness.

Aberdeen, Idaho.—"Last year I suffered from a weakness with pains in my side and back. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I did so. After taking one bottle I felt very much better. I have now taken three bottles and feel like a different woman. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine I have ever taken and I can recommend it to all suffering women."—Mrs. PERCY PRESTIDGE, Aberdeen, Idaho.

Kingfisher, Okla.—"For two years I suffered with a severe female trouble, was nervous, and had backache and a pain in my side most of the time. I had dizzy spells and was often so faint I could not walk across the floor. The doctor said I would have to have an operation. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking ten bottles I am now well and strong, have no pain, backache or dizzy spells. Every one tells me how well I look and I tell them Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did it."—Miss NINA SOUTHWICK, R. F. D. No. 4, Box 33, Kingfisher, Okla.

Passed Along.

Dr. J. W. Smith of the Smith Farm and Stock ranch was a caller Monday. He informed ye pastor that old "Soaksby," a "stew" character around Hot Springs for many years, was gone. "Yes, he's gone," said the doctor, "but not forgotten. For more'n a year I've given him a free drink every morning, and last week he died and left a will, bequeathing his morning drink to his brother."—Arkansas Thomas Cat.

Davy's Philosophy.

Old Davy Skinner, a fisherman on the Cape Cod coast, was noted for unfailing self-poise and economy of words. No one ever knew Old Davy to become in the least excited, nor did he ever waste a word.

One summer day he was rowing along in his boat, when a dory containing five or six young summer people was captized near him. Naturally there were screams and wild confusion, in the midst of which Davy rowed over to the scene of the disaster and said placidly to the young people who were clinging to the boat, screaming for help:

"Hadn't you better git in?"

SWAMP-ROOT FOR KIDNEY AILMENTS

There is only one medicine that really stands out pre-eminent as a medicine for curable ailments of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest for the reason that it has proven to be just the remedy needed in thousands upon thousands of distressing cases. Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription for special diseases, makes friends quickly because its mild and immediate effect is soon realized in most cases. It is a gentle, healing vegetable compound.

Start treatment at once. Sold at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

A Costly Joke.

When Mrs. Ellen Butler of Manchester, being about to embark at Douglas, Isle of Man, for Liverpool, was asked what nationality she was, she replied three times in a loud voice: "German." She afterward said she did it for fun, but the magistrate fined her a guinea ($5) and costs.—London Observer.

Money doesn't make the man, but a little thing like that doesn't worry the man who makes the money.

It wouldn't be so bad if people who have nothing to say would let it go at that.

Not Much Relation.

Betty had two brothers, Charles and David. "You know," said she, "dad and David were born in England and mother and Charles and I were born in America, so you see there isn't such a close relationship.

THE SUNBEAM.

BY W. G. HUNT, EDITOR
HARRIETT G. HUNT, PUB.

Published every Friday, at Sunbeam, Pennington County Minnesota.

Entered as Second-class matter August 8e 1905, at the post office at Sunbeam Minn under the Act of Congress of March 3,1879

The new steel bridge across the Red Lake River at Highlanding is nearly completed, and the work of grading the approaches is being rushed and will soon be finished, and the people will soon be having the use of the improvements that they are paying interest on bonds to make. This is a little better deal than we got on ditches when the contractor got year after years extension, while the farmers waded swamps and paid interest on ditch bonds. Under the old order of doing business it would undoubtly taken as long to have got the approaches to this bridge built as it did to dig ditch No. 42. But things have changed since that time, and if you should be in the auditors office when one of them contractors was trying to get an extension of time on as important piece of work as this, you would hear county auditor Anderson give them about this kind of an answer: "☞ There is your contract and bond to have that work done by a certain time. The people needs this improvement and there should not be any extension of time granted for doing the work."
